

Thirty-Fifth Year Record
Class of 1915 • Yale College

ALLEN COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY

3 1833 06726 4413

GC
974.602
N41TCG

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF
1915
YALE COLLEGE

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF
1915
YALE COLLEGE

Volume III · Thirty-Fifth Year Record

Edited by

Maurice R. Davie · Norman V. Donaldson
Philip H. English · Elton S. Wayland

With the Assistance of the Class Secretaries Bureau

NEW HAVEN

1952

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2019

CONTENTS

Foreword	7
To the Class of 1915, by Clarence W. Mendell	9
Class Poem	11
Ivy Ode	14
Class Reunions	17
Biographies	31
In Memoriam	252

IN MEMORIAM

CLASS OF 1915, YALE COLLEGE

THOMAS HILARY CORNELL died in the Bryn Mawr (Pa.) Hospital on July 18, 1957. He is survived by his wife, Truth Binns Cornell, who may be addressed at 349 Highland Lane, Haverford, Pa., two sons, Edward H. B., '45, and Thomas H. M., '54, a daughter, Mrs. Oskar H. Pedersen, and several grandchildren.

For the Class,

ELTON S. WAYLAND, Secretary.

Waterbury Savings Bank,
Waterbury 20, Conn.
August 8, 1957.

FOREWORD

As the years glide by we tend to pay too little attention to the affairs of many men who were once our close associates. This book is published with the purpose of strengthening those bonds of esteem and understanding, which made our years at Yale such an important period in our lives.

Your committee has worked diligently to make this volume complete. Where biographies are omitted, repeated requests for information have remained unanswered. To Miss Marion Phillips of the Yale Secretary's Office we express our deep obligation. Her willing assistance and valuable experience have guided our progress, and have overcome many obstacles. To our loyal friend, Professor Clarence W. Mendell, we extend our sincere appreciation for his letter of greetings to this once unruly Class.

The death of John Crosby Brown was a heavy blow to our Class. John, with Elton Wayland, accomplished important preliminary work to make this book possible. We, who were later elected to the committee, have merely carried their plans to completion.

One member of our Class—Carroll Gowen Riggs—lost his life in World War II. Riggs, who joined the Regular Army after serving in the first World War, was made colonel in June, 1942. He was killed on December 18, 1942, when his plane, flying in bad weather, crashed into a mountain side in Australia. The War Department has named a permanent battery on the island of Oahu in Hawaii the Carroll G. Riggs Battery.

When you next return to New Haven, remember that your Class is permanently affiliated with Trumbull College. There you will be assured of a welcome and every possible courtesy.

Our special thanks go to the writers of many friendly letters offering suggestions and encouragement to this committee.

Yours cordially,
PHILIP H. ENGLISH

Class Book Committee

Philip H. English, Chairman

*John Crosby Brown

Maurice R. Davie

Norman V. Donaldson

Elton S. Wayland

*deceased

To the Class of 1915:

YOUR distinguished Class Poet, the brilliant author of your Ivy Ode, and the scintillating historian of your Yale years, all of them, for the moment at least, mystics with a vision, held before you on a June day in 1915 the shimmer of a song, the sweet delusion of a dream, the romance that never was but always to be caught. And each of their several appeals, like Roland's brave blast, was shot through with a note of anguished fear. Each sensed with the poet's intuition, the threat in the air, the premonition of the storm.

We still lived on that June day in the confident world of the past. Our country, like our college, still breathed the boastful courage of a boy only beginning to feel his strength. Yours was the last class with whom I read Petronius and Euripides and Horace with the sense of permanence and security that made possible for us a leisurely sympathy with them, ignoring the storms and wreckage of the centuries and the continent that lay between. How soon the illusion was to be shattered, only your mystics guessed.

You have passed since then through two world wars and intervals of armed truce confused by noble experiments and redeeming catastrophies. The country and the college are so changed in outward appearance as to be unrecognizable and the bland confidence of the century's first decades seems now fantastically naive. Before you were fairly weaned from the breast of Mother Yale, you witnessed the end of an era.

But there is such a thing as the promise of the sunset. And I believe that you of 1915 have gallantly cherished that prophetic gleam.

Whether we are facing a brave new world or a new revolution you are in there serving your college, your country, and the world as each calls on you. As the last leaf upon the tree of that faculty which had such high hopes of you in 1915, hopes that you have not betrayed, my wish for you today is that you may either live to see some realization of the song, the dream, the romance, or if that be not granted, that you may go down fighting, assured that you have helped preserve them as a vision for our sons.

The promise of the sunset is the sanction of our faith in a new dawn which I for one believe is close upon us. And Yale, as of old, is ready for it with all the youthful vigor which has never yet failed her. We have a staunch young president, intelligent and fearless, an idealist filled with practical energy, a worthy herald of the new day. We have (and here I speak as an emeritus, a voice from the past) the best faculty that Yale has ever had. We have a grand body of undergraduates, sound Yale men whatever the calamity mongers may tell you. You have no cause to blush for your college or to tremble for her future. The going may be hard, but that has never disheartened Yale in the past. Today it only strengthens her power and her will to hold her leadership in the new day that is upon us, the day of true freedom in a truly free world.

CLARENCE W. MENDELL

CLASS POEM

As delivered on Class Day by Archibald MacLeish.

I

A year or two, and grey Euripides,
And Horace and a Lydia or so,
And Euclid and the brush of Angelo;
Darwin on man, Vergilius on bees,
The nose and dialogues of Socrates,
Don Quixote, Hudibras and Trinculo,
How worlds are spawned and how religions grow,
All shall be shard of broken memories.

And there shall linger other, magic things—
The fog that creeps in wanly from the sea,
The rotten harbor smell, the mystery
Of moonlit elms, the flash of pigeon wings,
The sunny Green, the old-world peace that clings
About the college yard where endlessly
The dead go up and down. These things shall be Enchantment of our hearts' rememberings.

And these are more than memories of youth
Which earth's four winds or pain shall blow away,
These are youth's symbols of eternal truth,
Symbols of dream and imagery and flame,
Symbols of those same verities that play
Bright through the crumbling gold of a great name.

II

The people of the earth go down,
Each with his wealth of dream,
To barter in the market town
A star for a torch's gleam;
To barter hope for certitude,
And mysteries of love
For passion's little interlude;
And joy for the laugh thereof.

They sell their treasures of dreams
For dream's realities,
Their wealth of fairy quinqueremes
For ships of salter seas,

Their gods for shapes of tortured stone,
Their faith for shrines that fall,
The unknown for the touched and known,
Life at the living's call.

They barter songs for the throat that sings,
Frail dawns for drowsing days,
Eternal moods for brittle Things,
Thrush notes for roundelays,
The flame of thorn and eglantine
For fallow labored lands,
Tall lilies touched of Proserpine
For lilies of fair hands.

They buy and pass no more that way,
Their eyes forget the star,
Forget the mysteries of May,
Forget the dim and far;
They build them tower and high wall
To bolt against the Spring,
To shutter out the mavis' call,
And heart's-remembering.

III

But Time, a taper guttering,
Drops in a slow decay.
And Youth, a white moth fluttering,
Blows with the wind away.
And walls and towers made of hands,
And faith, and roundelay,
And laughter, and red fallow lands,
Pass like the withered spray.

And certitude grows rank with ease,
And idols turn to mold,
And passion's cup holds bitter lees,
And pale, soft hands grow cold;
All shimmering reality,
The world that shines and seems,
The earth, the mountains and the sea,
Are shadows of old dreams.

IV

Yet when the splendor of the earth
Is fallen into dust,

When plow and sword and fame and worth
Are rotted with black rust,
The Dream, still deathless, still unborn,
Blows in the hearts of men,
The star, the mystery, the morn,
Bloom agelessly again.

Older than Time, with ages shod,
The matins of a thrush;
Deeper than reverence of God,
The Summer evening's hush.
Than trampling death is grief more strong,
Love than its avatars,
And echo of an echoed song
Shall shake the eternal stars.

IVY ODE

As delivered on Class Day by DuBose Murphy.

Nos laborantes socios amicos
Atque ludentes iuvenes perannos
Alma duxisti per iniqua mater
Semper ad astra.

Cursus est nobis hodie peractus;
Iam profecturi tibi consecramus,
Mater, hanc vitem teneram virentem,
Atque precamer:

Floreat semper speciosa pulchra,
Nosque dispersos aliis in oris
Implicans ramis teneat fideles
Mollibus in te,

Ut tuo ductu bene rem gerentes
Gloriam nostram tibi conferamus;
Simus et nos unanimes amici
Omnibus annis.

TRANSLATION

By John Carlisle Peet.

Mother most gracious, who has led
Our footsteps in these passing years,
Whose smiles unfailing cheer have shed
Our pleasures round, whose tender fears
Have urged our labors day by day;
Mother, thy strength, towards endless truth,
Hath turned this journey of our youth
Where stars immortal light the way.

Now, at thy threshold here to-day,
We pause one lingering moment more,
The distance waits us, who shall say
The road that Life spreads out before?
Now set we forth, yet, ere we know
The ways that lie beyond thy gate,
This tender vine we consecrate,
And bow in reverence as we go.

Be this our prayer, that it may grow
Upward in beauty, wide and high,
In all its clinging branches show
Thy bonds that bind eternally;
O mother, may its tendrils be Forever round our hearts, to hold
Our love secure, though seas have rolled
Between us, parting each from thee!

And may our later labors prove
Full laden with all honors meet,
That we may testify our love
In laying glories at thy feet:
Companions true, in smiles, in tears,
Wher'er we go by sea or land.
Still may we firm in friendship stand
To meet the challenge of the years.

CLASS REUNIONS

Reprinted from Yale Alumni Magazine

FIFTEENTH—JUNE, 1930

THE one hundred and three members of the Class who returned for their Quindecennial were in absolute agreement on one point (strange paradox for the Class of 1915), namely, that it was by far the best reunion we have ever had. The lines of social cleavage, which in undergraduate days tended somewhat to divide the Class, seem now to have rusted away, so that the exchange of ideas—good, bad, or indifferent—flowed freely from every angle and in every direction, with a pulsing throb which beat far into the night. To aid and abet this pulsation the committee had provided a variety of non-blinding lubricants which were served by the smiling John Huggins in return for neat little tickets inscribed with the Class numerals. The temperate manner in which these tickets were used—except by the members of other visiting classes—justified Bud Truesdale's confidence that, for the most part, we know how to take care of ourselves. The confidence of Bud in the Class was reciprocated by our confidence and gratitude towards him for the quiet, unperturbed, and effective manner in which he directed the course of events, even to the selection of Norm Thompson as chairman of the next Reunion Committee.

Norm was one of the first to reach headquarters Saturday noon, hardly recognizable behind the gold-rimmed spectacles and his two hundred and forty pound silhouette. But the same Norman wit was there and left no doubt that fifteen years ago the Class voted correctly, "once any hoo." Other early arrivals were Bill Jordan, Doc Randolph, Bud Truesdale, Dick Wheeler, and Dick English. Through Saturday afternoon others drifted in, signed the book, were given a room at headquarters or, more fortunately, in Lawrance Hall, and then relaxed. Tommy Kent, all the way from California, delivered himself of his views in pungent metaphor and with no uncertain emphasis, much to the delight of every one within earshot.

Saturday evening some went to the Dramat show, Galsworthy's "The Roof," but most of the Class stayed to welcome Doug Moore. Sunday morning found many new names on the book, and since it was a beautiful day, golf and tennis were in order, though some preferred to remain quietly at headquarters and watch John Huggins go through his calisthenics. In the afternoon Len Outhwaite, who had sailed up on his famous schooner yacht, "Kinkajou," with Jack Ely signed on as mess boy, took a large group for a cruise on the Sound. After a swim and the clink of tall glasses, practically every one, including Dick Breed who nearly drowned trying to be a porpoise, felt almost perfect.

By five o'clock various groups started arriving at Dick English's summer cottage on Johnson's Point, where Dick had invited the Class. It was a grand party—a delicious supper on the lawn, with over sixty members already present. Certainly it was a fine spirit of hospitality which prompted Dick and Mrs. English to start the reunion on such a high note. Just as the last of the supper was disappearing there was a burst of claxon horns and up rolled the first Class costumes draped on the forms of Howard Beedy, John Hanes, Joe Brown, Tommy Tompkins, and Johnny Castles. Those who had doubted whether they would dare expose their advanced waistlines in the costumes which Bud had provided were quickly relieved by one look at Howard. No one could make a more startling showing than he did, but he didn't care. In fact, he liked it. Happy Hatch slyly suggested that all future costume measurements could be computed from this year's figures—by taking two inches off the chest, adding four to the waist, and eight to the seat. The committee took note. It was late before all was quiet on the western front, and he who would know the events of that first night must get the story from each and every man. We break no confidences in public print.

Monday morning, bright, but not so early, there was a general movement towards Pine Orchard. Charlie Wiman and Bud Wiser, both of whom had their yachts in the harbor, collected crews which rather overmanned the boats and sailed down. Others went in the Class bus or in the high-powered anti-Wall Street cars which were in constant evidence. The day at Pine Orchard needs no chronicle. Marty Shedden and Tish Paris went swimming without even changing their clothes, and Tish lost most of his money in the process; others played so-called golf and lost all of their money. It is said there was a baseball game with 1910, but John Reilly denied the report. Tommy Cornell and Ken Hull spoke to every one in the Class, but mumbled their words. Ham Hamblin had a good time.

And so the day wore on. The Class dinner was held in the same place to avoid unnecessary transportation—an excellent idea, so every one agreed. After dinner we enjoyed some excellent motion pictures of earlier reunions taken by John Hanes and a most interesting section of film showing part of Len Outhwaite's trip in the "Kinkajou." Again the evening settled down, and no man can tell what happened.

Tuesday morning came the Class picture and the committee steam-roller. Norm Thompson was elected chairman for the next reunion with only one dissenting vote—his own. He didn't have a chance. Jack Ely nobly accepted election to act as Class Secretary for another term, and it was decided to collect dues of $15 a year. If these dues are collected, the next reunion should be free for every one who can get back.

The march to the Field, supported by a street car, was a success. On the Field, the Class made a fine showing. We were sadly limited in numbers, 1910 having many more back, but we marched with a splendid rhythm, inspired by Charlie Wiman, who led every band as it came past, thus making the longest hit of the afternoon. The rain which started as the game began, grew as the day wore on and foretold the end of reunion. But after the exciting Yale victory there was a final hilarious dinner at headquarters, when Bud presented Fred Meyer, of Cápiz, Philippine Islands, with the long-distance prize, a beautiful etching of the Harkness Tower by Louis Orr, and some one happily got Doug Moore started at the piano.

Late that night good-byes were said, and by Wednesday noon most of the Class had departed. It was a great gathering and a fine experience. That our next reunion will be as successful is a foredrawn conclusion, with Norm Thompson sitting at the wheel. The following members of the Class signed the register: Acheson, Alker, Arvidson, Baker, Beckert, Beedy, Bradley, Brantly, Breed, Brice, Brophy, H. H. Brown, J. C. Brown, J. R. Brown, Butler, Carter, Castles, E. W. Clarke, Coe, Coley, Conkling, Cornell, Crandall, Crocker, Dauch, Davenport, Davie, Deming, Denègre, Donaldson, Donnelly, Ely, English, Gilman, Gross, Hamblin, Hanes, Hatch, Hazard, Herman, Hull, Hyatt, Johnston, Jordan, Jung, Kent, Klein, Knapp, Leete, Loomis, Macdonald, McGraw, McKee, Mali, Mallory, Martz, Mayo, Mettler, Meyer, Mills, Moore, A. Morse, H. T. Morse, Newberry, Norton, Osbourn, Outhwaite, Paris, Peet, Podoloff, Pumpelly, Rago, Randolph, Reilly, Rivers, Robb, Rodie, Royce, Sawyer, Seabury, Shedden, Sherman, Shuman, Slocum, E. Smith, R. S. Smith, T. Smith, Stackpole, T. P. Swift, W. E. Swift, Thompson, Tompkins, Truesdale, Walker, Wallace, Weiss, Wheeler, Wilkinson, Wiman, Winston, Wiser, Woodman.

TWENTIETH—JUNE, 1935

FROM far and near the Class of 1915 began to assemble on Saturday afternoon, June 15, at our Class headquarters, the Beta Theta Pi house, 206 York Street. Henry Wilkinson from Bermuda, Joe Brown from Arkansas, Doc Knapp from Texas, and Will Crocker from California were representative of those who traveled long distances to attend.

Soon we were moving into our living quarters in Davenport College, than which no more satisfying surroundings could well be imagined. Perfect Commencement weather marked all Saturday and Sunday and gave us an opportunity most welcome to many, to saunter among the quads and pleasantries of the new Colleges and become acquainted with a Yale utterly different and infinitely more beautiful in outward aspect than the Yale which we had known as undergraduates.

Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday each brought new arrivals, and before the reunion was over no less than 88 returning members of the Class had registered at headquarters. Those who were unable to come were not only greatly missed by their classmates, but themselves missed three days packed with interest and enjoyment.

By Sunday noon most of the arrivals had donned their locomotive engineer costumes, consisting of overalls, a blue shirt, an engineer's cap, and a red handkerchief, all of which was unanimously voted to be the best and most comfortable reunion costume we had ever had. Each classmate gallantly resolved instantly to recognize and call by the right first name each one of his fellow engineers.

However, a very few pardonable errors were made. Cy Wallace, for example, on casting his eye on the slender and stately form of Tom Cornell, rushed over with a beaming smile of welcome, to say, "Hello, Dean, old boy, it is perfectly grand to see you." Ed Burtt, on seeing Hick Slocum, is said to have remarked, "That man looks very familiar; I am certain I have seen him somewhere. I am just wondering where it could have been." And so it went.

But gradually old memories revived and by the time the Class started off for Len Outhwaite's and Dick English's party, the ice was pretty well broken.

On Sunday afternoon, by bus and motor, we foregathered at Johnson's Point, where Dick English and Len Outhwaite acted as hosts to the Class for an afternoon of swimming and golfing followed by an outdoor supper. Thus far, the reunion had been comparatively quiet in nature, but from this point it turned distinctly "wet." Irrked by some malfeasance of his erstwhile roommate, Tommy Cornell, Arch MacLeish espied the Outhwaite garden hose innocently coiled like a sleeping rattlesnake under the shade of an elm. It was the work of but a moment for Arch to get his deadly machine into full operation and to direct its nozzle at the admirable target afforded by Tommy's rear. This would have been well enough had the flood ceased at that point, but the agile Cornell, bellowing with rage, flung himself upon MacLeish, forcing the nozzle of the hose down his throat. Meanwhile, the hose kept going, much to the consternation of several tables of diners directly in range who fled in confusion all over Lenny's stately lawn.

This was only the first of a similar series of floods. About 3:00 A.M. the following morning Joe Brown, pride of Arkansas, discovered flames bursting forth from under his engineer's cap and feeding upon the luxuriant hair beneath. What incendiary had perpetrated the foul act of placing lighted cigarette stubs in his cap was never discovered. Pitchers of ice water were immediately poured over Joe from top to toe, however, and thus Arkansas retained its leading citizen.

Following our Class dinner, a representative of another Class paid a visit to our quarters and, casting his eye on our distinguished speaker of the evening, asked in a loud tone, "Who is that tall guy with the little moustache?" "That is the former Undersecretary of the Treasury," the response was made in awed tones. "Oh, he is, is he?" said the visitor. "Well, believe me, I have plenty to tell that guy." In a trice he was engaged in earnest converse with Dean and Johnny Hanes, and, alluding to them as Sonny Boy Ache and Monkey Hanes, proceeded to explain exactly how the country should be run. The verbal hose played over our two friends copiously and long, but due no doubt to their iron constitutions, they suffered no permanent ill effects.

To go back for a moment to the party at Johnson's Point, it broke up around 8:30 just as a marvelous red and orange shade Chinese lantern moon started to rise over the waters of the bay. It was a grand affair and warm appreciation was voiced to Dick and Len for making it possible.

All Monday, which again was a glorious day, although a bit on the warm side, was spent down by the shore at Pine Orchard, where swimming, golf, tennis, and a baseball game featured the occasion. The baseball game was played in the morning and found 1915 pitted against the Class of 1910 in a grueling contest which ultimately resulted in a victory for '10 by the score of 12 to 10. The original 1915 infield consisted of Reilly, pitcher; Stackpole, catcher; Everett Smith, 1st base; Ed Burt, 2d base; Ray Gilman, shortstop; and Austin Smith, 3d base. Airtight work by these men backed up a sterling pitching exhibition by Reilly, who held the mighty maulers of 1910 to 20 hits, or one for each year since our graduation. This airtight pitching, however, was made possible in no small measure by the brilliant defense of the outfield, consisting of Caesar McGraw, Bill Bright, Sam Mills, Walker Swift, Val Bartlett, Ed Clarke, Ship Thomas, Harv Brown, and Pop Sawyer. Between them these men covered the ground in phenomenal fashion and cut off many an opposing hit and run. On all sides the comment was heard, "What legs those old fellows have!"

The 1915 golfing contingent played havoc with the sod, if not with the course record. A fascinating new golf betting system, entitled "Bingle, Bangle, Bungle," was introduced by Pier Hazard (for full details apply to T. Pierrepont Hazard, Peace Dale, R.I.). The attitude of the players in general, however, was probably best illustrated by Jerry Jerome, who, being engaged in a seven-some with a nice bunch of guys, remarked, as they climbed to the 12th tee, "Gentlemen, I now suggest that all of us assume a recumbent position for one half hour before the next drive." Be that as it may, the well-stocked bar, wisely placed in the shadiest spot on the grounds, provided refreshment for one and all and proved an effective influence against overexertion on any one's part. The weather held beautifully all day long, and it was not until we were assembled for the Class dinner that a spatter of rain on the roof betokened a change. Then it was too late to make any difference to any of us.

The food at this banquet, like all the rest of the food provided by our committee at headquarters, was of remarkable excellence. The feature was roast duck, and this only served to illustrate the remarkable resourcefulness and ingenuity under pressure of our Class committee. It seems that up to Sunday morning Messrs. Thompson and Donaldson had slightly underestimated the number of returning grads and, accordingly, had failed to provide sufficient duck for the evening meal. They were two short. Nothing daunted, they repaired early to the Yale golf course, each armed with a bag full of balls and proceeded to aim their drives at the swans floating serenely in the waters of the "Swan Hole." Norm soon bagged a swan, and the two triumphantly returned to headquarters with sufficient roast on hand for all comers. There are some who would consider that to dispatch a swimming swan with a golf ball at a range of seventy yards indicates marksmanship of remarkable accuracy. No one who has frequently played the Yale course, however, with either Donaldson or Thompson, would notice anything unusual or out of the ordinary in that accomplishment.

The speaker of the evening was Dean Acheson, and it was not long after his introduction before the Class realized that they were being treated to an address of unusual quality. The theme was the difference between the world faced by the Class of 1915 at its graduation and the world faced by the Class of 1935. After a penetrating summary of the extraordinary transformations in national economic relationships and in the philosophies of government, particularly our own, which have taken place during these twenty years, Dean summed up his conclusions by saying that when we graduated we confronted a social and economic order which seemed stable but which was in reality dead, whereas the Class of 1935 confronts an economic and social order in the process of disintegration, but out of which new life may be born. He expressed his conviction that no class which had ever graduated from Yale had witnessed a more complete transformation in the conditions of the time during a twenty-year period than had ours.

When Norm Thompson arose to his feet to open the Class meeting, there rose spontaneously from all sections of the hall the strains, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," which was given with a will for the chairman who had engineered, with the help of an able committee, the best reunion we had ever had. Norm introduced George Stewart, who nominated a permanent Executive Committee to appoint all Class officers and Class committees, including the next Reunion Committee, made up of the following: Macdonald, Donaldson, Royce, Hanes, Truesdale, and Ely. This committee was unanimously elected.

Tuesday morning, dawning dim and gray, witnessed the Class assembled for its picture at about 11:00 o'clock and also the arrival of various associate and junior members of the Class in the form of wives and children who were very welcome at reunion headquarters. Of these contingents, none presented a more gallant spectacle than the four children of Plute Weiss and the three of Walker Swift who arrived in a body and who, all attired in engineer uniforms correct to the last detail, made one think, as they marched along, swinging toy balloons, of "seven characters in search of an author" worthy to chronicle the inspiring picture which they presented.

Just as the parade started, the heavens opened and the rains came down with redoubled force. 1915, however, was not to be daunted. Tommy Cornell and Jack Dryden each possessed himself of a tarpaulin drum cover left behind by the two drummers of the Governor's Band and proceeded to stagger along with these enormous objects over their heads. Cornell was unable to see, but was led by the hand by Donaldson. John Reilly procured two black rubber bands for his shoulders, surrounding his abdomen with a 1920 Chevrolet rubber tire. Steve Davenport returned from a shopping expedition wrapped up in just a plain old-fashioned Grandma's polka dot rubber shawl. So, to the frenzied shouts of an admiring crowd of some eleven citizens huddled in doorways, the great parade started. How it finished, this chronicler does not know, for he was not there at the end, but it is said that some hardy souls sat the whole ball game through. At any rate, regardless of the rain, sufficient enjoyment had been had to make the reunion memorable.

Perhaps the best part of the reunion was the opportunity afforded by three days of informal companionship for quiet talks between man and man, for the renewal of old friendships, and for becoming better acquainted with classmates previously not so well known.

Too much praise and thanks cannot be given to the committee, consisting of Norm Thompson, chairman; Nig Donaldson, in charge of the New Haven arrangements; John Reilly, who designed and superintended every detail of our Class costume; and Len Outhwaite and Dick English, who gave us such a grand party down at Johnson's Point.

One of the placards carried by our Class to the game bore the message, "Here's to Good Old Yale—if We Could Only Find Her." 1915 found Yale, both old and good. Too bad there are still five long years to our next Reunion!

The following attended the reunion: Acheson, Alker, Arvidson, V. C. Bartlett, Beckert, Beedy, Bennitt, Bloch, Bradley, Breed, Bright, H. H. Brown, Jr., J. C. Brown, J. R. Brown, Butler, L. Carter, Castles, Clarke, Coe, Cornell, Crandall, H. Crawford, Crocker, Dauch, Davenport, Davie, Davis, Deming, Donaldson, Dryden, Ely, S. L. Fisher, Gibb, Gilman, Gluick, Goss, Hamblin, Hanes, Hazard, Herman, Hull, Jerome, Jordan, Jung, Knapp, Loomis, Loveman, Macdonald, McGraw, MacLeish, Mettler, Mills, W. C. Moore, Norton, Osbourn, Outhwaite, Podoloff, Rago, Randolph, Reilly, Riggs, Rivers, Robb, Rodie, Sawyer, Scarritt, Seabury, Slocum, A. C. Smith, E. Smith, Jr., Stackpole, Stewart, T. P. Swift, W. E. Swift, Thomas, N. F. Thompson, Tompkins, Truesdale, Walker, Wallace, Wasson, Wayland, Weiss, R. E. Wheeler, Wilkinson, Wiman, Wiser, Zartman.

TWENTY-FIFTH—JUNE, 1940

A GOLDEN afternoon and evening greeted the first contingent of "the finest Class that ever went out of old Yale" as they trouped to 1915 headquarters at 205 York Street on Saturday. Headed by Norm Thompson and the Reunion Committee, forty-five had signed up by two o'clock in the morning when headquarters began to quiet down for the night. Good planning on the part of the committee was in evidence as the undergraduate assistants at headquarters distributed keys and costumes and escorted new arrivals promptly to their Davenport rooms.

Golf, tennis, and Baccalaureate divided the attention of the Class on Sunday morning—a perfect day. An outstanding feature of the reunion was the service conducted on Sunday afternoon in Dwight Memorial Chapel by George Stewart in memory of the fifty-three members of our Class who have died. The well-planned order of service, the simple, restrained, moving address, the great beauty of the litany prepared by George will be treasured and never forgotten by those who attended.

By bus and car the Class then departed for Dick English's home by the sea. There our host and charming hostess entertained us royally. The air was balmy, the view lovely when we arrived. Before we left, the true measure of English hospitality was revealed by the blankets draping the virile form of the great Arkansas attorney, Joe R. Brown, the fur-lined parka into which Will Crocker almost sunk out of sight, and an apparently unlimited array of sweaters, jerkins, and coats enveloping all present except a few polar bears who, like Shipley Thomas, managed to stoke the fires within sufficiently to withstand the wintry blasts, clad only in their red shirts. A roaring fire in Dick's living room solved the problem for the last lingering guests.

Monday, another perfect day, was spent at Pine Orchard, where golf, tennis, swimming, baseball, and long, quiet talks were the order of the day.

In the evening was the Class dinner attended by ninety-seven. It began amid Niagaras of sound with the reelection for a five-year period of the Class Executive Committee of Donaldson, Ely, Hanes, Macdonald, Royce, and Truesdale, and of Norm Thompson as chairman of the Reunion Committee. This was followed by the acceptance with universal regret of Jack Ely's resignation as Class Secretary and by the passage by acclamation of a resolution of appreciation of his twenty-five years of outstanding service. This in turn was followed by the election by acclamation of Nig Donaldson as Jack's successor.

The speaking which followed was quite unlike any heard at any time before at our dinners. Introduced by Toastmaster Acheson, Ray Tucker, our distinguished Washington journalist, gave an analysis of the present state of the country's defenses and a forecast of the events of the next few months as absorbingly interesting as it was sobering. John Hanes followed with an expert appraisal of the national fiscal situation and some recommendations for action. Both received rousing tributes.

Tuesday, the wives and children began to join the Class at headquarters. Red shirts of all sizes and shapes began to dot the swards of Davenport. George Stewart, Art Tuttle, and Steve Davenport contributed three children each to the parade to the ball game. Altogether nearly forty children of 1915 participated. No special honor was accorded the 1915 grandfathers contingent, headed by Pat Crandall, but it is here recorded that such a contingent exists and that others unknown to your correspondent doubtless belong to it.

With the alumni exercises and luncheon on Wednesday the reunion came to a close.

No praise can be too high for the efficient planning of the Reunion Committee. Everything ran like clockwork—smoothly and effectively. Inside information from the highest authorities credits the new Class Secretary with a large share of the credit for this achievement. The Class is in his and the committee's debt.

No reunion has ever been held under such circumstances of national crisis. The crisis was in every one's mind; no one tried to dodge it. Every one talked about it. Many who had felt almost too depressed by events to attend were unanimously glad they had come. They went away with ties of friendship cemented and strengthened.

Members attending the Twenty-fifth Reunion: Acheson, Alker, Bailey, Bangs, R. M. Bartlett, V. C. Bartlett, Beckert, Brantly, Breed, Bright, J. C. Brown, J. R. Brown, Butler, Campbell, L. Carter, Castles, C. E. Clark, E. W. Clarke, Coe, Coley, Conine, Crandall, Crawford, Crocker, Dauch, Davenport, Davie, Deming, Donaldson, Donnelly, Duncan, Eggleston, Ely, English, Fisk, Flynn, Ford, Gilman, Gray, Gross, Hamblin, Hanes, Hatch, Hazard, Herman, Herrick, Hine, Houghton, Hull, Jerome, Jordan, Jung, Klein, Knapp, Lane, Loveman, Macdonald, McGraw, Mali, Mallory, Marache, Martz, Mettler, Mills, Newberry, Norton, Outhwaite, Osbourn, Peet, Podoloff, Robb, Rodie, Royce, Scarritt, Seabury, Shapiro, A. C. Smith, E. Smith, E. F. Smith, Stackpole, Stewart, T. P. Swift, Thomas, N. F. Thompson, R. M. Thompson, Tompkins, Truesdale, Tucker, A. F. Tuttle, Walker, Wallace, Wayland, Weiss, Wheeler, Williams, Wiman, Winston.

THIRTIETH (DEFERRED)—JUNE, 1947

UNDER the influence of the irresistible centripetal pull of a deferred Thirtieth Reunion, plus the lure of the Yale campus, plus the able propaganda of the Reunion Committee, 69 members of the Class of 1915 began signing up at headquarters in the Alpha Delta Phi house on Saturday afternoon, June 14. Most of those who returned Saturday spent the evening at headquarters, but Jack Ely reported Sunday morning with a headache due to his having attended the existentialist drama "Caligula," produced by the Yale Dramat the evening before. "I couldn't understand a single word of it," reported Jack.

Sunday afternoon all those who were present attended the memorial service in Dwight Chapel conducted by George Stewart in memory of the members of the Class who have died. Once more the service was deeply moving, and all of us will treasure the memory. Following the service we proceeded to Dick English's home at Branford, where we were royally entertained for the afternoon and evening. The weather was beautiful and balmy, and we enjoyed a lazy time lolling on the cliffs and lawns, chatting about this and that. Sunday evening at headquarters was marked by the superlative piano-playing of Charlie Kingsley and Bill Bright.

Monday morning the Class departed for the Shuttle Meadow Country Club at New Britain and promptly made friends with '97 S., who shared the club for the day. Following a self-help buffet lunch, at which Tommy Cornell apparently got all he could hold, the members of the Class scattered to play golf and tennis, while softball teams, captained by Bill Bright and Simon Klein, battled through six hectic innings. With the score at 15-3 in favor of Bright's team, Carl Beckert was signed up by Simon Klein to play left field, and the Bright cohorts immediately capitulated and conceded the victory without another ball being thrown. Following the Class dinner, Chairman Bud Truesdale called on Secretary Dick English for a brief report on Class affairs, and Dick thanked the Reunion Committee for a task well handled. His nomination of Truesdale as chairman for our next reunion in 1950 was received with deafening applause. Plute Weiss, able toastmaster, then paid tribute to Dean Acheson for his outstanding and unselfish service as Undersecretary of State. Dean responded and outlined some of the many problems faced by a perplexed and hungry Europe. Carl Beckert added a word of praise for those who had planned this best-of-all reunions; Austin Smith and Judge Frank Rivers talked of their activities in Wisconsin and New York; Elton Wayland reported plans by John Brown and himself for a new Class Book in 1950. Late in the evening a weary but contented group reluctantly returned to headquarters in New Haven, where Jerry Jerome gave a most engaging interpretation of the Constitution of the U.S.A. On Tuesday many guests came for lunch, and the Class rode to the field in two buses and witnessed an elegant ball game. As usual, the most satisfying feature of the reunion consisted in picking up the ties of friendship and getting up to date on the interests and activities of old friends. A sincere tribute is due to Bud Truesdale and the Reunion Committee.

Those returning to the reunion were: Acheson, Bartlett, Beckert, Breed, Bright, J. C. Brown, J. R. Brown, Butler, Castles, Cone, Cornell, Crandall, Cunningham, Davenport, Davie, Davis, Deming, Donaldson, Donnelly, Edwards, Ely, English, S. L. Fisher, Ford, Gilman, Gross, Gutwillig, Hanes, Hazard, Herman, Houghton, Jerome, Johnston, Jordan, Jung, Kingsley, Kinsley, Klein, Knapp, Loveman, Macdonald, McGraw, MacNeill, Marache, Mettler, Mills, Osbourn, Outhwaite, Peet, Podoloff, Pumpelly, Randolph, Rivers, Rodie, Sawyer, Seabury, A. C. Smith, E. Smith, Stewart, W. E. Swift, Thomas, Tompkins, Truesdale, A. F. Tuttle, Walker, Wasson, Wayland, Weiss, Wilkinson.

THIRTY-FIFTH—JUNE, 1950

A FEW hardy souls who could convince their wives that the reunion started on Friday arrived during the afternoon and so had the choice, if any, of the beds in Davenport College.

Most of the Class appeared at the Beta Theta Phi headquarters about noon on Saturday, and the great game of "guess who I am" started in full swing. Tommy Cornell put up a good bluff at this game, but lost almost every time. Classmates came from near and far, but the long-distance laurels, of course, went to Pete Young from Honolulu and Baldy Bentley from Iran. Joe Brown tried to claim this and all other honors, but after taking over a mobile popsicle unit became known as the Bad Humor Man.

We were deeply indebted to Dick English and his family for giving the week-end such an impetus with their delightful supper at Branford Harbor on Saturday evening. Our Sea Scouts, Tommy Tompkins, Phil Swift, and Charlie Wiman, made a dramatic and successful amphibious landing just in time for food. Imagination would be wrong if it suggested that Saturday and Sunday evenings would be restricted to the usual elbow bending because we had constant musical entertainment from our talented pianist—Roy Williams if you want pep and a real show—our two-piano team, Bill Bright and Charlie Kingsley, if you want it lush and sweet—and Doug Moore for pure nostalgia.

Sunday morning many went to Battell Chapel for an inspiring Service of Commemoration, in which George Stewart had a leading part. In the afternoon we attended the Forum, in which Arch McLeish did us proud in sharing the spotlight with Robert Taft and Thornton Wilder. At the Class dinner in the evening Carl Beckert did a masterful job of preventing speeches. May he never be supplanted as toastmaster! Our thanks went to Dick English after his report as secretary and treasurer and our sympathy and promise of support to Elt Wayland, the new Class Secretary.

Elt brought us up to date on the prospective Class history, which he is turning over to Dick English.

On Monday morning we were well represented at the meeting which was addressed by President Seymour and President-elect Griswold. The Class picture at headquarters was followed by the luncheon, which was graced by many wives and children. A ride to Yale Field, the parade around the diamond, cheers for the President and President-elect, and a winning ball game ended the reunion.

Our thanks for a grand time to Bud Truesdale, whom we all missed tremendously, Dick English, and Nig Donaldson.

The following ninety-five members were present: R. M. Bartlett, Beckert, Bentley, Bradley, Breed, Bright, J. C. Brown, J. R. Brown, Burns, Butler, Campbell, Carter, Castles, Chamberlain, Coley, Cone, Cornell, Crandall, Crawford, Crocker, Dauch, Davenport, Davie, Davis, Deming, Donaldson, Donnelly, DuBois, Duncan, Ely, English, S. L. Fisher, Flynn, Gale, Gray, Grinnell, Gutwillig, Haight, Hanes, Hatch, Hazard, Herman, Jerome, Johnston, Jordan, Jung, Kent, Kingsley, Kinsley, Klein, Levinson, Macdonald, McGraw, MacLeish, MacNeill, McPhee, Marache, Martz, Mathews, Mettler, D. S. Moore, W. C. Moore, Osbourn, Outhwaite, Peet, Podoloff, Pumpelly, Randolph, Reilly, Rivers, Robb, Rodie, Royce, Sawyer, Seabury, Slocum, A. C. Smith, E. Smith, E. F. Smith, T. Smith, Stackpole, Stewart, T. P. Swift, Thomas, Tompkins, Walker, Wallace, Wayland, Weiss, Weller, Wheeler, Williams, Wiman, Woodman, Young.

BIOGRAPHIES

DEAN ACHESON. Secretary of State; address, Department of State, Washington 25, D.C.; residence, 2805 P Street, Washington 7.

Acheson managed to find time to send us factual data early in May. For the rest we refer you to the public press.

His law practice with the firm of Covington, Burling & Rublee and its successor, Covington, Burling, Acheson & Shorb, continued until 1941, except for six months beginning in May, 1933, when he was Under Secretary of the Treasury, and he practiced with the firm again during the period from July, 1947, to January, 1949. He served as Assistant Secretary of State from February, 1941, to August, 1945, and as Under Secretary from then until June, 1947, and has been Secretary of State since January 21, 1949.

From 1939 until 1941 he was a member and chairman of the Attorney General's Committee on Administrative Procedure and in 1947 was appointed a member of the Joint Defense Board for the United States and Canada. He has also served as a member and vice-chairman of the Executive Committee on Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government. Acheson received the Award for Merit in 1947 and the Freedom House Award in 1950. He has also been decorated with the Swedish Order of Vasa and was given an honorary M.A. degree at Yale in 1936 and that of LL.D. at Wesleyan in 1947 and at Harvard three years later. He has been a Fellow of the Yale Corporation since 1936. He is a member of the American and District of Columbia Bar associations, the Council of Foreign Relations, and the Episcopal Church. He lists his hobbies as gardening and furniture building.

Acheson's marriage to Alice Stanley, daughter of Louis C. and Jane Mahon Stanley, took place in Detroit on May 5, 1917. They have three children: Jane Stanley (Mrs. Dudley B. W. Brown), who was born in Middletown, Conn., February 27, 1919; David Campion, born in Washington, November 4, 1921; and Mary Campion (the wife of William P. Bundy, Yale '39), born in Washington, August 12, 1924. David, who graduated from Yale in 1943, married Patricia Castles—John Castles' daughter—and has two children: Eleanor Dean and David C., Jr.

WILLIAM BENJAMIN ARNOLD. District agent, Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, 143 West Fourth Street, Williamsport, Pa.; residence, 89 Upland Road, Williamsport.

Arnold, who has been a district agent with the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company since October, 1920, is now located in Williamsport. He became a chartered life underwriter in 1941 and in 1948 was president of the Leaders Round Table of the Pennsylvania Association of Life Underwriters. The previous year he was a member of the Million Dollar Round Table of the national organization. Arnold has served on the official board of the Pine Street Methodist Church in Williamsport since 1941. He is a Republican in politics and belongs to the local Kiwanis Club. During the period from 1943 to 1945 he did airplane spotting. "Have traveled throughout the United States and a good bit of Canada," he says. "Principal recreations are bridge and baseball; no special hobbies, etc."

On September 9, 1919, his marriage to Ruby Eleanor Bell, daughter of A. Lincoln and Mary Bell, took place in Ridgeway, Pa., where their daughter, Barbara Bell, was born on August 20, 1927. She received a B.A. degree at Mount Holyoke in 1949 and at present is on the editorial staff of GRIT at Williamsport.

ROBERT THEODORE ARVIDSON. Lawyer, 800 Bauch Building, Lansing 8, Mich.; residence, 1534 Lansing Avenue, Lansing 15.

Arvidson, who was an attorney with the Metropolitan Trust Company in Detroit at the time our Quindecennial Record was published, subsequently became a partner in the firm of Hubbard, Rathbun & Arvidson. He continued in that connection until January, 1937, during the next fourteen years was a partner in Rathbun & Arvidson, and since April, 1951, has been practicing independently. He mentions that he is interested in the legal aid movement, i.e., furnishing adequate legal service to persons unable to pay for it, and at present he is serving as chairman of the legal aid committee of both the Michigan State Bar and the Ingham County Bar Association. He is also special assistant attorney general of the state.

Arvidson is a trustee of the McLaughlin Hospital in Lansing, a trustee of the Wilde Conservatory of Music, and a director of the Chore-Boy Milking Machine Company and the Jessop Estate, Inc. He is a Mason, a member of the Knights Templar, and is unmarried.

PHILIP OWEN BADGER. Professor of marketing and assistant to the chancellor, New York University, Washington Square, New York 3, N.Y.; residence, 38-08 21st Street, Bayside, N.Y.

Badger, who has been at New York University most of the time since graduation, has been professor of marketing since 1921 and assistant to the chancellor since 1926. He served as chairman of the University's Board of Athletic Control from 1930 to 1945 and has long been active in the National Collegiate Athletic Association, being on the executive committee from 1934 to 1944, district vice-president from 1937 to 1939, and president of the national organization from 1941 to 1944. Since 1945 he has been executive director of the New York University-Bellevue Medical Center Fund.

During the war Badger was consultant to the Army and Navy Committee on Welfare and Recreation and chairman of its panel on athletics, also being a member of the National Council on Physical Fitness of the Federal Security Agency and of the Civilian Advisory Committee of the Physical Training Section of the U.S. Navy. Temple University conferred the honorary degree of LL.D. upon him in 1947. He is a Congregationalist and belongs to the New York Yale Club and the Faculty Club at N.Y.U.

His marriage to Herberta Torrey, of Pasadena, daughter of Charles Herbert and Mary Pugh Torrey, took place September 9, 1915, in Portsmouth, N.H. They have three sons. The oldest, Philip Owen, Jr., was born in Portsmouth, September 3, 1916. He graduated from Lafayette in 1938, served as an ensign in the Navy during the war, and is now in the insurance business in Bethlehem, Pa. He married Dorothy Brooks Hampson, of Bethlehem, on September 28, 1940, and has two sons: Philip Owen, 3d, born April 27, 1943, and Douglas Brooks on September 25, 1946. The second boy, Edward Torrey, Yale '41 S., was a captain in the Army Air Force during the war and is still on active duty. He was born May 21, 1919, in New York, and his marriage to Frances Kramer, of St. Louis, took place February 8, 1941. There are four children in the family: Robert Torrey, born March 9, 1943, David Edward on September 27, 1944, Daniel William on May 15, 1947, and Joanne Mary on September 10, 1949. The youngest son, Joseph Emery, born July 24, 1924, in New York, graduated from New York University in 1945 and is in the insurance business in New York. On March 18, 1947, he married Ellen Marie O'Hara, of Bayside, and has two sons: Bruce Morrill, born February 20, 1948, and Brian Torrey on June 27, 1950.

BERNARD MORTON BAILEY. Partner, Bailey & Bailey, lawyers, City Hall, Long Beach, N.Y.; residence, 253 East Market Street, Long Beach.

For some years Bailey practiced in New York City as a member of the firm of Bailey & Bailey. We assume that the above listing indicates merely a change in locale, although he hasn't given us any details on that subject. In any event, his work keeps him very busy, for he says that he has no time for hobbies, although he has taken occasional trips in this country and Canada and usually gets to New Haven for the football games. He served as assistant corporation counsel of the City of Long Beach from 1943 to 1946 and since 1949 has been corporation counsel. For the past five years he has also been engaged in real estate development at Long Beach and during the war was active in civilian defense and as a member of the auxiliary police. He is a Democrat in politics.

Bailey's marriage to Martha Alderman took place in New Haven on February 22, 1920. Their son, Donald Zachary, who was born on October 12, 1924, graduated from Yale in 1949 as a member of the Class of 1945W and is at present in his final year at the Yale Architectural School. During the war he served in the Pacific as a lieutenant in the Air Force.

CYRUS BAIRD. Address, 205 Paddock Street, Watertown, N.Y.

NORMAN DEAN BAKER. Major, Ordnance Corps; assigned to Boston Ordnance District, Army Base, Boston 10, Mass.; residence, 86 Halsey Street, Providence, R.I.

Baker continued with the George M. Baker Company until 1942 and has since been in the Army. His first assignment was to the Office of the Chief of Ordnance, and he was later at A.S.F. Headquarters, his assignment there terminating in 1946. Since then he has been with the Boston Ordnance District.

He is a trustee of the H. C. and N. D. Baker Trustees and belongs to the Dunes Club of Narragansett, R.I., and the Agawam Hunt of Providence. His marriage to Elizabeth Dorrance took place in Taunton, Mass., on May 3, 1937. They have three children: Norman Dean, Jr., born on February 19, 1938, George M. on May 15, 1940, and Harriet M. on November 27, 1941.

LUTHER FARWELL BALLOU. Chaplain, Dayton Goodwill Industries, 201 West Fifth Street, Dayton 2, Ohio; residence, 22 West Siebenthaler Avenue, Dayton 5.

In 1931 Ballou received the degree of S.T.B. at Boston University. He had been pastor of the West Groton (Mass.) Congregational Church during the preceding two years and in 1930 was ordained to the ministry of the Congregational-Christian Church. From 1931 to 1933 he was pastor of the Community Church at Dover-Foxcroft, Maine, and during the next six years held the pastorate of the Community Church at Carmel, Maine. He spent the period from 1939 to 1943 as a home missionary in Georgia and Alabama and then accepted a call to the Congregational-Christian Church in Phillipsburg, Ohio. He remained there until 1948, during the first year also serving the Congregational-Christian Church at Ludlow Falls.

Since December 1, 1946, Ballou has been chaplain of the Dayton Goodwill Industries, whose work is in connection with the employment of the handicapped. During his vacations in 1949 and 1950 he was acting Protestant chaplain at the Dayton State Hospital. He served on the executive committee of the Dayton Social Workers Guild from 1947 to 1949 and since 1950 has been treasurer, and he has also been a member of the committee on institutions of the Dayton Church Federation since January, 1950. Back in 1942 he was moderator of the Alabama State Congregational-Christian Conference. He belongs to the Masonic order and is a Republican in politics, although he votes independently.

He was first married September 9, 1917, in Colebrook, N.H., to Ellen Grace Holden, daughter of Ellen Dean; her death occurred September 25, 1924. His second marriage, to Elsie Marvanna Aultman, daughter of Edward Marcus and Della Ann Aultman, took place in Boston on August 12, 1929. Ballou has three children: Luther Farwell, Jr., born April 20, 1919, Nancy on August 16, 1920, and Philip Holden on March 17, 1922. The older boy, who was married on December 22, 1940, has four children: Shirley Starr, born August 1, 1943, Luther Farwell, 3d, on June 12, 1945, Linda Jean on April 7, 1947, and Randall Steven on July 25, 1950. Nancy, whose marriage to Charles Forrest Dickinson took place on December 8, 1936, has three children: Rita Louise, born November 4, 1939, Dolly Grace on June 28, 1945, and Charles Forrest, Jr., on February 23, 1947. Philip was married on September 30, 1948.

LOUIS BAMBERGER. Residence, Garth Woods Apartments, Scarsdale, N.Y.; mailing address, Box 511, White Plains, N.Y.

"Since 1933, when illness compelled my retirement, I have been trying to take it easy," Bamberger says. "I do some traveling and in general keep up with this uncertain world—which seems to hold new surprises daily."

Bamberger had previously been a partner in the New York brokerage firm of Bamberger Brothers, with which he became associated upon leaving college. His marriage to Mae C. Volck Alden took place in New York in 1933. They have no children.

EVERETT CLAIR BANCROFT. Professor of economics, Colgate University; residence, 83 Hamilton Street, Hamilton, N.Y.

Bancroft writes: "In 1933, at the depth of the Depression, we acquired a house and rebuilt it. It has served very adequately as our home for ourselves and the children.

"On the Colgate scene, teaching has been subject to emphasis; and advisory work with students, particularly Freshmen, has been significant and important, I think. It is difficult sometimes to evaluate in an objective manner the effectiveness of one's efforts in the educational field. I believe I have had reason to be conscious and aware of time-tested values based upon past human experience; and strength, I hope, to support constructive ideas and policies."

Bancroft, who has been at Colgate since 1924, was promoted from associate professor of economics to a full professorship in 1936. An outstanding experience, he says, was "the opportunity afforded by Colgate University to study at first hand some of the experiences, difficulties, and changing techniques in the textile industry, engaged in during the past two or three years. S. Bayard Colgate, a trustee, acted as the chairman of the committee on business studies. His interest and imaginative understanding were most helpful."

Bancroft is treasurer of the Faculty Club at Colgate, adviser to the Student Economics Club, and formerly served as president of the Colgate chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, to which he was elected to honorary membership in 1942. He taught for several years (about 1931-35) in the Utica chapter of the American Institute of Banking, giving a miscellany of related courses: economics, banking, credit management, and bank management. With W. H. Crook and W. C. Kessler, he contributed to a study of the textile industry—a chapter on the history of cotton—in "Dynamics of Textile Industry" (mimeographed).

He is a member of the National Tax Association and the American Economic Association, is a deacon of the First Baptist Church in Hamilton, a member of the board of the Hamilton Club (a service organization), and has been active in Community Chest collections and other civic work.

On April 17, 1922, he married Edith Susan Whitaker (B.A. Radcliffe 1916, Ph.D. in botany 1921), daughter of James Willey and Annette Davis Whitaker, of North Conway, N.H. They have two daughters: Faith, born on August 26, 1933, in North Conway, and Judith Annette on November 27, 1936, in Hamilton. "Please—1915—these are not our grandchildren!" he says, adding, "Faith, who is rather petite, in her Senior year in high school contributed largely to the success of the Class Book through artistic line drawings; musical participation through the years—cello, piano. She is now in her Freshman year at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa. Judith, to her annoyance, frequently mistaken to be older than Faith, on account of her height and weight, is also musical, artistic, and a good student—a Sophomore in high school."

FRANCIS HYDE BANGS. Residence, Ogunquit, Maine.

Bangs continues the story of his life since our last Class record was published. "I left the University of Buffalo, where I was assistant professor of English, in June, 1930," he writes, "to do research work on a life of my father. The Great Depression removed the financial base to carry this work through; and I became editor and publisher of The Old York Transcript of York Village, Maine, in order to survive in a dwelling costing $150 per annum, there being no interior plumbing except a faucet in a kitchen sink. In September, 1936, Dr. Percy Kammerer, provost of Avon Old Farms, took a chance and made me head of the English Department of that liberal institution. He warned me every year that my teaching was too stimulating, but it was not until a new headmaster, the Reverend W. Brooke Stabler, succeeded him that my position was seriously threatened. An acting headmaster, between Dr. Kammerer and Mr. Stabler, had urged the trustees that I be disposed of, but Mrs. John Wallace Riddle, chairman of the board, had slammed her gavel down on hearing of this and declared: 'Mr. Bangs is just what is necessary to keep the school alive.' But Mr. Stabler arrived as headmaster (actively) in January, 1941, and considerately paid me my full salary for the rest of the school year in order to be relieved of my presence in mid-April. He had imposed the Protestant Episcopal religion upon the school, formerly free of sectarianism, without so much as inquiring whether or not any members of the student body or faculty wished this type of Jesusism.

"Dr. Russell Bartlett, headmaster of The Gunnery School, despite my protestations, begged me to become head of his English Department in December, 1942, and I acceded to his request in January, 1943. Dr. Bartlett wanted some one on his faculty who would not agree with everything he suggested during faculty meetings. I taught at The Gunnery through June, 1949; and Ogden Miller, who had succeeded Dr. Bartlett as headmaster on the latter's death, put up with me for several years. Finally he tried to promote me to the English Department of Yale University, but succeeded only in promoting me into space, as Yale had other ideas or better candidates at the time. I did teach at Yale in the summer of 1949 (very hot) as a member of the faculty in American Studies at Yale University for Foreign Students, a position which I got, I think, largely through the good offices of Dean Buck of the Freshman Year. Since that time I have been out of regular employment—and, having no money of my own, have had to spend a lot of time in Maine, Palm Beach, Florida, Santa Fé, New Mexico, and at La Jolla, California.

"In 1941 Alfred A. Knopf published my book, John Kendrick Bangs, Humorist of the Nineties, the reviews of which were much better than the royalties. Our friend Billy Phelps selected it as one of the ten best books (non-fiction) published in the English-speaking world in 1941. He said that it was 'beautifully done, continuously interesting, written with acute intelligence and perfect taste, and filled with diverting incidents.'

"Of interest to the Class of 1915 should be the fact that in the autumn of 1941, under the auspices of the Yale Library Associates, I deposited in the Yale Library many original manuscripts and personal letters of Archibald MacLeish, covering the years 1913-23, with 30,000 words of my own comment thereon. This deposit, called The MacLeish of F. Bangs, has been sealed in the bowels of the University Library, and, on agreement with the then Librarian of Congress, will not be free for scholarly consideration until 1991. Mr. Bernard Knollenberg, Yale's librarian at the time of deposit, considered the deposit a monument not only to MacLeish but to Bangs; and Bangs himself, if I may say so, hopes not only by this labor to win immortality for himself but also a posthumous Ph.D. from Yale.

"Bangs was divorced in 1931 from his first wife, Grace Allen Bangs, who remains one of his dearest friends. On October 27, 1931, he was married in New York to Geraldine Condit Hall, daughter of Mrs. Edward E. Hall and the late Mr. Hall, and a graduate of Miss Spence's School. Bangs' daughter, born in Berlin, Germany, August 6, 1932, was graduated from Westover in June, 1949, under the name of Joan Bangs and is now a student at Barnard College under the name of Hanneli Hall. Bangs was divorced from his second wife in 1934."

MORRIS KEENE BARROLL. Partner, Barroll & Barroll, lawyers, Court Street, Chestertown, Md.; residence, "Byford Court," Chestertown.

Barroll, who has been practicing law in Chestertown for a number of years, graduated from the University of Virginia Law School in 1921 and continued his studies at the University of Maryland the following year. He was formerly a director of both the First National Bank and the Citizens Bank of Chestertown, but has no active connection with them at present. For some years he has been a vestryman of Emanuel Church in Chestertown. He belongs to the Maryland and Bachelors Cotillion clubs of Baltimore.

Barroll was married on June 2, 1927, in Baltimore to Margaret Waldo Newcomer, daughter of Waldo and Margaret Vanderpoel Newcomer. There are three boys in the family, all of whom were born in Baltimore: Waldo Newcomer, born June 2, 1928, David Oakley Vanderpoel on May 5, 1932, and Richard Spencer Wethered on October 21, 1934. Waldo, who graduated from Harvard in 1950, is working in New York on a Spanish magazine, Vision. David graduated from St. Andrews (Delaware) last June and is now at Washington College in Chestertown. The youngest boy is a student at St. Paul's in Baltimore.

ROBERT MILNE BARTLETT. Vice-president (general sales), Gulf Oil Corporation and Gulf Refining Company, 2627 Gulf Building, Pittsburgh 19, Pa.; residence, 1500 Beechwood Boulevard, Pittsburgh 17.

Bartlett, who first became connected with the Gulf Refining Company in 1926, has been vice-president (general sales) of the company and also of the Gulf Oil Corporation since March, 1949. He is, in addition, vice-president of the Gulf Exploration Company and a director of the Gulf Tire & Supply Company. During the war he served as vice-chairman of the Fuel Oil Subcommittee of P.A.W. and also as a member of the Industry Advisory Council, and at present he is a member of the industry advisory committee of the Office of Price Stabilization, as well as chairman of the program committee of the marketing division of the American Petroleum Institute, a member of its general committee, and chairman of the aviation technical service committee.

Bartlett is a trustee of the Athalia Daly Home, and he has taken part in work for the Community Chest, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the Cancer Fund, the Home for Crippled Children, and other civic activities in connection with fund raising. He is a Republican and an Episcopalian and belongs to the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, the Duquesne, Harvard-Yale-Princeton, and Fox Chapel Golf clubs, all of Pittsburgh, the Rolling Rock Club of Ligonier, the New York Yale Club, and the Seaview Country Club. For recreation he turns to golf, fishing, hunting, and painting.

He was married on April 19, 1919, in Calcutta, India, to Beatrice Lillian Crowden, daughter of Edwin C. and Isalina Beatrice Crowden. "This may be an item of unusual interest," he says. "Yale men of three generations of the Bartlett family are still living, namely, Floyd J. Bartlett, Class of 1882; his son, Robert M. Bartlett, Class of 1915; his grandson, Robert H. Bartlett, Class of 1949. The fourth generation of Bartletts is represented by a great-grandson, Richard Milne Bartlett."

Bartlett supplied the following information about the third generation: "Daughter, Beatrice, born January 5, 1922; attended Winchester School, Pittsburgh, the Masters School, Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., the Garland School, Boston; nurses' aide and active in welfare work during World War II; married October 16, 1948, to Roy Herd McKnight, Jr.; two children: Beatrice Crowden, born September 9, 1949, and Robert Garland, born January 5, 1951.

"Son, Robert Hayward, born July 4, 1924; attended Shady Side Academy, Pittsburgh; graduate of The Hotchkiss School, Class of 1943, and of Yale, Class of 1949; served in the Navy from June, 1943, to April, 1946; married Martha Jean Pollock, of Pittsburgh, September 8, 1951; now living in Mount Vernon, Ill., where Robert is connected with the production department of the Gulf Oil Corporation.

"Son, Richard Foster, born September 2, 1925; attended Shady Side Academy; graduate of Culver Military Academy, Class of 1943; Yale ex-'50; graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, Class of 1950; served in the Army Air Force from September, 1943, to December, 1945, during which time he was a bombardier on various missions over Italy; married Suzanne Harris, of Pittsburgh, June 17, 1950; one son: Richard Milne, born April 3, 1951; they live in Denver, Colo., where Dick is connected with the sales department of the Continental Oil Company.

"Son, Hayward Floyd, born May 16, 1933; attended Shady Side Academy; graduate of Hotchkiss, Class of 1951; now a student at Trinity College."

VALENTINE CROUSE BARTLETT. Residence, Hobe Sound, Fla.

"Flat on my back on a beach—since 1935," was Bartlett's reply to our question about his position. The supplementary data refute this statement to a certain extent at least. "After 1935 we moved to Florida, where I seemed to keep busy fooling around with real estate and farming in a small way," he says. "When the war came, the Ration Board and an enlarged farm, plus running the civil defense at Hobe Sound really kept me busy. The last named was quite interesting, as we had several ships torpedoed off our beach. I was also chairman of the Martin County Mosquito Control Committee. None of these jobs amount to anything in themselves. I mention them because it shows how easy it is to keep busy when you do retire. I have not regretted it yet. Of course there is also your own place to look out for and a certain amount of hunting and fishing that has to be done in the proper seasons!"

Before going to Florida, Bartlett was with Shearson, Hammill & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, in Chicago. He has resigned from most of his clubs, but still belongs to the Racquet Club of Chicago and the Shoreacres Club of Lake Forest, as well as to the Seminole Golf Club of Palm Beach, of which he is secretary and treasurer. He is a member of the Roman Catholic Church.

Bartlett's marriage to Marie A. Frost, daughter of Albert Carl and Clare des Jardins Frost, took place in Chicago on June 7, 1917. Their older son, Charles Leffingwell, who was born in Chicago on August 14, 1921, graduated from St. Mark's in 1939 and from Yale in 1943. The younger boy, David Frost, was born in Chicago on August 23, 1924. He also prepared for college at St. Mark's and graduated from Yale with the Class of 1949. He was a Pfc. in the Marines, while Charles was a senior grade lieutenant in the Navy.

CARL RAYMOND BECKERT. President, Thomas Young Orchids, Inc., grower and wholesaler of orchids, Harris and Union Avenues, Bound Brook, N.J.; residence, 378 East Union Avenue, Bound Brook.

A radical change took place in 1932, when Beckert gave up his position with the investment brokerage firm of Charles D. Barney & Company to become president of the Thomas Young Orchids, Inc. He is a Republican and an Episcopalian, is a member of the Yale, Madison Square Garden, and Racquet and Tennis clubs, and is fond of reading and Wagnerian opera.

Beckert's marriage to Ellen Marie Dunn, daughter of William James and Adelaide Newans Smith Dunn, took place in New Haven on November 29, 1917. They have no children.

JOHN BELLINGER BELLINGER, 2D. Manager, men's shops, Franklin Simon, 414 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y.; residence, 10 Coachman Lane, Levittown, N.Y.

From 1930 to 1934 Bellinger was credit manager of the Hotel Lincoln in New York City, and from 1935 to 1937 he was with the Wickwire Spencer Steel Company. He has been with Franklin Simon since then and became manager of their men's shops (furnishings, sports, clothing) in September, 1950. He is an Episcopalian and a Mason and mentions gardening as a special interest.

His first marriage, to June Marie Edwards, took place in New York on July 30, 1919. They were divorced in September, 1944. On October 23, 1950, he was married in Jamaica, N.Y., to Mary Elizabeth Robb Schwerin, daughter of Arthur Thomas and Catherine Hughes Robb. Bellinger's daughter, Shirley Catherine, who was born in Toronto on November 26, 1920, was married on February 14, 1944, to Ljubinsir Pope and has one child, Craig Bellinger.

CHANDLER BENNITT. Consultant in psychology, 103 Park Avenue, New York 17, N.Y.; residence, 1285 Hope Street, Springdale, Conn.

From 1930 to 1936 Bennitt was a member of the New York law firm of Robb, Clark & Bennitt and since then has been engaged as a consulting psychologist, working with individuals only. He is the author of three books: Meaning and the Western Way (1933), Essays in Meaning and Actuality (1934), and The Real Use of the Unconscious (1937), the first two of which were published by the Hidden Press and the last by the Dial Press. He contributed an article, "Hate as a Transitional State in Psychic Evolution," to the Psychoanalytic Re- view in 1948. We gather from Don Robb's comments that while Bennitt's books could by no means be classified as summer reading, they are definitely worth perusing.

Bennitt was a member and chairman of the Zoning Board of Adjustments and Appeals for the Town of Stamford from 1937 to 1948. "No travels," he says. "I have lived in the same house for thirty years, have walked 15,000 miles to and from the station, and commuted 600,000 miles to and from New York."

On January 5, 1918, he was married in New Haven to Katharine Osborn, daughter of Norris G. and Kate Gardner Osborn. Their son, Peter, who was born in Philadelphia on February 9, 1920, graduated from Yale with a B.A. degree in 1942. He was killed in action in Normandy on August 14, 1944, while serving as a first lieutenant of Infantry with the 2d U.S. Division. Their daughter, Nancy, born in Stamford on August 2, 1922, married Louis Bennington Howell and has a son, Peter Bennington, who was born July 27, 1949.

LIVINGSTON BENTLEY. Missionary under Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church; address, care American Mission, Tabriz, Iran.

A fine letter written on September 19, 1951, came from Bentley. "Judging by the follow-up letters which have been coming to me since my return to Iran, a notice must have been sent asking me to furnish material for my biography for the Class Book," he wrote. "If so, it did not reach me, doubtless due to the fact that I was on furlough in the United States. I am sorry that there was this delay. Before writing any notes, I have looked back at the record in the 1930 volume. I am starting from that.

"First may I add that a third child, Marjorie Helen, was born on August 17, 1928.

"My son attended school in Beirut and Mount Hermon School, then went to Brown. While there, he played on the soccer team which beat Yale. He scored both points for Brown, a pleasant family feud! He left college to join the Army in 1942, advancing to the rank of master sergeant. He lost his life April 6, 1945, on Okinawa.

"My daughter, Catherine, after attending Northfield Seminary, graduated from the Nursing School of the University of Rochester. She married the son of a fellow missionary in Iran, Dr. G. G. Browning, who is now a medical officer in the Navy. They have one child, Robert, the pride of his grandparents.

"My other daughter, Helen, graduated from Wooster College in 1950 and is now with us here in Tabriz.

"Perhaps I have written too much about my children, whereas you may wish to know more about my own work. Starting from the account in the 1930 book, I spent several years in Hamadan, Persia (which is now Iran). In 1934-35 we had a furlough, after which we were assigned to Resht for about two years. Then we were transferred to Kermanshah and, in 1946, to Tabriz. Tabriz is the largest city of the province of Azerbaijan which the power and the authority of the United Nations was able to save for the Government of Iran.

"To attempt to write what I have done in these years and in the several cities of Iran where I have lived would be to write a discourse on the work of a missionary. I am just another missionary. If I have whereof to boast it is in the fact that I am part of a very great enterprise.

"I trust that this brief attempt at a biography may give you some information suitable to your needs. I cannot close my letter without saying that it was a great pleasure to me to attend the Thirty-fifth Reunion, the only one I have been able to attend. See you at our Fiftieth!"

Bentley went to Persia to work for the Near East Relief in 1918, shortly after his graduation from Auburn Theological Seminary and his ordination to the ministry. He has been engaged in regular missionary work since 1926.

His marriage to Florence Helen Miller took place in Hamadan on May 9, 1921. Their son, Robert DeLancey, was born on June 22, 1922, in Hamadan and the older daughter, Catherine Marie, on June 16, 1925, in Syracuse, N.Y.

CLARENCE ALEXANDER BISSELL. Address, 75 Crest Avenue, Winthrop, Mass.

MONROE PERCY BLOCH. Partner, Brush & Bloch, lawyers, 27 William Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 49 East 96th Street, New York 28.

"I have just returned from a six weeks' trip to London, Brussels, Paris, and Antibes and found Europe much less worried about the war than we are," said Bloch, when he sent in his report on August 7. He added, "As for recreation, for some inexplicable reason, considering my deservedly high handicap, I like to play golf. I also enjoy collecting modern first editions of English and American authors and have succeeded in assembling a considerable number of them."

At the time our last Class record was published, Bloch was a partner in the law firm of Berger & Bloch. He practiced independently from 1930 until May, 1935, and has since been a partner in Brush & Bloch, carrying on a general practice. Since January, 1950, he has been a director of the Southern Natural Gas Company, operator of a natural gas pipeline system extending from the gas fields in Texas, Louisiana, and Mississippi to markets in Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia. He is also a director of Waitt & Bond, Inc., manufacturers of Blackstone cigars, of Frederic R. Harris, Inc., civil engineers, and of Hamilton House, a settlement house on the lower East side of New York City (of which he was president from 1945 to 1949), and a director of and counsel to the Honest Ballot Association (since 1934). In 1933 Bloch served as directing counsel of the Election Frauds Bureau of the Republican State Committee. He has been a Republican county committeeman and back in 1930 was a special assistant deputy attorney general of New York. He belongs to the National Republican Club, the New York County Lawyers Association, the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the American Bar Association, the Century Country Club, and the Yale and Harvard clubs of New York.

He was first married on June 1, 1925, in New York to Muriel Bamberger, daughter of Oscar and Hilda M. Bamberger. Her death occurred on December 26, 1941. On August 26, 1943, he was married in New York to Marjorie Klein Rosenbaum, daughter of S. S. and Della D. K. Klein. His daughter, Barbara, who was born in New York on September 23, 1926, was married on June 8, 1950, in New York to Joseph A. Dammann. She graduated from the Dalton Schools of New York in 1943 and from Smith with a B.A. degree in 1947. Bloch also has a stepdaughter, Jane Randall. She was born June 22, 1928, studied at St. Andrew's University in Scotland, and in 1950 received a B.A. degree at Wellesley. On April 11, 1952, she married Irvin S. Dorfman, Yale '47.

HUGO WALTER BLUMENTHAL. Address, 60 Beaver Street, New York, N.Y.

FRANK ALEXANDER BOLTON. Electronics supply specialist, U.S. Air Force, Pentagon Building, Washington, D.C.; residence, Indian Head, Md.

"My life has been relatively uneventful," Bolton says. "I was discharged on December 24, 1918, following service as a second lieutenant in the 70th Field Artillery in World War I. I have spent most of the time since then on my farm twenty miles south of Washington. I was engaged in farming from 1920 to 1926 and have since done accounting and government work as follows: accounting, 1926-27 and 1931; with New York Stock Exchange brokerage houses on Wall Street, 1928-30; with Federal Farm Board, 1932-33; Home Owners' Loan Corporation, 1934-42; Army Air Force (major—assigned to Headquarters), August, 1942-January, 1946; War Assets Administration, 1946-50; U.S. Air Force (civilian), since November, 1950."

Bolton adds that amateur theatricals are his hobby and that he is president of the Port Tobacco Players in Maryland. He still holds a commission as major in the Air Force Reserve and is a member of St. John's Episcopal Church, Charles County, Md., and of the Masonic order.

He was first married in Washington, October 27, 1926, to Helen Hosford; the marriage was annulled six months later. On March 26, 1932, he was married in Washington to Melissa Dement, daughter of William L. and Pearl Harris Dement. Their son, Richard Lee, who was born in Washington on March 3, 1939, attends the Junior High School at La Plata, Md.

ROBERT DEFOREST BOOMER. Director of foreign subsidiaries, Lone Star Cement Corporation, 100 Park Avenue, New York 17, N.Y.; residence, Millbrook, N.Y.

"The Class of 1915 is represented in Millbrook by Johnny Hanes, Arthur Tuttle, and myself," Boomer tells us. "Aside from traveling extensively in Europe and South America, my outside activities have been largely devoted to fighting a losing battle in defense of private enterprise, through organizations such as the Inter-American Council of Commerce and Production, an association of some one hundred and fifty trade bodies in this hemisphere, with headquarters in Montevideo, Uruguay, and on committees of the National Foreign Trade Council, the National Association of Manufacturers, the United States Council of the International Chamber of Commerce, and the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"In spite of these affiliations, I have avoided high blood pressure even though living for the past twenty years under the unhappy eras of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Harry Truman, and Dean Acheson.

Though we all have one foot in the grave, I hope, as long as health persists, to avoid vegetating."

He adds, "In 1930 I was a director of E. H. Rollins, underwriters. Between 1930 and 1940 I was a partner in three Stock Exchange firms, including Reynolds, Fish & Company (which is now called Mallory Adee), Charles Mallory and I having entered this firm at the same time."

Since 1945 Boomer has been with the Lone Star Cement Corporation as director of foreign subsidiaries. He is a director and chairman of the board of Hughes & Company, exporters to Latin America, and a director of the International Hotels Corporation, a subsidiary of Pan American Airways which is now setting up a chain of hotels throughout the world; the American Ligurian Corporation, agents for Techint, a contracting firm in Latin America; Vision, Inc., a Spanish-language news magazine with distribution throughout Latin America; the Pan American Society, a social organization which entertains distinguished Latin American visitors to New York; and the Brazilian American Association. He is a member of the Council of Foreign Relations and of the Metropolitan Club of New York, the Royal Thames Yacht Club of London, and the Inka Country Club of Lima. During World War II he served on the Draft Board.

On March 17, 1926, Boomer married Blanche Mary Stephanie Nelson, daughter of J. and Margaret Driver Nelson. They have two daughters: Margaret Louise, who was born in Lugano, Switzerland, on August 19, 1927, and Barbara Mary, born June 6, 1929, in New York. Both girls have attended Miss Masters School at Dobbs Ferry and Vassar, Margaret graduating in 1948 and Barbara in 1951.

HENRY HOMES BOYNTON. Secretary, Biddle Trade Bureau, Ltd., labor and industrial relations consultants, 458 South Spring Street, Los Angeles 13, Calif.; residence, 1385 Calinero Drive, Pasadena 2, Calif.

Since March, 1949, Boynton has been secretary of the Biddle Trade Bureau, Ltd., in Los Angeles. His marriage to Marguerite Ann Rhoades, daughter of Ellis and Alice Rhoades, took place in Waldron, Colo., on May 5, 1918. Their older daughter, Margaret Ann, who was born in Los Angeles on July 3, 1921, was married some time ago to William David Boynton and has a son, Phillip Henry. Her husband is in the Navy. The younger girl, Elizabeth Edmond, born in Los Angeles on June 5, 1924, is the wife of Edward W. Fisher.

THEODORE LEE BRANTLY. Vice-president in charge of sales, Crowell-Collier Publishing Company, 640 Fifth Avenue, New York 19, N.Y.; residence, 32 Hampton Road, Scarsdale, N.Y.

Prior to 1939 Brantly was advertising manager of Collier's Weekly. He then became vice-president and advertising director of Crowell-Collier and since March, 1950, has been vice-president in charge of sales. He is a director of the company and also of the Esterbrook Pen Company and is president of the board of trustees of the Hitchcock Memorial Church in Scarsdale. During the war he served as an air raid warden. Brantly says that he has traveled from coast to coast and that for recreation he turns to golf, fishing, and hunting. He is a member of the Scarsdale Golf Club, the Huddersfield Fish and Game Club, the Wings Club, the Yale Club of New York, and Conquistadores del Cielo.

He was married in Helena, Mont., on August 26, 1916, to Helen Longmaid, daughter of John and Ellen Kay Longmaid. They have had four children, all of whom were born in Scarsdale: Helen Lois, Theodore Lee, Jr., Elizabeth Ann, and Mary Stuart. The oldest girl, who married Alan Brown, has two sons and is living in East Hampton, Conn. Theodore, Jr., who was a member of the Yale Class of 1943, served as a paratrooper in World War II. On August 8, 1951, he was killed in an automobile accident in Hartford, Conn., where he was in business as president of the Cro-Plate Company. He is survived by his wife, Muriel, and a son, Theodore L., 3d. Elizabeth is now Mrs. Richard Harden and lives in Scarsdale, as does the youngest daughter, Mary.

RICHARD BREED. Administrative assistant, Atlantic City Electric Company, 1600 Pacific Avenue, Atlantic City, N.J.; residence, 105 South Cambridge Avenue, Ventnor, N.J.

Breed continued as an industrial engineer with the Indiana & Michigan Electric Company at South Bend, Ind., until June, 1939, when he took the position of credit manager with the Atlantic City Electric Company. He has recently been promoted to administrative assistant, attached to the company's managerial department. He is a trustee of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer at Longport, N.J., and a member of the Yale Club of New York City and the Germantown Cricket Club. While in South Bend, Breed was for a year (1933) master of Lodge No. 294, A. F. and A. M., and also belonged to the Murat Shrine in Indianapolis.

On June 1, 1917, he was married in New Orleans, La., to Helen Bailey Fling, daughter of Dr. J. Glen Fling and M. Irene Fling. Their daughter, Helen, who was born in South Bend on April 12, 1926, graduated from the Shipley School in Bryn Mawr, Pa., in 1944 and from the University of Pennsylvania in 1948. Her marriage to Dr. Donald C. Davidson took place on July 23, 1949. The Breeds' son, Richard, Jr., who was born on January 30, 1930, also in South Bend, graduated from The Hill School in 1948 and is now in the Senior Class at Yale.

JOHN FRANCIS BRENNAN. Vice-president, United States Lines Company (ocean shipping), 1 Broadway, New York 4, N.Y.; residences, Hotel St. George, Brooklyn, N.Y., and 111 South Whittlesey Avenue, Wallingford, Conn.

"I have been connected with the United States Lines Company and its predecessor companies since 1919," Brennan reports. "I went on active duty in the Transportation Corps, Army of the United States, as a lieutenant colonel in June, 1942. I was promoted to colonel in March, 1943, and served until March, 1946. I was awarded the Legion of Merit and currently hold a commission as colonel in the Transportation Corps Reserve."

Brennan became a vice-president of the United States Lines in November, 1949, and was elected to the board of directors in April, 1951. He is also a director of the 1 Broadway Corporation. He belongs to the Yale Club of New York, the Rotary Club of New York (director, 1948-50), the New York Athletic Club, the Downtown Athletic Club, the American Legion, the National Defense Transportation Association, and the Propellor Club of the United States. He has never married.

JULIUS CAESAR BRENZA. Address, 7527 North Seely Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

ARTHUR TILGHMAN BRICE. Owner and manager, "Phase Films," Box 423, Ross, Calif.; residence, East Road, near North, Ross.

"Ever since I became photographic editor of the Yale Courant in 1915, photography and optics have remained important fields of activity in my life," Brice says. "In 1945 I learned of the development in Europe during the war of phase-contrast optics, which make possible the formation of images of colorless transparent objects under the microscope and the presentation of microbiologic life process cycles as functional wholes, and brought information on this subject to the U.S., for which I was awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon and put on a tour of seminars at the universities by the National Research Council; thereafter I was sent again to Europe by the U.S. Department of Commerce in the FIAT operation for investigation and complete report—(see Department of Commerce document PB 78279).

“Ten years of my life have been spent in active military service in two wars—W.W. I, as captain, Infantry, 7th U.S. Regiment, 3d Division; W.W. II, as colonel, Chemical Corps, 16th Corps, 9th U.S. Army. Seem to have done my best in river crossings: Distinguished Service Cross for 3d Division crossing of the Marne in 1918; Bronze Star for planning and executing the smoke screen protection of the 9th Army crossing of the Rhine in 1945. Now that all the world knows what becomes of old soldiers, I may say that I hope to fade away gradually and gracefully through the curtain of civil defense and disaster relief.

“Medical technology has also been an important field of my activities for more than fifteen years, and, though interrupted by the last war, I am still active in it on a smaller scale. In 1930 I was the No. 5 registered medical technologist in this country and during the following years saw this activity advance to the state of a profession. During the past ten years, however, it has been taken over from a few old pioneers like myself by the gentler sex. As commanding officer of the 6501st Organized Reserve Research and Development Unit, I am doing one day a week with the new phase-contrast microscope in the laboratories of the Stanford Medical School.

“Schools and colleges have been prompt to recognize the educational value of motion picture films made by these means, which permit the presentation of microbiologic life process cycles as functional wholes, so that the dynamics of such processes, as well as the static morphology of structures, can be more readily taught. More than 200 of them are now on our list of ‘Phase Films’ customers.”

Brice has been owner and manager of “Phase Films” since 1947 and since 1948 has also been the exclusive agent in this country for Professor Frits Zernike, discoverer of the phase-contrast principle of optics and inventor of the phase-contrast microscope at the University of Groningen, Netherlands. Prior to the war Brice had been for eleven years clinical laboratorian expert with the U.S. Veterans Administration in charge of laboratories of the Pacific Coast Diagnostic Center at Palo Alto and Fort Miley, Calif. He took his M.A. degree in physiology at Stanford in 1946 and in 1948 was elected a regular member of the American Optical Society by the board of directors for material contribution in the advancement of the science of optics. Since 1950 he has been commander of the Ross Disaster Corps and is also currently the Ross delegate to the Joint Cities and County Civil Defense Planning Board of Marin County. He has been active in the building fund and every member canvass drives at St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross. Brice has contributed some twenty-five articles to the scientific medical journals and is quoted in the standard text of Kolmer and Boerner on the selection of blood donors for transfusions and in Bodansky and Bodansky on blood chemistry in mental disease.

During the first two years of his service in World War II (1941-43) he was security officer at the Huntsville Arsenal. He says that his recreations are camping in national parks and forests and his hobby, in addition to photography, high power rifle marksmanship. Brice was married August 29, 1929, in Baltimore to Alice Lloyd Winder, daughter of Edward Lloyd and Mary Parker Winder. They have no children.

WILLIAM BRIGHT. General manager, Motorcar Service Company, automotive jobbers, 900 French Street, Wilmington, Del.; residence, Greenville, Del.

Bright hits a somewhat less optimistic note than in his report for Volume II. "I've been trying to review sixty years of existence," he says. "They boil down to six decades. The first decade is a blank, the second hazy, the third confused, the fourth putting on weight, the fifth worrying about it, the sixth taking it off. During this decade you get replacements for teeth, hair, and eyes. They are not as good as the original, but they help. Any other replacements are wishful thinking.

"During the sixty years you play, work, and worry. The play time grows less, the work greater, and the worry greatest. Throw in a couple of wars, an operation or two, an increasing tax burden, an increasing socialization of living, prohibition, racketeers, bootlegging, and too many years of New Deal, Fair Deal, and No Deal. Stir this mixture up well and add loans, notes, and mortgages. What have you got? Well, don't let it get you down. That's only the debit side. On the credit side you very likely had a very lovely wife and children and a home that was a refuge and sanctuary. If you have had that, nothing else seems important. Selah."

He adds, "One trip to Europe in 1922 is about the limit of my travels beyond the confines of the U.S. This trip was partly business and the balance pleasure. Till a few years ago I collected stamps. My only other recreations are music and reading. Published a song in 1921 which was recorded on the Edison records. Nothing before and nothing since. Batting average 1,000."

Bright, who has been with the same firm since 1930, becoming general manager in 1945, says, as to retirement, "Not yet. When you meet an Indian the question is How? When you think of retiring the question is also How?" From June, 1942, to October, 1944, he was spare parts administrator for the Philadelphia Ordnance District.

He was married on November 12, 1922, in Ventnor, N.J., to Nancy Hoopes Patterson, daughter of Frank E. and Elizabeth Bella Hoopes Patterson. They have no children.

WINTHROP HOLLEY BROOKS. Chairman of the board, Brooks Brothers (men's clothing), 346 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y.; residence, New York Yale Club, 50 Vanderbilt Avenue, New York 17.

Since 1946 Brooks has been chairman of the board of Brooks Brothers, with which he became associated in 1919, after four years of ranching in Wyoming. He was married on February 3, 1917, in New York City to Linnor Gooch and has two children: Frederick C., who was born in Covington, Ky., on December 19, 1917, and Anne (Mrs. A. W. Volkman), born at Glen Head, N.Y., on April 14, 1925. There are two grandchildren: Ann C. Brooks and Lynne H. Volkman.

JOHN MICHAEL BROPHY. Residence, Bethlehem, Conn.

Brophy retired in June, 1950, from his position as principal of the Driggs School in Waterbury, which he had held since 1923. "All of my post-college years were spent teaching," he says. "I now live on my farm in Bethlehem and am enjoying my later years in an atmosphere of bucolic quietude. I am still a bachelor and live with members of my immediate family. I have traveled in Europe, South America, and Central America and all through the United States and Canada. During the first World War I was connected with the U.S. Department of Censorship at headquarters in New York City for fourteen months, engaged in foreign language work."

JOSEPH REAL BROWN. General counsel, Kansas City Southern Railway Company, Kansas City Southern Building, Kansas City, Mo.; residence, 1030 West 59th Terrace, Kansas City.

Since 1944 Brown has been general counsel, a director, and member of the executive committee of the Kansas City Southern Railway, with which he has been associated for a number of years. In addition, he is general counsel, vice-president, and a director of the Joplin Union Depot Company, the Kansas City, Shreveport & Gulf Terminal Company, the Kansas City Southern Transport Company, Inc., the Missouri State Realty Company, the Neches Bridge Company, the North Baton Rouge Development Company, Inc., the Port Arthur Canal & Dock Company, the Southern Development Company, and the Rice-Carden Corporation; general counsel of the Louisiana & Arkansas Railway Company, the Arkansas Western Railway Company, the Fort Smith & VanBuren Railway Company, the Kansas & Missouri Railway & Terminal Company; and a director of the First National Bank of Kansas City. Brown belongs to the University Club of Kansas City and is an Episcopalian. He is the author of Striking Resemblance (Mandor) and Varied Years.

On January 4, 1922, he was married at Fort Smith, Ark., to Lucy Mason McDonough, whose parents were James B. and Sara Martin McDonough. Their daughter, Lucy McDonough (Mrs. C. B. Randall, Jr.), who was born February 25, 1924, attended the National Cathedral School and Holton Arms in Washington, and their son Joseph Real, Jr., born November 29, 1926, received a B.A. degree at Yale in 1948 and in 1951 completed his work for the degree of M.A. at the University of Southern California. He served in World War II with the American Field Service in both Europe and India.

LARNED FRIDLEY BROWN. Address, 640 18th Street, Rock Island, Ill.

THOMAS RUSSELL BURNS. President, United Nations Engineering & Export Corporation (aircraft sales and services), 1507 M Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.; residence, 5802 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W., Washington 16.

Burns sent us the following summary covering the period since 1930: "Burns Laboratories, Dallas, Texas—owner, January, 1930-35; American Machine & Metals Corporation, New York City—Southwest representative, September, 1935-37; Governair Air Conditioning Corporation, Oklahoma City, Okla.—sales engineer, November, 1937-39; Apem Corporation, Little Rock, Ark.—president, May, 1939-42; U.S. Air Force—major, June, 1942-45; War Assets Agency, Washington—commercial analyst, July, 1945-46; United Nations Engineering & Export Corporation—president, July, 1946.”

“The aviation business requires extensive travel throughout the United States, Canada, and Mexico,” he adds. “This territory is covered in my Navion airplane, in which I am the pilot. A business trip in 1949 resulted in my going abroad and visiting Spain, Italy, Egypt, Greece, France, and England. Hobbies are golf, hunting, fishing, and swimming.

“I volunteered and entered the Army Air Force as a captain in June, 1942. I installed the system for shipping and receiving all personnel at Scott Field, Ill., and operated it for twelve months. Received a commendation and my majority for this work and became commanding officer of the 19th Academic Squadron at Scott Field. I was deactivated as a major in June, 1945.”

Burns is a member of the Roman Catholic Church. He was first married in January, 1918, in Los Angeles, Calif., to Louie White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. White, of Houston, Texas. They were divorced in 1921. On January 13, 1935, he was married in Tyler, Texas, to Vivien King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. King. He has three children: Elizabeth Claire, born July 26, 1919, at Lake Charles, La., Thomas Rearden on February 27, 1937, in Dallas, and Vivien Ann on September 2, 1939, also in Dallas. Elizabeth, whose marriage to Jack Stivers took place some time ago, has three children. Thomas is a Junior at Andover, and Vivien attends Mount Saint Mary's Academy in Little Rock.

EDWIN ARTHUR BURTT. Susan Linn Sage professor of philosophy, Cornell University; office, Goldwin Smith Hall; residence, 227 Willard Way, Ithaca, N.Y.

Burt, who was for some years professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago, has held the Susan Linn Sage professorship of philosophy at Cornell since 1932. During 1931-32 he was visiting professor of philosophy at Stanford University, and he was at the University of Hawaii in the same capacity in 1941. “Teaching college students has been fun,” he says. “I’ll probably turn out another book or two ’ere long—about philosophy, or religion, or relations between East and West. Traveled around the world from November, 1946, to June, 1947, as representative of the American Philosophical Association, to further closer contacts and mutual understanding between Western and Eastern philosophers."

In addition to the American Philosophical Association, Burt belongs to the American Theological Society, of which he was president during 1949-50. His published writings are the following: Metaphysical Foundations of Modern Physical Science (1925); Types of Religious Philosophy (1939); English Philosophers from Bacon to Mill (1940); and Right Thinking (1946). He received the degree of S.T.M. at Union Theological Seminary in 1922, that of Ph.D. at Columbia in 1925, and an honorary L.H.D. degree at the University of Chicago in 1951. He is a member of the Society of Friends.

Burt was first married in New York on September 25, 1916, to Mildred Caroline Camp. They were divorced in 1950. On June 16, 1951, he was married in Albany, N.Y., to Dr. Marjorie Frances Murray, daughter of David and Carol Murray. He has four daughters: Edith Jerome, born in New York City on February 18, 1918, Dorothy Newell on April 18, 1919, also in New York, Harriet Virginia in Cresskill, N.J., on February 20, 1921, and Winifred Jane in Chicago on May 7, 1927. They are all graduates of Cornell, the two oldest in 1939, Harriet in 1942, and Winifred in 1950. Winifred's marriage to J. H. Brinster took place on October 15, 1950.

*JOHN LORD BUTLER.

This biography, based on Butler's reply to our questionnaire, was written before his death on October 8, 1951.

"I was in the advertising business in Philadelphia until I retired (for reasons of bad health and after five months' serious illness) in July, 1947," Butler wrote. "Since then I have divided my time between a small house in Philadelphia and a rural establishment in the Poconos at Stoddartsville, which I built some thirty years ago in an area with which my family have long been identified. I have also spent considerable time in Florida, in particular in Key West, in which city I am at the moment building a home.

"My greatest activity at the present time is working diligently for my wife, in accordance with established American custom. I also fool around a little with real estate. My greatest pleasure is in my children and grandchildren, of whom I see a great deal. We are a close knit and very happy family, fortunately and remarkably. I feel that I have had a rich and full life and contemplate the future with serenity and confidence."

Butler continued as president of the John L. Butler Company in Philadelphia until 1937. From 1938 to 1943 he was merchandising and advertising counselor to various businesses and for the next two years was an account executive with the Aitken-Kynett Company of Philadelphia. During the war he was a representative of the National Foam System (fire fighting equipment) and worked in close contact with the U.S. Navy on development of instructions for handling oil fires on ships at sea and prepared training procedure. From 1943 to 1947 he was director of the Philadelphia Veterans Center, serving as advisory counselor to returning veterans. He was a member of the Episcopal Church and of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Founders and Patriots of America, and the Military Order of Foreign Wars of the United States. Color photography was Butler's hobby.

Mrs. Butler was Marion Field Sharpless, daughter of Townsend and Mary Field Sharpless. They were married on May 19, 1917, in Wyncote, Pa., and the two oldest children were born there: John Lord, Jr., on June 28, 1918, and Mary Elizabeth on February 2, 1921. The younger girl, Gertrude Stoddart, was born in Abington, Pa., on August 3, 1925. John, Jr., graduated from Yale with a B.A. degree in 1940. He volunteered for naval service that year and was commissioned an ensign in 1941. He served in the Pacific throughout the war and then transferred to the Regular Navy. Currently he is a lieutenant commander and captain of the destroyer Jack W. Wilke. He was married on December 12, 1947, to Barbara S. Underhill and has a daughter, Susan Lord. Mary, whose marriage to Kilbourn Gordon, Jr., took place in Rydal, Pa., on October 18, 1942, has two daughters: Caroline Lewis and Mary Elizabeth. Gertrude was married in October, 1944, in Rydal to Terence R. Blackwood and has two children: Elizabeth Ann and John Temple.

CLIFFORD HAMILTON BYRNES. Partner, Hale, Sanderson, Byrnes & Morton, lawyers, 50 Congress Street, Boston 9, Mass.; residence, 152 Summer Street, Hingham, Mass.

Byrnes, who received his LL.B. degree at Harvard in 1919, has been a partner in the Boston law firm of Hale, Sanderson, Byrnes & Morton since 1929. During the period from 1940 to 1946 he was a member of the Massachusetts State Guard. He belongs to the Union Club of Boston, the Cohasset Golf Club, and the Yale Club of New York and is a Republican and a Unitarian.

Byrnes' marriage to Blanche Edith Trainor took place in New York City on August 1, 1925. They have no children.

WILLIAM PATRICK CAMPBELL. Residence address, care L. G. Audette, Essex Fells, N.J.

Campbell taught at the Kingsley School in Essex Fells from 1916 to 1918 and again during 1923-24. He spent the period from 1930 to 1932 at Colorado Springs, the next six years at Saranac Lake, and lived in New York City from 1939 to 1944. From June of that year until May, 1945, he was a civilian worker in the engine repair department at the Rome (N.Y.) Army Air Field. Since then his time has been divided mainly between Englewood and Cresskill, N.J., although he has spent the past three winters in Mexico. Campbell is unmarried.

WILLIAM RALPH CAMPBELL. Broker, Fairfield & Ellis (insurance), 60 Congress Street, Boston, Mass.; residence, 11 Monument Street, Wenham, Mass.

Campbell, who has been living in Wenham for some time, says that he will be glad to see any classmates who may travel that way. He doesn't mention just when it was that he entered the insurance brokerage business with Fairfield & Ellis. During the war he was a deputy air raid warden and did quite a bit of plane spotting. He collects stamps and coins for a hobby, is an Episcopalian and a Republican.

Mrs. Campbell, who was Katharine Douglas Hunter, daughter of Frank K. and Katharine Waldo Douglas Hunter, died on March 26, 1948. They were married in London on January 2, 1919. Their older son, William Douglas, who was born in Rapid City, S.Dak., on December 27, 1920, attended the Eaglebrook School in 1933 and was at Exeter from 1934 to 1938. He then entered Yale, where he graduated with a B.A. degree in 1942. He had been in the N.R.O.T.C. and went on active duty in the Navy in 1942 and was subsequently on destroyer duty in the Caribbean, Mediterranean, and North Atlantic and then the Pacific on the Intrepid, ranking as a lieutenant at the time of his release from service in January, 1946. In 1949 he graduated from the Yale Law School and is now practicing in Portland, Oregon. The second boy, Alexander John, born in Erie, Pa., May 20, 1922, also attended Eaglebrook and Exeter. He too was in the N.R.O.T.C. at Yale, where he received his B.A. degree with the Class of 1944. He served as a lieutenant in the Navy and saw action in the Pacific area, including New Guinea, from October, 1943, until August, 1945.

He was then in Washington with the Liquidation Commission until June, 1946, and since 1947 has been acting manager of the Otis Elevator Company in Manila. Campbell's daughter, Katharine Anne, who was born May 17, 1924, in Erie, attended the Winsor School and Vassar, where she graduated with a B.A. degree in 1943. She served as an economic analyst with the U.S. Treasury Department in Washington during 1945-46, spent the next three years as a representative of the department in London, and was then back in Washington from December, 1949, to August, 1950. Her marriage to John Hugh Adam Watson, first secretary to the British Embassy in Washington, took place in Wenham on September 9, 1950.

GEORGE JULIAN CARR. Manager, chartering department, Leval & Company, Inc., grain exporters, 2 Broadway, New York 4, N.Y.; residence, 277 Park Avenue, New York 17.

Carr, who was with the Municipal Finance Corporation at the time the Quindecennial Record was published, served from 1930 to 1932 as assistant deputy chief of the Foodstuffs Division of the Department of Commerce and is the author of several pamphlets published by the Government Printing Office. Leval & Company, Inc., with which he has been associated since about 1930, are the United States representatives of Louis Dreyfus & Cie. of Paris. Carr is a director of James L. Thom, Inc., a New York steamship agency, and of Montship Lines, Ltd., of Montreal. During World War II he had three and a half years' service as a colonel in the Army Transportation Corps and twice received a Medal of Commendation.

He is a member of the New York Produce Exchange, the New York Produce Exchange Luncheon Club, the Yale Club of New York City (chairman of the cards, games, and athletic committees), and the West End Collegiate Church in New York. He took a three months' business trip to Europe (England, France, and Italy) both in 1948 and 1949, and in 1950 went on a Caribbean cruise. Special interests are bridge, stamps—and "keeping head above water."

Carr's marriage to Helen Thompson Keely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. Grant Keely, took place in New York City on May 12, 1920. Their son, George Grant, who was born in New York on February 27, 1924, graduated from The Choate School in 1941 and from Yale in 1945 and is now associate editor of Iron Age. He served overseas with the 7th Army for four years and at present is a member of Squadron A.

LEWIS FRANCIS CARR. Address, care Walter S. Carr, 25 North Main Street, Dayton, Ohio.

RUSSELL JAMES CARTER. Field investigator, Bureau of Labor Statistics, U.S. Department of Labor; residence, "Windover," Gwynedd, Pa.

"The above occupation is intermittent," Carter explains, "as since October, 1947, I have been retired for all practical purposes because of ill health. My last job before that was with the New York Regional Office of the War Assets Administration, during the three years prior to October, 1947. My spare time is now spent in gardening, greenhouse work, and a nursery business which is being developed at 'Windover.'"

At the time the last volume of the Class History was published, Carter was secretary-treasurer of the Empire Brick & Supply Company of New York. He was subsequently with the Ty Brick Corporation, also in New York, until it was liquidated, and during the war years worked for the Wright Aeronautical Corporation in Patterson, N.J. His political affiliations are Republican, and he is a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Englewood, N.J.

Carter's marriage to Jean Imbrie, daughter of William Morris and Janette Curry Imbrie, took place in Englewood on August 21, 1917. Their son, Russell James, 2d, was born July 15, 1918, and died on September 4, 1948. He had a B.A. degree from Cornell and was married on August 21, 1946, to Ruth Lehde, of Buffalo. His children are: Ann Elizabeth, Russell Edward, and Edward Imbrie.

THEODORE EDWARD CARUSO. Vice-president and general manager, Humphrey's Medicine Company, 473 Lafayette Street, New York 12, N.Y.; residence, 433 East 51st Street, New York 22.

Caruso continued with the American Home Products Corporation of New York as president and general manager until 1937 and from 1938 to 1945 was associated with the Lambert Company of New York (Listerine, prophylactic toothbrushes, and hormones) as research director. Since 1948 he has been vice-president and general manager of the Humphrey's Medicine Company and since 1946 has also been general manager of the United Witch Hazel Distillers of Long Hill, Conn., currently having a similar connection with Boericke & Runyon and the Standard Medicine Company of New York. He is a member of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension in New York and of the New York Yale Club.

"I have traveled in eighty-seven countries," he says. "Have done a lot of ocean sailing with Audrey, my daughter, on 'Riptide' and hunting with my prize spaniel, Lord Peter of Southgate. I lay claim to nothing except confession of my sins and promoting about 3,000 employees, even if I have only a few dollars left at present.

"Gertrude Hoover and I were married on April 20, 1917. We are old-fashioned and still happy together here after thirty-four years. Her parents, believe it or not, were Hoover and Smith! Our daughter, Audrey, was born June 26, 1919, and is now married to Lieutenant Ralph Hartell, living next door on Beekman Place, New York. Ralph is an account executive in advertising with Stanley Resor, Yale '01, president of the J. Walter Thompson Company, and to help us all, Audrey, a graduate of Barnard, is head buyer of Bloomingdale's department store in New York at $25,000 per year. Some beautiful daughter!"

MORRIS CASSARD, JR. President, Cassard Romano Company, Inc., furniture manufacturers, 305 East 63d Street, New York, N.Y.; residence, 130 East 75th Street, New York.

Cassard, who has been president of the Cassard Romano Company, Inc., since November, 1923, is also president and a director of the Waters Building Corporation and treasurer and a director of the 307 East 63d Realty Corporation. He received a medal for his work with the Selective Service organization, which covered a five-year period. He has been chairman of the card committee of the Union Club of New York since 1947, was a governor of the Onteora Club from 1940 to 1949, and was reelected in 1950 for three years. He belongs also to the New York Yale Club.

"Bird shooting, bridge, and golf are my special interests, and in that order," he says. "Went to Cuba twice last year for quail shooting, which was excellent. Also took a short motor trip through France, Italy, and Switzerland. We got in about ten days in Canada on woodcock and a couple of weeks in the Catskills on grouse."

Cassard, whose marriage to Therese Mercier, daughter of Henri and Jean Mercier, took place in Paris on July 1, 1916, has three children. Marie Rose, the oldest, was born in Paris in 1918 and was married in 1941 to William Sipperly; they have three children: David, Peter, and Andrew Provost. Morris, 3d, born in New York in 1924, was in the Army Air Force for three and a half years, serving in England, France, and Germany; he was in the Yale Class of 1950, but was seriously injured in an automobile accident which prevented him from finishing. The younger boy, David, who was born in New York in 1932, is now in the Class of 1954 at Yale.

KARRICK MOULTON CASTLE. With National Production Authority, Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D.C.; residence, 1862 Mintwood Place, N.W., Washington 9; permanent address, 50 Vanderbilt Avenue, New York 17, N.Y.

Castle was in the foreign funds control section of the Treasury Department from 1941 to 1943 and with the Department of State during the next six years. During 1949-50, while with the Department of the Army, he was stationed in Vienna at the headquarters of the U.S. Forces in Austria. Since his return he has been with the National Production Authority, Department of Commerce.

Castle has done quite a bit of traveling in Europe. He is a member of the Yale Club of New York City, the Army and Navy Club of Washington, and the Association of Ex-Members of Squadron A (New York). His marriage to Helen Harrison took place in New York on February 20, 1932. Mrs. Castle, who is the daughter of Frank Sperry Harrison, Yale '86 S., and Harriette Eyster Harrison, attended Wellesley and the Cornell University School of Architecture. They have no children.

JOHN WESLEY CASTLES. Limited partner, Smith, Barney & Company, investment bankers, 14 Wall Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, Schoolhouse Lane, Morristown, N.J.

Castles continued as a partner in Charles D. Barney & Company until 1938. He was a general partner in Smith, Barney & Company for the next two years and since his retirement on December 31, 1940, has been a limited partner in the firm. Since 1929 he has been a director of Thomas Young Orchids (of which Carl Beckert is president), and prior to his retirement he was also on the boards of the Glenn L. Martin Company, the Tri-Continental Corporation, Selected Industries, Inc., and the Continental Bank & Trust Company.

From 1942 to 1945 Castles was on active duty as a colonel in the Army. He served for a year as assistant chief of staff, G-2, U.S. Tank Corps, at Fort Knox, was deputy assistant chief of staff in the European theater during 1943-44, and then for a year was in the A.G.O. section of the 12th Army Group. He was awarded the Purple Heart and the Legion of Merit. He served as vice-president of the Universal Military Training Committee, Inc., and vice-chairman of the national emergency committee of the Military Training Camps Association, and he belongs to the Links and the Racquet and Tennis clubs of New York.

On August 25, 1920, Castles' marriage to Dorothea Bradford Smith, daughter of Edward C. and Anna James Smith, took place in St. Albans, Vt. They have two children: John Wesley, 3d, born June 13, 1921, and Patricia, born May 24, 1924, both in New York. The boy, who graduated from Andover in 1939, from Yale in 1943, and from the Columbia Law School in 1948, is associated with Lord, Day & Lord in New York. During the period from 1943 to 1946 he was a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve. Patricia was in the Westover Class of 1942 and the Bryn Mawr Class of 1946. She married Dean Acheson's son, David C. Acheson, Yale '43, and has two children: Eleanor Dean and David C., Jr.

RALPH THOMPSON CHAMBERLAIN. Cost accountant, Homelite Corporation, manufacturers of portable pumps, power plants, and gas and electric chain saws, East Portchester, Conn.; residence, 26 Indian Field Road, Greenwich, Conn.

From 1930 to 1937 Chamberlain was a customers' man with the Stock Exchange firm of G. M.-P. Murphy & Company. During 1941 and 1942 he was treasurer of the Fix-It Shop, Inc., of Greenwich and since 1943 has been with the Homelite Corporation. He served as an air raid warden during the war, and in 1951 he was elected a director of the Greenwich 'Taxpayers' Association for a three-year term. He has been active in the Studio Workshop Players of Greenwich for about ten years, serving as president for three years, and belongs to the Milbrook Country Club. He plays tennis and golf, is an ardent Dodger baseball fan, and says that he has always been a Republican and campaigned for Willkie.

He adds: "With such luminaries as Dean Acheson, Arch MacLeish, Tommy Tompkins, Ran Macdonald, et al., creating a lustrous backdrop for the Class of 1915 showing, it would be downright immodest for me to lay claim to any noteworthy achievements other than a wife, three daughters, and four grandchildren, who should be included in any 'all-star cast.'

"Having spent most of my first twenty-five business years in Wall Street dealing in securities until the 'drought' of the late Thirties, it was quite an experience in middle age to start a fresh career in the field of cost accounting. It might conceivably have been a very drab occupation under ordinary circumstances, but developments in the past decade, together with a lot of study and hard work, have opened up opportunities that compensate for much that was lost in the period of transition. For the last several years as a director, and this year as president, of the Greenwich-Stamford chapter, I have been active in the National Association of Cost Accountants. My job with Homelite embraces product costs, pricing, preparing bids, and negotiating government contracts."

Mrs. Chamberlain was Mildred Bouvé, daughter of Ephraim Channing and Nettie Lavinia Bouvé. They were married in Newton Highlands, Mass., on November 9, 1917. Their oldest daughter, Marion, who was born in Greenwich on November 27, 1919, graduated from Wellesley in 1941. She is the wife of Nicholas T. Ficker, Yale '37, and has two children, Ralph and Wendy. Elizabeth, the second girl, was born on July 9, 1921, in Greenwich, attended Colby College, and graduated from the Berkeley Secretarial School. She married Nicholas Ficker's brother David, Wesleyan '43, and has two children, Jane and Christopher. The youngest daughter, Jane, who was born on September 27, 1927, died on December 31, 1946.

CORNELIUS EDWARDS CLARK. Superintendent, Congregational-Christian Conference of Maine, 95 Exchange Street, Portland 3, Maine; residence, 53 Seeley Avenue, Portland 5.

Clark writes: "In 1931, the Woodfords Church in Portland, located in a residential section of the city, called me to be its minister, and Maine has been home since then. Toynbee does not think too highly of Maine, but we like it, although we vary things a little by crossing the border into New Hampshire for our vacations. The mountains are the principal attraction there, and Neil, Jr., and I have climbed many of them.

"Since 1945 I have been a peripatetic parson with a parish which covers the entire state of Maine. If we Congregationalists had bishops, I would be one so far as Maine is concerned. I'm a pastor of pastors and of the 267 churches of our fellowship in Maine. It's a varied, fascinating job, which I enjoy thoroughly.

"We continue to make our home in Portland, but the work calls me into all parts of the state, the potato land up north, the blueberry country down east, the Moosehead region with its trout and salmon, and the coast with its lobsters. The foods are good (and I've put on weight), but it's the people who raise or catch them with whom I am mainly concerned, and they are real folks!"

For five years before going to Portland Clark was minister of the Auburndale (Mass.) Congregational Church. He was a director of the Congregational-Christian Conference of Maine from 1940 to 1945, serving as its vice-president during 1944-45 and then as president from May to October of the latter year, when he became superintendent. In 1936 he received the honorary degree of L.H.D. at the University of Maine. Since 1937 he has been a trustee and secretary of the board of the Bangor Theological Seminary. Clark is a member of Deering Lodge, A.F. and A.M., of Portland and of the Scottish Rite bodies of Portland (Most Wise Master of Dunlap Chapter, Rose Croix, 1944-47), and an honorary member of the Supreme Council, A.A.S.R., N.M.J. He belongs also to the Fraternity Club of Portland.

He was married November 21, 1917, in Hartford, Conn., to Susie Elizabeth Martin, daughter of Richard P. and Edith E. Martin and sister of Richard P. Martin, Jr., '15. They have two children: Edith Hooker, born February 8, 1920, in Hartford, and Cornelius Edwards, Jr., born November 6, 1922, at Dover-Foxcroft, Maine. Edith, who graduated from the Deering High School in Portland and from Mount Holyoke in 1942, was a Girl Scout executive in Huntington, W.Va., from 1942 to 1945 and since 1946 has been a staff member of the Girl Scout Council of the District of Columbia and Montgomery County, Md. On May 13, 1950, she married Marvin Wilkerson, of Washington, and they are now living in Silver Spring, Md. Neil, Jr. also went to the Deering High School. He graduated from Yale in 1944 and from the Yale Law School in 1948, was a weather observer with the Army Air Force from 1943 to 1945, and since 1948 has been in the mortgage loan division of the Ætna Life Insurance Company in Hartford. His marriage to Patricia Steffens, Wheaton '45, took place in New Haven, June 26, 1948. They make their home in East Farmington, Conn.

FREDERICK W. CLARKE, JR. President, Stockmen's Credit Company, 1104 Woodmen of the World Building, Omaha, Nebr.; residence, 601 South 38th Avenue, Omaha.

Clarke has been president of the Stockmen's Credit Company since 1924 and for some years has also been treasurer of the Nebraska National Company. His marriage to Stella Louise Thummel, daughter of George H. and Stella B. Thummel, took place in Omaha on July 3, 1917. They have three sons, all of whom were born in Omaha: Frederick Weaver, 3d, on May 12, 1918, George Thummel on October 15, 1922, and Peter Bartruff on December 20, 1925.

JOHN PIXLEY CLEMENT. Address, Rutland, Vt.

WINSLOW SHELBY COATES. Lawyer, Locust Valley, N.Y.; residence, Bayville, N.Y.

"After a few years of a law partnership, I have practiced law alone since 1926," Coates says. "I have been a director of the Glen Cove Trust Company and the Matinecock Bank of Locust Valley for upwards of twenty years and am village attorney for nine Long Island incorporated villages—Matinecock, Muttontown, Lattingtown, Laurel Hollow, Lloyd Harbor, Cove Neck, Oyster Bay Cove, Brookville, and Upper Brookville."

During the war he took part in various civilian activities, including the Selective Service. He is a member of the New York City, Nassau County, and American Bar associations. As to other things, he comments, "I think that I might make a respectable challenge to belong to the first ten in my Class in tennis, if presently tested."

Mrs. Coates was Jane Brush, daughter of George de Forest Brush, one of the leading American portrait painters, and Mittie Taylor Brush. They were married in New York City on January 22, 1923, and have four children: Jane Allison, born January 31, 1924, Elise on March 12, 1925, Virginia on September 17, 1927, and W. Shelby, Jr., on March 4, 1929. They were all born in Bayville except Virginia, who was born in Dublin, N.H. She attended the Turkey Lane School at Cold Spring Harbor and the Nightingale-Bamford School in New York and was married in November, 1950, to John Chaffee, of Providence. Elise, who went to the same schools, was married in November, 1948, to Dr. Reese F. Alsop and has two daughters. Jane, after attending the Turkey Lane School, studied at the Savcha School at Albuquerque, N.Mex. During the war she was a nurses' aide in the North County Community Hospital at Glen Cove. Her marriage to Dr. Henry Clay Frick, 2d, took place on June 30, 1945, and she is the mother of four daughters. W. Shelby, Jr., who prepared for college at Friends Academy, the Oyster Bay High School, and Andover (he was there three years), is a member of the Class of 1952 at Yale. On their mother's side the children are direct descendants of John Davenport, one of the founders of Yale.

COLLES JOHNSTON COE. Engaged in real estate brokerage and property management; business and residence, Halsey Neck Lane, Southampton, N.Y.

From Coe in July, his attention distracted by his two dogs who were barking their heads off at passing hounds—"Nothing to say other than I spend (D.V.) the winters in Barbados, B.W.I., and the summers here at Southampton, my business being of the nature that allows me so much time off. For hobbies, I play golf, fish, and sail, in none of which I excel. These forms are rather frightening and are worse to fill out than making an after-dinner speech, so I have followed the injunctions about speeches and made my answer short."

Coe, who went into the real estate business in New York City shortly after graduation, was for some years president of Ladd & Nichols, Inc. He is commodore of the Southampton Yacht Club and belongs also to the Southampton Club, the University Club of New York, the National Golf Links, and the Royal Barbados Yacht Club. His marriage to Mrs. Lillian Norton took place on December 13, 1945.

BRADLEY LANCASTER COLEY. Surgeon, 140 East 54th Street, New York 22, N.Y.; residence, 1435 Lexington Avenue, New York 28.

Coley, who has been engaged in the private practice of surgery since 1922, has been chief surgeon of the New York Central Railroad since 1932. He is attending surgeon to the Hospital for Special Surgery, the Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospitals, and the University Hospital, visiting surgeon to Bellevue Hospital and the James Ewing Hospital, and surgeon in charge of the bone tumor department at the Memorial Hospital (where in May, 1949, he organized the Amputees' Alliance), associate professor of clinical surgery at the Cornell University Medical School, associate clinical professor of surgery at the Post-Graduate Medical College of New York University, and professor of clinical surgery at the New York Medical College, Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospitals. He is a trustee of the New York Academy of Medicine, a founder member of the American Board of Surgery, and belongs also to the American, Southern, and Eastern Surgical associations (president of the latter, 1951-52), the New York Surgical Society, the American Association for Cancer Research, the American College of Surgeons, the American Radium Society, the American Association of Surgery of Trauma, the International Surgical Association, and the Association of Medical Consultants of World War II.

Coley's book, Neoplasms of Bone, was published by Paul B. Hoeber, Inc., of New York in 1949. He is also the author of numerous papers dealing principally with the diagnosis and treatment of tumors and associated lesions of bone, and of chapters in the following books: on Hernia in Oxford Looseleaf and in A Textbook of Surgery, by Dr. F. Christopher (1937); on Bone Tumors in Cyclopedia of Medicine, by Dr. Eliason (Philadelphia), and in Advances in Surgery, edited by Dr. William D. Andrus (New York Interscience Publishers, Inc., 1949); on Treatment of Osteogenic Sarcoma in Treatment of Cancer, edited by George T. Pack, M.D., and Edward N. Livingston (Hoeber, New York, 1940), and on Malignant Tumors of Bone in Surgical Treatment of the Motor-Skeletal System, edited by Drs. F. W. Bancroft and C. R. Murray (1945). He is a Republican in politics, served as a deacon of the Brick Presbyterian Church of New York from 1941 to 1944, and belongs to the University and Century clubs of New York and the Sharon Country Club.

"Between 1922 and 1942 I was not out of the country and did practically no traveling," Coley says. "From the time I entered service in June, 1942, until I was discharged in October, 1945, I traveled extensively throughout the five Southwestern states that comprise the 8th Service Command. In March, 1945, I started for the Philippines in a Navy transport and had about five months overseas' service as surgical consultant to the 6th Army; it was necessary to fly from the island of Luzon (H.Q. of 6th Army) to most of the other important islands of the P.I. group, including Leyte, Mindau, Cebu, Negros, and Panay. This tour of foreign duty was climaxed by an emergency flight from Manila to Brooklyn, which consumed about only four days (in contrast to thirty-five days sailing out from San Francisco).

"Hobbies are fresh-water fishing and upland game hunting. Am an ardent collector of Currier and Ives prints. We spend nearly every week-end in seclusion at my home in Sharon, Conn., where I do much of my medical writing. Am particularly interested in the rehabilitation of people who have undergone amputation."

Coley, who ranked as a colonel in the Medical Corps, A.U.S., while on active duty, now has the same rank in the Reserve. Prior to going to the Philippines, his assignment was that of surgical consultant to the 8th Service Command. In 1945 he was awarded the Legion of Merit.

He was first married in June, 1918, to Laura Jay Wurts; they were subsequently divorced. His second marriage, to Phyllis Greenfield Macdonell, daughter of Donald Greenfield and Adele Rose Macdonell, took place September 5, 1922, in Surrey, England. They have three sons, all of whom were born in New York: William B., 2d, on September 21, 1923, Geoffrey Macdonell on December 28, 1926, and Bradley Lancaster, Jr., on May 21, 1930. The oldest boy prepared for college at Pomfret and graduated in 1945 from Yale, where he is now working for his Ph.D. degree in English. He served in the Army for four years. His marriage to Truman Smith's daughter, Katharine Truman Smith, took place in June, 1950. The other boys went to St. Paul's. Geoffrey graduated from Yale in 1949, after two years in the Navy, and is now in his second year at the Harvard Medical School. Bradley, Jr., is in the Yale Class of 1952.

HAROLD MAX CONE. Residence, Center Road, Easton, Conn.

"I retired in June, 1942, chiefly because I found I could work as well at home, instead of commuting to a Wall Street office," Cone says. "I was a member of the New York Stock Exchange from 1919 to 1933 and since then have been occupied with personal investments and economic forecasting.

"We lived in Scarsdale, N.Y., from 1926 to 1946 and then bought a small farm (fifteen acres) in Easton, Conn. We grow mostly fruits, vegetables, and flowers (station wagon farming, I believe it is called) and spend about eight months a year here. We're in New York City in the winter for a couple of months and then take a trip to some warmer climate. These annual winter trips are usually to the West Indies, Guatemala, Florida, or California—last winter, Jamaica, the year before St. Thomas, V.I.—next winter—who knows. My chief hobby is antique collecting, mainly old china and glassware. In connection with this, I maintain a small antique shop on my place, as a sideline hobby."

Cone served as a lieutenant in the Naval Reserve for a short period in 1942 and during the next three years was a member of the Scarsdale auxiliary police. He takes part in various civic and recreational activities in Easton, among other things being a director of the Easton Swimming Association and the Easton Sports Club. He belongs to the Grange, the American Legion, and the New York Yale Club.

His marriage to Margaret Kohn took place in New York on February 9, 1922. Their older son, John Harold, who was born May 3, 1924, graduated, cum laude, from the Westminster School in 1941. He was a bombardier with the 7th Air Force from 1942 to 1945 and following his release from service entered New York University. He graduated there in 1947 and that year married Katherine Trager. They have two sons: Peter, born in 1948, and Douglas in 1950. The family lives in Los Angeles. The younger boy, Robert E., born June 4, 1926, also attended Westminster, and, after service in the Army Air Force from 1944 to 1946, he is now a radio writer and has done scripts for both C.B.S. and N.B.C. He is unmarried and lives in New York.

TOM JAMES CONINE. President, Conine Nursery Company, Inc.; business and residence, 24 South Elliot Street, Stratford, Conn.

Conine says that he has practically retired from business, although he is still president of the Conine Nursery Company, with which he became associated upon graduating from Yale, and also has another business under his own name which deals in horticultural supplies. He adds, "I am very much interested in boats and boating, have two boats, and generally spend my summers at Block Island, R.I., on my boat, loafing and swordfishing. During the last two summers there has been a great scarcity of swordfish in those waters."

Conine was married on September 27, 1919, in Stratford to Edith Hobson Luce, daughter of Henry L. and Rachel M. Luce. There are two children in the family: Thomas Edmund, born on July 20, 1920, and Barbara Ann on November 30, 1928, both in Stratford. Thomas, who served in World War II for four years, was married in September, 1950, to Isabelle Johnson, of Stratford, and has a son, Thomas Edmund, Jr.

THOMAS HILARY CORNELL. Residence, Buck Lane, Haverford, Pa.

Cornell doesn't tell us a thing about what he has been doing, devoting his report instead to his family. He was married in Pittsburgh, Pa., on February 3, 1920, to Truth Madeline Binns, Wellesley '19, daughter of Edward Hussey and Cecelia Kerrigan Binns. They have three children: Edward Hussey Binns, born on March 1, 1922, in New York City; Truth Margaret Redette, born on August 30, 1928, also in New York; and Thomas Hilary Maher, born on October 19, 1931, in Bryn Mawr, Pa. The older boy spent some time at Yale with the Class of 1945 and graduated from Haverford College with a B.A. degree in 1949. During the war he was a captain in the Army Air Force, flying with the 15th Air Force in Italy. His marriage to Charlene Dearen took place on October 9, 1943, and they have a three-year-old son, Thomas Hilary, 2d, and a daughter, Rebecca Charlene, aged ten months. Truth, who was married on September 16, 1947, to Oskar H. Pedersen, has two children: Gyda Marghretta, aged three, and John Rhode, aged ten months. Thomas is a member of the Yale Class of 1954.

RAYMOND EDWIN COX. Residence, 2346 S Street, N.W., Washington 8, D.C.

Cox retired from the U.S. Foreign Service in 1946. Until then, he says, he had been on assignment abroad or in Washington, as directed by the Department of State. He is a director of the National Symphony Orchestra Association, a trustee of the Washington Cathedral Choral Society, and a member of the Metropolitan, Alibi, and University clubs of Washington, the Chevy Chase (Md.) Club, and the Yale Club of New York.

Cox was married in Philadelphia on January 31, 1929, to Margaret Berwind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Berwind. Their son, Alan Berwind, who was born in London, England, on March 19, 1930, graduated from St. Paul's School in 1948 and is now a member of the Class of 1952 at Yale.

GEORGE PATTERSON CRANDALL. Teacher, Westminster School, Simsbury, Conn.; home address, Westfield, N.Y.

During the period from 1930 to 1937 Crandall was president of the National Bank of Westfield (with which he had become connected upon his graduation from Yale) and the National Bank of Fredonia, N.Y. He was vice-president of the Union Trust Company of Jamestown, N.Y., for the next six years and then entered the teaching field. He taught at the Darrow School, New Lebanon, N.Y., for a year and since September, 1944, has been at Westminster. Since 1925 he has been a trustee of the Patterson Library in Westfield, and he was a vestryman of St. Peter's Episcopal Church there from 1930 to 1945.

On June 29, 1915, his marriage to Nellie van Buren, daughter of James Lyman and Julia N. van Buren, took place in Dunkirk, N.Y. They have four children: Prudence, born April 22, 1916, in Dunkirk, Faith on March 17, 1918, at West Palm Beach, Fla., George Patterson, Jr., on May 1, 1921, in Westfield, and Peter van Buren on May 16, 1923, also in Westfield. The older girl, who married Frank W. Jarvis, Princeton '32, has two children: Frank W., 3d, born in 1939, and Faith in 1941. Faith was in the Vassar Class of 1940 and served as a lieutenant (j.g.) in the Waves during the war. She and her husband, Gordon K. Scott, Harvard '38, have two children: Peter, born in 1949, and Charity in 1951. George Patterson, Jr., Williams '44, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal for his service as a Marine fighter pilot (captain, U.S.M.C.). He married Joan De Motte, Mount Holyoke '43, and has two children: Hope, born in 1948, and George Patterson, 3d, in 1950. Peter graduated from Yale in 1950.

HENRY VICTOR CRAWFORD. Counsel, Nelson, Healy, Baillie & Burke, lawyers, 52 Wall Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, Lands End, Stony Point, Va.

Crawford writes: "The only achievement I can report is in the attainment of such peace of mind as can reasonably be expected in this world of undeclared and unending war. The means to this end was my decision to devote a minimum amount of time to my professional affairs in New York and a maximum amount to my farm in Virginia, where I am raising Aberdeen Angus cattle in a small way.

"My program has resolved itself into a five-day month so far as New York activities go, and after some thirty years of a fairly strenuous law practice, this limited exposure seems to be sufficient and, of course, makes me appreciate more fully each month on my return home, the great satisfactions to be derived from living and working in the country. Hours which were formerly spent in commuting from home to office are now available for music and reading or just plain enjoyment of the simple life. Peace—to the extent that a man can find it today—it's wonderful!"

The above will no doubt stir up a lot of wishful thinking on the part of a number of other members of the Class.

Crawford continued as a partner in the New York law firm of Hunt, Hill & Betts until 1934. He was a partner in Crawford & Sprague for the next ten years and then in Crawford & Parsons until January, 1949. It would appear that his subsequent five-day-a-month New York program must be rather crowded, for in addition to his connection with Nelson, Healy, Baillie & Burke as counsel, he is vice-president, secretary, and a director of the Hartol Petroleum Corporation and Electric Ferries, Inc., secretary and a director of the Peabody Engineering Corporation, and a director of Green & Hewitt, Inc. (business management), all of Manhattan, and, in addition, is secretary and a director of Commonwealth Motors, Inc., of Richmond, Va. While actively engaged in practice, Crawford specialized in admiralty and corporation law. During the war he served on the Montclair (N.J.)

Draft Advisory Board. He mentions that he has indulged in some European travel, but doesn't say just when.

His marriage to Ruth Andrus, daughter of C. Walton and Pauline F. Andrus, took place in Montclair on May 4, 1917. Their daughter, Kathleen Denniston, who was born in Montclair on March 4, 1918, attended Chatham Hall, Kent Place, and Smith College. She lives in Arlington, Vt., with her husband, George Hughes, an artist, and three daughters.

Their son, Henry Victor, 3d, who was born December 11, 1919, in Montclair, graduated from the Kent School and then attended Yale with the Class of 1942. He left after his Junior year and in August, 1941, enlisted in the Army. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Field Artillery and subsequently served in England and France with the 30th Division. On July 26, 1944, he was killed in action and was buried in the U.S. military cemetery at St. Laurent, France. For his services as a forward observer he was awarded the Silver Star. Henry's marriage to Diana Adams, of Montclair, took place in June, 1942.

WILLIAM WILLARD CROCKER. Chairman of the board, Crocker First National Bank, San Francisco 20, Calif.; residence, Sky Farm, Burlingame, Calif.

Crocker, who has been with the Crocker First National Bank since 1920, became president in 1936 and chairman of the board in January, 1950. He is a director of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company, the Southern Pacific Company, the Matson Navigation Company, the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company, the Pacific Lighting Corporation, the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and also of the San Francisco Community Chest. He is chairman of the board of trustees of the San Francisco Museum of Art and a member of the Chapter of Grace Cathedral. Crocker belongs to the Pacific-Union and Bohemian clubs of San Francisco and the Knickerbocker Club of New York.

He was first married on June 20, 1923, in San Mateo, Calif., to Ruth Mary Hobart. They were divorced in 1949. His second marriage, to Gertrude Hopkins, took place in Sacramento on September 23, 1949. His son, William Henry, who was born in San Francisco on August 20, 1924, graduated from Yale in 1950. His daughter, Diana Hobart, born in San Francisco, September 26, 1926, attended Radcliffe, where she graduated in 1948. Her marriage to John Redington took place in San Mateo on May 7, 1949, and they have a son, David Crocker, born March 23, 1950.

WILLIAM DICKSON CUNNINGHAM. Associate, Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, lawyers, 14 Wall Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 255 West Stearns Street, Rahway, N.J.

Cunningham remained with the law firm of Kellogg, Emery & Inness-Brown until 1933, was with Lynch, Cahn & Weed the following year, and then with McGuire & McGuire for a brief period in 1934 before becoming associated with Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft. He specializes in estate and real estate law and is a member of the New York and New Jersey bars. Cunningham, whose home has been in Rahway since 1927, has served as president of the Board of Education for the past five years. He has been an elder of the Presbyterian Church for nine years, a member of the board of trustees for eight (president, 1944), and also superintendent of the Sunday school for eight years. During the war he served as an air raid warden and as a Red Cross supervisor. He has been a trustee of the Vail-Deane School for Girls of Elizabeth, N.J., since 1939 and vice-president of the board for the past two years. He is a Republican.

Tennis is still an absorbing interest. Since 1948 he has been president of the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association (of which he was secretary from 1943 to 1946 and second vice-president in 1947) and a member of the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association. He has twice (1940 and 1941) been semi-finalist in the National Veterans (45 years of age and over) singles championship and in 1942 was the finalist in the National Veterans doubles championship. In 1949, 1950, and 1951 he was captain of the United States Veterans Team playing in the Gordon Trophy Matches against Canada.

Mrs. Cunningham, who was Rebecca Chase, daughter of Edward Sanford and Annie Adams Chase, died on March 26, 1938. They were married in Rahway on August 31, 1922. Their older daughter, Nancy Chase, who was born January 22, 1925, in New York, graduated from the Vail-Deane School in 1942 and from Wellesley four years later. On January 21, 1950, she was married in New York to John West Kirkham, Yale '21. The second daughter, Barbara Moffat, was born April 5, 1927, in New York, graduated from the Vail-Deane School in 1944, and in 1948 received a B.A. degree at Goucher College, where she was president of the Athletic Association and tennis champion of the college. She is engaged to F. Stanley Porter, Jr., Princeton

'48, of Baltimore. Cunningham's son, William Dickson, Jr., who was born March 20, 1933, in New York, graduated from the Rahway High School last June and is now a Freshman at Yale. He was captain of his high school tennis team in 1950 and 1951 and also a member of the 1951 basketball team.

PAUL DAILY. Associate professor of finance, DePaul University; office, 64 East Lake Street, Chicago, Ill.; residence, 688 Euclid Avenue, Glen Ellyn, Ill.

Daily writes: "I have been a member of the DePaul faculty since 1928. Previously I was engaged in farm management." He was promoted to associate professor of finance at DePaul in 1946. In 1938 he received the degree of M.B.A. at the University of Chicago.

Daily was married some years ago to Helen Morgan, daughter of William Harlowe and Eleanor Platt Morgan. Their son, Roger Morgan, who was born in Chicago on July 7, 1932, was in the Freshman Class at Yale during 1950-51. He enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps last October.

FREDERIC WILLIAM DAUCH. First assistant tax commissioner, State of Connecticut; office, State Tax Department, 470 Capitol Avenue, Hartford, Conn.; residence, 1 Castlewood Road, West Hartford.

In February, 1935, Dauch gave up the general practice of law in Waterbury, Conn., in which he had been engaged since 1919, to become assistant attorney general of Connecticut. He served in that capacity until September, 1937, when he was appointed deputy tax commissioner. In 1946 he was advanced to first assistant tax commissioner.

On October 15, 1925, Dauch was married in Waterbury to Alice L. Hughes, daughter of William and Beatrice Hughes. They have two children: Frederic William, Jr., born December 8, 1926, and Alicia Ann, born March 21, 1937, both in Waterbury. The boy received his preparatory education at The Taft School, graduated from Yale in 1950, and is now employed as a salesman by the Napier Company of Meriden, Conn. While in college, he won his major "Y" in track. Alicia is a student at the Oxford School in West Hartford.

STEPHEN RINTOUL DAVENPORT. Vice-president in charge of production, Yardley of London, Inc. (cosmetics and perfumes), 600 Palisades Avenue, Union City, N.J.; residence, Courview Road, Willowmere, Riverside, Conn.

Davenport, who was formerly with the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company, has for some time been with Yardley of London, Inc., as vice-president in charge of production and a member of the board of directors. He has served one term as a town meeting representative in Greenwich and during the war was an air raid warden. He belongs to the Riverside Yacht Club and the Yale Club of New York.

Davenport's marriage to Marianna Bonnell, daughter of Henry H. and Ethel Chase Bonnell, took place in Philadelphia on October 13, 1928. There are four boys in the family: Henry Bonnell, born in September, 1929, Stephen Rintoul, Jr., in January, 1931, Samuel Chase in March, 1933, and John Leverett in August, 1936. Henry graduated from Yale with a B.A. degree in June, 1951, and in August was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force. Stephen, Jr., is in the Class of 1953 at Oberlin, Samuel a Freshman at Amherst, and the youngest boy a member of the Class of 1954 at the Kent School.

MAURICE REA DAVIE. William Graham Sumner professor of sociology, Yale University; office, 133 Hall of Graduate Studies; residence, 126 Ridgewood Avenue, Hamden 14, Conn.

"Simple and of even tenor are the annals of the college professor"—thus Davie. "Classes come and go, and it is hard to remember dates (especially with increasing age)—one year runs into another. It is a very busy, though not dramatic, life, and on the whole very satisfying. It would be still more enjoyable if the American curse of over-organization, with innumerable committee meetings and excessive paper-work, had not extended to the university and destroyed what little remained of a sense of leisure. Action is replacing thinking. Even the university is succumbing to the false notion that if you are as busy as hell you are accomplishing something. My chief regret is that I haven't been able financially to retire so as to escape the feverish activity and be free to study and contemplate. The only memorable peaks in the life of this teacher are sabbatical leaves, with the pleasure of travel or the creative joy of writing a book.

"The course has also been steady and rewarding in family life. My one and only wife and I have been blessed with three fine children who have presented no problems, have done well in school and college, have married wisely and happily, and thus far have resided in New Haven or not far away."

Davie has been on the Yale faculty since 1921, starting as assistant professor and becoming associate professor in 1927 and professor in 1932. In 1942, upon the retirement of Professor Keller, he succeeded to the William Graham Sumner chair of sociology. He has been director of graduate studies in sociology since 1932 and chairman of the Sociology Department since 1937 and is a Fellow of Calhoun College. Since 1948 he has been the editor of the American Sociological Review, and he is the author of the following books which have appeared since our last Class record was published: The Evolution of War (Yale University Press, 1929; translated into French and published by Payot in Paris, 1931); A Study in Professional Education (joint author; Western Reserve University Press, 1930); Problems of City Life (John Wiley & Sons, 1932); World Immigration (Macmillan Company, 1936); The Refugees Are Now Americans (joint author; Public Affairs Committee, 1945); What Shall We Do About Immigration? (Public Affairs Committee, 1946); Refugees in America (Harper & Brothers, 1947); and Negroes in American Society (McGraw-Hill Book Company, 1949). Davie edited Sumner Today, published by the Yale University Press in 1940, and he was the co-editor with A. G. Keller of Essays of William Graham Sumner (two volumes; Yale University Press, 1934) and has contributed some fifty-odd articles to various professional journals and symposia.

He has served on the National Committee for Mental Hygiene since 1924 and on the advisory committee of the National Council on Naturalization and Citizenship since 1938, and he was secretary of the Connecticut Child Welfare Association from 1924 to 1932 and president for the next eight years. He has also been a member of the State Commission on Child Welfare (1931-33), the State Planning Board (1935-37), and the State Public Welfare Council (1936-43). Davie has been on numerous committees of the American Sociological Society, and he belongs also to the Eastern Sociological Society (president, 1940-41), the American Association of University Professors (president, Yale chapter, 1931-32), the Masaryk Sociological Society of Czechoslovakia (corresponding member since 1934), Sigma Xi (to which he was elected in 1935), the Graduates and Faculty clubs of New Haven, the New York Yale Club, and the High Lane Club of Hamden. From 1942 to 1945 he was president of the board of the Prospect Hill School in New Haven and during the war served on the research committee of the New Haven Defense Council. He is a Congregationalist, independent in politics, but a firm supporter of Dean Acheson.

Painting and hiking are his hobbies. He has done a good bit of traveling—to Europe in the summer of 1935 (England, Scotland, France, Belgium, and the Netherlands) and again for his sabbatical year (1937), when he motored in Scotland, England, Wales, France (he was a delegate to the International Congress of Sociology in Paris), Belgium, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, Switzerland, and Italy; touring in the United States—every state except Florida and the Pacific Coast—in the summers of 1946 and 1950.

Mrs. Davie was Louise Stewart Apple, daughter of James L. and Margaret Iola Stewart Apple. They were married in Cleveland, Ohio, on September 19, 1917, and their children were all born in New Haven: James Stewart on January 24, 1925, Dorothy Louise on November 26, 1927, and Stephen Froude on July 26, 1930. The older boy, who graduated from Choate in 1942 and from Yale with the Class of 1945W, took his Ph.D. degree in sociology at Yale in 1951 and is now an instructor at Princeton. He served in World War II, being wounded in the battle of Leipzig. On July 30, 1949, he married Helen Douglas Milroy, Wellesley '48, daughter of W. Hamilton Milroy, Yale '20 S. Dorothy, who prepared for college at the Prospect Hill School, graduated from Wellesley in 1948. She was married on June 17, 1948, to Gilbert T. Brown, Yale '49, and is currently taking graduate work in psychology at Wesleyan University, where her husband is teaching economics. Stephen graduated from the Hopkins Grammar School in 1948 and is now in the Yale Class of 1952.

MANVEL HUMFREY DAVIS. Member, Johnson, Davis, Thomson, VanDyke & Fairchild, lawyers, 515-A Commerce Trust Building, Kansas City 6, Mo.; residence, 1233 West 63d Terrace, Kansas City 5.

Davis, who has been engaged in the practice of law since 1920, has been with the above firm for some time. Since 1936 he has been a director and a member of the executive committee of the Central Surety & Insurance Corporation. He served in the Missouri State Senate from 1928 to 1932 and in 1940 was the Republican party candidate for United States Senator from Missouri, but was defeated by Harry S. Truman. Davis is a member of the Second Presbyterian Church of Kansas City, of which he was a trustee from 1938 to 1942, and belongs to the American and Kansas City Bar associations, the Lawyers Association of Kansas City, the University, Kansas City Country, and Kansas City clubs, and the New York Yale Club.

He was on active duty as a Reserve officer in the Army Air Force from June, 1942, to April, 1945, when he was released with the rank of lieutenant colonel. He was assigned to the 1st Bombardment Wing at Tucson, Ariz., and went to England in July, 1942, with the unit, which, as a part of the 8th Air Force, conducted bombing operations from August of that year until the end of the war. Davis was awarded the Bronze Star.

He was married February 15, 1933, to Genevieve E. Marcell, daughter of Louis Lee and Mary V. Marcell. They have three sons, all of whom were born in Kansas City: John Marcell on October 11, 1933, Louis Marcell on July 17, 1936, and Richard Manvel on January 1, 1939.

CHARLES KENNETH DEMING. Physician, 66 Trumbull Street, New Haven, Conn.; residence, 244 Bradley Street, New Haven.

For the past thirty-two years, in addition to carrying on his private practice, Deming has been connected with the Yale University Department of Health. His political affiliations are Republican, and, as to other things, he says, "At this age my interest is just fading away."

Deming, who was married in New Haven, June 15, 1918, to Laura Lewis Rice, daughter of William H. R. and May Sargent Rice, has five children, all of whom were born in New Haven. The oldest, John Nelson, born March 17, 1919, graduated from Andover in 1937 and from Yale in 1941. He served in the Infantry for four years, being awarded two Purple Hearts, and now works for the Southern New England Telephone Company. In 1948 he married Anna S. Huntington and has a son, Ellsworth Huntington, born July 22, 1950.

The oldest daughter, Elizabeth Lewis, born December 26, 1922, graduated from the University of Vermont in 1943. She married William J. Goeller, who served as a lieutenant in the Air Force in the Pacific, and they are living in Wilmington with their three daughters: Ann, born April 3, 1945, Amy on August 8, 1946, and Alison on March 8, 1949. The second girl, Catherine Virginia, born February 23, 1924, graduated from the University of Rochester in 1945 and took her M.S. degree at Columbia in 1948. She was married that year to Vincent Roy Mikeshock, who served in the Navy in the Pacific and is now an undergraduate at Columbia. Catherine is a social worker at St. Christopher's in Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. The youngest girl, Linda, who was born July 1, 1926, is also a graduate of the University of Rochester (1946). She and her husband, Kenneth L. Gosner, both work at the Newark (N.J.) Museum; they were married in 1948. Deming's younger son, William Acker Rice, was born November 27, 1928. He graduated from The Gunnery in 1947 and from Middlebury in 1951.

THOMAS BAYNE DENÈGRE. Representative, First Bank of Biloxi, Biloxi, Miss.; residence, 623 East Beach Street, Biloxi.

Denègre, who has been a representative of the First Bank of Biloxi since 1947, has given us the following summary of his previous connections in the period since 1930: "Moore, Hyams and Company, investment bankers, New Orleans, La.; Public Works Administration, Washington, D.C.; Fleischman Distilling Company (Louisiana representative); Quartermaster Office, Keesler Field (A.A.F.), Miss.; A.A.F. Supply and Maintenance, Keesler Field; Post Exchange, Keesler Field." He belongs to the Biloxi Yacht Club, the Boston Club of New Orleans, the Cosmos Club of Washington, and the Elks.

Denègre's marriage to Alma Baldwin, daughter of Albert Baldwin, Jr., and Helen Hardie Baldwin, took place in New Orleans on October 18, 1917. They have three children: Alma Baldwin, born on September 6, 1918, Thomas Bayne, Jr., on February 20, 1920, and George on October 20, 1923. Thomas Bayne, Jr., served as a lieutenant commander in the Navy during the war. He is married and has two children: Thomas Bayne, 3d, and John. Alma, who married Richard C. Keenan, has five sons: Richard C., Jr., George, Peter C., Baldwin, and Bayne C.

WILLIAM JAMES DENNEHY. Physician, 158 Whitney Avenue, New Haven, Conn.; residence, 600 Prospect Street, New Haven.

"I just do a doctor's job," says Dennehy. "Chief hobby is a research clinic in multiple sclerosis in St. Raphael's Hospital of which I am head. Hope we have added a few grains of knowledge to the study of this difficult disease.

"Spend the summer at home in Madison. Ted Blair, Tad Jones, Joe Crowley, Charles Kullman, and Mal Stevens are other Yalies in this group. We give a steak barbecue to the football squad in September at Blair's house. Seventy kids, plus Hickman and Eddie O'Donnell, can and do eat 150 pounds of steak. Nothing left for the sea gulls."

Dennehy, who has been practicing in New Haven since 1919, specializes in internal medicine. In addition to the clinic referred to above, he has an appointment as attending physician in medicine at St. Raphael's. During World War II he served on New Haven induction boards and was also active in the civilian defense medical organization. He belongs to the Madison Beach Club and the New Haven Country Club.

His marriage to Isabel Frances Hughson, daughter of Thomas and Isabel Hughson, took place in New Haven on November 23, 1927. Their daughter, Delma Isabel, who was born on July 28, 1930, graduated from the Ethel Walker School and in 1951 from Vassar, cum laude. She is now with Life Magazine in New York.

ALBERT BLAKE DICK, JR. Chairman of the board, A. B. Dick Company, manufacturers of office equipment and supplies, 5700 West Touhy Avenue, Chicago 31, Ill.; residence, 1050 North Green Bay Road, Lake Forest, Ill.

Since October, 1947, Dick has been chairman of the board of the A. B. Dick Company, of which he was vice-president and treasurer until 1934 and subsequently president and treasurer—"have tried to retire since November, 1947, with only a modicum of success but improving all the time." He is a director of the Northern Trust Company, Marshall Field & Company, and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, all of Chicago, the First National Bank of Lake Forest, the Frank G. Hough Company of Libertyville, Ill., and the New York Central Railroad, as well as of the First State Pawnors Society (that's certainly an intriguing name), the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, and the John Crerar Library. In addition, he is second vice-president and a trustee of the Chicago Natural History Museum, president and a director of the Hospital Association of Lake Forest, a member of the board of managers of the Presbyterian Hospital of Chicago, and a trustee of the John G. Shedd Aquarium. Dick belongs to the Chicago, Attic, and Commercial clubs of Chicago, the Onwentsia Club of Lake Forest, the Links Club of New York, and the Graduates Club of New Haven. He is a Republican and a Presbyterian.

On April 21, 1917, he was married in Lake Forest to Helen Aldrich, daughter of Frederick C. and Gertrude N. Aldrich. His son, Albert B., 3d, who was born March 10, 1918, "was commissioned in April, 1942, an ensign in the Navy and was stationed with the Bureau of Ordnance, Navy Department, in Washington. In 1943 he was transferred to the Submarine Patrol Base at Bar Harbor, Maine, and during 1944 and 1945 was stationed on the U.S.S. Detroit as navigator, serving in the Pacific area. He was discharged in March, 1946, with the rank of lieutenant and has since been promoted to the rank of lieutenant commander in the Reserve. He was married in 1940 to Elisabeth York, of Ithan, Pa., and they have three sons." Dick's daughter, Helen, born April 9, 1920, is now Mrs. Beckwith R. Bronson.

ERNEST BENHAM DIELMAN. Artist; address, Box 4, R.D. 71, Danbury, Conn.

Dielman writes: "I have painted and done sculpture in stone in Paris for twelve years. Exhibited annually in Salon des Tuilleries, Paris, during that time. Undertook to learn lost art of egg-yolk tempera painting as done in the trecento and quattrocento, as it is far more beautiful and also more lasting than any other kind. Studied with an Italian artist in Siena—also in Florence, London, and New Haven.

"I prefer to live in Europe, as it is far more interesting than this country. Dislike the mechanization, regimentation, hurry, and business of this land; amen."

Dielman adds that in 1946 and 1948 he traveled in Scotland, England, and France, as well as in Italy. His marriage to Susan Dows Herter, daughter of Christian Archibald and S. D. Herter Dakin, took place in New York City on February 8, 1918. Their oldest son, Steven, who was born on February 19, 1919, died on June 19, 1923. There are three other boys in the family: the twins, Frederick and Oliver, who were born on May 4, 1920, and Robert, born September 23, 1925. Oliver and Robert are both married; the former has a daughter and son and Robert a daughter.

JOHN LOCKE DOGGETT. Residence, Apartment 61, 250 Riverside Drive, New York 25, N.Y.

Doggett writes: "I continued the practice of law with my firm in Jacksonville until 1946, when I retired and came to New York City to live. In Jacksonville, I served on the boards of the Florida Country Club, the Florida Yacht Club, and the Seminole Club (president also) and was a member of the Ribault Club, the Tunuquana Country Club, and the Riding Club.

"As to civic work, I served on the executive committee of the Community Chest for three years, as adviser to the Civic Music Association and the Junior League, as a director of the local U.S.O. Council and the Jacksonville World War II Service Committee, as president of the Travelers Aid Society (1943 through 1945), as chairman of the Brazilian post-war trade committee of the Chamber of Commerce, as Yale alumni representative for Florida, and as president of the Harvard Law School alumni group in Florida.

"Illness caused my retirement from law. Miriam and I came to New York to reside so that I could undergo adequate medical treatment and be with our younger daughter. I skip three years of sickness, as I have emerged successfully and again enjoy excellent health. But I sure was convinced many times that I was a gon'er!

"Here in New York I have done research work; have acted as business and financial consultant and indulged in a bit of private writing. I hold a U.S. Civil Service rating as administrative officer. I shall probably receive a U.S. Government assignment here in New York City shortly, or it could take me into foreign service. While awaiting this, I might say that the Indian philosopher who sat under a tree for twenty years was just a busybody compared to me!"

Mrs. Doggett, who was Miriam Lee Jones, daughter of Robert Lee and Nancy Davis Jones, was the founder and first president of the Jacksonville Junior League. They were married in Jacksonville on June 27, 1921, and their daughters were both born there, Nancy Lee on January 22, 1922, and Miriam Locke on August 27, 1926. Nancy Lee attended the Hartridge School in Plainfield, N.J., and the Robert E. Lee High School in Jacksonville and in 1943 received a B.A. degree at Florida State College for Women, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta and the Tarpon Club (filmed by Grantland Rice). She made her début in 1941 and during the war did aircraft drafting at the Naval Air Station at Jacksonville. On June 16, 1943, she was married in Jacksonville to Richard Phillip Walker, who served in the Pacific as a chief pharmacist's mate on the U.S.S. Enterprise. They are living in Palo Alto, Calif., with their three children: Richard Lance, born November 13, 1945, Linda Lee on December 18, 1947, and Sylvia Adrian on March 13, 1949. Nancy Lee is a member of the Junior League and the Peninsular Volunteers. Miriam (Winkie) graduated from the Robert E. Lee High School in 1944 and spent the next two years at the University of Alabama, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta and the swimming team and a cheer leader. She left college to enter public relations work in New York with the Russell Birdwell organization as an account executive. Miriam, who made her début in Jacksonville in 1946, was married in New York on October 22, 1948, to Roberto Barbour, of Bogota, Colombia. They have two sons: John Roberto, born September 8, 1949, and Richard Ross on December 22, 1951. The family lives in Port Washington, Long Island.

NORMAN VAUX DONALDSON. Director (president and treasurer), Yale University Press, 143 Elm Street, New Haven 7, Conn.; residence, 14 Briar Lane, New Haven 11.

"Like many who responded to Jack Ely's appeal for the last Class book, I looked back for the first time in twenty years to see what I had written then," says Donaldson. "I find that what I said would be about right today with a few changes. Instead of the phrase 'approaching forty' it must now be 'past sixty,' but I still find life 'not half bad,' am still working at the Yale University Press, still consider New Haven about the best place in the world in which to live, and still have enough illusions and faith in human nature to keep me from feeling old.

"Perhaps this indicates little progress in twenty years, and if so I must accept it. However, this is not to say my life is the same as it was in 1930; it is very different. To live alone after being married nearly thirty years means a fundamental change and adjustment. This change came to me in May, 1946. But I have two children and two grandchildren not far away, and that helps immensely. There are also many friends and the interest and demands of my job. I live in the same small house we built in 1921, and I putter about it and about the garden when there is time. For recreation I like fly fishing, and a group of us, including Ken Deming, 'the Silver Doctor,' continue to lease a few miles of stream in Killingworth which we stock each year with some of Pierre Hazard's speckled beauties. Also, I play an occasional game of so-called golf on some easy, not the Yale, course. The best golf—from the point of view of laughs, not score—comes in the summer on Chebeague Island, Casco Bay, Maine, where I often go for a few weeks and where Carl Beckert, our own Orchid King, has been blasting bunkers for many a moon. Last summer he got so 'hot' one morning that he won our nine-hole match, but I am glad to say I still have my clubs, temptation to the contrary.

"At the Yale University Press I am now the oldest employee in time of service and hold the title of director [since October, 1950]. It just goes to show that it pays to stick around, but when I say 'pays' I am not speaking in Wall Street terms, for publishing, and especially academic publishing, is no gold mine. The rewards come in other ways. Being in New Haven and connected with Yale, to which I am wholly devoted, is, I confess, a great and continuing satisfaction. Looking at the world today, I am, like every one else, deeply disturbed and worried about its present state. I do not even pretend to know the answers, but I try to give my confidence and support to those in responsible positions who, like Dean Acheson, are trying to the best of their great ability to solve our problems. What the future holds for us we can only guess, and I think it is interesting to speculate on what those who are still here will write for our next Class book."

During 1939-40 Donaldson was president of the Association of American University Presses. He is a member of the Graduates Club and the Dissenters of New Haven and the Yale, Century, and Publishers' Lunch clubs of New York. He was a civilian air raid warden during the war.

Mrs. Donaldson's maiden name was Hildegard Nash. They were married in Baltimore on April 11, 1917, and her death occurred on May 1, 1946. The children were born in New Haven, Virginia Louise on January 31, 1918, and Harry Nash on March 16, 1920. Virginia has studied for the theatre, is a member of Actors Equity, has been in summer stock, and acted professionally for the past five years; her stage name is Eve Hastings. Harry, who attended Rensselaer, subsequently worked at Glenn Martin and Chance Vought. He is now with the Albany Designing Company and living in Westerlo, N.Y. His wife was Julie Felter of that place. Their children are: Carole Lynn, age 7, and Norman Edward, age 3.

ARTHUR GRANT DONNELLY. Partner, Vosseler & Donnelly, lawyers, 57 William Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 169 East 78th Street, New York 21.

"I have nothing much to say," Donnelly wrote, "except that I have enjoyed the practice of law, my home life, and recreations." He continued as a member of the law firm of Shiland, Hedges & Pelham until 1938, practiced alone during the next two years, and has since been in partnership with Ed Vosseler of our Class. He belongs to the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the American Bar Association, the New York Yale Club, and the Advertising Men's Post, No. 209, of the American Legion. During the second World War he did air warden service and also canteen work at St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church. Sailing and painting have now taken the place of more strenuous recreations.

Donnelly's marriage to Elizabeth Norton took place in South Orange, N.J., on May 18, 1925. She is the daughter of Lawrence A. and Louise B. Norton and a sister of Larry Norton, '15. They have no children.

ROBERT SEWALL DuBOIS. Principal highway design engineer, Bureau of Public Roads, 1440 Columbia Pike, Arlington, Va.; residence, 6117 32d Place, N.W., Washington 15, D.C.

DuBois starts off by saying, "I had majored in geology, but after a summer course with Harvard in Montana, I decided not to continue that subject, so I returned to Yale for civil engineering, receiving a Ph.B. with the Class of 1916 S." He then gives the following summary: "Bridge designer, New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, 1916-17; private, corporal, and second lieutenant, U.S. Army, mostly at Pershing's headquarters, 1917-19; bridge engineer for Colorado State Highway Department, 1919-25; chief bridge designer, New Jersey State Highway Department, 1925-33; highway design engineer, U.S. Bureau of Public Roads (Skyline Drive, Blue Ridge Parkway, etc.), 1933 to date; in U.S. Army, 1940-45 (as major, lieutenant colonel, and colonel, Corps of Engineers; corps area engineer, and service command engineer SHAEF [civil affairs]; now colonel, Officers Reserve)."

"I have yet to come across any one who had duty at both Pershing's headquarters and at Eisenhower's," he adds—and we haven't either. Cryptoanalysis and gardening are what he turns to for recreation. He is a Mason and belongs to the American Cryptogram Association, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Society of Military Engineers, and the American Legion.

On January 16, 1923, his marriage to Mabel Clark, daughter of George Irving and Martha Hartshorne Clark, took place in Denver. Their son, Robert Clark, who was born in Jersey City, N.J., on March 21, 1927, graduated in mechanical engineering from Massachusetts Tech in 1948 and is now working for the Brown Instrument Division of the Minneapolis-Honeywell Company on the development of new gauging equipment.

THOMAS MCEWING DUNCAN. Political adviser to the American Federation of Labor, 1525 H Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

Duncan continued as executive assistant to the Mayor of Milwaukee through 1929. He had been elected to the Wisconsin Legislature in 1922 and was reëlected in 1924 and again in 1926. Two years later he was elected to the State Senate for a four-year term and during this period was chairman of the joint committee on finance, which prepared the state budget and the tax laws necessary to balance the budget. He was also the author of the measure levying a tax on the privilege of paying dividends which was declared unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court by a vote of 6-1 and declared constitutional by the United States Supreme Court by a vote of 4-3.

Duncan served as executive assistant to the Governor of Wisconsin from January, 1931, to January, 1933, and again from January, 1935, to July, 1938. In the meantime (1929) he had become publisher of a daily newspaper, the Milwaukee Leader and Post, and continued in this connection until 1940. He was with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation of Washington from June, 1939, until the end of 1947 and since 1948 has been employed as a political adviser to the American Federation of Labor by Labor's League for Political Education. He took part in the 1948 and 1950 campaigns in various states.

While in the Wisconsin Legislature, Duncan was the author of the first law in the United States which banned the Yellow Dog contract (1929), of the Wisconsin Labor Code similar to the Norris-LaGuardia Act which was passed in Wisconsin before the Norris-LaGuardia Act was passed in Congress, and of the revised Wisconsin law (1931) regulating public utilities which was prepared largely by David Lilienthal, at that time chairman of the Wisconsin Public Services Commission, and was introduced by Duncan as a member of the State Senate. He also led the movement to set up an old age pension system in Wisconsin, which was accomplished by degrees—the first step in 1925, the next in 1929, and the state-wide system in 1931—before the national system was adopted in 1935. He also took part in the establishment in Wisconsin of the first unemployment insurance system in the country and was the author and led the fight for the adoption of two amendments to the state constitution, one providing for the item veto and one placing the right of recall of elected officials in the Wisconsin state constitution. While in the Mayor's office and the Lower House of the Legislature, in his first term in 1923, Duncan obtained the passage both in the Milwaukee Common Council and in the Legislature of his plan to eliminate the public debt of the City of Milwaukee. This plan was opposed by the Milwaukee Association of Commerce, and the Milwaukee Real Estate Board employed a special lobbyist to defeat it. Duncan says that the plan has worked out satisfactorily and Milwaukee is the only city in the United States to get out of debt without relying on income from publicly owned utilities to accomplish this purpose.

His marriage to Catherine M. Cody took place in Milwaukee, February 15, 1915. They have two sons: Robert Walton, born January 31, 1916, and John Alexander on July 9, 1917, both in Milwaukee.

JASON CLARK EASTON. Professor of history, West Virginia University, Morgantown, W.Va.; residence, 301 Duquesne Avenue, Morgantown.

A decided change of vocation is indicated by Easton's report. At the time our Quindecennial Record was published he was with the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Company in Chicago, and now he is professor of history (since 1947) at West Virginia University. We judge that he has been a member of the faculty there for some time, although he doesn't say so specifically. He took an M.A. degree at Northwestern in 1931 and a Ph.D. degree at the University of Wisconsin in 1937. "Have a library of about 3,000 volumes," he says, "mostly historical, but also literary, in English, French, German, Italian, and the classical languages. Among them are a small number of incunabula, one an Aldus Manutius. Have a small collection of paintings and etchings by John Steuart Curry, Grant Wood, Thomas Hart Benton, Whistler, Seymour Haden, and others."

Easton has contributed historical articles to the Journal of Modern History, West Virginia History, and other journals, and he is a member of the American Historical Association and the Medieval Academy of America, as well as of the Faculty Club at West Virginia. From 1940 to 1944 he was a vestryman of Trinity Episcopal Church in Morgantown, serving as secretary and treasurer at various times during this period. He mentions that he took a trip to Europe in 1937.

Easton's marriage to Joy Bromberg, daughter of Mrs. H. A. Cochran, took place in Morgantown on November 24, 1949. They have no children.

ARTHUR EBENHACK. Address, 50 Vanderbilt Avenue, New York 17, N.Y.

ALBERT GALLATIN EDWARDS. Missionary, Syria-Lebanon Mission of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.; address, American Mission, Al Mina, Tripoli, Lebanon.

"I was in the United Mission in Mesopotamia, in which the Presbyterian Board coöperates, in Iraq, from 1924 through 1938, then from 1940 to 1946 in the Brazil Mission of the same board, and since 1947 in my present situation," Edwards tells us. "I took an amateur interest in archeology in Iraq while there and traveled through most of the Euphrates district of Iraq, picking up a fair acquaintance with the Arab people of the land. In the interior of Brazil I did a bit of travel by mule-back in the 'sertão.' Back in the Arab world my work takes me out into the villages where we are working to build up the Evangelical Church."

We quote the following from a letter written by Mr. and Mrs. Edwards to their missionary organization: "Mrs. Edwards and I are increasingly conscious of three factors which form a background to the situation here. These factors are, first, a growing opposition to the work of the Gospel; second, a distressing economic situation; and third, an Evangelical Church which is hardly holding its own, and certainly is showing no marked signs of growth. Thank God, there are signs of hope, and we are finding new openings for the work; but we would not be honestly reporting if we were to tell you that the situation is without difficulty and danger.

"One element of opposition comes from Communists and Communist sympathizers. In spite of the terrible reports that leak back from Lebanese, especially Armenians, who have gone to Russia, there is a widespread feeling that conditions under the Soviets can hardly be worse than in Lebanon, with the terrible suffering that is so prevalent in the villages and cities. Most of these sympathizers are not, I believe, doctrinaire Marxists, but they think that almost anything is worth trying, rather than to continue as they are.

"Because of the precipitate recognition of Israel by the United States Government, and because nothing has been done for the settlement of the several hundred thousand Palestinian refugees, all groups of the population in Lebanon, Christians of all sects, as well as Moslems, feel that the United States has shown itself their enemy. The people naturally feel sympathy for the thousands of refugees in Lebanon settled in great refugee camps, living on rations furnished by the United Nations, hardly more than is necessary for bare subsistence, and unable to get employment. Lebanon, facing tremendous unemployment of its own people, has none to offer, and furthermore they will not permit the refugees to have work, as to do so would increase Lebanese unemployment. Many of these Palestinians are becoming demoralized in their camps, with promises of return by some irresponsible Moslem agitators, and then alternating fear and despair that they will have no place to live. This situation is generally blamed on the United States and has raised opposition to all things American and not least to the American missionary enterprise.

"A third cause of opposition comes from secularism, which often penetrates into the newer generation of the Christian sects with an apathy to the Gospel message. And this is true in some of the younger members of the Evangelical Church. These conditions must be faced as we carry on our work of making Jesus Christ known.

"A second factor affecting the work of the Gospel in Lebanon today is the terrible economic situation. . . . The third factor which affects the Christian witness is that emigration has taken away much of the possible leadership, as well as much of the material support of the Evangelical Church. The Theological Seminary, located in Beirut, is not supplying the needs of the Arabic-speaking Evangelical Synod. Only one Arabic-speaking student under the Synod graduated during the past three years, and he expects to go to Chile to settle. Due to the low salaries paid ministers, which causes a general feeling of insecurity, it is very difficult to persuade students to prepare for the ministry. . . .

"In the Tripoli region we have been trying to meet the need by the establishment of Bible classes and Sunday schools. At present there is only one Lebanese pastor in the region. He is located in the village of Minyara. (This Minyara church is said to have more members now in Jacksonville, Fla., than in the old village itself.) . . . What has encouraged us especially in this work is the fact that we have usually had volunteer workers in each place. . . . From time to time I am able to take out the Mission's 'Bookmobile.' During the spring vacation of the school I had a very interesting trip through some of the towns and villages in south Lebanon and ended with a visit to the Christian Youth Conference at Sidon, where the delegates gave a very enthusiastic hearing to a report on the work of literature distribution. . . ."

Edwards' marriage to Marie Helen Gehlsen took place in St. Louis, Mo., December 27, 1923. They have four children: Benjamin Franklin, 2d, born September 24, 1925, in Beirut, Albert Gallatin, Jr., on May 9, 1927, in Baghdad, Margaret Isobel on June 10, 1928, in Hillah, and David Lincoln on November 17, 1929, also in Hillah. The boys have all graduated from Yale—Ben in 1950, Albert in 1949, and the youngest in 1951. The oldest boy, who is in the Rio de Janeiro office of the National City Bank of New York, was married in 1951 to Sally Rasmussen. Albert is studying at the Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. His marriage to Pauline McKinley, of St. Louis, took place in 1949, and they have a daughter, Lucy Woods, born in September, 1950. Margaret completed her combined B.S. and nursing course at Washington University, St. Louis, last June. In 1950 she married John Findley Barker, who is taking his Master's degree in commerce at the same school. David expects to study medicine there.

LAURENCE ADAMS EGGLESTON. Vice-president, David C. Bell Investment Company (real estate, etc.), 501 Second Avenue, South, Minneapolis 2, Minn.; residence, 1944 Penn Avenue, South, Minneapolis 5.

In 1934 Eggleston became vice-president of the David C. Bell Investment Company, with which he has been connected most of the time since leaving college. He has been active in the Yale Alumni Association of the Northwest, serving as secretary and treasurer since 1946, and has been treasurer and a director of the Minneapolis Athenæum since 1943 and of the Associated Industries of Minneapolis since 1947 and secretary and a trustee of the Lake Cemetery Association for the past six years. He has been on the governing committee of the Minneapolis Club since 1942 and was president of the club in 1947. He is an Episcopalian and a Republican.

On August 17, 1917, Eggleston's marriage to Elizabeth Folds, daughter of Charles Weston and Florence Simonds Folds, took place in Lake Forest, Ill. They have had four children: Elizabeth Ann, born June 26, 1918, in Chicago (who is married and has three children); Laurence Adams, Jr., who was born July 27, 1920, in Minneapolis and died there on December 5, 1922; Mary Alice, born October 1, 1922, in Minneapolis (married, with two children); and Florence, born September 8, 1930, in Minneapolis, who graduated from Smith in June, 1951.

ALBERT HEMAN ELY. A director of Moral Re-Armament (Oxford Group); residence, 2419 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W., Washington 8, D.C.

"Looking back over an already full and interesting life, but with no expectation of fading away, I can honestly say that being graduated from Yale in 1915 has been one of the outstanding milestones," Ely says. "For twenty-five years as Class secretary I had the privilege of keeping pretty closely in touch with most of you. As one of my daughters used to say when she was little, 'I wouldn't trade any of you for a spotted pony!'

"Since our last Class book was published I have been working with Dr. Frank Buchman (Nobel Prize nominee, 1951) in the world force of Moral Re-Armament. I am one of the directors of the American work. Its principles are close on to 2,000 years old, but their application in a practical way to the needs of our time is changing the course of history. It is demonstrating that human nature can be changed and that through new men, new nations and a new world can be built.

"In this work since 1930 I have crossed the Atlantic eleven times by steamer and five times by air. On some of these trips I helped to establish a world ideological center for the free nations at Caux-sur-Montreux overlooking the eastern end of Lake Geneva. Since World War II over 30,000 people, ranging from Prime Ministers and senior military officers to former Communist miners and dock workers, from 104 countries and territories, have met and found there a basis for uniting the democratic world and penetrating the Iron Curtain with an ideology superior to Marxism-Leninism. Following the visit of the Congressional Committee which set up the 'Voice of America,' Senator Karl Mundt told the press that 'in some ways what the Committee saw at Caux was the brightest star for the future we have witnessed in all Europe.'

"Among other interesting events in which I have taken part during the past twenty years have been meetings of the League of Nations at Geneva, notably when sanctions were imposed against Italy in 1935, the inauguration of President Camacho in 1940 when I sat in the Mexican Senate during his installation, the UNCIO meetings in San Francisco in 1945, and receptions in Rome held by His Holiness, Pope Pius XII, during the Holy Year of 1950.

"In 1950, also, I helped to bring to Europe and America, with General MacArthur's approval, a distinguished group of seventy-three Japanese, among whom were six governors of Prefectures, the mayors of the principal cities, including Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Diet members, and many industrial and labor leaders. Official receptions were held for them in each country they visited. In Washington, Vice-President Barkley and Speaker Rayburn broke all precedents by inviting their spokesmen to address the Senate and the House during regular sessions. In London, the delegates, through Mr. Chojiro Kuriyama, of the Prime Minister's Party, and Mr. Takutaro Kitamura, of the Democratic Party, issued this statement:

We hope in future as a nation to show by our deeds that we have found a change of heart and that we can make our contribution to the remaking of the world. Russia has advanced in Asia because the Soviet Government understands the art of ideological war. It fights for the minds of men. We appeal to the Governments and peoples of the West to do the same—to make themselves expert in the philosophy and practice of Moral Re-Armament, which is the ideology of the future. Then all Asia will listen.

"Since World War II I have been abroad much of the time, often with my wife, working in such pivotal areas as the Ruhr, the Communist-ridden parts of France, and the industrial centers of northern Italy. Our two oldest daughters have worked with us, both here and abroad, during their school and college vacations. From Helsinki to Naples, along the length of the Iron Curtain, we have seen great transformations taking place. Foreign Minister Schuman has said, 'I am interested in Moral Re-Armament because it is reaching the millions in France,' and Chancellor Adenauer has added, 'Moral Re-Armament has become a household word in Western Germany.' British papers have credited MRA with the inspiration for the Schuman Plan. Dock strikes on the Thames, Mersey, and Clyde have been averted. Everywhere it goes, Moral Re-Armament is checking the tide of godless materialism. It is giving to Communist and capitalist alike a superior ideology capable of rooting out long-standing antagonisms of nationality, race, and class on the basis of change for all. It is a challenge to accept absolute moral standards—honesty, purity, unselfishness, love—and to obey the guidance of God. It is for every one, everywhere.

"In Washington we live in a house once owned by Mary Roberts Rinehart, who wrote many of her thrillers in my study. The house continues to see exciting days. If any of you are down this way, I hope you will stop and see us. There is an old Danish saying, 'If there is room in the heart, there is room in the home,' and that goes for 1915."

Ely is a contributor to New World News, published monthly in London and Los Angeles, and during the war he edited a fortnightly News Letter from Washington to hundreds of men trained in MRA who served in the United States and allied armed forces on every front. He was in the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary during 1941-42. He served as president of the Huntington (N.Y.) Hospital during 1934-35 and has been a member of its advisory council since 1936. He was a member of the board of managers of Christodora House in New York from 1932 to 1947, a trustee of Bethune-Cookman College in Florida from 1939 to 1949, and a vestryman of St. John's Church, Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y., from 1930 to 1935 and of Calvary Church in New York from 1936 to 1941. Ely belongs to the Metropolitan and University clubs and Potomac Grange No. 1 in Washington and to the University, Yale, and Church clubs of New York, the Knickerbocker Grays Veteran Corps, the Ex-Members Association of Squadron A, and Holland Lodge, No. 8, A.F. and A.M.

His marriage to Constance Jennings, daughter of Walter and Jean Brown Pollock Jennings, took place September 24, 1927, at Cold Spring Harbor. They have had four children: Constance Day, born September 20, 1928, Florence on June 3, 1931, Mary on October 18, 1935, and Nathaniel Jennings on May 6, 1939. Florence was born in Cold Spring Harbor and the others in New York City. Constance attended the Cathedral School in Washington and graduated from Wellesley in 1951. Florence graduated from the Madeira School in 1949, and Mary is there at the present time. Nathaniel died in Washington on January 3, 1952, from injuries received when his horse stumbled and threw him. He was a student at the Landon School in Bethesda, Md.

PHILIP HENRY ENGLISH. Trustee, English Real Estate Trust, 1098 Chapel Street, New Haven 6, Conn. (P.O. Box 1586); residence, 99 East Rock Road, New Haven 11.

English is engaged in the management of central real estate in New Haven in connection with the English Real Estate Trust, of which he has been a trustee since July, 1947. Previously he had been for twenty years secretary and treasurer of the New Haven Clock Company, developing an interest in electronic methods of timing watches and fuses and during the period from 1938 through 1946 aiding in the production of anti-aircraft, bomb, and naval mine time fuses and training devices for submarine detection. During the war he served in the Coast Guard Reserve as a seaman on a part-time basis with the Branford Squadron, 714th Coastal Patrol Service.

Since 1938 English has been a director of the Union & New Haven Trust Company. He has served on the New Haven Park Commission since 1948. Among other public offices which have taken a lot of his time in the past are the New Haven Board of Education (1930-42), the New Haven Public Library Board (1943-44), and the New Haven Municipal Airport Board (1946-48). He served as president of the Farnam-Neighborhood House (1934-39) and of the Quinnipiac Council of Boy Scouts (1944-46). In 1948 he became a director of the Grace-New Haven Community Hospital and the New Haven Colony Historical Society and in 1951 a member of the New England Regional Scout Committee. He is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and of the Graduates, New Haven Lawn, Quinnipiac, and Branford Yacht clubs.

He says that for recreation he turns to fishing in the Maine streams and off Block Island, sailing a Lightning class boat at Branford—also that he continues an active interest in the fifty-year development plan for New Haven's airport and that he aided in improving New Haven's traffic conditions, when one-way streets became essential. English has been active in the development and management of summer camps for young people for forty years. He remarks: "For those not in the formal educational fields, I believe the greatest opportunity to broaden and improve the lives of our rising generations lies in the fields of public recreation and summer camping. What would life be without forests, streams, mountain colors, and dawn over the ocean? To stay young, train young people to enjoy the grandeur of nature."

On June 18, 1921, English was married in Lawrence, N.Y., to Katharine Dana, daughter of Arnold Guyot and Grace Newton Dana. Their older son, James Dana, who was born in New Haven, March 15, 1932, is a member of the Yale Class of 1954. The younger boy, Richard Locke, born March 5, 1935, also in New Haven, is at Pomfret.

CHARLES ADAM FISHER. Residences, 301 South High Street, Selinsgrove, Pa., and 521 North Florida Avenue, DeLand, Fla.

Fisher was director of the School of Business at John B. Stetson University in DeLand from 1930 to March, 1949, when he retired because of ill health and became professor emeritus. For years he has been interested in compiling family lineages and is the author of History of the Woodling Family (1936), The Snyder County Pioneers (1937), and Central Pennsylvania Lineages (1947). He is a thirty-second degree Mason and is the fifth generation of his family to hold membership in the First Lutheran Church of Selinsgrove.

Fisher was married on February 29, 1908, in Selinsgrove to Vera Agnes Hummel, daughter of Simon and Margaret Sassaman Hummel. Their oldest daughter, Arline (born October 18, 1908), who is the widow of Claude Bedeau, teaches in the Selinsgrove High School; she has a B.A. degree from Susquehanna University [where Fisher was director of the School of Business Administration from 1920 to 1930] and an M.A. from Penn State. The second daughter, Bernice, who was born in Littlestown, Pa., on August 30, 1912, married Captain Charles E. Olsen in 1946 and is living in Bellwood, Ill.; she received a B.A. degree, cum laude, at Stetson and an M.A. at Bucknell and during 1943-44 served overseas with the Red Cross. The oldest son, Harold Jacob, a construction engineer with the Olsen Marine Construction Company of DeLand, was born in Selinsgrove, December 23, 1914, and attended the Stetson University School of Engineering for three years. Charles Arthur, born in Lewistown, Pa., February 5, 1919, who owns the Selinsgrove Auto Body & Fender Repair Shop, attended a technical school for a year and served as a private in the Engineers during World War II. Elizabeth, who was born in Selinsgrove, May 28, 1920, is a high school teacher in Blaine, Wash.; she has both a B.A. and M.A. degree from Stetson and has also done graduate work at the University of New Mexico and the University of Colorado. Paul Hummel (born in Selinsgrove, December 11, 1921) received a B.S. degree, magna cum laude, at Stetson and an M.S. at Massachusetts Tech. He was a lieutenant in the Air Force from 1942 to 1947, was recalled to active duty in 1950, and at present is stationed at Andrews Base, Washington, D.C.; he has the rank of captain. The youngest boy, James Frederick, was born on July 5, 1928; he took his B.A. degree, magna cum laude, at Stetson and in 1951 was a graduate fellow at Florida State University, while awaiting a call to active duty with the armed forces.

SIDNEY LEON FISHER. District sales representative, Barnes Manufacturing Company of Mansfield, Ohio, Mission Appliance Corporation of Los Angeles, etc.; business address, 122 East 42d Street, New York 17, N.Y.; residence, 125 East 71st Street, New York 21.

Fisher has had the above connections since May, 1946, and is representing, in addition, the Sherwood Brass Works of Detroit, the Haydenville (Mass.) Company, and the United Metal Manufacturing Company of Norwich, Conn. He was treasurer of Fisher Brass, Inc., from 1931 to 1942, vice-president in charge of sales with the H. B. Salter Manufacturing Company the following year, and president of the National Brass Company from 1943 to 1945. At two different periods (1930-35; 1940-45) he was active in official capacities in community affairs in Marysville, Ohio. He is president of the Kiwanis Club, commander of American Legion Post No. 79, and "chef" of the 40 and 8.

As to hobbies, Fisher says, "Golf (until a few years ago); travel (U.S.A.); and now—grandchildren," and adds, "Aside from my work and my family, my interests are few. I still take a keen, although vicarious interest in the theatre. I am an avid reader of (with apologies to Charley Merz) the Herald Tribune, with special emphasis on Red Smith, John Crosby, and Lippmann. My list of books I want to read constantly outraces those I am able to read, but I did get a pretty fair number of them read this past year. (Anybody who has missed John Hersey's The Wall has missed not just a book or a novel, but an experience that he ought not to pass up.) The Yale Club helps maintain some contacts that I'd otherwise lose completely, and it provides a pleasant congenial atmosphere with good food that has done no good for my waistline.

"For four years during the war Mrs. Fisher did an exceptional job as chairman of the Union County Red Cross home service department. With her own office and secretary and a voluntary staff, she handled the home and family affairs of the men in the service on a full-time, six-days-a-week basis. Her outstanding record received state-wide recognition."

Mrs. Fisher was Marjorie May Kohn, daughter of Max and Anne Sternberger Kohn, and they were married in Cleveland, Ohio, July 29, 1918. Their children are: Richard B., born May 7, 1919, and Anne, born February 19, 1923. Richard won the first prize for New York City students in the essay contest for the Woodrow Wilson Award of the League of Nations Association in 1936 and also two Herald Tribune prizes for scholastic journalistic contributions. He graduated from George Washington High School in New York City with highest honors and received a B.A. degree at Yale in 1941. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and had honors in history, receiving honorable mention for his Senior thesis. In 1942 he was commissioned as second lieutenant (bombardier) in the Air Force, subsequently became a navigator, and completed thirty missions on a B-24 while with the 8th Air Force. Prior to his release from service with the rank of captain in August, 1945, he was attached to the U.S. Strategic Bombing Survey. Returning to Yale for graduate work, he held three successive fellowships. He took his M.A. degree in 1946 and in 1948 accepted a Carnegie Foundation Fellowship; he has been a research assistant on a project on War, Revolution, and Peace at the Hoover Institute and Library (which was to be completed in June, 1951) and this last year has also been an instructor in sociology and international relations at San Francisco State College. Richard, who was married April 24, 1943, in Monroe, La., to Betsey Kinney, Smith '45, Mills '46, has three daughters: Anne, born January 31, 1944, Margaret on December 25, 1947, and Sara on March 29, 1950.

Anne graduated from the Hathaway-Brown School in Cleveland in 1941 and entered Smith with the Class of 1945. By attending summer sessions there and at Ohio State, she graduated in Smith's first and only accelerated class. Her marriage to Howard M. Holtzmann, Yale '42, took place in Cleveland, January 14, 1945. He was then a sergeant in the Air Force, assigned to public relations work. He entered the Yale Law School in 1946, received his LL.B. degree the following June, and in September went to work in the employee relations department of the Wickwire-Spencer Steel plant of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company. Since November, 1949, he has been with the New York law firm of Holtzmann, Wise, Shepard & Kelly, of which his father is head, but still retains his connection with the labor relations department of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company. He and Anne have two daughters: Susan, born December 24, 1948, and Betsey on February 7, 1951.

ARCHIBALD DONALD FISKEN. Colonel, U.S.A., retired; executive secretary, Far Eastern and Russian Institute, University of Washington, Seattle 5, Wash.; residence, 4820 East 40th Street, Seattle 5.

Fisken, who retired from the Army in September, 1948, as a colonel after thirty-one years of service, has been executive secretary of the Far Eastern and Russian Institute in Seattle since November of that year. He had studied Chinese while in Peiping from 1920 to 1924 and has kept it up more or less ever since. He was in west China for two years of World War II (1943-45) as A.A. staff officer at the headquarters of the 14th Air Force (Flying Tigers) and during 1942 and 1943 was stationed at Tonga Tabu, at first as commanding officer of the 77th C.A. (A.A.A.) and then as base commander. He was awarded the Bronze Star, the Legion of Merit with an oak leaf cluster, and also the Army-Navy Air Force Medal.

Fisken is serving as chairman of the board of the University Student Y.M.C.A. at the University of Washington. An Episcopalian, he served as a vestryman a number of years ago, and he belongs to the Explorers Club of New York, Lafayette Lodge, A.F. and A.M., and to the Scottish Rite bodies in Peiping.

His marriage to Harriet Layman Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Young, of Honolulu, and sister of A. C. Young of our Class, took place in Berkeley, Calif., on August 25, 1917. Their son, Archibald Donald, Jr., who was born in Honolulu, February 12, 1919, served in the Pacific during World War II and is now a major in the Artillery, stationed at Hamilton Field, Calif. Their older daughter, Cara Carter, born March 4, 1921, in Peiping, was with the Red Cross in France and Austria. She was married in Louisville, Ky., in September, 1948, to C. G. Kirven, who was in the Navy during the war and is now back on active duty as a lieutenant; he graduated from the University of Louisville Law School in 1948. The younger girl, Harriet Layman, who was born October 7, 1922, also in Peiping, married A. R. Rooks and is now living in Ross, Calif. Her husband, who is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School, was on active duty in the Pacific during the war and is now practicing law in San Francisco.

STREETER BLANTON FLYNN. Partner, Rainey, Flynn, Green & Anderson, lawyers, 735 First National Bank Building, Oklahoma City, Okla.; residence, 439 N.W. 16th Street, Oklahoma City.

Flynn, who has been a partner in the above firm since 1926, is general counsel and a director of the Oklahoma Gas & Electric Company, a director and solicitor for Oklahoma for the Santa Fé Railway, vice-president and director of the Flynn Oil Company, and a director of the Oklahoma City Hardware Company, the First National Bank & Trust Company, and the First National Building Corporation. He is a Republican in politics, belongs to the American and Oklahoma Bar associations, the Oklahoma City Golf and Country Club, the Chicago Club, and the Yale Club of New York. "I like to hunt, fish, and travel, and have done a lot of all three. I have also taken lots of photographs," he says.

Flynn's marriage to Margaret Tuttle, daughter of LeRoy and Anna Tuttle, took place in Washington, D.C., on October 18, 1919. Their older daughter, Margaret, who was born on January 28, 1923, attended the Westover School. The second girl, Adelaide Flynn, born August 25, 1927, also went to Westover; she married George W. McKean and has a daughter, born in November, 1950. Their son, Streeter B., Jr., born November 12, 1929, attended Deerfield Academy and the University of Oklahoma.

DAVID KNIGHT FORD. Partner, Ford, Reece, Baskin & Howland, 1030 Williamson Building, Cleveland 14, Ohio; residence, 21300 Brantley Road, Shaker Heights 22, Ohio.

Ford, who has been practicing law in Cleveland since 1921, has been a partner in Ford, Reece, Baskin & Howland and preceding firms since 1923. He is a director of the Williamson, New Amsterdam, Lubrizol, and Federal Improvement companies and the Addex Corporation, has served as a team captain and campaign vice-chairman of the Cleveland Community Fund and as chairman of the budget committee of the Welfare Federation, and is on the boards of the Boy Scouts, the Goodwill Industries, and other organizations. He was moderator of the Congregational Union from 1933 to 1936, president of the Cleveland Church Federation during 1942-43, and has been a trustee of the Euclid Avenue Congregational Church since 1945. From 1941 to 1945 he served as an appeals agent for the Draft Board, and he is commander of the County Council and Post of the American Legion and belongs to the Union Club. His political affiliations are Republican. Ford played on the Cleveland squash racquets team from 1925 to 1935, does quite a bit of gardening, and has made a number of trips in the Albany River section of northern Ontario, where his time has been taken up with canoeing, rapid-shooting, and hunting.

On June 12, 1920, he married Elizabeth Kingsley Brooks, daughter of Oliver K. and Harriet Gill Brooks. They have four sons, all of whom were born in Cleveland: Amasa Brooks on July 13, 1922, David Kingsley on June 26, 1925, Allen Huntington on July 29, 1928, and Oliver Mallory on December 31, 1937. The oldest boy graduated from Exeter in 1940—the leading scholar of his Class—and from Yale in 1943, completing his course in two and a half years. He was an editor of the Lit and a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the Elizabethan Club, and Scroll and Key. He served in the Army for two years, ranking as a second lieutenant in the Infantry at the time of his release, took his M.D. degree at Harvard in 1949, and has since been interning at Massachusetts General in Boston. David, who graduated from the University School in Cleveland in 1943, served with the American Field Service, attached to the British 8th Army in Italy, for the next two years and attended Lehigh from 1946 to 1950. Allen, Exeter '46, Yale '50, is on duty in Korea as a private in the 25th Infantry Division; while at Yale, he was on the radio board. The youngest boy, who is now in junior high, will attend Exeter and Yale.

In conclusion, Ford says, "I have been blessed with an exquisite wife, of broad and inclusive interests, and a genuine talent for public service.

She has carried well many tasks, especially in the nursing field, and has received many honors. She is easily the best thing that ever happened to me. We have had four splendid boys, and my confident hope is that each will be useful to his community, and far surpass his father.

"Life has been good to us."

DONALD FRANKLIN FROST. Technical assistant, Bureau of Ships; assigned as inspector of naval matériel, General Electric Company, Lynn, Mass.; residence, 12 Prospect Street, Rockport, Mass.

From 1915 to 1921 Frost was a metallurgist for the Wyman Gordon Company of Worcester, Mass., and then went with the General Electric Company at Lynn as a research engineer. His work there is now done under the inspection department of the Bureau of Ships.

Frost is a deacon of the Rockport Congregational Church. His marriage to Ruth Burgess took place in Rockport on July 29, 1923, and they have two children, both of whom were born in Swampscott, Mass.: Donald Burgess on March 13, 1925, and Faythe Lincoln Forester on June 1, 1926.

HENRY FURST. Address, care Arnold Furst, 242 East 72d Street, New York 21, N.Y.

LESLIE TRACY GAGER. Medical consultant, Board of Veterans Appeals; residence, 5301 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W., Washington 16, D.C.

"The year 1930 in this personal history is a long time back," Gager says. "In 1928 a study on high blood pressure, the fruit of several years' clinical work at Cornell, was read before the American Medical Association and led to invitations to appear at various medical meetings, admission to Who's Who, and the monograph, Hypertension (Williams & Wilkins, 1930). There followed appointments as clinical professor of medicine, George Washington University, 1929-32, and as professor of medicine, Howard University, 1931-36. This active life of practice, teaching, and writing was interrupted by an acute infection in December, 1933; most of 1934 passed before its full effects became evident, and there was necessary a long period of treatment and adjustment. Early in 1937 an opportunity to go South was afforded by employment in the Veterans Administration and the next four and a half years in South Carolina and Florida resulted in a considerable return of stability, so much so that in July, 1941, the Army accepted an application for extended active duty, lasting six years, in the Medical Reserve Corps. Assignments were to the Surgeon's Office, Camp Shelby, Miss., to Camp Polk Station Hospital during the Louisiana maneuvers, and to the 10th Station Hospital, which sailed for northern Ireland in January, 1942. After nine months in Londonderry and two in Belfast, there was a brief appointment to the resident staff of the Royal Masonic Hospital, London, followed by duty at Exeter and the Bristol Channel ports of Swansea and Newport. In October, 1943, hospital observation led to orders for limited duty in the continental United States, and from 1944 to 1947 there was detached service with the Veterans Administration in Pittsburgh, Baltimore, and Washington. Since July, 1947, this work has been continued in a civilian status. There are advantages in the 40-hour week.

"In the ten-year Odyssey thus briefly outlined, the experience of the Brothers Serendip and the economic maxims of Mr. Wilkins Micawber were put to test and not found wanting. It has been a good thing for an ingrained New Englander to be shifted around this country, and of overseas service it may be said that France and Germany in 1917-19 brought many rewarding experiences but not the breadth and depth of the associations found in Britain twenty-five years later. In the rambling bookstore of James Thin in the shadow of Edinburgh University the chance find of Morison's Builders of the Bay Colony was the beginning of a good working collection of books on eastern Connecticut, not a few of which have come from Whitlock's in New Haven. Outside the Quonset hut which served as our temporary mess hall on an estate near Londonderry, there was a beautiful English holly with glossy leaves and gleaming berries; now at our small Anne Arundel County farm on the Bay in southern Maryland there are growing a couple of hundred small holly trees, American, English, Chinese, Japanese, and hybrids, along with yew and box, in good English tradition and the spirit of the Holly Society of America.

"In the days of retirement which draw close at hand, it is hoped that some of these interests may grow into more tangible results."

Gager is a Congregationalist. His marriage to Josephine Willoughby Chapman, daughter of Charles B. and Frances H. Chatterton Chapman, took place in Towson, Md., June 15, 1919. They have three children and five grandchildren. Their son, John Chapman, born in Baltimore, May 21, 1921, graduated from the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy, King's Point, N.Y., in 1944 and served for four years as a lieutenant, U.S.N.R., in the Caribbean and Pacific. He is now employed in the sales division of the General Electric Company in Washington. The older daughter, Margaret Tracy, who was born in Baltimore, June 18, 1923, received a B.A. degree at Goucher in 1946. Her husband, Malcolm C. Moos, is associate professor of political science at Johns Hopkins and a member of the Republican State Committee. The younger girl, Jane Chatterton, born in New York, April 20, 1925, and a graduate of the University of Minnesota in 1947, is the wife of Sheldon M. Childs, who is an industrial engineer with the Elliott Company of Jeannette, Pa.

THOMAS MORRISON GALBREATH. Manager of Eastern sales, Sharon Steel Corporation, 500 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y.; residence, Wynnewood Plaza Apartments, Wynnewood, Pa.

Galbreath, who has been with the Sharon Steel Corporation since 1919, has for some time had the position of manager of Eastern sales, with his headquarters in New York City. He is a Republican in politics, a Presbyterian, and a member of the Racquet Club of Philadelphia and the Yale Club of New York.

In January, 1941, he accepted a commission as a lieutenant colonel in the Ordnance Department. He served for four years in the Office of the Chief of Ordnance in Washington and was awarded the Legion of Merit Medal for outstanding services. At the time of his release from active duty in September, 1945, Galbreath ranked as a full colonel.

His marriage to Sophie Pusey McDowell, daughter of Thomas R. and Sophie Pusey McDowell, took place in Avondale, Pa., on October 24, 1924. Mrs. Galbreath's death occurred on February 14, 1948. They had no children.

HENRY GALE. Partner, Gale, Bernays, Falk & Eisner, lawyers, 40 Wall Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 315 East 68th Street, New York 21.

"My professional life has been led in partnership with close friends of my youth, and this has furnished the sauce for the solid roast beef of practice," Gale says. "Every one's personal experiences are varied and unique, but form a better subject for a novel than a biographical note. I look back with perhaps undue satisfaction on mine and forward with lively curiosity as to whether or not Browning's statement concerning 'the last for which the first was made' is correct."

Gale was first married on October 7, 1920, in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to Theresa Weiss Strauss, whose death occurred on May 29, 1927. He subsequently married Elsie N. Bernheim, daughter of Julius and Emily Bernheim. He has two children: Dr. David Gale, assistant professor of mathematics at Brown University, who was born on December 13, 1921, in New York City, and Ellen Gale Dunning, who was born October 18, 1923, in White Plains, N.Y.

LEWIS GLUICK. Certified public accountant, residence, 946 S.W. Fourth Street, Miami 36, Fla.

Gluick, who has been practicing as a certified public accountant for years, moved from New York City to Florida some time ago. He is still a member of the New York State Society of C.P.A.'s, as well as of the American Institute of Accountants, and belongs also to the United Commercial Travelers, the American Legion, and the Masonic order.

His marriage to Helen Hill, daughter of Robert E. and Larimé Grigsby Hill, took place in Baltimore, Md., on February 11, 1938. They have no children.

ALLEN EDWARDS GORDON. Accountant, Aluminum Company of America, New Kensington, Pa.; residence, R.D. 2, New Kensington.

Gordon has continued with the Aluminum Company of America, with which he became connected in 1916. He is a member of Calvary Lutheran Church of Arnold, Pa., a Mason, and a member of Syria Temple, A.A.O.N.M.S. He is a Republican in politics.

On January 26, 1944, his marriage to Martha C. Ihrig, daughter of William G. and Minnie O. Ihrig, took place in Arnold. They have no children.

AMBROSE GORDON. Address, 113 East Taylor Street, Savannah, Ga.

ARCHIBALD RALPH GORDON. Manager, cement shoe department, United Shoe Machinery Corporation, 140 Federal Street, Boston, Mass.; residence, Norwell, Mass.

Gordon, who has been with the above company since August, 1915, was assistant district manager in the New York office at the time our last Class record was published and for some time now has been manager of the cement shoe department, with his office in Boston.

His marriage to Louise Anderson Wilson, daughter of Andrew and Louisa Anderson, of Wallasey, Cheshire, England, took place in Le Mans, France, on July 10, 1919. Their daughter, Dorothy Gordon Peterman, who was born on December 11, 1920, was married some years ago and has three children. The oldest boy, Andrew George, Yale '49, who was born September 15, 1924, is also married. The second boy, Charles Huntly, who was born on July 10, 1927, is an invalid. The youngest, Donald A., born February 22, 1934, is at Andover.

In conclusion, Gordon says, "Even in the midst of the discomforts of an extremely stupid world revolution, I find life decidedly worthwhile. Briefly, my blessings are well ahead of my pains, which are not inconsiderable. An increasing appreciation of the value of Yale is one of my most abiding pleasures."

JOHN MAYO GOSS. Writer; residence, 30 Pinehurst Street, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Goss' novel, This Magnificent World, was published by Rinehart & Company of New York in 1948. He has had short stories in a number of magazines, such as the Atlantic Monthly and The New Yorker, one of which, "Bird Song," was given the first O. Henry Prize in 1946 and was included in Best American Short Stories, published in 1947. Another, "Evening and Morning Prayer," which was in the 1949 O. Henry Anthology, was reprinted in England and in textbooks. Goss is an Episcopalian.

On May 4, 1928, he was married in Paris to Suzanne Marie Françoise Roullé, whose death occurred on March 10, 1942. His second marriage, to Blanche Clark Pride, took place in New Orleans on May 2, 1949.

HENRY BRAMLETTE GRAY, JR. Business address, 2125 North Third Avenue, Birmingham 3, Ala.; residence, 918 Essex Road, Birmingham 5.

Gray gave up his position as president of the Gray Sporting Goods Company of Birmingham in 1932. He was manager of the Birmingham office of Fenner & Beane for the next four years and subsequently purchasing agent for the Alabama Fuel & Iron Company until his retirement in October, 1950. He is still a director of the company, as well as of the Elmwood Cemetery Corporation, and since 1940 has been a deacon of the Independent Presbyterian Church in Birmingham.

He belongs to the Birmingham Country Club and the New York Yale Club.

"Upon retiring, I purchased a 2,000-acre farm in Barbour County, Ala., and am now embarking upon a cattle-raising project," he says. "I didn't have much time for travel until my retirement. Recreations have been golf, fishing, and hunting. Mrs. Gray and I spent four weeks in the Hawaiian Islands during January and February, 1951."

Mrs. Gray was Dorothy Roden Davis, daughter of Charles G. and Florrie Roden Davis. They were married in Birmingham on November 17, 1920. Their daughter, Dorothy Davis, who was born April 19, 1926, graduated from Smith in 1947. In 1948 she married Marshall Haynes, Jr., of Birmingham, and they are at present at Camp Jackson, S.C., where he is stationed as a major in the 31st Infantry Division. They have a daughter, Dorothy Gray, born May 4, 1950.

Their son, Henry Bramlette, 3d, born January 29, 1929, graduated from The Hill School in 1947 and then entered Yale, where he graduated with an engineering degree in 1951. He expects to be a farmer and cattle raiser after studying agriculture and animal husbandry at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

SHERWOOD SEELEY GREEN. General assistant treasurer, United States Rubber Company, 1230 Avenue of the Americas, New York 20, N.Y.; residence, 35-35 82d Street, Jackson Heights, N.Y.

Green writes: "Early in the Twentieth Century I bewailed my lot in that I faced a completed world: no more fascination of lands to be discovered, no more thrills of conquest or challenge of frontiers; with electricity and the horseless carriage almost a commonplace, it was evident that the field of invention had been exhausted; the pot-bellied Franklin had been banished from parlor to cellar, and the privy had been brought indoors; truly the world had been finished right down to the last elegant refinements. The preceding generations had had all the fun, and mine faced a tame, humdrum future.

"The first half century failed to confirm my apprehensions; the actuality was a kaleidoscope of change, thrills, breath-taking ups and downs, with amazing vistas of marvels to be achieved. To me it was an absorbingly interesting period shared with two understanding partners of thirty-five years' standing: my wife, signed on in 1916, and my employer, adopted in 1917. Confident and with keen interest, I look forward to the second half with relish."

Green's position as general assistant treasurer of the United States

Rubber Company dates from December, 1940. His marriage to Marion Louise Tarr, daughter of Seymour W. and Ella Selover Tarr, took place in East Haven, Conn., on June 21, 1916. They have no children.

ROBERT LOUIS GRINNELL. Residence, care J. F. Grinnell, 1022 Princeton Avenue, Arlington Heights, Ill.

"The subject," says Grinnell, hitting an impersonal note, "retired shortly after the age at which retirement on a pension from the First National Bank of Chicago becomes optional. He feels that business life has dealt with him kindly, considering what he had to offer it. However, both he and his wife have been pestered with an itching foot from which in the limited time available even in generous vacations, they have so far been unable to obtain relief. Their main project for the immediate future is to exorcize this scourge. The more remote future will be dealt with as it comes."

With a quick change of style, he added, "My wife and I spent the winter of 1950-51 in Mexico and a few weeks in California; we are sailing in May for England with the intention of spending the summer touring the British Isles and the Continent. I still enjoy playing tennis and play some golf. Also play squash racquets in season."

Grinnell's whole business career, from May, 1919, until his retirement in 1950, was with the First National Bank of Chicago or its affiliates, and he was vice-president of the bank at the time he retired. He served as president of the Highland Park District School Board from 1932 to 1940 and as a trustee and treasurer of the Village of Winnetka from 1945 to 1949. He is still a member of the University Club of Chicago, but has resigned from his other clubs.

Mrs. Grinnell was Mary King, daughter of James F. and Helen Gibson King. They were married in Lake Forest, Ill., on June 30, 1917, and their children were both born there, Mary on March 28, 1918, and Joseph Fox on July 4, 1923. Mary, who graduated from Swarthmore in 1939, married Kermit Gordon and has three children: Katherine King, born December 15, 1942, Emily Fox on January 28, 1948, and Andrew Grinnell on April 3, 1949. Joseph, whose marriage to Marjorie Volwiler took place in Highland Park on August 24, 1946, has a son, Stephen Fox, born May 10, 1950. Joseph received a B.A. degree at Yale in 1945 and a J.D. at Northwestern in 1949. He is now practicing with the Chicago law firm of Winston, Strawn, Shaw & Black. He served in the Navy during the war, chiefly on L.S.T.'s in the Mediterranean, and was discharged in 1946 with the rank of lieutenant (j.g.).

EMIT DUNCAN GRIZZELL. Professor and dean, School of Education, University of Pennsylvania; residence, Wynnewood Plaza, Wynnewood, Pa.

"There is not much that I can say about myself that is likely to be interesting or exciting to the Class of 1915," Grizzell writes. "On December 1, 1951, I completed thirty years of service as instructor, assistant professor, and professor at the University of Pennsylvania. Since July 1, 1948, I have served as dean of the School of Education, continuing to teach part time in my field of specialization—secondary and higher education. In all these years my life as a teacher has been very satisfying to me and I hope also to the thousands of students with whom I have worked. During the last twenty years I have worked exclusively with graduate students, teaching and directing the work of advanced research students.

"Service in a large university involves many contacts with representative scholars of other institutions. These contacts have frequently developed into lasting personal, as well as professional, friendships. A long period of service as an officer of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has provided a rare opportunity to work with and to know many of the most active leaders in secondary and higher education throughout the United States. My interest in research in secondary and higher education has provided many other opportunities for personal and professional association with men and women with similar specialized interests. Although I once had chosen law as a career and changed to teaching, I am sure that if I had a second chance I would 'gladly teach.'

"My travels since my last report have been related to my professional interests or were related to war activities. The only thing worth mentioning was a trip to South America during the war as a member of a commission of the Department of State to study education in Bolivia.

"My recreations have been limited to golf, walking, horseback riding, and fishing, for none of which have I had enough time. The only hobby that I have been able to pursue with any degree of satisfaction is collecting old school and college textbooks and related manuscript and published materials. Over the years I have succeeded in picking up rare old books, such as a fair copy of Nomenclatura (1665), Distichs of Cato (1751), and many texts published in the Seventeenth, Eighteenth, and early Nineteenth centuries for use in English public schools—Winchester, Eton, Westminster, and others. A highly prized piece of general interest is a copy of the first (printed) edition of the Connecticut Code of 1650 (Blue Laws). Another is an early edition of the Bay Psalm Book (1718). In this collection are examples of early school publications, the most highly prized being a bound volume of the Rugbean, an early Rugby magazine. A valuable part of the collection is a set of some fifty early Nineteenth Century prints of old English public and grammar schools. Another is a growing collection of old histories of secondary schools, colleges, and universities in America and occasional histories of educational institutions in other countries."

In addition to his membership on the commission to Bolivia, Grizzell was engaged in other war-related activities with the Department of State and in connection with civilian committees on education to aid the war effort. His work in connection with committees and commissions on education has included the following: chairman, Commission on Secondary Schools, Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools (1926-46); chairman, executive committee (1933-49), and of general committee (since 1951) of Coöperative Study of Secondary School Standards; director, committee on implementation of studies in education of the American Council on Education (1939-40), and chairman of its advisory committee on inter-American schools service (since 1944); member, commission on educational trends, Modern Language Association (since 1945), and of the commission on human resources and advanced training (since 1951). He has been a visiting professor during summer terms at the University of Michigan (1930), University of Washington (1932), Ohio State University (1935), University of Virginia (1937, 1938, 1940, 1942, 1946), and University of Colorado (1951) and visiting lecturer at Johns Hopkins (1944-46).

Grizzell listed the following about his writings: "Author: American Secondary Education, Thomas Nelson Sons, 1937; Principles of Unit Construction (co-author), McGraw-Hill Book Company, 1939; Educational Studies and Their Use, American Council on Education, 1940; 'Accreditation of Secondary Schools and Higher Institutions,' in Encyclopedia of Educational Research, Macmillan Company, 1949; editor: Secondary Education in Philadelphia, Report of Survey, 1937, Philadelphia Board of Education; Education in Delaware, Report of State School Survey, 1946 (unpublished); co-editor: Critical Issues and Trends in American Education, 1949, Annals of American Academy of Political and Social Science; contributor to year books of National Society of College Teachers of Education, the National Society for the Study of Education, and to professional magazines."

Among the organizations of which he is a member, in addition to those already mentioned, are the American Association of School Administrators, the National Society for the Study of Education, the American Historical Association, the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the American Political Science Association, the American Educational Research Association, the Lenape Club, and the Acacia Fraternity. Grizzell is a Baptist and an Independent in politics.

He was married on August 3, 1911, in Brooksville, Ky., to Ethyl Blackerby, daughter of William O'Rear and Louise Gilmore Blackerby. They have no children.

HERMAN WOLMER GRODIN. Physician; office and residence, 840 Howard Avenue, New Haven, Conn.

Grodin has continued in the practice of medicine at the same address. Much of his time is devoted to compensation and liability examinations, and since 1945 he has had the position of compensation consultant to the State of Connecticut. He also has a business connection—the vice-presidency of Berwald, Inc.

His marriage to Dora Esther Slosberg took place on February 26, 1918, in Norwich, Conn. They have four daughters: Beverly Grodin Berwald, who was born in Norwich on January 16, 1919; the twins, Rosalind Grodin Clayman and Shirley Grodin Blum, born in New Haven, January 23, 1921; and Rhoda Grodin Feinstein, born in New Haven, March 13, 1924. Grodin proudly proclaims that he has five grandsons and a granddaughter.

HENRY REW GROSS. Address, 2909 Indiana Avenue, Chicago 16, Ill.

GEORGE LEWIN GUTWILLIG. Broker, Scheuer & Company (gray goods brokerage), 66 Leonard Street, New York, N.Y.; residence, 151 West 86th Street, New York.

Gutwillig, who has been a broker with Scheuer & Company since 1930, had previously had a similar connection with W. J. Beattie & Company. He is a member of the Woodmere Club. "During the last five years," he says, "we have toured the Canadian and Pacific Northwests, California, Colorado, and New Mexico. Have also had one trip to Europe, visiting Italy, Switzerland, France, and England."

On October 9, 1929, he was married in New York City to Ruth Becker, daughter of F. Maurice and M. Bessie Sheuerman Becker. They have a son, Roger, who was born in New York on January 8, 1934, and who is a Senior in the Fieldston School at Riverdale, N.Y.

CHARLES ARTHUR HACKNEY. Residence, 30 Walbridge Road, West Hartford 7, Conn.

In February, 1949, Hackney retired from his position as secretary of the life department of The Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford. He had become connected with the company in 1919, was elected assistant secretary of the life department in May, 1927, and secretary in January, 1946.

"Since my retirement I have taken no active part in music," he says, "but have become a patient listener. [He had taken his degree in music at Yale in 1917 and was subsequently assistant to the organist and choirmaster of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York.] During the last two winters I have traveled to the Caribbean, South America, Panama, Bermuda, Nassau, and Florida." Hackney belongs to the Hartford Club and the Hartford Golf Club and has several Masonic degrees (Blue Lodge, Chapter, and Council).

On June 22, 1921, he was married in Unionville, Conn., to Linda Lucile Thompson, daughter of Edward T. and Nettie Rexroth Thompson. Their daughter, Lucile Boyce, who was born on February 2, 1923, graduated with a B.A. degree from Smith College in 1945. She was married on September 25, 1948, to David Lee Williams, Wesleyan '47, and has a daughter, Linda Lee, born July 13, 1950.

GILBERT PIERCE HAIGHT. Member, Dorsey, Lubersky & Haight, lawyers, 802 Northern Life Tower, Seattle 1, Wash.; residence, 130 34th Avenue, North, Seattle 2.

"For the life of me I can't think of anything about myself that would have the slightest interest to the members of 1915"—thus Haight. "I'm not a director of the Three and a Half Cent Savings Bank or a trustee of the Society for the Relief of Supernatural Pretzel-Benders, occupations or avocations which appear so frequently in the blurbs accompanying the pictures of the hopeful candidates for the Corporation. A little work, a little fun, a nice family, that modicum of civic and philanthropic work that is expected of any reasonably decent person—that about tells the story. Living far away from New Haven, my contacts with the Class have been few, but I look back upon our days of college with pleasure and my fellow members with affection.”

Haight continued as a partner in the law firm of Haight & Haight until 1939, and for the past five years he has been a member of the firm of Dorsey, Lubersky & Haight. He was married on July 19, 1921, at Crystal Springs, Wash., to Ruth Gazzam, daughter of Warren Lea and Lulu Yeaton Gazzam. They have three children: Gilbert Pierce, Jr., born June 8, 1922, Mary Gazzam on August 8, 1924, and Warren Gazzam on September 7, 1929, all in Seattle. Following his graduation from Stanford in 1943, Gilbert, Jr., worked on the Manhattan Project for three years. He took his Ph.D. degree at Princeton in 1946, was a Rhodes Scholar during 1947-48, and is now assistant professor of chemistry at George Washington University. Married in 1946 to Shirley Grapek, he has three daughters: Jennifer Lea, Loisanne, and Charlene Ellen. Mary, who graduated from Smith in 1945, was married in 1949 to Otis A. Pease, Yale '49. He is a graduate student at Yale, and they are living in New Haven. The younger boy graduated from Stanford with the Class of 1951; he makes his home in Seattle.

HOWARD PARKER HAMBLIN. Newspaper correspondent; residence, 10 State Street, Worcester, Mass.

Hamblin writes: “I left the family business in 1930. Did some correspondence work for International News Service from April, 1932, until June, 1942. Also have had, from time to time, several daily papers on my correspondence string. Their number has been narrowed down to the Fitchburg Sentinel.”

He adds that he has no political affiliations and votes independently, that he is a Congregationalist, that reading is his hobby, and that he has never married.

JOHN WESLEY HANES. Vice-president, Olin Industries, Inc. (manufacturing), 570 Lexington Avenue, New York 22, N.Y.; residence, Millbrook, N.Y.

Hanes continued as a partner in the New York brokerage firm of Charles D. Barney & Company until 1937. He then went to Washington as commissioner of the Securities and Exchange Commission and after serving for a year in that capacity was with the Treasury Department for a year, first as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and then as Under Secretary. He was associated with the Hearst Corporation from 1940 to 1947 and then became connected with the United States Lines Company, of which he is still a director and chairman of the executive and finance committee. Since 1950 he has been vice-president of Olin Industries, Inc., and he is also president of the Ecusta Paper Corporation and a director of the Bankers Trust Company, the Johns-Manville Corporation, the Purolator Products Company, and Thomas Young Orchids. In 1950 Hanes served as vice-chairman of the Republican Finance Committee. Yale gave him an honorary M.A. degree in 1940, and he received an LL.D. degree at Duke that same year and a D.C.S. at New York University in 1950.

He was first married on November 21, 1916, to Agnes Mitchel, whose death occurred in 1935. His second marriage, to Hope Yandell, took place on August 4, 1937, in Greenwich, Conn. He has five children, all of whom were born in New York: Agnes Philips on October 13, 1918, John Wesley, Jr., on March 31, 1925, Ormsby M. on November 15, 1928, Susan Yandell on May 19, 1938, and David Yandell on July 7, 1941.

ERSKINE BIRCH HARRISON. Residence, 2193 North Euclid Street, Upland, Calif.

"Listen, gentlemen," says Harrison, "there is no change, except that I now own no citrus and have taken up weaving for my spare time."

Turning to the Quindecennial Record, we find that after graduation Harrison settled down to a "free and easy life" on a lemon ranch in California and later worked for five years in a bank in Upland and subsequently for the Carlsbad (N.Mex.) National Bank. He was married on October 1, 1919, in Lidgerwood, N.Dak., to Eva Henrietta Movius. Their son, George Billingsley, was born on October 5, 1920, and their daughter, Margaret Adelaide, on June 28, 1924, both in Pasadena.

CARL ERIC HARSTRÖM. Address, Petroleum Heat & Power Company, Southfield Avenue, Stamford, Conn.

HORACE MCKINLAY HATCH. Customers' man, Gude, Winmill & Company, brokers, 1 Wall Street, New York, N.Y.; residence, 701 Park Avenue, New York 21.

"With the exception of nearly five years in Cuba [1919-23—with the National City Bank], my life has followed a fairly conventional New York pattern," Hatch says. "I went to the Plattsburg camps in 1915, enlisted in Squadron A, New York Cavalry, that year, and went to the Border in 1916. I was commissioned in the 12th New York Infantry in April, 1917, but was discharged for physical disability. Later I was commissioned in the Aviation Section of the Signal Corps and won the war in Texas. I returned to Wall Street after Cuba and have been there ever since, with the exception of two war jobs of a few months' duration and little importance. Like most contemporary New York friends, I will probably end up on a farm. I'm still a bachelor, though I like to follow the women, as well as the horses."

Since 1939 Hatch has been associated with Gude, Winmill & Company, members of the New York Stock Exchange, handling his own customers. Before that he was with other Stock Exchange firms, including James H. Oliphant & Company and Watson & White. He is a Republican county committeeman and a member of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church and of the Union Club of New York and Holland Lodge, No. 8, A.F. and A.M. "My chief outside interest is literature and my chief hobby is working in the woods on my mother's farm in Barre, Mass.," he tells us—adding that he writes occasional fiery letters to the newspapers.

THOMAS PIERREPONT HAZARD. Engaged in handling various business interests; business and residence, Peace Dale, R.I.

Hazard writes: "On graduating from college, I went to work for the Solvay Process Company at Syracuse, N.Y., where I worked in a broad range of departments, and by 1922 I was serving as assistant to the president. In 1920 five chemical concerns, including the Solvay group, were merged into the Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation, whose management desired sweeping reorganization. As a result, in 1923 I found myself 'squeezed out.'

"I returned to Rhode Island to take over management of a number of ancient trusts and corporations. Some of these entities had been carried on since 1876, chiefly because no one had had sufficient time to give to their liquidation. So in a sense I became the 'clean-up' guy for four generations, since my having taken on such work meant that those of our time were prone to leave their problems to me to work out. It has been a most varied experience! At one time I was running a short line railroad, a large warehouse in Providence, a trout farm, a New Mexico pottery plant, and a four-thousand-acre ranch in California, as well as real estate properties in New Mexico, Vermont, New York, and Rhode Island.

"It took a lot of time (and hard work) to find the right solution to such a variety and number of problems, but I now can say that I have just about worked myself out of a job, and that's all right with me. The few remaining assets are chiefly held in one entity. Others have a terminable existence to known and agreed owners!

"While carrying on this work, I entered politics, as a Republican. After serving my town as councilman and State Senator, I received the nomination for Congress in 1932. The F.D.R. wave engulfed me, as well as so many others. In 1938, after the hurricane, I was elected State Treasurer as part of Governor William H. Vanderbilt's team and had two very active years reorganizing the fiscal setup of the state. Vanderbilt and the rest of us were defeated for reelection, because of his over-ambitious efforts to 'clean up' the state. Rhode Island's first primary occurred in 1948. I was not originally the choice of the Republican State Central Committee as their nominee for United States Senator, but by personally canvassing a large majority of that committee, I received their endorsement for that position and then collected more votes in the primary than the rest of the candidates put together. Any one who took part in the 1948 campaign in the East, I am sure, will agree that Republicans put up a listless, colorless fight, with the well-known result.

"I very much enjoy freshwater fishing and sailing. At surf bathing I use a novel small surfboard which gives me wonderful rides. I still play tennis—doubles only—whenever I can and enjoy it hugely. In the colder six months of the year I spend all the time I can spare in the woods, practicing 'forestry.' In my case this involves clearing out damaged or inferior trees, salvaging what I can from the operation. As a result I have been officially appointed Rhode Island Tree Farmer No. 2! Each year I saw up a few thousand board feet of lumber."

Hazard commented that his answers to the specific questions on our questionnaire seemed to him to present an odd picture. We wouldn't say that, but certainly a great variety of interests is covered. The current connections are as follows: president, Peace Dale Offices, Inc. (management and sale of real estate); president, American Fish Culture Company (propagation and culture of trout); partner, Sturges, Chaffee & Hazard of Providence (investment agents); president, Rhode Island Estates Corporation (management and sale of real estate); director, Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation, Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company, and United Electric Railway of Providence; executor of two estates and trustee of two trusts.

The "clean-up" process and previous occupations include the following: R. Hazard Estate, Inc. (management and sale of real estate)—vice-president, 1927—president, 1945—liquidated, 1950; Anna Hazard Land Company (management and sale of real estate)—treasurer, 1928, until liquidation, 1946; Rowland Third, Inc. (management and sale of real estate—properties in Vermont and New Mexico)—vice-president, 1932 — president, 1945 — liquidation, 1948; Associated Realty Corporation (management and sale of real estate)—president, 1934-45; Narragansett Pier Railroad Company (short line railroad)—president, 1926-43; executor of four estates, 1931-49; trustee of three trusts, 1932—last one terminated, 1949.

Hazard has been president of the Narragansett Library Association since 1926 and moderator of the Union Fire District since 1947. He was president of the South County Hospital from 1936 to 1938, served as chairman of the local Community Chest and American Red Cross in 1950, and as vice-president of the World Affairs Council of Rhode Island and chairman of the local chapter in 1950.

From 1941 to 1943 he was chief of the priorities division of the War Production Board's Boston office. In May of the latter year he went on active duty as a major in the Army, serving until November, 1945, when he was released with the rank of lieutenant colonel. He was in the Mediterranean theater until May, 1944, and subsequently served in the United Kingdom, Normandy, and Paris as a member of the G-5 staff of the deputy theater commander. He was awarded the Bronze Star and the following foreign decorations: Chevalier du Merite Agricole, La Croix d'Officier, Order of Adolph of Nassau, the Medal of Reconnaissance Française, and Officier de l'Instruction Publique.

On May 20, 1922, Hazard was married in Philadelphia to Anne Francis Cope, daughter of the late Walter Cope and Eliza Middleton Cope. Their oldest daughter, Sophia Francis, who was born March 20, 1923, graduated from Sarah Lawrence in 1945. In 1946 she married Philip E. Barringer, Princeton '40, of Philadelphia, who is now with the Department of Defense in Washington; they have a son, Thomas, born in 1947. The older boy, Thomas P., Jr., born May 31, 1925, was in the Army from 1943 to 1946, serving with the 14th Armored Division, 7th Army. Mary Pierrepont, born April 12, 1927, attended Sarah Lawrence. The third daughter, Anne F., who was born December 5, 1929, attended Radcliffe with the Class of 1951, and the younger son, Oliver C., born December 7, 1931, is in the Yale Class of 1954. Sophia was born in Syracuse and the others in Providence.

JOHN CRULL HERMAN. Senior partner, John C. Herman & Company, tobacco manufacturers, Box 22, New Cumberland, Pa.; residence, R.D., Dauphin, Pa.

"Have taken life rather easy," says Herman. "Kept the wolf from the door, but the emphasis was on rather easy living and devotion to family. Not much traveling, lots of golf in earlier years, now as much hunting (seven states last year; small game) and fishing (mainly trout) as possible."

Herman, who has been a partner in John C. Herman & Company since graduation, became senior partner in July, 1935. In April, 1945, he was appointed a member of the Pennsylvania Game Commission. During the war he was gunnery officer of Flotilla 58, Coast Guard Reserve (T), and also served in the Ration Board and as a member of the Post-war Planning Committee. He is on the board of stewards of the Methodist Church.

His marriage to Margaret Stackpole, daughter of Edward James and Maria Kate Hummel Stackpole (and sister of our Ed), took place in Harrisburg, Pa., on October 9, 1915. They have had four children: Margaret Stackpole, born October 19, 1916, John Crull, 3d, on January 18, 1918, Nancy in August, 1923 (died August, 1926), and James Stackpole on August 17, 1928. Margaret, who is now Mrs. John S. Penna, of Belmar, N.J., has three daughters. John graduated from Yale with the degree of B.Arch. in 1942 and was on active duty as a lieutenant in the Navy from December, 1942, to November, 1945. After serving as Admiral Blandy's photographic officer throughout the Pacific campaign, he entered business in Denver, Colo., in connection with photographic interpretation for oil. He later joined Harrison's staff and helped to design the United Nations building (while designing elevations he occupied a desk opposite the Russian spy, Gubicheff). He is now with Cunningham & Company, engineers and contractors, in Detroit. The younger boy prepared for college at Andover, was in the Air Force from 1946 to 1948, and graduated from Yale in 1950. He is now associated with Ed Stackpole at the Telegraph Press.

THEODORE POMEROY HERRICK. Physician; offices, 10515 Carnegie Avenue, Cleveland 6, Ohio, and 21801 Lake Shore Boulevard, Euclid 23, Ohio; residence, 27671 Lake Shore Boulevard, Euclid 23.

"I've had my nose pretty much to the grindstone in the private practice of pediatrics," Herrick says. "In the early years I did school examining in Cleveland, Cleveland Heights, South Euclid, and Lyndhurst. Then in 1926 I became medical examiner at the Fisher Body Company and in 1941 at the White Motor Company, each of these as a part-time job. Have been particularly interested in the work of the Association for Crippled and Disabled, where I became medical examiner in 1933. This is now the Cleveland Rehabilitation Center and during this last year has become affiliated with the Medical School of Western Reserve University. Have done the usual dispensary and staff work at St. Luke's Hospital and am looking forward to the work at the completion of the new Euclid-Glenville Hospital. Have had an office since 1930 in the Carnegie Medical Building, Cleveland, which is near the hospitals, and since 1947 have also had one in the adjoining city of Euclid at 21801 Lake Shore Boulevard, which is near my home."

Herrick has been chief of the pediatric service at the Glenville Hospital since 1943 and was recently appointed assistant clinical professor of pediatrics at Western Reserve, to serve on the committee for the Cleveland Rehabilitation Center. In addition to his connection with St. Luke's and the Glenville Hospital, he has visiting privileges to the private wards at the University, Babies and Children, Mt. Sinai, Huron Road, and Booth Memorial hospitals and MacDonald House. During the war he was active in civilian defense. He is a member of the Old Stone Presbyterian Church in Cleveland and is independent in politics.

Herrick's marriage to Barbara Watson Goss, daughter of Rollin Jones and Olive Watson Goss, took place in Wilder, Vt., June 18, 1921. Their older son, Theodore Pomeroy, Jr., born May 6, 1922, in Cleveland, attended Bethany College in West Virginia until reporting for service in the Army Air Force in 1943. He subsequently became a navigator and in November, 1944, was shot down in the Mercersburg raid over Germany and was taken a prisoner of war. Upon his return from service in 1945, he attended the University of Michigan, where he received the degree of B.B.A. in 1946 and an M.A. in accounting the following year. Since then he has been an instructor in accounting at Ohio State University, while finishing his work for his Ph.D. degree. He married Jean A. Rhodes on November 20, 1943, and has a daughter, Nancy, born September 22, 1946. The younger boy, Thomas Goss, who was born in Cleveland, August 3, 1926, attended Western Reserve until he went on active duty in the Army Air Force in 1945. He was later transferred to the Military Police while awaiting cadet training. After the war he continued his course at Western Reserve and since receiving his B.A. degree in September, 1948, has been with the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company, where, after three years of advanced training, he was assigned to the department of financial reports. His marriage to Dorothy I. Rhoades took place on September 13, 1947.

ROBERT COURTNEY HILLIARD. Address, 4717 Emerson Avenue, South, Minneapolis, Minn.

FRANCIS WORTHINGTON HINE. Address, care John G. Jackson, 15 Broad Street, New York, N.Y.

WILLIAM HENRY TOWNE HOLDEN. Address, 2042 Crary Street, Pasadena 7, Calif.

JOSEPH VALENTINE HOUGHTON. With Dun & Bradstreet (credit investigating, reporting, and analysis), 99 Church Street, New York, N.Y.; residence address, care Alfred S. Houghton, 252 Center Lane, Levittown, N.Y.

Houghton was an industrial engineer, employed successively by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in their printing division in New York from 1930 to 1936, the Standard Statistics Company of New York from 1936 to 1939, the Edo Aircraft Company of College Point, N.Y., from 1940 to 1946, and Eisen Brothers of Hoboken, N.J., in 1947. He was in ill health during the next three years as the result of a paralytic stroke, but since January, 1950, has been affiliated with Dun & Bradstreet. "My special hobby has been music—as a pianist, orchestra director, and manager," he says. "In my earlier years I managed and directed orchestras in the William Penn Hotel in Pittsburgh, the Onondaga Hotel in Syracuse, and the Floridian Hotel and Rialto Theatre in Tampa, Fla. Earlier I had been connected with the Meyer Davis musical organization."

Houghton is an honorary life member of the Olean (N.Y.) Council of the Knights of Columbus after fifty years as an active member. He was married on October 3, 1919, in New York City to Lillian A. Tripp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Tripp, of West Haven, Conn. Her death occurred on January 25, 1945. He has three sons: Joseph A., born July 9, 1917, Clayton W. on February 10, 1919, and Alfred Stanley on October 1, 1925. The youngest boy was born in Tampa and the others in Olean. Joseph, who is employed as a planner on the engine assembly line at the Curtiss-Wright plant in Woodbridge, N.J., is unmarried. Clayton, who attended Northwestern University, and Alfred, who went to St. Bonaventure University and Notre Dame, are both with the Fairchild Camera & Equipment Company of Jamaica, N.Y., which specializes in high-speed cameras designed for use on jet planes—Clayton being a production engineer and Alfred a laboratory technician. Clayton was married in 1941 to Shirley Ann Folker, of St. Albans, and has a daughter, Cheryle Lynne; they live in Westbury, N.Y. Alfred's marriage to Jeanette Habersack, of New York City, took place in 1948. They have a daughter, Linda Susan, and are living in Levittown.

LEON BRADBURY HOVEY. Assistant manager, underwriting department, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company; residence, 7 Arlington Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Hovey, who has been with the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company for the past thirty-two years, became assistant manager of the underwriting department in 1939. During the war he served as an air raid warden. He plays quite a bit of golf and is a member of the Oakley Country Club.

Hovey's marriage to Grace Hilda Verity, Vassar '15, daughter of Walter Showler and Cora Hopkins Verity, took place in Cambridge on September 15, 1917. Their daughter, Evelyn Frances, who was born in Cambridge on October 1, 1918, graduated from Wellesley in 1941. She was married in February, 1943, to Harrison P. Baker and has two children: Carol Ann, born in July, 1945, and Robert H. in December, 1946.

Their son, Emerson Bradbury, born January 19, 1925, also in Cambridge, graduated from Harvard with the degree of B.A. in 1950 and is now a chemist with the B. B. Chemical Company of Cambridge. He had three years' service as a sergeant in the Army Engineers during the war and received four battle stars.

JO ROBERT HOWARD. Address, 1304 East University Street, Honolulu, Hawaii.

KENNETH DURYEE HULL. Assistant secretary-treasurer, American Bureau of Shipping (ship registry), 45 Broad Street, New York 4, N.Y.; residence, 450 East 63d Street, New York 21.

Hull continued as a general partner in Joseph Walker & Sons, members of the New York Stock Exchange, until 1939 and was a special partner the following year. For the past few years he has been assistant secretary-treasurer of the American Bureau of Shipping. Since 1930 he has been vice-president and a member of the executive committee of both the Fort Wayne & Jackson Railway and the Detroit, Hillsdale & Southwestern Railroad, of both of which he was president from 1942 to 1945. He has also been a director of the Sanborn Map Company of New York since 1936.

In 1940 Hull was assistant to Alan Valentine, director of the Democrats for Willkie in the Presidential campaign, and during the war he was a building director and also active in the air raid service. His hobbies are drawing and painting—chiefly portraiture, and he has exhibited in the Yale Club art shows a number of times, receiving a first prize for a portrait in oil in the 1936 show and two second prizes in 1948, one for a still life in oil and the other in drawing. He has made about eight trips to Europe, five for pleasure and three on business, and took a short Mediterranean cruise in the winter of 1928 and a North Cape cruise in 1934.

Hull was first married on June 6, 1917, in Brooklyn, N.Y., to Dorothy N. Luckenbach, daughter of Edward and Henrietta Weber Luckenbach. They were divorced in 1945. His second marriage, to Marjorie Rhodes Towne Semple, daughter of Walter Mills and Lyda Maude Rhodes Towne, took place in Reno, Nevada, on June 1, 1946. He has two children: Shirley Tucker, born November 20, 1918, and Kenneth Duryee, Jr., on June 18, 1923, both in Brooklyn. Shirley attended the Greenvale School at Roslyn, N.Y., Westover, and the Briallmont School at Lausanne. A member of the Junior League, she was married in New York in June, 1942, to George L. de Peyster, Harvard '33. They live in San Francisco with their two children: George L., Jr., born April 1, 1943, and Francis Van Cortlandt on December 5, 1945, both in New York. Kenneth, Jr., attended the Greenvale and Eaglebrook schools and Choate. In 1941 he graduated from the Academy of Aeronautics, Flushing, N.Y., and during the war was a Pfc. in the Air Force, doing radar and highspeed radio work. He served in the Pacific area for three years and took part in the invasion of the Philippines. Following his discharge at the end of the war he entered Menlo Junior College in California. He later transferred to Stanford, where he graduated in 1950, and is now taking courses at George Washington University in preparation for the diplomatic service.

CARLTON CUYLER HUNT. Agent, The Travelers Insurance Company, 183 East Main Street, Rochester, N.Y.; residence, 383 Park Avenue, Rochester.

Hunt, who has been an agent for The Travelers in Rochester since September, 1925, is also a partner in the firm of Hunt-Miller Company, manufacturers of bilge pumps and other marine hardware specialties, which was established in May, 1947. During 1943-44 he was a supervisor in a war plant engaged in the manufacture of carbines. Hunt, whose principal hobby is sailboat racing, served as commodore of the Canandaigua Yacht Club during 1940 and 1941. He is still a member of that club and also of the Monroe Golf Club at Pittsford, N.Y.

Hunt and his first wife, Adele Frances Wiedemann Hunt, were divorced in 1931. In September, 1932, he married Gladys Egbert, whose death occurred in September, 1944, and on March 31, 1951, he was married at Crystal River, Fla., to Irene Pembroke Yawger, daughter of Winfield P. and Sarah Pembroke. His son, Carlton C., Jr., who was born in Waterbury, Conn., on August 11, 1918, is a graduate of the Cornell Medical School. He interned at the New York Hospital, served as a captain in the Army Medical Corps during the war, and is now engaged in research at Johns Hopkins. He is married and has three sons.

ROBERT HUNTER. Proprietor, Robert Hunter & Company, investment and financial advisers, 112 South 16th Street, Philadelphia 2, Pa.; residence, Yale Club, 226 South 16th Street, Philadelphia 2.

Hunter writes: "From 1929 until the summer of 1931 I was sales manager in the Philadelphia office of Messrs. Graham, Parsons & Company, investment bankers. In 1931 I became the representative in the Philadelphia area for the New York banking firm of J. & W. Seligman, and I remained with them until 1933, when I resigned to go into business on my own account as investment and financial adviser to certain individuals with trust and other investment funds.

"The following articles ('company studies') were written by me and were published in Barron's National Business and Financial Weekly: 'Archer-Daniels-Midland'; 'Rayonier, Inc.'; 'Firestone Tire & Rubber'; 'Philadelphia Electric'; 'Lone Star Cement'; 'International Nickel'; 'Remington Rand'; 'Mohawk Carpet' [the first in 1949, the next five in 1950, and the last two in 1951].

"I have been very much interested in the Yale Club of Philadelphia since its organization in 1921. Have held various offices in the past and at present am the club's librarian. I have been living at the club since 1945. Among my recreational activities are the teaching of a game called sniff (played with dominoes) to the younger generations of the sons of Eli and a five to ten mile walk through the country every week-end. By the former I am able to keep my bar bill below the room rent, and by the latter I keep myself in condition to play more sniff.

"Ever since 1930 I have been filing for future reference data relating to the subject of gold, in all of its aspects. In 1945 I started to write up some of the data with the hope of ultimately publishing a book that would be interesting and understandable enough to appeal to the general reader who might have completed a high school education. The primary purpose of the work is educational.

"At the risk of giving myself ulcers I have been working in my 'spare time,' because I am not in the fortunate position where I can retire from active business to complete the work. The main historical narrative is preceded by an introductory section which covers in outline form a vast period of time, from the prehistoric to the establishment of credit currency in England. The main narrative falls naturally into two parts, the first from the fall of Rome to World War I and the second from World War I to the present time. I am now in the process of completing the introductory section in the hope that I shall be able to complete the whole matter during my present incarnation."

Since 1942 Hunter has been the sole proprietor of Robert Hunter & Company, which had previously been operated as a limited partnership. He is a member of the Episcopal Church. His first marriage, to Christine Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Spencer, took place in Philadelphia on August 18, 1917. They were divorced in 1927. In 1929 he was married in Tuxedo Park, N.Y., to Margaret Shippen Ogden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Ogden. They were divorced in 1937. He has two daughters: Margaret (Margot) Spencer, born in Philadelphia, December 24, 1918, and Elisabeth (Lisa) Ogden, born in 1931, also in Philadelphia. Margot, who was married in Philadelphia in 1938 to Lincoln E. Smith, has three children: Peter H., born in 1939, Michael in 1942, and Deidre in 1944. Lisa, since her graduation from school, has had a job with an insurance company. She wants to be a career woman, her father says.

ISAAC ROBERT HYATT. Secretary, Little, Somers & Hyatt Company, Meriden, Conn.; residence, 24 Ten Acre Road, New Britain, Conn.

In a note which came from Hyatt in November, 1951, he said that he had been out of action for several months, which explained the delay in sending his report. "Do not know my future plans, but expect to get back into something," he said. "I still keep my connection with the family concern in Meriden, the Little, Somers & Hyatt Company, as secretary, but consider it temporary."

Hyatt's marriage to Emily Elizabeth Cone took place in East Had-dam, Conn., on September 3, 1920. They have two children: Donald Bishop, who was born on April 22, 1924, and Jane Gillette, born on January 20, 1930. Donald graduated from The Taft School in 1942 and received a B.A. degree at Dartmouth in 1950. During the war he was a lieutenant in the Army Air Force, and he is now associated with the National Broadcasting Company in their New York television department. He was married in 1946 in Bakersfield, Calif., to Elaine Dickenson. Jane, who graduated from Northfield Seminary with the Class of 1947 and attended the New England Conservatory of Music for two years, is in the Class of 1952 in the Yale School of Music.

EDWARD JEROME. Lawyer, 60 East 42d Street, New York 17, N.Y.; residence, 311 East 72d Street, New York 21.

Jerome was in the law department of the General Electric Company in Schenectady, N.Y., until 1939 and has since been practicing alone, except for the period from 1942 to 1945, when he was in the Army.

"In December, 1939," he says, "I began work on a book to which I have given the title, Caesarism, An Essay on the Philosophy of Government; and I completed writing it at 10:00 P.M., December 31, 1951. One publisher has the manuscript and seems to be favorably impressed by it, and another has asked for it. So I am hoping that the book will be published some time this year."

Jerome gives the following list of his published writings: Governments and Money (Little, Brown & Company, Boston, 1935); The Problem of the Constitution (Longmans, Green & Company, New York, 1939); two articles: "What is Happening to the Bill of Rights?" in American Affairs, July, 1949, and "Mr. Justice Douglas' Imperium," in The Freeman, May, 1951.

He is a member of the Episcopal Church. His marriage to Albertina Lane Pitkin took place in Schenectady on October 11, 1930. They have no children.

KENNETH CLARK JOHNSON. With White & Case, lawyers, 14 Wall Street, New York, N.Y.; residence, 60 Sargent Road, Scarsdale, N.Y.

Johnson has been associated with the New York law firm of White & Case since 1927. His marriage to Marione Virginia Fiske, daughter of Haley and Marione Cushman Fiske, took place in New York on February 21, 1918. They have two children: Barbara Anne Livesay, who was born in Cambridge, Mass., on August 2, 1920, and Kenneth Clark, Jr., born December 10, 1921, in New York City. The latter received a B.A. degree at Cornell in 1945 and an LL.B. three years later.

GEORGE BRINTON JOHNSTON. President, Legatees Funding Corporation, private bankers, 43 Exchange Place, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 140 East 28th Street, New York 16; permanent address, 50 Vanderbilt Avenue, New York 17.

In 1937 Johnston founded and became president of the Legatees Funding Corporation, whose business he describes as private banking—long-term financing secured by remainder estates. “It required all of twelve years after graduation for me to learn that no one was qualified to teach me what I desired to know,” he says. “Accordingly, I spent the years from 1927 to 1932 in searching for some of the truth in the field of finance with the result that I was not wholly unprepared for the ‘blow’ which proved to be so complete as to expose the clay feet in our reputed idols. The results of my personal research during those years has been evident in my activities since.”

In addition to the Legatees Funding Corporation, he is the founder of Independent Traders, Inc., “engaged in buying America by its citizens, i.e., financing their installment purchase of American securities over a period of four to ten years under the novel plan that they will not be sold out, regardless of the market, so long as they make their regular payments. All securities are financed and registered in the name of the purchaser, whose life is insured for his debit balances. As Legatees is unique in its field, so the copyrighted contract of Independent Traders, Inc., is unique in its features.

“The Legatees Funding Corporation has supplied social relief (and additional capital for business purposes) to those in distress, for the first time in American history at legal rates of interest, with the result that we have driven the Shylocks, formerly dominating this field, out of business. It has required a long period of arduous and patient effort in familiarizing the banking fraternity with this type of paper, new to them, but it now appears that the insurance companies will take it on as an investment, thereby relieving us of an onerous task of education.

"Latterly we have all been concerned with the constant pressure upon our body politic by the Red Column of Infiltration. Because the best publicity to combat this menace has little more effect than a daily splash in the papers, it was obvious that an equal and opposite force of constant pressure must be created to successfully meet this threat.

"Accordingly, under another corporate banner, we have initiated a program to provide long-term financing for the purchase of American securities by George Spelvin—the Sovereign Citizen. By spreading this term of purchase over a period of five to ten years, it is possible for the group in the lower middle earning bracket—the great mass of employees—to participate in a consequential ownership of a number of American industrial and corporate enterprises.

"Once again this is a problem of education, but of self-education by George Spelvin based on the thesis that where one's treasure is, one's heart is also. If, obviously, the burden of maintaining our system of free enterprise and the philosophy of individualism must be borne directly by a greater number of us, then this segment of our population must be reached by direct ownership and educated by corporate publicity. If finally five hundred thousand new stockholders can be enlisted from the ranks of employees, then certainly they will join us, the opposition. Certainly we must win this Battle of the Centuries or else dig up the bones of our revered ancestors and, with them, seek anew some uncontaminated land.

"Retire? We have just begun to fight. May it not be too late!"

In 1949 Johnston became a member of the executive committee of the New York Home for Homeless Boys, Inc., and since 1950 has also been treasurer of its building and expansion fund. He is a Congregationalist, belongs to the Yale clubs of New York and Philadelphia, and is past master of Independent Royal Arch Lodge, No. 2, A.F. and A.M., New York (founded 1760), and the York Rite bodies, including the honorary (elective) Red Cross of Constantine. He says that he has taken no part in politics other than assisting candidates in two campaigns. His reply to our question about recreations, hobbies, etc.: "Realizing the position into which we were both drifting and being led politically, I resorted to more active participation in the Fraternity that gave birth to this land of freedom with its accent on individual rights. There I found such relaxation from the activities of the day that it has become a virtual hobby, although, like all hobbies, it has entailed considerable work and effort."

On December 24, 1929, Johnston was married in New York to Elizabeth Belding Wilson, daughter of Thomas and Ida Wilson, of Washington, Ind., and a great-granddaughter of General William Clark of the Lewis and Clark expedition. They have no children.

J. RUSSELL JOHNSTON. Contracting officer, Air Matériel Command, U.S. Air Force, 514 Harries Building, Dayton 2, Ohio; residence, 125 Crescent Boulevard, Dayton 9.

From 1930 to 1942 Johnston was in the investment brokerage business. During the next four years he was on active duty as a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force, with an assignment as plant representative of the Chief Production Section, Mid-Central District, in Chicago. He still holds the same rank in the Reserve. Upon his release to inactive duty in 1946 he became contract officer for the Veterans Administration, 6th District Office, Columbus, Ohio. Since 1949 he has been contract officer in the Field Operations Office at the headquarters of the Air Matériel Command in Dayton, which is concerned with the procurement of airplanes and parts. Johnston is a member of the Forty and Eight, the American Legion, the Masonic order (Blue Lodge, Scottish Rite, and Shrine), and the Episcopal Church.

He was married some time ago to the former Ella M. Robinson. They have no children.

STANLEY BAYNE JONES. Address, 165 State Street, Nanticoke, Pa.

WILLIAM AMOS JORDAN. Staff assistant, commercial headquarters, Southern New England Telephone Company, 227 Church Street, New Haven, Conn.; residence, 4503 Whitney Avenue, Mt. Carmel, Conn.

Jordan has been with the Southern New England Telephone Company since 1915. In August, 1942, he was transferred from New Haven to Middletown, Conn., as manager in charge of the Middletown, East Hampton, and Moodus exchanges, but since March, 1948, has been back in New Haven in his present capacity. During the war he was chairman of the Middletown War Finance Committee (War Bond drives) and a member of the general committee of the War Council and of the Middletown Transportation Committee. He is a member of the Church of the Redeemer in New Haven, during the period from 1939 to 1942 being clerk of the church, and while living in Middletown he served for three years as a trustee of the First Church of Christ, Congregational. Jordan belongs to Wooster Lodge, No. 79, A.F. and A.M., in New Haven.

"My only travels, outside of New England," he says, "have been an annual trip to Missouri to visit my mother, who was 100 years old on July 24, 1951, and who is still active and mentally alert. My only hobby at the present time is gardening. During the last twenty years I have devoted much time to figure skating and have been a member of the New Haven Skating Club. I did a little stamp collecting, and I still keep up a collection of Yale football memorabilia that makes it possible for me to check facts about every game Yale has played since we entered college."

On June 15, 1918, he was married in Woodmont, Conn., to Marion Josephine Porter, daughter of George Willis and Mathilde Von Noll Friedrich Porter. Their daughter, Mary Porter, who was born in New Haven, December 5, 1924, received a B.A. degree at Vassar in 1945 and an M.A. at Wesleyan in 1947. She married Newell Charlton Gilbert, Washington and Lee '41, son of Frank Wellington Gilbert, Yale '16, and has a son, Charlton Hovenden, born on January 2, 1951.

CHARLES HENRY JUNG. Director, special educational administrative services, New Jersey State Department of Education, 175 West State Street, Trenton 8, N.J.; residence, 17 Pierson Road, South, Maplewood, N.J.

Jung reports: "After graduation in 1915 I taught Latin for five years at Poly Prep Country Day School in Brooklyn, N.Y., and had a boys' camp in the summer at Readfield, Maine, on Lake Maranacook. In 1920 I left teaching to enter business with the father of one of my students at Poly Prep and became a traveling salesman for the W. D. Hannah Shoe Company of New York City and Newburyport, Mass. I traveled in New England, New Jersey, some of New York State, Philadelphia, Chester, Wilmington, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C., and as far south as Charlotte, N.C.

"Returned to educational work on March 1, 1930, as executive secretary of the New Jersey State Board of Regents, with offices in Newark, later moving to Trenton. Continued in this position until July 1, 1945, when reorganization consolidated much of the work of the Board of Regents with the newly reorganized State Department of Education. Am still in this department.

"I have been much interested in church and religious education work. Have been president of the old Essex County Council of Religious Education for three terms, vice-president of the old New Jersey Council of Religious Education for several years, president of the South Orange Council of Churches, chairman of the old New Jersey Christian Laymen's Commission, and president of the Presbyterian Men of the Norris and Orange Presbytery for a term. Am now an elder of the First Presbyterian and Trinity Church in South Orange and superintendent of the senior department and a teacher in the church school. Also happy with five grandchildren!!!!

"A cabin on Gardiner Lake, East Machias, Maine, is my summer hobby and vacation. Am building an addition on it this year and hope to have it ready about the middle of July."

In 1940 Jung received the degree of M.A. at the School of Education of New York University. He has had several articles published in the Educational Bulletin issued by the New Jersey State Department of Education and is the co-author with Dr. M. W. Brown of an article on Library Building Needs in New Jersey in the American Library Board Journal. He has worked as a zone captain in the Community Chest drives of the Oranges and Maplewood for several years.

He was married in Newark on June 9, 1917, to Wanda Fredericka Schneider, daughter of Louis and Louisa K. Schneider. Their older son, Charles H., Jr., who was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., November 1, 1918, graduated from Yale in 1939. During the war he was a staff sergeant in the Army Air Force, assigned to the Training Aids Division, and he is now vice-president of the William Steinen Manufacturing Company and treasurer of the William F. Steinen Company, both of Newark, executive vice-president of Steinen of Connecticut, Inc., of Thomaston, Conn., and president of the Bar-Work Manufacturing Company, Inc., of Waterbury. He was married on September 20, 1941, in Maplewood to Alma R. Steinen and has three children: Richard C., Robert W., and Sally Anne. The family lives in South Orange.

The younger boy, Henry Wilkinson (named after Jung's roommate), was born in Newark, November 24, 1922. He attended Yale from September, 1941, until October, 1942, when he left to enlist in the Army Air Force. He too was in the Training Aids Division and became a sergeant. At present he is with the Chase National Bank in New York. He has taken night courses at the Rutgers University School of Business Administration for two years and has also attended summer sessions of the Institute of Banking. Henry's marriage to Ruth Sly took place in Maplewood on August 22, 1945. They are living in Livingston, N.J., and have two daughters: Barbara Ruth and Judith Sly.

WILLIAM B. JUTTE. Address, care Mrs. Irving G. Knox, 34 East 50th Street, New York, N.Y.

JAMES MONROE KEITH. Residence, 632 Romeo Road, Rochester, Mich.

Keith, who was connected with the sales and advertising department of the Ainsworth Manufacturing Company in Detroit at the time our Quindecennial Record was published, retired from business on October 1, 1949. He was first married on March 12, 1917, in Brooklyn, N.Y., to Elizabeth Casey, from whom he was divorced in 1935. His second marriage, to Aune Aho, daughter of Gurt and Ida Aho, took place in Middleboro, Ky., on September 23, 1935. Keith's daughter, Elizabeth Annie, was born in Detroit on January 8, 1918. She married Robert Beckrold and has three daughters: Karen, Laura, and Sally.

MILES COVERDALE KENNEDY. Partner, Coverdale & Colpitts, consulting engineers, 120 Wall Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 45 Fifth Avenue, New York 3.

Kennedy, who was a staff member of Coverdale & Colpitts from 1927 to 1932 and again from 1936 to 1942, became a partner in the firm on January 1, 1943. During the year 1932-33 he was chief examiner for the railroad division of R.F.C., for the next two years executive secretary of the Eastern Regional Coördinating Committee (railroads), and then for a year Eastern regional director of the office of the Federal Coördinator of Transportation. At the present time he is chairman of the board of the Tennessee, Alabama & Georgia Railway Company and a director of the Illinois Terminal Railroad Company and American Export Lines, Inc.

Kennedy is the co-author with George H. Burgess of Centennial History of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. He is a Republican and an Episcopalian and belongs to the Down Town Association, the Yale Club of New York, and the Racquet Club of Philadelphia. He is unmarried.

THOMAS THACHER KENT. Engaged in real estate appraisal; business and residence, Laurel Way, Kentfield, Calif.

"In 1930," writes Kent, "my kids were four and I had just finished my stint as a land appraiser in San Diego. I opened an appraisal office in San Rafael and wondered what was going to happen as things went from bad to worse. The phone rang, and I met Newton Drury, executive secretary of the State Park Commission. They had rather liked my beach appraisals in San Diego and wanted me to work for them. They were wonderful people, and in the next five years I appraised nearly all of the present parks in the State chain (over 110 projects, covering several hundred thousand acres) outside the redwood belt. Things got tougher and tougher and leaner and leaner, but the contacts made got me into several other interesting jobs. Probably the best was a condemnation suit by the Interior Department against W. R. Hearst at the Grand Cañon. I hold no brief for Mr. Hearst, but the offered price was less than ten per cent of the cost, and we succeeded in getting the Federal Court to award about six times the offered price. Since then I have worked all over the West on valuation matters. I have had some signal triumphs and some awful beatings in state and federal courts.

"During the war I was a shipyard welder and finished up bossing a crew of women. It was necessary and useful work, and if I do say so, I was damn good at it after the first year. The Air Service would have none of my old carcass during the war, so I continued with my very useful work as a shipyard welder (a trade learned after age 50). My personal work was in 150 ships, including the William Kent, launched on Armistice Day in 1942 and sponsored by my twin daughters.

"After the war I was a V.A. appraiser for two years, then decided that a general knowledge of the tax procedures in California would be useful both to me and the taxpayers, and accepted a temporary appointment under the State Board of Equalization as assistant appraiser. I started to take Civil Service examinations in 1948 and can assure any Yale graduate that any of them are easy (I came out first of about 150 applicants). I chose to continue to work for the State Board of Equalization on a statewide survey of the assessors' offices and spent nearly three years at it. These surveys meant months in the field and the most meticulous analysis of statistics (which were gathered by actual count of items in hundreds of volumes). The job consisted of surveys in twenty counties of our state, and most of them were touchy as hell, politically. I enjoyed the work thoroughly and passed my examinations for a higher rating, but did not like the routine of the regular job after the survey was over and was tired of hotels and hash house food. So on January 1, 1951, I quit the State job, and since then I have run my own appraisal business under my hat, with no office rent, no expense, and more work than I can do. My clients are mostly bucking the State against the new freeway through the county. We all know that the freeway is good, and about half of the cases have been settled out of court. I personally hope that all of them will be so settled.

"Hobbies include many diverse things, such as barbecue chef (I have cooked for as many as 500), photography (I helped develop and print 25,000 prints of engineering photographs of the Golden Gate Bridge), jewel cutting (strictly amateur, but some pretty good), gardening (Anne's), fighting and justifying the government, and arguing with friends and acquaintances. In my work I have been in every county (fifty-eight) in California and pride myself on knowing it 'like the back of my hand.' I have no special interest outside of people and things.

"I was appointed first chairman of the County Planning Commission, was elected to the board of directors of the Main Municipal Water District in March, 1920, and have been elected a director ever since and served as president for about eight years. In politics I have always been strictly non-partisan. I can call to mind no published speeches and have no particular desire to dig up unpublished ones, though many of them seemed good at the time. Doctors I patronize only when necessary, but lawyers are my stock in trade, and I frequently have cases for or against three or four of my legal friends. I still have the same wonderful wife, and my youngsters have made real places for themselves."

Kent belongs to the Elks (Lodge 1108, San Rafael) and was formerly a member of the Meadow Club of Tamalpais and the University Club of San Francisco. He was married August 16, 1918, in White-stone, N.Y., to Anne Helen Thompson, daughter of Charles A. and Ann Shannon Thompson. Their adopted children, the twins, Anne and Martha, were born in San Francisco on December 1, 1926. Marty is married to Richard Erskine, who graduated in engineering from Stanford University, took his M.A. degree at the University of California, and also studied at Cornell. He is working for the Bechtel Corporation, building a new synthetic catalyst plant for a major oil company in Paulsboro, N.J. They have a son, Richard Kent Erskine, called Kent, who was born in 1949. Anne (Nancy) graduated (B.A.) from the University of California in 1949 and spent a year at the Library School at Merritt Hospital in Oakland, getting a certificate as a registered medical record librarian. She is now working as assistant record librarian at the Children's Hospital in San Francisco and has passed her national tests.

CHARLES PARKHURST KINGSLEY. Residence, R.R. 3, Chestertown, Md.

Kingsley sent us the following brief report: "Retired from Mabon & Company and as a member of the New York Stock Exchange in December, 1937. Have a farm here on the Eastern Shore with my brother, Mabon Kingsley."

Kingsley had been connected with Mabon & Company since his graduation from Yale. He was married some time ago to Virginia Kelsey, daughter of Horatio Nelson and Burnette B. Kelsey. They have no children.

HARRY WALTER KINSLEY. In the insurance business, with offices at 97 Washington Street, South Norwalk, Conn., and 55 Liberty Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 35 Bayview Avenue, South Norwalk.

Kinsley has been independently engaged in the insurance business since 1929 and now has an office in South Norwalk, as well as in New York City. He was elected a director of the South Norwalk Public Library in 1931, becoming secretary three years later and vice-president in 1947. Since January, 1943, he has been senior warden of Trinity Church in South Norwalk, of which he was formerly a vestryman.

Kinsley's marriage to Alice Isbell, daughter of Revillo Frank and Mary T. Voltz Isbell, took place in New Haven on February 7, 1920, in Christ Church, where her parents had been married in 1889. They have four children: Mary Jane, born December 30, 1920, in Lawrence, Mass., Alice Isbell on April 2, 1922, in New Haven, Harry Walter, Jr., on July 10, 1930, in Norwalk, and Carol Waters on December 24, 1933, also in Norwalk. The oldest girl spent two years at Russell Sage College with the Class of 1942. On August 7, 1948, she was married in South Norwalk to Kenneth B. Lole, who is a graduate of the University of London and also has a D.D.S. degree from Northwestern. They are living in Harpenden, Hertfordshire, England. Her husband served for seven years as a captain in the Royal Army Dental Corps. Their daughter, Cynthia Jane, was born March 1, 1951. Alice, who graduated from the University of Connecticut with a B.A. degree in 1942, was married in South Norwalk, February 22, 1943, to David W. Clark, Jr., Yale '42 S. They have three children: Carol Evenden, born on December 25, 1943, Elizabeth Kinsley on April 17, 1945, and David William, 3d, on December 25, 1949. (Christmas Day must be rather special in that family!) They make their home in Hamden, Conn. Harry, Jr., Yale '52, graduated from Exeter in 1948. Carol graduated from the Northfield School last June and is now in the Freshman Class at Connecticut College for Women.

SIMON KLEIN. Lawyer, 400 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y.; residence, 277 Park Avenue, New York.

Klein continued in business as a surety agent and insurance broker until 1933, his last connection being with the National Surety Corporation of New York. He was admitted to the New York Bar that year and for a time was a clerk in the law office of Powers, Kaplan & Berger in New York, following which he became associated with the firm of Brush & Bloch. He was subsequently in the law office of Rosston, Hort & Brussel and then from 1942 to 1945 was connected with the enforcement legal division of the Office of Price Administration in Newark, N.J. Since then he has been practicing independently as an attorney and counselor at law in New York, conducting a general civil commercial practice, with emphasis on surety law.

On July 30, 1918, Klein was married in New York to Julia Greenbaum, daughter of Dr. Solomon Greenbaum and Kate Greenbaum, of Newark. Her death occurred on April 16, 1948. Their older daughter, Marjorie Lillian, who was born in Newark, September 23, 1920, received a B.A. degree at Montclair Teachers College in 1941. She married Maurice D. Godine (B.A. and D.D.S. McGill) and is living in Hampstead, Montreal; they have a daughter, Julia, born August 6, 1949. The younger girl, Rose Marie, born May 5, 1925, in East Orange, also has a B.A. degree (1945) from Montclair State Teachers College. She was a winner of the Prix de Paris in the Vogue National Contest. She married Julian E. Agoos, Harvard '40, and has two daughters: Susan, born August 8, 1946, and Emily on April 7, 1950; the family lives in Wilmington.

DWIGHT RUFUS KNAPP. Surgeon, 710 Water Street, Kerrville, Texas; residence, Thistle Hill Ranch, Junction Road, Kerrville.

Knapp deserted New England for the Lone Star State some years ago and since 1941, in addition to carrying on his surgical practice, has been operating a ranch. He was surgeon at the Secor Hospital and Clinic from 1930 to 1937, medical director and surgeon at the Kerrville General Hospital for the next twelve years, and since 1949 has been a staff member of the Sid Peterson Memorial Hospital.

He had resigned his captain's commission in the Reserve in 1930, and during the war he served as director of medical emergency for the county and also as a Draft Board examiner. He was elected president of the County Medical Society in 1933 and of the Southwest Texas Medical Society in 1949, and he is a director of the County Tuberculosis Association and the Red Cross and has taken an active part in other civic organizations, including the Tuberculosis Seal Committee and the Boy Scouts. During 1948-49 Knapp was a vestryman of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, and he is a past grand master of the Odd Fellows, a former lieutenant governor of Kiwanis, and belongs also to the Masonic order. He is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and has had several surgical papers published, among them "The First Use of Vitallium as a Skull Plate" and "A New Method for Repair of Recurrent Prolapsus Uteri."

"We have not been out of the country, except to Mexico and Canada, since 1930," he writes, "but very thoroughly around it: duck shooting in the Dakotas, deer, turkey, dove, and quail shooting in Texas; some fishing, but none of it seems as good as that I did in Maine with Phil Badger, or in the Northwest. We have game on the ranch, which is on one of the few clear water rivers of the West. George Stewart is the only classmate to have visited us, but we sit and wait for you, with the inevitable swimming pool and tall glass and plenty of discussion. The others of the Class in this profession do not need to be told that I work long hours—mine is a twenty-four hour a day responsibility as long as I am in Kerrville—and enjoy every minute of it. I spend a month to six weeks a year visiting medical centers and meetings.

"As another hobby, I have designed and built several houses. After improving my golf to about 80, I gave it up because the greens were too handy and every game was interrupted by patients. I don't know whether running the ranch is another business or a hobby. Some years it seems to be one and next year the other.

"Our house is a rambling one, set casually in natural surroundings. Our elevation of two thousand feet gives us cool nights all summer. In winter we have only a few severe north winds. There are few places with so pleasant a climate, and the few severe cold spells are more than compensated for by the dry clear weather usually found.

The city has about ten thousand inhabitants, with a large resort population around it. Eddie Rickenbacker has just bought a ranch here, but most ranching here is serious, and we are in the center of the largest Angora goat raising district in the world, with plenty of cattle and sheep also. Our new six-story hospital, completely air-conditioned, is one of the finest in the United States and was given a Time news story. Come for a visit, and stay to live."

Knapp was first married in April, 1925, in San Antonio, Texas, to Georgia P. Hays, from whom he was divorced in 1937. His second marriage, to Mary Louise Bowen, daughter of Oscar M. and Eugenia Baxter Bowen, of Houston, took place in Kerrville on July 5, 1940. "She was for years popular as a solo dancer," Knapp says, "but her career was interrupted by a severe illness, which may have been my good fortune, because I met her then." They have a daughter, Linda Jeanne, born on April 6, 1941, whose chief hobby is swimming—and who is "as remarkable as any of 1915's daughters, although not yet as remarkable as her mother."

HERMAN LANDE. Physician, 1049 Park Avenue, New York 28, N.Y.; residence, 1192 Park Avenue, New York.

Lande, who has been engaged in the practice of medicine in New York for some years, is director of the consultation service at Mt. Sinai Hospital. During World War II he was on active service as a colonel in the Medical Reserve for three years, twenty-nine months of which were spent overseas. He served as commanding officer of the 301st General Hospital.

Lande's marriage to Janet Green took place in New York on July 26, 1951.

ALVIN HUEY LANE. Partner, Lane & Savage, lawyers, 1106 Republic Bank Building, Dallas 2, Texas; residence, 4248 Armstrong Parkway, Dallas.

Lane, who has been a partner in the above firm since its organization in the fall of 1945, writes: "I used to play golf and bowl, but my interests now have pretty much narrowed down to law, business, politics, and of course my family." His practice is a general civil one—corporate, oil, probate, banking, and insurance law.

The law firms with which Lane has been associated in the past are: Gresham, Willis & Freeman, Winfrey & Lane, and Runge, Lane & Savage. At the present time he is vice-president, general counsel, and a director of the State National Life Insurance Company; secretary, general counsel, and a director of the Huey & Philp Hardware Company and the Dalclark Oil Corporation; secretary and general counsel of the Old South Royalty Company; and general counsel and a director of the First National Bank of Corsicana, Texas, the Magna Realty Company, the Griffin Realty Company, and the Huey & Philp Realty Company. He served on the Dallas Zoning Board of Adjustment from 1943 to 1946, was general counsel for the Republican State Executive Committee in 1944, and a delegate to the National Convention in 1948. In the latter year he was the Republican candidate for Governor. Lane has been a member of the board of stewards of the First Methodist Church in Dallas for several years, his terms of office being rotated, and he belongs to the Insurance Club of Dallas, the Salesmanship Club, the Dallas Country Club, the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, the Sons of the American Revolution (formerly president of the Dallas chapter), the American Legion, and the Dallas County, Texas State, and American Bar associations. He is a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of the Scottish Rite and Shrine.

Lane was first married on October 14, 1920, at Green Bay, Wisconsin, to Carol Smith, who died some years ago. On January 1, 1940, he was married in Dallas to Marianne Halsell, daughter of Lee Ray and Lucile Stinnette Halsell. He has three children: Elizabeth Angele, born October 29, 1921, Annabelle on May 1, 1941, and Alvin Huey, Jr., on May 2, 1942, all in Dallas. Elizabeth, who attended the Baldwin School in Bryn Mawr, Pa., and Hollins College, is married to Vaughan Morrill, Jr., of St. Louis, and has two children: Vaughan, 3d, and Elizabeth Lane.

WILLIAM JOSEPH LEETE. Lawyer, 542 South Broadway, Los Angeles 13, Calif.; residence, 536 North Gower Street, Los Angeles.

"Heading twenty-five gives rise to these thoughts," said Leete when he returned our questionnaire. "After thirty-five years, are our accomplishments measured only in terms and symbols of offices, money, or power? Aren't such gauges and standards too narrow and rudimentary? The possessor of such is concerned, true enough, in a sense of vanity or power, but as for the rest of us, and the world at large?

"Could not another heading be added, and these various subdivisions had?

"What life, if any, have you lived in the imagination? What development or refinement of your sensibility to visual forms or color, or to sounds (music), or to tastes have you attained? What insight into that rich world of spiritual experiences stored up in the great works of art, did you acquire? Did any one of us experience any of those innumerable shades of feeling and overtones in our daily life, the possession of which is 'one of the marks of a man of culture, a necessary complement to the possession of a well-stored and logical mind'?

"Were there any adventures in the life of the spirit? (Two good examples are those of Freddie Meyer and Plute Weiss.) These make insignificant the 'achievements' which at best are simulacres or will-o'-the-wisps. With glory and pleasure, they are smitten with the same defects, being material and wholly transitory. Can activities or pursuits be listed which brought happiness to others as well as yourself? What good did you do in the world? What did you do to attain inner peace and security in these times of violence and turbulence, which may witness the end of the world in its organization, structure, and operation as we knew it?"

He adds, "I lived in French Oceania (Tahiti, etc.), where some sanity still prevailed in the world. I have made a study of string instruments (violins, violas, and cellos) and their bows for over thirty years, having a collection of some thirty instruments, practically all by modern makers (after 1800). It was my pleasure to introduce these modern makers of the Italian, French, and English schools to the professional musicians in Hollywood, etc., and thereby to have created an understanding and taste for such, that so far in every test the old classic makers as Stradivarius, Guar'nerius del Gesù, and the Guadagnini, etc., including Amati, have been vanquished. Age has deteriorated the majority of these old specimens, so that tonally they are worthless. It took many years and much money to find this out. Hill & Sons of London, England (the greatest authority in the world), and many leading artists, William Primrose the latest, have written me concurring completely in these conclusions.

"The matter of tone and tone production in string instruments has occupied my attention for years. Experiments on woods from Alaska, the Rocky Mountains, California, Bohemia, London, etc., on gut, bridges, etc., led to certain findings which it is hoped will revolutionize and change the conception of tone prevailing among the virtuosi, professionals, and all other players, and especially the teachers. It is astounding, the ignorance and general incapacity that is shown in matters of tone among the artists, symphony players, and teachers.

"Not forgetting my bow collection, which includes three certified specimens by François Tourte."

"Naturally, I play in various symphony orchestras," he concludes.

Leete has been engaged in the general practice of law in Los Angeles for a number of years. He is a Mason, belonging to the Scottish Rite and Shrine. He has never married.

COOLIDGE LESURE. Address, 2354 Hurst Drive, N.E., Atlanta, Ga.

HYMAN ALEXANDER LEVIN. Physician, 1142 Chapel Street, New Haven, Conn.; residence, 168 Linden Street, New Haven.

Levin, who received his M.D. degree at New York University in 1918, has been practicing in New Haven since 1919. He specializes in genito-urinary diseases and surgery, is on the attending urological staff at the Hospital of St. Raphael and the Grace-New Haven Hospital, and is consultant in urology at the Griffin Hospital in Derby, Conn., and also at the Jewish Home for the Aged in New Haven.

"Like many others in my profession," he says, "I have been interested in medical economics and the problems of physicians, having served as a member of the house of delegates of the Connecticut Medical Society from New Haven County and as president of the New Haven Medical Society in 1950." Levin is also a member of the American Urological Society. He has had numerous articles dealing with urological surgery published in the Journal of Urology, the Urologic and Cutaneous Review, and the Connecticut State Medical Journal. He belongs to the Congregation Mishkan Israel in New Haven. He mentions that he and his family have traveled considerably abroad and in this country for pleasure and for educational purposes.

Mrs. Levin was Clara Dorothy Persky, daughter of Simon and Frances Persky, of New Haven. They were married in New York on August 3, 1921, and their daughter, Lee Fay, was born in New Haven on February 12, 1925. "She has always been interested in the theatre and later in radio and television, particularly in direction and production," Levin says. "She studied at the Academy of Dramatic Art, Carnegie Hall, New York City, the Department of Drama at Yale, and later at the Television Workshop in New York City. She was married to Harry Wolf Werschulz, of Louisville, Ky., December 28, 1949, and makes her home in that city. They have a son, Arthur Gustav."

BENJAMIN LEVINSON. Lawyer, 10 South LaSalle Street, Chicago 3, Ill.; residence, 7238 South Coles Avenue, Chicago.

Levinson writes: "Since 1932, when the economic cataclysm of that period forced me to detour from the trust and banking field back into law practice, I have passed through a difficult period of rehabilitation, with some small measure of success. Moreover, my activities in the realm of the practical have been supplemented in goodly measure by considerable devotion to civic and educational institutions. I have been particularly active in the affairs of the Board of Jewish Education of Chicago and the Zionist Organization of America, having played some small part in the historic movement which led eventually to the establishment of the new state of Israel. I have high hopes that this newest of democracies will play a great rôle in the development and enlightenment of the entire Near East.

"Just at present, shortly after my dear wife and myself have been blessed with the richest of dividends in the form of wonderful grandchildren, we are hoping for that sense of serenity and security which comes only with the golden years of life. Just at this writing, however, I am faced with the problem of deciding whether to take on some rather extensive community responsibilities which will take me away from sharing in these delightful family joys or to follow the more modest course and thereby reap more of the joys that come from sharing your time with those more immediately surrounding you."

Levinson's law practice is in connection with probate, real estate, reorganizations, and local tax matters. Prior to July, 1932, he was vice-president and trust officer of the Liberty Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago. He is a director of the Golde Manufacturing Company (moving picture equipment), a member of the board of governors of the College of Jewish Studies, and, in addition to the connections already mentioned, takes an active part in the affairs of the City Club of Chicago, the United Jewish Appeal, the American Legion, and the South Side Hebrew Congregation, of which he has been vice-president for the past three years. During the war he was active in civilian defense. He says that he and his wife have taken some interesting trips to California and other points in the Far West, as well as to New England and Canada and around the Great Lakes.

Mrs. Levinson was Sarah Aida Reinwald, daughter of Louis and Olga Reinwald, of Parkersburg, Iowa. They were married in Washington, D.C., on August 28, 1919, and their twin daughters, Judith Ann and Ruth Marcia, were born on March 30, 1923, and their son, Daniel Orin, on April 23, 1926. The latter graduated from the University of Chicago with the degree of Ph.B. and is now in medical school there. He served in the Anti-Aircraft Corps and the Air Force during the war. The girls attended the University of Chicago also. Judith is the wife of Dr. Albert J. Miller, a graduate of Northwestern, who has recently commenced the practice of internal medicine in Chicago. Their daughter, Lisa, is about a year and a half old. Ruth's husband, Frederick Breyer, who is chief engineer for the Mid-West Heat Company in Chicago, graduated from Carnegie Tech. They have a son, Mark, born a little over a year ago.

SYDNEY SHERMAN LEWIS. Account executive, B. G. Phillips & Company (investment securities), 44 Wall Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 164 West 79th Street, New York 24.

At the time our Quindecennial Record was published, Lewis was manager of the Community Collateral Corporation in Brooklyn. In 1940 he became the sole proprietor of the S. S. Lewis Company (investment securities), but gave this up in 1947 to go with R. H. Johnson & Company in New York as an account executive. He has been associated with B. G. Phillips & Company since June, 1951.

Lewis' marriage to Lucille Adrious Dreher, daughter of Fred and Ida Raab Dreher, took place in New York City on July 25, 1918. Their daughter, Beverly Beatrice, who was born in New York on June 8, 1920, and who was married some time ago, attended the Barnard School for Girls in New York. Her husband is a technical sergeant in the Army.

THEODORE ALEXANDER LIGHTNER. Address, 325 East 57th Street, New York, N.Y.

KARL NICKERSON LLEWELLYN. Professor of law, University of Chicago Law School; residence, 4920 Kimbark Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Llewellyn says that in general "his life has been devoted to an effort to do horse sense and a touch of lyric poetry in regard to this institution of our law." He went to the Columbia Law School from Yale in 1925, was appointed to a professorship in 1927, and became Betts professor of jurisprudence in 1930, serving in this capacity until July, 1951, when he joined the faculty of the University of Chicago Law School. He has been a director of the Legal Aid Society of New York and in 1950 became president of the American Association of Law Schools. He served for a number of years, beginning in 1926, as a member of the New York Commission on Uniform State Laws and since 1943 has been a reporter for the Uniform Revised Sales Act and chief reporter for the Uniform Commercial Code, the Conference on Uniform State Laws, and the American Law Institute.

Llewellyn is the author of a number of articles and books, including Cases and Materials on the Law of Sales (1930), The Bramble Bush (1930; revised edition 1947), Put in his Thumb (1931), Präjudizienrecht und Rechtsprechung in Amerika (1933), and The Cheyenne Way (with A. E. Hoebel; 1941). His third marriage, to Soia Mentchikoff, took place on October 31, 1946.

DONALD GORDON LOOMIS. Credit manager, New York office, H. W. Gossard Company, corset manufacturers, 200 Madison Avenue, New York 16, N.Y.; residence, Kenilworth Apartment T-H, Garth Road, Scarsdale, N.Y.

Loomis has sent us the following summary covering his occupation in recent years: "1938—Olmstead Corset Company, New York City; 1940—H. W. Gossard Company, New York City; 1942—Federal Reserve Bank of New York (foreign funds control and acting chief of personnel); 1944—R.F.C. Surplus Property Division; 1945—R.F.C. field director, Warehouse 12, Buffalo, N.Y.; 1946—W.A.A., Buffalo; 1948—H. W. Gossard Company (credit department); February, 1951—credit manager, New York office, H. W. Gossard Company." He adds that he has never married.

ADOLPH MAURICE LOVEMAN. Partner, A. M. Loveman Lumber & Box Company, Nashville, Tenn.; residence, Woodmont Boulevard, Nashville.

Loveman has been a partner in the A. M. Loveman Lumber & Box Company since 1919. He is a director of the Nashville Civic Music Association and the Jewish Community Center, is serving on the board of trustees of the Vine Street Temple, and belongs to the Rotary Club and the Woodmont Country Club. "I have made a number of trips and cruises in the Caribbean Sea area," he says. "Am interested in stamp collecting and music. Still play the flute. I play tennis and badminton regularly, doubles."

Loveman's marriage to Lucile Apfelbaum, daughter of Gus R. and Mildred Summerfield Apfelbaum, took place in Atlanta, Ga., on September 30, 1930. They have a daughter, Emily, who was born in Nashville on October 20, 1936, and a son, Andrew M., born January 20, 1941, also in Nashville.

JAMES PAUL McCARTHY. Chairman, Upper School Division, Shady Hill School, Cambridge 38, Mass.; residence, 201 Follen Road, Lexington 73, Mass.

McCarthy writes: "I returned to teaching (from advertising) in 1928 and have been at Shady Hill School ever since. Most of my teaching has been in Latin until recently, but now I teach more mathematics than Latin.

"After our marriage [September 4, 1933, in Cambridge to Elise Myrtle Bartlett, daughter of Clarence Aldis and Elsie Mary Gleason Bartlett] we lived in Cambridge for about five years and then moved to Belmont. When Katharine Anne was born [January 14, 1941], we moved here to Lexington, building our own house, fortunately, just before Pearl Harbor. Our good classmate, Lyon (Nick) Carter, introduced me around, and I've been in town politics ever since and in town affairs generally. Nick was the same good fellow here in Lexington and as much in things as he had been at Yale—and we all miss him.

"My life is a very quiet one and uneventful. I've never regretted my return to teaching, though it's a bit of a pull trying to make ends meet in such a period as this."

McCarthy has been a member of the Lexington Town Meeting since 1944 and treasurer of the Lexington Camping Committee, which raises funds to send children to summer camps, since 1946. He is active in the adult religion discussion groups of Sacred Heart Church and taught religious classes there for five years. He says that he is listed as a Republican, that he manages to get to Cape Cod for part of each summer, and that Latin Lessons, which he wrote for his own classes, has been accepted for publication by the Harvard University Press.

RANALD HUGH MACDONALD. General partner, Dominick & Dominick, investment bankers, 14 Wall Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 911 Park Avenue, New York 21.

Macdonald, who has been a general partner in the Stock Exchange firm of Dominick & Dominick since 1927, served as a governor of the New York Stock Exchange from 1944 to 1950, of the Investment Bankers Association from 1945 to 1947, and of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms from 1942 to 1946. At present he is vice-president and a director of the National Shares Corporation, a trustee of the Franklin Savings Bank, and a director of the Great Plains Development Company. Other current connections include the following:

trustee and chairman of the finance committee of Pratt Institute and of the Museum of Modern Art, chairman of the finance committee of the St. Andrews Society of New York, a member of the finance committee of the United Hospital Fund, president and a trustee of the Alumni Association of St. Paul's School, and a director and vice-chairman of the finance committee of the Y.M.C.A. of the City of New York and a trustee of the state organization. From 1936 to 1949 he was chairman and a director of the West Side Branch Y.M.C.A.

Macdonald's long period of service to the Yale Alumni Fund must be well known to you all, but we will mention that he was chairman of the Fund from 1943 to 1945 (also being a member of the Alumni Board during this period) and that he continues as one of our Class agents. During the war he was an air raid warning officer with the 1st Fighter Command in New York City. His political affiliations are Republican, and he is a member of St. James' Church, New York, the Yale, Union, Bond, and Piping Rock clubs, and the Down Town Association.

On June 2, 1919, he was married in Brooklyn, N.Y., to Anne Hunter Thompson, daughter of Robert O. and Frances Thompson. They have two children: Anne Walton, born December 12, 1927, and Ranald Hugh, 3d, born December 15, 1923, both in New York. Anne, who attended the Brearley School, St. Timothy's, and Barnard College, married James A. Thomas, Jr., and has a daughter, Cameron. Ranald, 3d, prepared for college at the Buckley School and St. Paul's and graduated from Yale in 1945. A second lieutenant and first pilot of a B-17 in the 8th Air Force, he was awarded the Air Medal with four clusters. He was married several years ago and has a son, Ranald Hugh, 4th.

FRANCIS MICHAEL MCGOLDRICK. Lawyer, 189 Montague Street, Brooklyn, N.Y.; residence, 127 River Road, Grand View-on-Hudson, N.Y.

McGoldrick has been independently engaged in the practice of law in Brooklyn since his graduation from the New York University Law School in 1916. He has been living at Grand View-on-Hudson for some time, was president of the School Board during the period from 1942 to 1946, and in 1948 was elected mayor. He is a trustee of the Rockland Country Club.

McGoldrick was first married on October 18, 1923, in New York City, to Genevieve Cullen, whose death occurred on January 20, 1927. His second marriage, to Elizabeth Leitner, daughter of Dr. George A. Leitner and Maude Leitner, took place in Piermont, N.Y., on May 30, 1928. They have three sons: Francis M., born on March 16, 1929, George L. on September 16, 1930, and John G. on July 25, 1932, all in Nyack. The oldest boy, who graduated from Lehigh in 1951, is at present in the Army, stationed at Fort Dix. George is a Senior at Villanova, and John, after attending Holy Cross, is at present at St. Andrew's-on-Hudson in Poughkeepsie.

ARTHUR BUTLER MCGRAW. Senior associate in general surgery, Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit 2, Mich.; residence, 340 Lakeland Avenue, Grosse Pointe 30, Mich.

McGraw writes: "In 1938 I was elected a member of the Société Internationale de Chirurgie and attended its biannual meeting in Brussels that fall just at the time of the Munich crisis [also the meetings in New Orleans in 1949 and in Paris in 1951]. In April, 1941, I was elected a member of the American Surgical Association and the same month received the commission of lieutenant commander in the United States Naval Reserve Medical Group. One month after Pearl Harbor I was assigned to active duty and obtained a leave of absence from my duties as senior associate in general surgery in the Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit. I was on active duty in various capacities and in various places from that time until October, 1946. I was overseas in the Mediterranean area—in French North Africa and Sicily—from May, 1943, through February, 1944. For the last year and a half of hostilities I was chief of surgery in the Naval Hospital at the Navy Training Center in Bainbridge, Md.

"Upon release to inactive duty in October, 1945, I resumed my duties in the Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit and am still on its staff. During two of the last four years I have been a member of the hospital medical board and for the last year a member of its committee for the erection of a new seventeen-story clinic building, the contract for which was let only last week.

"In addition to the American Surgical Association, I was elected a member of the Central Surgical Association shortly before World War II and a member of the Western Surgical Association since the war. As far as current affairs go, I remain as I have been for many years, a trustee of the Michigan Children's Aid Society and of the Boys Republic, both with headquarters in Detroit, Mich."

McGraw is also a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a trustee of the Yates Memorial Cancer Clinic in Detroit, and from 1930 to 1949 was on the board of the Detroit University School. He has served several rotating terms as a vestryman of Christ Church (Episcopal) at Grosse Pointe. He has contributed occasional articles to medical journals. His hobbies are sailing and book collecting, and he belongs to the Grolier Club of New York. His travels, in addition to those mentioned, have included trips to England in 1936 and 1950 and one to Scandinavia in 1935. His politics are in general Republican, although he has voted independently.

He was married on October 12, 1921, in Garden City, N.Y., to Leola Stewart, daughter of John and Carrie Stewart. They have four children, all of whom were born in Detroit: Sarah Edma on August 21, 1922, Thomas Arthur on June 18, 1924, Grace Ingersoll on August 23, 1927, and Robert Stewart on July 14, 1929. McGraw gives the following information about them: "The oldest, Sarah, received her B.A. degree at Vassar in 1946 and is now Mrs. Fernando Cinelli, with three children, Peter, Catherine, and Francesca, living close by us at Grosse Pointe. Thomas received his B.A. degree at Yale in 1945. He was in the U.S.N.R. as midshipman and ensign from 1943 to 1946; received his M.D. degree at the Cornell Medical School in June, 1951; and is an interne at the Duke University Hospital, Durham, N.C. He was married October 27, 1951, to Miss Eleanor Braman, of New York City and Long Island.

"Grace received her B.A. degree at Vassar in 1949 and her M.A. in economics at the University of Michigan in 1951. She is at present employed at the Treasury Department in Washington. Robert received his B.A. degree at Yale in 1950 and is in his second year of medicine at the Johns Hopkins Medical School."

EDWARD DOMINIC McKEE. Address, 18 Walden Street, Hamden, Conn.

ARCHIBALD MACLEISH. Writer; Boylston professor of rhetoric and oratory, Harvard University; residence, Conway, Mass.

MacLeish has been Boylston professor of rhetoric and oratory at Harvard since 1949. During the preceding decade he had had the following Federal appointments: Librarian of Congress, 1939-44; director of the Office of Facts and Figures, 1941-42; assistant director of the Office of War Information, 1942-43; Assistant Secretary of State, 1944-45. He was the American delegate to the Conference of Allied Ministers of Education in 1944 and during the period from 1943 to 1945 served on the American Commission for the Protection and Salvage of Historic and Artistic Monuments in the war areas. In November, 1945, he was chairman of the American delegation to the London Conference to draw up the final constitution of the educational, scientific, and cultural organization of the United Nations, and in 1946 he was deputy chairman of the American delegation at the first General Conference of UNESCO in Paris (he resigned this position in April, 1947). He became a member of the executive board of UNESCO in 1946.

MacLeish was made an Encomisado of the Order of El Sol del Peru in 1947 and is also a commander of the French Legion of Honor. He has the following honorary degrees: M.A. Tufts 1932; Litt.D. Wesleyan and Colby 1938, Yale 1939, University of Pennsylvania 1941, University of Illinois 1946, and Washington University 1948; L.H.D. Dartmouth 1940; D.C.L. Union 1941; D.H.L. Williams 1942; LL.D. Johns Hopkins 1941 and University of California 1943. And we give still another list—a very important one covering his writings: The Happy Marriage (verse), 1924; The Pot of Earth, 1925; Nobodaddy (verse play), 1925; Streets in the Moon, 1926; The Hamlet of A. MacLeish, 1928; New Found Land, 1930; Conquistador (Pulitzer Poetry Prize of $1,000), 1932; Frescoes for Mr. Rockefeller's City, 1933; Poems, 1924-1933; Union Pacific—a Ballet, 1934; Panic (verse play), 1935; Public Speech (verse), 1936; The Fall of the City (verse play for radio), 1937; Land of the Free, 1938; Air Raid (verse play for radio), 1938; America Was Promises (verse), 1939; The Irresponsibles (prose), 1940; The American Cause (prose), 1941; A Time to Speak (prose), 1941; A Time to Act (prose), 1942; American Opinion and the War (prose), 1942; American Story (broadcasts), 1944; Act Five, 1948.

MacLeish is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters (director, 1948; secretary, 1949; chancellor, 1951) and of the Commission on the Freedom of the Press. He went to Japan in 1936, to Chile and the Argentine in 1937, to England each year from 1942 (when he gave the Rede lectures at Cambridge) to 1947, to France in 1946 and 1947, and to the British West Indies in 1949 and 1951. His recreations: "As much sun, sea, and silence as I can find before I kick off."

On June 21, 1916, he was married in Farmington, Conn., to Ada Taylor Hitchcock, daughter of William A. and Emily Boyle Hitchcock. They have three children: Kenneth, born in Cambridge on February 4, 1917, Mary Hillard on August 24, 1922, also in Cambridge, and William Hitchcock in Boston on August 7, 1928. Kenneth graduated from Harvard in 1939, was in the Naval Air Force in World War II, and is at present science editor of Life Magazine. Mary, who is now Mrs. Karl Grimm, attended Westover. The younger boy, who graduated from Yale in 1950, was in the Army Air Force in the war.

JOHN CHARLES MACNEILL. Superintendent, Open Hearth No. 2, Bethlehem Steel Company, Bethlehem, Pa.; residence, 1124 West Broad Street, Bethlehem.

"The years since 1930 have been filled with work and play, principally work," MacNeill wrote. "We have passed through some very strenuous years which have kept me hustling. It seems that we are still in those times, so I really do not have too much time to play. However, in my leisure time, I do enjoy playing golf very much, being a member of the Saucon Valley Country Club, where the amateur championship of the U.S.G.A. will be held this coming September. It is a beautiful course, and I find time to play it two or three times a week. But I do not pretend to be a good golfer—just mediocre.

"In 1936 I was promoted to my present position—superintendent of the Saucon open hearths of the Bethlehem plant. My work is very interesting, and I find great enjoyment in it. I get to see a Yale football game at least once a year so that I can keep in touch with some of my classmates."

MacNeill, who has been with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation since graduation, was assistant superintendent of Open Hearth No. 2 for six years prior to being made superintendent. In addition to the Saucon Valley Country Club, he belongs to the Bethlehem Club and the Bethlehem Steel Club. His political affiliations are Republican, and he is a member of the Catholic Church of Sts. Simon and Jude.

His marriage to Ellen Veronica Love, daughter of Thomas and Ellen Love, took place in Brooklyn, N.Y., on February 2, 1921. Their daughter, Margaret Love, who was born in Bethlehem on December 19, 1921, received a B.A. degree at Bryn Mawr in 1943.

JOHN ELMER MCPHEE. Salesman, Aldom Painter Lumber Company (wholesale lumber), 308 Tramway Building, Denver, Colo.; residence, 1441 Pennsylvania Street, Denver.

From 1929 to 1932 McPhee was an investment salesman with Calvin Bullock, and he had a similar connection with R. G. Bulkley & Company in 1933. He was retail manager of the Colorado-Utah Coal Company from 1934 to 1946, and the following year had a business of his own, the McPhee Coal Company. Since then he has been with the Aldom Painter Lumber Company. He is a member of the Roman Catholic Church.

He was married in January, 1916, in Denver to Sarah Eddy, from whom he was divorced in 1933. He has four children: John Eddy, born in January, 1917, Robert Douglas in August, 1919, William Norvell in March, 1921, and Susan Norvell in September, 1924. John, who graduated from Yale with the Class of 1939 S., and who is with the John Widdicomb Furniture Company of Grand Rapids, Mich., was in the Navy for six years. He ranked as lieutenant commander and was assigned to the Bureau of Ships. The second boy, a graduate of the Colorado School of Mines in 1942 and now a civil engineer in Denver, had five years of service as a lieutenant in the Navy. Bill, who attended Yale with the Class of 1944, was in the Army for four years—a liaison pilot in the C.B.I. theater, with the rank of sergeant. He is in the Sociology Department at Columbia. Susan was a member of the Class of 1945 at Colorado College. The children are all married; John has two daughters, Marcia and Susan; Robert a son, Michael; Bill a son, John, and a daughter, Carolyn W.; and Susan a son, Daniel.

McPhee adds to our questionnaire a category of his own: "Greatest pleasure—Thirty-fifth Reunion and my first, but not last, I hope." He recalls that he "acted as judge to redetermine relative heights of Macdonald and Donaldson. Mac won by 1/32 of an inch! Particularly interested in youthfulness of Walker, Donaldson, MacLeish, Streeter Flynn, and Ed Stackpole."

CHARLES HENRY MALLORY. Senior partner, Mallory, Adee & Company, brokers, 120 Broadway, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, Strong, Maine.

Mallory continued as operating manager of the Munson Steamship Line until 1933 and then entered the brokerage business. He was with Noll, Berman & Langley until 1937 and then became associated with Reynold, Fish & Company, the name of which was later changed to Mallory, Adee & Company. He has been senior partner in the firm since 1938.

Mallory has never married. "I am devoting most of my time to developing my place in Maine," he says. "Have 4,500 acres—make 500 gallons of maple syrup a year—cut 250 tons of hay—have sixty head of pure-bred milking Short Horn cattle—raise 100-acres crop for canneries, etc. Also do considerable lumbering in Franklin County.”

HERBERT WILLIAM MARACHE. Partner, Granbery, Marache & Company, investment bankers, 52 Broadway, New York 4, N.Y.; residence, 22 Murray Hill Road, Scarsdale, N.Y.

Prior to becoming a partner in Granbery, Marache & Company in August, 1937, Marache was a partner in another New York investment banking firm. He is president and a director of the New York N-72 Corporation (real estate) and a director of the Lionel Corporation (toy trains), the Aerovox Corporation (electronics), and the Ross Engineering Corporation. He belongs to the New York Yale Club, the Down Town Association, and the Scarsdale Golf Club and politically is an independent Republican. “I have traveled in this country and abroad,” he says. “Play golf regularly in the summer and bowl all winter. Chess is really my fun. I organized, played on, and managed the New York Stock Exchange chess team against the Amsterdam team in 1943 and 1949 (played by R.C.A. teletype) and played on the championship chess team in the Commercial Chess League, representing the investment banking team, in 1944, 1948, and 1951.”

Marache’s marriage to Carolyn Ann Johnson, daughter of Ephraim and Harriette Butterfield Johnson, took place on June 19, 1919. Their daughter, Suzanne Marache Geyer, who was born December 26, 1922, in Brooklyn, N.Y., attended the Masters School, Pine Manor Junior College, and Goucher College, where she graduated with a B.A. degree. She was married some time ago and has one daughter. Their son, Herbert W., Jr., born March 22, 1928, prepared for college at St. Paul’s, received a B.A. degree at Yale in 1950, and since February, 1951, has been in Korea as a second lieutenant in the 5th Regiment, 1st Marine Division.

RICHARD PENBERTHY MARTIN, JR. Member, technical staff, Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., 463 West Street, New York 14, N.Y.; residence, 559 Lawrence Avenue, Westfield, N.J.

Martin, who received the degree of B.S. both at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard in 1917, has been with the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., in New York since March, 1934. Previously he had been in the engineering department of the Western Electric Company in New York, with Perrin & Marshall, consulting engineers in New York, the Geohagan Construction Company of Brooklyn, and the department of development and research of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company from 1921 until its merger in 1934 with the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc. He is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and of the First Methodist Church in Westfield.

His marriage to Josephine Mirteenes McCormick took place on March 13, 1920, in Stamford, Conn. Their daughter, Edith McCormick, who was born on November 11, 1921, died on March 24, 1932.

CHARLES ELLSWORTH MARTZ. Editor, Our Times (publication of the American Education Press), 400 South Front Street, Columbus 15, Ohio; residence, 2192 Tremont Road, Columbus.

"Looking back over thirty-five years, it's interesting to collect the paradoxes of life," is Martz' comment. "I find that I trained to be a teacher—and find myself an editor. I graduated with a major in mathematics—and spent twenty years teaching history.

"As to autobiography, from 1917 to 1937 I taught history—for one year at Pawling, and then at the West Chester (Pa.) Teachers College and at Western Reserve. This period was punctuated by a year and a half at Harvard, studying in the Graduate School. Then came this chance, with the company that has been publishing the good old standby, Current Events, for fifty years. In 1937 they decided to have a more advanced current events weekly for high school Seniors—and I have been the editor of that paper, Our Times, for about fifteen years.

"Of course, one becomes embroiled in the life of a community, and several points of contact were listed on the second page of this document. For fifteen years I have taught the adult church school class at Broad Street Presbyterian Church. A few years ago I served as chairman of the local Christian Palestine Committee. Most onerous job has been as moderator of Columbus Town Meeting, which has been broadcasting a discussion every Sunday at 1 o'clock for at least ten years. The program is now televised, with the result that total strangers accost me on the street with, 'I know you.' I find that I have to live an exemplary life in this community."

Martz' community activities have included the chairmanship (for several years) of the Speakers Bureau of the Columbus Community Chest. He is secretary-treasurer of the Columbus Torch Club, of which he was president in 1945, and has been an elder in the Presbyterian Church since 1936, first at the Fairmount Church in Cleveland and, since 1937, at the Broad Street Presbyterian Church in Columbus. During World War II he served on the local price panel. He says that he seems constantly to be tied up in speaking engagements before clubs and teachers' groups.

Mrs. Martz is president of the Columbus Y.W.C.A. Her maiden name was Edith Nissley Freed, and they were married on December 8, 1915. Their daughter, Mary Louise, who was born in New Haven on August 4, 1917, is a graduate of Mount Holyoke and attended the Yale Divinity School for a year. She married the Rev. Robert B. Weaver, who is minister of the Circleville (Ohio) Methodist Church, and has four children, two boys and two girls.

ROBERT ELDEN MATHEWS. Professor of law, Ohio State University; residence, 4895 Olentangy Boulevard, Columbus 2, Ohio.

"I have taken a special interest at Ohio State in facilitating and encouraging faculty participation in an advisory respect in the formulation of university policy," says Mathews, who has been professor of law there since 1924. "I was chairman of the committee on departmental organization and procedure in 1941 and participated in the drafting of a personnel code for the faculty that same year and a revision of it in 1951. This was approved by the board of trustees in 1941.

"I compiled a case book, known as Mathews' Revision of Mechem's Cases on Partnership, published in 1935, and another, Mathews' Cases on Agency and Partnership, which was published in 1940. A revision of the latter is now in process. I am editor-in-chief of a board of thirty-one lawyers and law teachers engaged in compiling three volumes of Cases on Labor Law, which has already appeared in temporary form in 1948 and in revision in 1950. A permanent edition is likely to be published in 1952. Also was the author of a text treatment of 'partnership' law in Ohio Jurisprudence (encyclopedia of Ohio law) and have published articles in various law reviews on such subjects as legal education, international law, partnership law, and, in one instance, a study of the administration of a certain government policy in respect to the maintenance of minimum labor standards in projects in foreign countries from which we were procuring strategic materials during the war—a program of which I had charge during 1943-44."

From 1940 to 1942 Mathews was chairman of the Selective Service Board. He served on two Ohio minimum wage boards for the restaurant industry (1949 and 1950), organized the National Conference on the Training of Law Students in Labor Relations at the University of Michigan Law School in 1947, and has done occasional arbitration of labor disputes over the past ten years. He was a member of the general counsel's office of the Board of Economic Warfare and the Foreign Economic Administration from 1942 to 1944 and associate general counsel of the National War Labor Board the following year, being public member and co-chairman of the appeals committee for a time. In 1943 he served on the joint Bolivian-United States Labor Mission to Bolivia. He was recently appointed by the Department of State a member of the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO.

Mathews is currently president of the American Association of Law Schools and in 1947 was president of the League of Ohio Law Schools. He belongs to the National Academy of Arbitrators, the Industrial Relations Research Association, the American Association of University Professors, the Columbus, Ohio State, and American Bar associations, and the Congregational Church and in 1947 was elected to honorary membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

On December 30, 1922, he married Grace Greenwood Caie, daughter of Arthur Hugh and Harriet Dickinson Caie. Their son, Craig, born October 19, 1929, graduated from Yale in 1951 and is now enrolled in the Yale Law School. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa as a Junior, was a member of the Apollo and Yale Glee clubs and of Skull and Bones, and won his Freshman numerals in tennis.

JOHN GLEN MAYO. In the oil business, 433 Esperson Building, Houston, Texas; residence, 1002 Bissonnet Street, Houston.

Mayo, who was vice-president and general manager of the Hudson Nurseries in New York at the time Volume II of our Class History was published, is now an oil "wildcatter" in Texas. During 1950 he served as president and a director of the Yale Club of Southeast Texas. He is a member of the Houston Club and the Boothbay Harbor Yacht Club and still belongs to the Third Presbyterian Church of Rochester, N.Y. Mayo covers his political affiliations with "American, Republican, and Isolationist."

He was married in 1917 in New York City to Katherine Rodney Edwards, daughter of Edward L. and Lutie Kale Edwards. They have three daughters: Katherine, born on April 6, 1918, Joanne Rodney on March 14, 1922, and Kale Edwards on December 17, 1925. Kale, who married John Anton, is living in Anchorage, Alaska. Katherine is married to William T. Hancock, Jr., and Joanne to James S. Cooney, Yale '39 E.

PAUL BANWELL MEANS. Professor and head, Department of Religion, University of Oregon; residence, 2706 Floral Hill Drive, Eugene, Oregon.

Means writes: "To summarize my activities during the last twenty years, I can say that I spent two years studying for my doctor's degree at Columbia, seven years as a missionary in Malaya and southeast Asia, three years during World War II in intelligence work with the Navy, and eight years in college teaching. I am still in college teaching, very much enjoying the work with the students of the University of Oregon. Four acres give us an opportunity to follow many hobbies—chickens, goats, flowers, alfresco meals, etc.

"The last eighteen months, my wife, our youngest daughter Charlotte, and I spent visiting our old home in Singapore and Sumatra and meeting many of our former friends and colleagues. I was engaged in a research project [on a Fulbright Fellowship] under the auspices of the University of Oregon and of the University of Malaya on a modern study of Islam, especially the trends and the effects of nationalistic movements upon present-day Islamic thinking. It was great to have this privilege of study and travel over the wide area of Malaya, Sumatra, Java, Bali, and Borneo. I hope to write the material I have collected into book form within a few months. My main hobby in Singapore and Malaya has been literacy work among the Malays, Chinese, and Dayaks, illiterate adults who can normally be taught to read in the course of eight to ten lessons, i.e., within a week or two. I have worked along the lines of Dr. Frank C. Laubach, and as the result of my experience know that the adoption of the Laubach literacy techniques by mission and government agencies will revolutionize the educational picture in that part of the world.

"I came back from Borneo with a live gibbon, the smallest but one of the most intelligent of the anthropoid apes. This gibbon is now being raised as a pet in our family, under the care of my wife. He is in great demand for engagements with women's clubs, anthropological societies, biology and sociology classes, as well as useful for my classes in religion. We have had offers to turn him over to some zoos, but until he becomes more of a nuisance than he has yet been, we are planning to keep him. I am sure that he would qualify for the Yale gym team, if and when he is admitted to Yale.

"In Singapore a few months ago I had a delightful visit with George Stewart, who was traveling for some educational commission, in connection with the British Army. From all reports of George's visit in Singapore, he made a grand impression upon officers and men of the various Army and Air Force units he visited.

"Here on the West Coast about the only contacts I have had with the Class of 1915 have been the recent visits to Seattle, where I have seen Gil Haight and Don Fisk. If any members of the Class are in the neighborhood of Eugene, please remember that our latchstring is always out."

From 1930 to 1932, and again from 1934 to 1939, Means was secretary of Christian literature for the Methodist Mission of Southeast Asia and editor of Malaysia Message (a monthly publication), as well as district missionary at Singapore. He was assistant to the president of the College of Puget Sound at Tacoma from 1939 until becoming professor and head of the Department of Religion at the University of Oregon in 1941. During the period from 1943 to 1945, while on active duty as a lieutenant commander in the Navy, he served as intelligence officer on Admiral King's staff, for which work he received a commendation in 1945.

Means gave the following additional information about his travels: "From Singapore to New York in 1932 via Europe and England—studied at the Sorbonne for three months; three months in Germany in 1933—put out by Hitler's Gestapo because I was studying the church conflict; return to Singapore via Europe in 1934; travel in Malaya and Netherlands Indies, 1934-39; return to U.S. via China and Japan, 1939; travel to Malaya via Japan and Philippines, 1949; travel in Indonesia, 1950-51; return to U.S. via Hong Kong, 1951."

He took his Ph.D. at Columbia in 1935. That year the Round Table Press published his Things That are Caesar's, which was a Religious Book of the Month selection. Means is also the author of Kunchi Pelajaran, published by the Singapore Department of Education in 1950, and of numerous articles and reports in Christendom, Church History, the American Oxonian, and the Singapore Straits Times. He served as secretary for "Goats for Japan" for Lane County from 1947 to 1949, as Oregon secretary of the Rhodes Scholarship Committee, 1946-49, is a member of the council of the Atlantic Union Committee, and while in Singapore during 1950-51 was president of the Peoples' Education Association. He belongs to the American Philosophical Society, the American Church History Society, the Religious Education Association, Rotary National, and the Masonic order (Zetland in the East).

Means' marriage to Nathalie A. Toms, daughter of Abe Charles and Nellie E. Christensen Toms, took place July 21, 1926, in Spokane. They have four children: Gordon Paul, born May 9, 1927, in Spokane; Mariel Janet on October 26, 1928, in Medan, Sumatra; Virginia Claire on December 6, 1932, in Brooklyn, N.Y.; and Charlotte Louise on November 15, 1937, in Singapore. Gordon, who was a seaman 1/c in the Navy during 1945-46, received a B.A. degree at Reed College in 1950 and is now a teaching fellow at the University of Washington. The oldest girl is the wife of E. T. Ames; she attended Oberlin and the University of Oregon, where she graduated with a B.S. degree in 1949. Virginia is now at the University of Oregon.

JAMES LAWSON MELTZER. President, treasurer, and sole owner, Antipyros Company (dyeing and finishing of textiles), 1175 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn 22, N.Y.; residence, 306 Brevoort Lane, Rye, N.Y.

Meltzer still maintains an office for the "inactive" practice of law at 475 5th Avenue, New York, although he retired from active practice in 1938, after enlarging his business activities with the Antipyros Company, with which he has been associated since 1919. "In addition to spending winters at our winter home at 1318 Harrison Street, Hollywood, Florida, I have traveled extensively with my wife and son in this hemisphere," he wrote. "We are leaving on June 22 for a three-month tour of western Europe, where I expect, not only to see the sights, but to visit plants in the same industry in France, Switzerland, Italy, and Germany. Although my hobby has always been golf, I have a great interest in and have made quite a collection of porcelains. My Meissen collection is considered one of the outstanding groupings of rare interest."

He added that he was actively engaged through his company in a tremendous amount of war work for all branches of service during World War II and that he is associated with many organizations engaged in philanthropic and relief activities. He belongs to the Quaker Ridge Golf Club and the Yale Club.

Meltzer was first married in June, 1924, to Lola Needles. His second marriage, to Gloria Amelia Krauss, daughter of Harry and Amelia Krauss, took place in New York City on February 1, 1928.

Their son, John Joshua, who was born June 22, 1936, graduated from the Rye Country Day School and is now a Sophomore at Hotchkiss.

CHARLES MERZ. Editor, New York Times, Times Square, New York, N.Y.; residence, 10 Gracie Square, New York.

Editor of the Times since 1938, Merz has been honored with the degree of Litt.D. from Yale (1942) and three other institutions: Colgate and the College of Wooster in 1939 and Columbia in 1944. He is on the boards of trustees of the Russell Sage Foundation, the John Simon Guggenheim Foundation, the Legal Aid Society, the Seamen's Church Institute, and the Century Club of New York. He belongs also to the New York Yale Club and the Elizabethan Club at Yale and is a member of the board of governors of the Yale University Press.

Merz is the author of The Great American Bandwagon, published in 1928, and The Dry Decade, published in 1931, and edited Days of Decision (1941). He has traveled extensively in Europe and Asia.

His marriage to Evelyn Scott, daughter of William F. and Rachel Scott, took place in Bennington, Vt., on June 30, 1924. They have no children.

Merz has commented on the rôle of a newspaper editor as follows: "For twenty-seven of the thirty-five years since the Class of 1915 was graduated from Yale I have been a newspaper editor—in the earlier part of that period, associate editor of the New York World; in the later part, editor of the New York Times. As such, morning after morning, for some ten thousand mornings, I have ventured to sound off on affairs of the day: political, economic, social. At the end of twenty-seven years I am still sounding off. And perhaps this reunion, within book covers, of the Class of 1915, is a good place to set down some of the conclusions I have reached, in this long process, about the business of being a newspaper editor.

"Certainly the editor's right to admonish his readers no longer derives from the fact that he owns a newspaper or has been employed to speak on behalf of the owner of a newspaper. The era of the self-assumed and wholly irresponsible authority of the old owner-editor is ended. A kind of democratic process now enters into what the editor says. He cannot afford to let himself be cajoled or bullied by groups among his readers, yet every day he must submit himself to their electoral franchise. If he outrages his readers' sense of what is fair, right, and reasonable, he will hear from them. Some of them will complain directly. Some of them will stop reading his newspaper. Some of them will continue to read the newspaper, but skip the editorial page—and the editor has means today of knowing when this happens, even though he lacked the intuition to realize it.

“He finds that he is limited in what he may do. He must not fall behind his constituency’s moral or intellectual standards. He must not get so far ahead of them that his constituency will not understand him. But he can, if he is a good editor, sensitive to popular currents, keep a good step or two in front of the procession. He can set himself against the trend of the moment when he thinks that trend is wrong. He can do his best to precipitate discussion in a democracy. Only by following his conscience and his best judgment can he have or deserve influence.

“He can, of course, gain some following by expressing the prejudices or the foolishnesses of a large body of readers. Examples of this kind of editorializing are still easy to find. He does not gain respect in this way. He does not even gain influence, for he is simply exploiting states of mind and emotion that already exist.

“In the long run, the editorial page, like the rest of the newspaper, is what a majority of its readers are willing to have it be. It can contain much that they do not demand, but nothing that they will not accept. It can appeal to the best side of their natures, and do this successfully, but it cannot appeal to a side that does not exist.

“The editorial page, over a long period of time, is a social, not a purely individualistic, phenomenon. Its style may be personal, as in turns of phrase or emphases in thinking, but its implications are impersonal. At its worst it is hypocritical. At its best it is an expression of an inherent idealism in American life: a quality not fully realized in action, yet passionately sought. To the degree that it touches this idealism, it may be expected to survive.”

WILLIAM MAURICE METTLER. Assistant secretary, Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, 1144 East Market Street, Akron, Ohio; residence, Shade Road, Bath, Box 216, R.D. 14, Akron 3.

Mettler, who became connected with the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company in 1916, has been assistant secretary of the company and several of its subsidiaries since May, 1926. He took an LL.B. degree at the Cleveland Law School in 1932 and, quite naturally, concentrates his efforts on corporation work. He has served on the budget committee of the United Community Chest of Akron and Summit County since 1940, was president of the Bath Community Council from 1946 to 1949 (and on the executive committee for the next two years), and has been a trustee of the Family Service Society since 1945 (treasurer, 1947-50) and vice-chairman and a trustee of the Y.W.C.A. since 1942. Since becoming a member of the Bath Community Church in 1944, Mettler has been a deacon and chairman of the board of trustees. A member of the Summit County Yale Alumni Association since its start in 1927, he served as president for a year and has also been president of the Sigma Chi Alumni Association. He has held various offices in the Bath Grange, is a member of the Summit County Pomona Grange and the Ohio State Grange, belongs to the Akron Bar Association, and is a Republican in politics. During the war he was an air raid warden. What spare time he has—and it can't be much—is devoted to farming and fishing.

Mettler was married in Akron, August 21, 1915, to Harriet Vernon Hotchkiss, daughter of Henry Vernon and Jessie Tier Hotchkiss. Her death occurred on March 1, 1921. His second marriage, to Margaret Elizabeth Young, daughter of Jacob and Josephine Pouchot Young, took place February 21, 1925. He has six children, all of whom were born in Akron: Nancy on May 23, 1916, William M., Jr., on July 11, 1917, John Hotchkiss on March 15, 1919, Margaret Anne on April 4, 1926, Belle Elizabeth on December 25, 1927, and Mary Alice on October 9, 1937.

The oldest girl, who is a teacher at the Central High School in Akron, received a B.A. degree at Mount Holyoke in 1938, a B.S. at Ohio State in 1940, and an M.A. at Western Reserve three years later. William, Jr. (B.A. Oberlin 1939), has been in the Air Force since January, 1942, serving as a lieutenant (fighter pilot) in New Guinea and currently as a major at the San Bernardino Air Base; he married Barbara Smith, of Proctor, Vt., in August, 1944, and has four children. John, who graduated from Ohio State in 1942, was married in May, 1943, to Dorothy Giesy, of New York City. He was a captain in the Combat Engineers during the war and is now with the General Electric Corporation in Cleveland. Margaret attended Middlebury College and Akron University, graduating from the latter with the degree of Bachelor of Secretarial Science in 1947. She was married that June to Richard Fairfax Schnorf. Belle attended the University of Southern California at Los Angeles for a time and then transferred to Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, where she graduated in 1949; she is working for the B. N. Ritter Company, leather brokers, of Cincinnati. The youngest child, Mary Alice, has just completed grade school.

GAZA HENRY MIKA. Address, 168 North Main Street, Old Forge, Pa.

SAMUEL WICKHAM MILLS. Physician and surgeon; office and residence, 60 West Main Street, Middletown, N.Y.

Mills, who has continued in the practice of medicine in Middletown, is associate surgeon at the Horton Memorial Hospital there. During the war he was chief examiner for the local Draft Board. He is a member of the American College of Surgeons and has served as president of the Orange County Medical Society and as chairman of the medical staff of the Horton Memorial Hospital. He belongs to the First Presbyterian Church in Middletown and is a Republican in politics.

Mills took three trips to the West Indies during the period from 1930 to 1940 and one to Labrador on a freighter. In the summer of 1938 he visited the surgical clinics of the leading European capitals and during the summer of 1950 went to Europe again, visiting eight countries.

He was married on September 3, 1919, at Pompton Lakes, N.J., to Dorothy Van Orden, daughter of Louis and Elizabeth Durland Van Orden. He gives us the following information about his two boys: "My older son, Samuel W. Mills, Jr. (born in Middletown, January 16, 1921), is the third in line to graduate from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia. He had previously graduated from The Hotchkiss School and Yale. Following his graduation from medical school and an internship at the Lenox Hill Hospital, he was surgeon for two years at the Pentagon Building and is now resident surgeon at the Lenox Hill Hospital in New York. He is married to Dorothy Sellew, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and has two daughters. My younger son, Louis V. Mills (born in Middletown, August 14, 1923), is district manager for the Equitable Life Assurance Society for Orange and Dutchess counties. He has been president of the Young Republican Club of Middletown and was recently in charge of the local Red Cross drive. He is married to Roberta Arrowsmith, of Jacksonville, Fla., and has two sons." In November, 1951, Louis was elected mayor of Middletown, incidentally the youngest mayor in the State of New York.

MORRIS MITCHELL. Manager, supply department, Chicago National Bank, 120 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.; residence, 1361 Greenleaf Avenue, Chicago 26.

"I have always regarded Freshman English, which used to be a must course when I entered Yale in the fall of 1910, as a sort of turning point in my life," Mitchell tells us. "Before this I had always thought I would be a lawyer. My father, in fact, was determined to make me the best lawyer in Fayette County, Pa., and had established Daniel Webster as my hero, but before Christmas of that year had rolled around Daniel went out of the window as my No. 1 man, and William (Shakespeare) was firmly established in his place.

"However, the real reason I did not take up the study of law after leaving Yale was the precarious condition of my health. My father had had ambitions of being a lawyer. The opportunities of making money in business had taken him away from his first love, and he had enjoyed considerable success and reputation as a coal mine operator and an inventor of coal-mining and coke-making machinery, but he had never gotten over a none too happy yen for speculating in land. In 1915 he had several thousand acres of timber and farm land in northeastern Louisiana. Accordingly I repaired to these wide open spaces to live the life of a cotton planter, rice grower, and cattle man. Life in the open and on horseback did wonders for my health, but I never took farming as a career seriously—always dreamed of the time when I could disentangle myself from all this and devote my time to what really interested me. Among other things, I discovered some good chess players among the U.S. Government engineers at near-by Vicksburg, Miss. In that city I married Ruth Bracken in November, 1923. And I never deserted my literary idols—rather I read and reread their works in the light of my more mature experiences, became more widely acquainted with them and with others, as Santayana, Melville, Romaine Rolland, Bernard Shaw, etc.

"Well, by 1933 I got disentangled all right from my Southern interests; my father's estate had practically evaporated in the Great Depression. I left the South with a few thousand dollars and spent the next two years in Chicago and New York. I had made a couple of lucky and profitable ventures in cotton futures a few years before, so I hoped I might be able to repair my fortunes in cotton or wheat, if a happy chance offered—but no luck. The W.P.A. offered a chance to eat. I was assigned to Hull House, where my informal lectures on Jane Addams and the settlement house she founded gained some local popularity. I also became associated with the Hull House Little Theatre. Here some friends thought I had some possibilities as an actor and should try the theatre, but, after consideration, I decided I was too old to enter an entirely new field. Possibly this was a mistake, but the Federal Adult Education program beckoned, with a scant living it is true, but with a thirty-hour week and lots of leisure for other interests. Here I taught Spanish some and with the staff put together a first Spanish book for soldiers and wrote a first Spanish reader—quite a daring enterprise considering the state of our Spanish! I also wrote short stories and poems which steadily refused to be sold. [Mitchell has published some verse in Driftwind, a little poetry magazine published in Montpelier, Vt.] Then came several years of various war work; then the last four years in the bank in the supply and reproduction departments.”

Mitchell has a son, Morris, Jr., born in Vicksburg on August 5, 1925, who graduated from Wright Junior College in Chicago. “He is a better chess player than I am,” he writes, “and also has literary tastes.”

As to recreations and special interests, he continues, “I still like literature, the game of chess, the theatre, and burlesque shows. For the rest, I believe in the wisdom of the ancients: the gods are hostile and look with suspicion on the knowledge and advances of men. Of late years a great many caps have been thrown into the air and hands clapped over our so great progress, but this, I think, has been in purely mechanical and technical directions, and, while it may be enormously important, it is still not everything. I have been so bold as to have some ideas as to where and why this age was failing as compared to its immediate predecessors, and in what respects the ancients excelled all later times and why. In a free society to discuss such things might not be out of order or unprofitable. Of course, my ideas on such subjects may or may not be of value, but my experiences in trying to advance them have been highly discouraging. I am reminded of the words Euripides puts into the mouth of Medea, which have been translated, as I remember, to this effect: ‘Alas, whoever is wise let him not educate his children in wisdom. . . . for aside from other charges of idleness they meet with hostile envy from their fellow citizens.’ . . . Oh well, perhaps the ideas are all moonshine anyway, or the gods are hostile. Still I have my literature—its geniuses never accuse me of being lazy or a hopeless dreamer.”

DOUGLAS STUART MOORE. MacDowell professor of music and executive officer, Columbia University; residence, 464 Riverside Drive, New York, N.Y.

Twice winner of the Pulitzer Prize in music—the first in 1924 for his Suite for Orchestra and the second in 1951 for his opera, Giants in the Earth, Moore has been honored with the degree of Doctor of Music by the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music (1946) and the University of Rochester (1948). In 1947 he received honorable mention from the New York Critics Circle for his Symphony in A. His compositions include three operas, two symphonies, three orchestral suites, chamber music, songs, and piano pieces. He is the author of two books, Listening to Music (1932) and From Madrigal to Modern Music (1942), both published by Norton, and is the editor of the College Music Series (Prentice Hall).

Moore was curator of music at the Museum of Art in Cleveland from 1921 to 1925, during the last three years of this period also being organist at Adelbert College, Western Reserve University. He joined the Columbia faculty in 1926 and in 1940 became MacDowell professor of music and an executive officer of the University. He has been president of the National Institute of Arts and Letters since 1946 and in December, 1951, was one of "six American creative artists whose works are considered most likely to achieve a permanent place in American culture" elected to life membership in the American Academy of Arts and Letters. Moore is a director of the Edward MacDowell Association, the American Academy in Rome, and the American Music Center, a member of the board of appeals of ASCAP, and an Associate Fellow of Calhoun College at Yale. A member of the Century Club of New York, he served on its admissions committee from 1944 to 1947 and on the board of governors for the next three years.

His marriage to Emily Bailey, daughter of Charles Lukens Bailey, Yale '98, and Mary Seiler Bailey, took place at Vineyard Haven, Mass., on September 16, 1920. They have two daughters: Mary, born in Paris on July 17, 1921, and Sarah, born in Cleveland, August 10, 1923. Mary graduated from Barnard in 1943. She married Bradford Kelleher, who graduated from Yale in 1946, following service in the Special Services Section of the U.S. Army and who is now employed by the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Sarah, who graduated from Bennington in 1946, is a free-lance writer, living at home.

"In my period at Columbia I have had three sabbaticals," Moore says. "The first, in 1934, was spent in Bermuda, the second, in 1942, in Tucson, Ariz., the third, in 1949, as composer in residence at the American Academy in Rome. In Tucson an old hobby was revived by acting the Eddie Dowling part in 'The Time of Your Life' at the Tucson Little Theatre. I have also directed amateur theatrical productions during the summer on the east end of Long Island. During the time in Cleveland I was a member of the acting company of the Cleveland Playhouse and took parts in Chesterton's 'Magic,' Shaw's 'Pygmalion,' and two other plays.

"One of the happiest activities of my life was the Chaos Club, which was an informal group of 1915 men which started back in 1928 and had a meeting as recently as three years ago. It started with a dinner meeting at the Century Club which was planning some sort of Class function. George Stewart suddenly asked each man around the table to state what he was doing to prevent the recurrence of another war. The replies from men of so many different kinds of activity were so interesting that we thought it might be fun to get a group together occasionally to do the same thing again. Len Outhwaite and John Crosby Brown were the leading spirits, and they assembled Ranny Macdonald, Plute Weiss, Joe Walker, Archie MacLeish, Nig Donaldson, Dean Acheson, Doc Swift, Doc Merz, George Stewart, and myself. We used to meet two or three times a year at the Coffee House in New York. The Chaos Club name came from the economic crisis which was so much in our minds at the time.

"There was no formal program at a meeting, but any one could throw a topic into the circle and ask each man for an opinion. There was considerable difference, you can imagine, but a lot of agreement too. I remember in 1931 we elected Newton Baker president and so informed him. He wrote back to us very much pleased and said that he had always thought highly of the intelligence of Yale men.

"After Dean and Archie moved to Washington, we went on without them. I shall never forget the vehemence of Len Outhwaite about appeasement of totalitarianism. Long before the rest of us were alerted he was bursting at the seams, and it was very impressive.

"Since the terrible loss of John and Plute we have not had the heart to call another meeting, but I believe that no one of us will ever forget the heady companionship and good talk of the Chaos Club."

WILLIAM CARD MOORE. Secretary and treasurer, Industrial Coatings, Inc. (rust proof and corrosion proof vehicles for paints), 2600 Ali Baba Avenue, Opa-locka, Fla.; residence, 761 N.E. 137th Street, North Miami, Fla. (P.O. Box 912).

"I must confess to being very definitely one of the less distinguished members of the Class of 1915"—thus Moore. "As I look back, a bit wryly, I don't seem to have accomplished very much, except to have brought up three small children more or less by myself, starting when they were three, seven, and eight years old, respectively. Yet I freely declaim that I have no regrets, despite the loss of two small fortunes at one time or another, and the commission of more than my share, perhaps, of sins of omission and commission. My life has been enriched by many laughs and many interesting experiences and contacts in many countries with almost every variety of human being. I suppose you would describe me as the type who has 'been around,' and certainly life has never been dull, albeit not always happy. While I am theoretically 'retired,' I am always fussing with some situation or other and have reason to believe I shall soon be heading overseas again. In my various overseas jobs, I regard myself as somewhat of a relief pitcher—at least, some of the jobs I have handled were jobs nobody else wanted or would accept! In general, let's say simply that I'm mighty glad to be alive, and as for the past—well, I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

He adds, "I have traveled extensively during my life—almost everywhere, in fact, except the Far East, Near East, Central and South Africa. F'r'instance—all South America, except Paraguay, Bolivia, Ecuador, and the Guianas. All Europe, except the Balkans, Greece, Finland, Holland, Russia, Portugal. (I lived in France and Germany as a child and went to school there.) Practically every state in U.S., Canada, Hawaii, Fiji, Canton, New Caledonia, New Zealand, Panama, Mexico, most of West Indies. Cuba. None of Central America. North Africa, yes. Canary Islands, Madeira, St. Vincent's. No special hobbies (except perhaps photography)."

From 1940 to 1942 Moore was treasurer and a director of Minsch, Monell & Company, Inc., an investment securities firm in New York. He spent the following year in Detroit as contract negotiator for the Motor Transport Service, Quartermaster Corps, U.S. Army, until it was taken over by the Ordnance Department. He then became district supervisor for the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations under the State Department. This was taken over in January, 1944, by UNRRA. He had the same title there until he resigned about May 1, 1944, to become principal requirements representative for the Foreign Economic Administration in Wellington, New Zealand. He remained there for about a year and then for a time in 1946 had a special research job in Cuba for the Middle East Corporation of Cleveland. During the period from May, 1946, to September, 1947, Moore was with the Coöperative for American Remittances to Europe, Inc. (CARE), serving as chief administrator for Czechoslovakia for a little over a year and then as chief administrator for Germany, with his headquarters at Bremen. He resigned in September, 1947, and returned to the United States to settle in Florida. He has been secretary and treasurer of Industrial Coatings, Inc., since August, 1950, and is also a director of the Milk Concentrate Corporation of Coral Gables, but says these are just small interests which he has just to give him something to do.

In December, 1947, Moore was decorated in New York City by the Czech Consul General with the Order of the White Lion for his work in setting up the CARE organization in Czechoslovakia (before the Communist coup). He says that he has done considerable work here and there for the Republican party, but nothing outstanding, that he has been a member of the Presbyterian Church since boyhood, and that he has belonged to dozens of country, lunch, etc., clubs, but now belongs only to the Yale, Downtown Athletic, and Zeta Psi clubs of New York.

He was first married in 1916 in Oswego, N.Y., to Virginia K. Murdoch, daughter of Augustus P. and May Murdoch. They were divorced in 1926. His second marriage, to Audrey Marie Smith, daughter of William S. and Mary Smith, took place in Elkton, Md., August 30, 1941. His oldest son, Daniel Agnew, who was born February 5, 1917, in Pittsburgh, graduated from the Montclair (N.J.) Academy and from Yale in 1939 and since 1940 has been employed by PanAgra in Lima, Peru. He is unmarried. His daughter, Mary Murdoch, born May 20, 1918, attended Lasell Junior College. She was married in 1940 to Robert R. Lake, of Kingston, Jamaica, where he is now a member of the law firm of Lake & Nunes. They have two boys and two girls. The younger boy, William Card, Jr., who was born July 24, 1922, attended the Eaglebrook School and the Newton School in South Windham, Vt., and had a year at the Agricultural School of the University of Connecticut before enlisting in the Navy in 1942. He served three and a half years in the Armed Guard on various merchantmen as a gunner's mate. His marriage to Mrs. Norma Viggue Young took place in Mexico, N.Y., in 1950, and he has a stepson, as well as a daughter, Kathleen, born December 5, 1950. Moore's children were all born in Pittsburgh.

STANLEY MORRISON. Professor of law, Stanford University, Stanford, Calif.; residence, 127 Alta Vista Drive, Atherton, Calif.

"The last twenty years don't seem to have produced any dramatic events (for me)," says Morrison. "Since the war I have been dividing my time between teaching law at Stanford and practicing tax law in San Francisco."

The latter connection is with the firm of McCutchen, Thomas, Matthew, Griffiths & Greene, whose offices are in the Balfour Building in San Francisco. Morrison, who has been a member of the Stanford faculty since 1924, was promoted from associate professor of law to a full professorship in 1929. During the period from 1942 to 1945 he left the University to practice tax law in Los Angeles as a member of the firm of Miller, Chevalier, Peeler & Wilson. Morrison has contributed to various legal periodicals, is a member of the board of governors of the Wine and Food Society of San Francisco, and belongs to the Bohemian Club.

On September 28, 1922, he was married in San Francisco to Carroll Epler Cambron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Cambron. Their older son, Stephen Cambron, who was born in Pasadena, August 31, 1923, was in the Army from 1942 to 1945, serving in India and China. He graduated from the California Institute of Technology in 1948 and two years later received the degree of M.S. at the University of California at Los Angeles. He is now an electrical engineer with the Hughes Aircraft Corporation in that city. The younger boy, Peter, who was born June 30, 1926, in San Francisco, graduated from Yale in 1950 and is now at the Stanford Law School. He was in the Navy from 1944 to 1946.

ANTHONY MORSE. Address, 27 Washington Square, North, New York 11, N.Y.

HUNTINGTON TOMLINSON MORSE. Special assistant to the chairman/administrator, Federal Maritime Board/Maritime Administration, Department of Commerce, 4865 Commerce Building, Washington 25, D.C.; residence, 27 West Irving Street, Chevy Chase 15, Md.

Morse writes: "In February, 1934, I was invited to come to Washington to act as shipping adviser to the then chairman of the Shipping Board Bureau of the Department of Commerce. I later became director of operations, and, when in 1936 the U.S. Maritime Commission was created as an independent Federal agency, I remained with that organization until it was merged with the Department of Commerce in 1950, serving in the capacity of special assistant to the chairman. The Commission constructed a fleet of over 5,000 merchant type vessels during the war. During this period I was also special assistant to the administrator, War Shipping Administration (the wartime ship operating agency), and was liaison officer for the above named agencies with the U.S. military establishments and the allied governments on maritime affairs. My duties required frequent trips abroad, principally to England and later on to the Continent. I have been awarded the following decorations with citations for war work: from the President of the United States—Certificate of Merit; from the Republic of France—Officer of the Legion of Honor; from the King of Norway—Knight's Cross, First Class, Royal Order of St. Olav; from the Queen of the Netherlands—Commander in the Order of Orange Nassau.

"My present job is special assistant to the chairman/administrator of the Federal Maritime Board/Maritime Administration, Department of Commerce.

"Chief accomplishments: (a) In 1944, as the representative of the United States, I assisted in drawing up and signed an agreement with the allied nations for the establishment of an international allied pool of ocean-going merchant shipping which became known as the United Maritime Authority.

"(b) In 1948 I represented the United States at the United Nations Maritime Conference in Geneva and signed the Convention on the Intergovernmental Maritime Consultative Organization, which, when ratified by twenty-one nations, will become a specialized agency of the United Nations in the maritime field.

"(c) In 1950 I was appointed by the President as the U.S. representative on the North Atlantic Planning Board for Ocean Shipping of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which has prepared an approved plan for the mobilization, control, and allocation of ocean-going merchant shipping on a world-wide basis in time of war or wartime emergency."

Morse had an earlier connection with a government agency—in the period from 1919 to 1925, when he was with the U.S. Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation; he served as director of operations for a year, as assistant special commissioner during 1920-21, and subsequently as director for Europe. He was an executive with the Munson Steamship Lines of New York from 1926 to 1932 and during the next two years was in the coal business in New York.

His principal recreations are reading and golf. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church and belongs to the Naval Order of the United States, the American Legion, the Propeller Club, the University Club, and the Kenwood Golf and Country Club.

Morse was first married in 1921 in London to Anna Margarete Lindahl. They were divorced in 1927. On March 9, 1928, he was married in Stamford, Conn., to Sarah Merritt Carter, daughter of Israel J. and Caroline Freytag Merritt. "I have one child by my first marriage—Mary Louise," he says. "She was born in London, December 10, 1923, is now married to Waugh Glascock and lives in Howard County, Md. She has been interested in art since childhood and as a result has produced some very commendable pieces of work in oils, water colors, and models in the field of sculpture which have been publicly exhibited, and she has received a number of important awards from the well-known Rhinehart School of Art at Baltimore. She has recently entered the commercial field and has already received a number of commissions."

GEORGE RUDOLF MOSLE. Staff assistant, Northern California area, Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company; also town clerk, Ross, Calif.; residence, 8 Baywood Avenue, Ross.

Mosle, who has had nearly twenty-nine years of service with the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company, is at present on the staff of the general commercial representative of the Northern California area, handling the telephone needs of the armed forces. He was elected town treasurer of Ross in April, 1948, and appointed town clerk the following month.

His marriage to Alison Grossbeck Ackerman, of Hackensack, N.J., took place on October 9, 1920. They have had two sons, the older of whom, Philip, died on January 17, 1924, at the age of two and a half years. The younger boy, George, who was born November 13, 1924, was married on June 30, 1946, to Betty M. Marsh, of Oklahoma City. They have had three children: Terresa Anne, born September 1, 1947, George Harold, who died at birth, and Philip, born May 18, 1951.

Mosle divides the rest of his report into two sections—hobbies and “shock.” Under the first he lists:

“My grandchildren.

“Fishing, which is unsurpassed in our western mountains and coastal streams.

“Photography—still concentrating on ‘a good negative,’ with some one else doing the developing and enlarging.

“Camping, or better, mountain living. I have recently acquired a cabin, about ten miles south of Lake Tahoe, where the family will spend three or four months each year in the summer, while I commute the two hundred miles each way for the week-ends and where I hope to spend six months or more as soon as I am able to retire.

“For an exceedingly interesting and not too time-consuming work, I recommend being the town clerk of a small community. We have a little over 2,000 inhabitants, according to the census. It is fascinating and satisfying.”

In the second category: “If you want a shock, have your son go to work in the same organization and then have the people of that organization refer to you as ‘George’s old man.’ Nuf said.”

DUBOSE MURPHY. Rector, Christ Episcopal Church, 605 25th Avenue, Tuscaloosa, Ala.; residence, 35 Meador Drive, Tuscaloosa. (P.O. Box 354)

Murphy was rector of Christ Church in Tyler, Texas, from November, 1930, to September, 1937, and of the Church of St. Clement in El Paso for the next five years and since December, 1942, has been at Christ Church, Tuscaloosa.

He is one of the associate editors of the Historical Magazine of the Protestant Episcopal Church and has had four articles and a few reviews published in it. He has also contributed articles to the Anglican Theological Review and other church papers and is the author of two books, A Short History of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Texas, published by the Turner Company of Dallas in 1935, and Life in the Church, the first edition of which was published by the Cloister Press of Louisville in 1945 and the second by Wilcox & Follett, Chicago, in 1950. In 1930 Murphy took an M.A. degree at the University of Texas. He has served on a few church committees and boards.

His marriage to Alice Hartwell Magruder, daughter of A. L. C. and Alice Hartwell Magruder, took place in San Antonio on July 26, 1926. Their daughter, Alice Gardner, who was born in Austin, Texas, on August 22, 1927, received a B.A. degree at the University of Alabama in 1948 and that fall went to work for the Tuscaloosa News as reporter and feature writer. She was promoted to woman's editor in October, 1949, but resigned in September, 1950, to go with the Birmingham News as reporter and feature writer. Their son, Leonard Brewster, born in Austin, March 15, 1929, graduated from the University of the South with the degree of B.A. in 1950 and is now attending the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, Mass.

REX MAURICE NAYLOR. Historian, U.S. Air Force; address, Headquarters, Tactical Air Command, Langley Air Force Base, Va.; residence, 738 Longfellow Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

In 1940 Naylor resigned as instructor in history at Washington Square College, New York University, to go with the Office of the District Postal Censor in New York City, where he was engaged in work in connection with the national censorship until 1945, serving progressively as examiner, consultant on business mail, assistant censor, censor, chief of the control division, acting chief of operations, and assistant chief of examination. From 1945 to 1947 he was associated with the New York regional office of the Veterans Administration as a training officer and since October, 1949, has had his present position with the U.S. Air Force.

In answer to our question about retirement, Naylor said: "At fifty-eight? Nonsense! Expect to be in harness for at least ten years longer, God willing." He adds: "I do not consider that I have excelled in my profession. My greatest satisfaction is derived from the fact that I have taught men who have attained distinction in the field of history and this, to my mind at least, is a greater glory. I acknowledge, with a deep sense of gratitude, my indebtedness to President-Emeritus Seymour and to the late Professors George Burton Adams, Charles M. Andrews, and Max Farrand, who taught me the real meaning and significance of history and enabled me to pass it on to the next generation.

"During the war years I feel that I made a modest contribution to national security by my tour of duty in the Office of Censorship. This agency performed a great service to the United States and its allies in World War II, and I feel sure that its operations will be equally valuable in World War III.

"During World War III the Tactical Air Command will have a most important rôle in gaining air superiority over the enemy, in interdicting battle fields, and in furnishing close support to our ground forces. For this reason, I am altogether proud of functioning as a Command historian, in order that the operations of the Command may be analyzed and interpreted for the benefit of the officers and airmen destined to be assigned to this Command."

Naylor gives the following information about his writings: "I contributed an article, 'Reduction and Control of the Liquor Traffic' (exposing the economic fallacies of the 18th Amendment), to the Yale Review for December, 1931. A year or so after its publication this article was listed by the Yale Review as one of the many articles published since its inception which lent distinction to its prestige as a national publication. I had a review of Harry Elmer Barnes' book, Prohibition vs. Civilization, in the Saturday Review of Literature in 1932. Dr. Barnes, in his book, took it for granted that the 18th Amendment was here to stay, since any thirteen states could block its repeal. In my review I predicted the early repeal of the Amendment, largely by the votes of the very people who had secured its enactment, because it had failed to accomplish the expected results by ignoring the law of supply and demand."

During the period from 1942 to 1945 Naylor served as an air raid warden in New York. He was elected to membership in Lambda Chi Alpha in 1925 and is a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church. On February 1, 1947, he was married in New York City to Martha Margaret Ball, daughter of Jesse and Mary Schadel Ball. "No kids," he says. "Give us time. Maybe we can produce a member of the Class of 1973 or 1974, unless it should happen to be a girl."

BARNES NEWBERRY. Address, Box 3096, Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Newberry's questionnaire was a bit late in coming and so the committee wrote him urging him to send in information, "even in words of one syllable if necessary." We quote his reply verbatim:

"My age is three score, my weight is eight score, my blood count O.K., my skin black, my hair gray and my eyes cat. I live down here, I have a new bride and a new home and we both love it. This town is our home and for your dope sheet the next time I go north I will be in a crate.

"I have lost your damn sheet so I do not know what you want to know but I will take a chance and guess. I am a full comm ex U.S.N.R. (use your dumb head for what it stands for) as of six years past. I went through both wars and no scratch. I got out of the last one with three gold stripes on my sleeve and six 'decs' on my left chest on three of which are gold stars for all of which I am proud tho I did nil to earn them but I had a swell job and a swell C.O.

"Three of my four kids are hooked for life. The first aged three four has two girl kids, the next kid aged three two has three male brats, my third kid a male aged three nought has one son named for me (why I do not know), my fourth kid a male aged two three is in his twoth year at U. of R.I. My son and heir was chief on a D.E. U.S.N.R. in the last mess. Both sons in law were loot comms in the last mess, so we are all sprayed with salt. None of them went or will go to Yale, they are too hard at work.

"I guess that is all. I will bet you do not print it, but do not say that I let you down. At least I wrote you. From your use of Box 3096 you know where I live.

"Yours (in words of one syllable)

Barnes

"P.S. Up until this very moment I have never fully realized how utterly difficult and complicated it is to become the author of an epistle written in words of a single syllable. I only hope that you will with your usual magnanimous way of thinking appreciate the terrific effort which I have made to bring about your request. My mentality at this point is utterly exhausted.

Signed (ipse) Barnes Newberry

The commander-in-chief of the department of utter confusion and happiness."

LAWRENCE ADELBERT NORTON. Residence address, Box 763, Route 2, Tucson, Ariz.

Norton, who was a partner in L. A. Norton & Company, a New York security firm, until it was dissolved in December, 1938, writes, "I had a prolonged illness, starting in February, 1942, and lasting a year. Came to Arizona in search of health and have been much improved, although unable to engage in active business.

"By persistent reading and exposure to prominent Arizona visitors I manage to keep very well posted on business and world affairs. My study of the stock and bond market has continued since my retirement from active business. Have rental cottages, by month or by season, at my thirty-acre residence ranch fifteen miles east of Tucson on the Tanque Verde Road. Have been president of the Tucson Yale

Club (over fifty members) for the past three years and was vice-president of the Tucson University Club for three years.

"The growth of Tucson has been quite astounding since my arrival here almost nine years ago. It is an inspiring atmosphere of hope and ambition which surrounds me and my wife and infant daughter.

"My visit to New York and the Yale campus in May, 1951, was the first time I had been East in almost six years. My wife and I occasionally visit California—with favorite spots San Francisco, Santa Barbara, La Jolla, and Lake Tahoe.

"Any classmate thinking about retirement, in a favorable climate and close to any spot in the world via airplane, should put Tucson under observation."

Norton belongs to the Old Pueblo Club of Tucson. His first marriage (February 5, 1925), to Anne Dodd Bingham, terminated in divorce. In March, 1949, he married Mary Lou Minnick Bertermann, of Indianapolis and Tucson. He has two children by his first marriage: Mary Louise, a graduate of Wells College, who is now Mrs. John S. McBride, of Yonkers, N.Y., and Lawrence A., 3d, Yale '51, who expected to enter the field of medicine; and a daughter, Linda, by his second marriage, who was born December 12, 1949—and whose interest in New Haven is being stimulated by the possession of two Yale Co-op stuffed blue bulldogs.

WALTER LOUIS NUSCHKE. Office manager, Naval Supply Depot, Mechanicsburg, Pa.; residence, 160 East High Street, Carlisle, Pa.

Nuschke continued in the position of county commissioner of Potter County, Pa., until 1931. During the next four years he was deputy to the insurance commissioner (the state insurance department) in Harrisburg in charge of both the division of agents and the division of companies. From 1937 to 1944 he was auditor for a large casualty insurance company and then for two years was in the office of the state Auditor-General. He has been office manager at the Naval Supply Depot at Mechanicsburg since December, 1944, the assignment being in connection with the Navy Security Department.

Nuschke has been an elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Carlisle since 1939. He is a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of the Shrine. In his spare time he does quite a bit of fishing for brook trout.

*Paul L. at Falls Church
Charbrook 6-3678.*

On June 14, 1920, he was married in Austin, Pa., to Mary Kathern Brisbois, daughter of Delphis F. and Catherine C. Brisbois. Their children are: Paul L., born September 7, 1921, in Olean, N.Y., Nancy M. on January 14, 1923, in Austin, and Joseph Walter on April 27, 1928, in Coudersport, Pa. The older boy, who graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1944 with the accelerated Class of 1945, is now a senior grade lieutenant and is taking his first year of post-graduate work at the Naval Academy, with two more years to follow at Massachusetts Tech. He married Thelma Louise Brumley, of Bogata, Texas, and has a son, Walter Louis, 2d, born August 16, 1947. During the war Nancy was chairman of junior hostesses for the U.S.O. at Carlisle and also served as a Red Cross ambulance driver. Her husband, Robert H. Ramp, who graduated in industrial design from Pratt Institute, is a designer at Reed & Barton, silversmiths, in Taunton, Mass.; he served as a lieutenant in the Medical Corps during the war. They have a daughter, Robbyn Lynn, born October 12, 1947, and a son, Steven Richard, born April 20, 1951. Following three years in the Navy Joseph entered Temple University, where he was a member of the Class of 1951.

CASPER YOST OFFUTT. Vice-president and trust officer, United States National Bank of Omaha, 1612 Farnam Street, Omaha, Nebr.; residence, 109 North 54th Street, Omaha.

Before forming the above connection in January, 1940, Offutt practiced law under the firm name of Wells, Martin, Lane & Offutt. He is a director of the bank and also of the Carpenter Paper Company, the Omaha Bakers Supply Company, and the Roundup Coal Mining Company and is a trustee and chairman of the finance committee of the Forest Lawn Cemetery Association. Offutt is serving on the Omaha Foreign Affairs Committee and as vice-president and chairman of the finance committee of the Munroe Home for Convalescing Crippled Children. From 1936 to 1940 he was chairman of the budget committee of the Omaha Community Chest, of which he was president in 1941, and from 1937 to 1940 he was chairman of the board of trustees of the First Presbyterian Church. He is a Republican and belongs to the Omaha Club and the Omaha Country Club. In the summer of 1936 he took a trip to Europe—especially Sweden, Norway, and Denmark.

On November 2, 1921, Offutt was married in Bryn Mawr, Pa., to Mary Esterbrook Longmaid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Long-maid. They have three children, all of whom were born in Omaha: Mary Esterbrook on November 23, 1923, Casper Yost, Jr., on May 13, 1927, and John Longmaid on March 1, 1933. Mary, who attended the Shipley School in Bryn Mawr and Vassar, married Richardson Pratt, Jr., and has two children: Mary Laura, born December 1, 1945, and Thomas Richardson on March 12, 1948. The family lives at Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y. Casper, Jr., graduated from Lawrenceville in 1945 and from the University of Michigan with a B.A. degree in 1950. The younger boy graduated from the Cambridge School in Weston, Mass., last June.

ALFRED O'GARA. Partner, Alfred O'Gara & Company, investment bankers, 134 South LaSalle Street, Chicago 3, Ill.; residence, 1540 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago 10.

O'Gara was associated with Thomson & McKinnon, a Chicago brokerage firm, from 1920 to 1932. In the meantime (1928) he had become chairman of the board of the Midwest Investors Company and continued in this connection until 1942. He was also a partner in Harrison, O'Gara & Company from November, 1932, to July, 1938, and has since been a partner in Alfred O'Gara & Company. Since 1947 he has, in addition, been chairman of the board of the Serrick Corporation of Defiance, Ohio, which has four divisions serving principally the automotive, refrigeration, and stove industries.

O'Gara has been a member of the advisory board of the Mary Bartelme Club since 1945, and he belongs to the Saddle and Cycle Club and the Racquet Club of Chicago. He says he has traveled rather extensively and that his recreations are backgammon, bridge, and canasta and his special interests, politics, good government, and clean elections. This latter interest is obviously a major one as indicated by the following summary taken from his report: "Vice-president, Republican Citizens' Finance Committee of Illinois, 1947-49; on executive committee, 1949 to date; chairman, Finance Committee for Charles S. Dewey 1944 Campaign for Congress; one of leaders in movement to draft Douglas MacArthur for President in 1948; member, Business Men's Committee, since 1940, chairman since 1946. This committee, formed to give an opportunity to private citizens to become more effective in their participation in government, has numbered among its activities: (a) recruiting, training, and placing of workers as poll watchers to prevent fraudulent voting in elections in Chicago since 1940; (b) raising funds for Congressional candidates in 1944; (c) managing of and raising funds for certain campaigns and assisting in the management of and raising funds for others since 1944; (d) public relations programs sponsoring get-out-the-vote drives in Chicago and Cook County in 1946 and nationwide in 1950."

O'Gara's marriage to Sarah Elizabeth Carpenter Felts, daughter of Hugh Milton and Elizabeth Hampson Carpenter, took place in Miami Beach, Fla., on May 10, 1933. His stepson, Gordon Carpenter O'Gara, who was born on February 1, 1920, in Los Angeles, was educated at the California Preparatory School and Princeton University (B.A. 1942). He served as a lieutenant in the Navy from June, 1942, to April, 1946, and at present is assistant sales manager of the Acme-Lees Division of the Serrick Corporation at Muncie, Ind. Gordon is the author of Theodore Roosevelt and the Rise of the Modern Navy, published by the Princeton University Press in 1942.

ALGOTH OHLSON. President emeritus, North Park College, 3225 Foster Avenue, Chicago 25, Ill.; residence, 5312 North Sawyer Avenue, Chicago 25.

Ohlson served as president of North Park College from June, 1924, until December, 1949, when he became president emeritus. In 1942 he received an honorary LL.D. degree at Augustana College and a D.D. at Upsala College, and in June, 1946, he was decorated by the King of Sweden as a Knight of the Order of the North Star. Ohlson's church affiliations are with the Evangelical Covenant. He says that he and his wife visited Sweden, Norway, and Denmark for three months in 1950 and that an occasional game of golf has to serve for recreation, while his hobbies are chiefly wood carving, art collecting, and antique collecting, in that order.

He was married in Washington, Conn., September 6, 1911, to Ruth Eleanor Carlson, daughter of John A. and Hannah Carlson. Their son, John, who was born June 21, 1915, received a B.A. degree at Northwestern in 1936 and an M.A. in 1938, subsequently continued his graduate work at Stanford and Duke, and is now a psychologist in the California State Department of Mental Hygiene. He is completing an intelligence test for spastics as a part of the thesis requirement for his Ph.D. degree. On May 3, 1945, he married Grace M. Kneedler (M.A. University of California), and they have two children: Mary Britta and Nils Patrick. Their daughter, Alice Eleanor, born July 30, 1918, received a B.A. degree at Northwestern in 1940. Her marriage to S. L. Cederborg (M.A. California), who served as a captain in the Judge Advocate General's Department during the war, took place on August 3, 1941. They have three children: Timothy Samuel, Lydia Eleanor, and Margaret Ann. Carl Venell, the younger boy, born July 2, 1921, took his B.A. degree at Northwestern in 1943 and that same year enlisted in the Navy with the rank of ensign. He saw service both in the Atlantic and the Pacific and ranked as lieutenant (j.g.) at the close of the war. He is now engaged as production manager with the Lincoln Line, Inc. He married Gwendolyn F. Johnson on August 6, 1944, and has two children: Thomas Mark, who was born May 31, 1947, and Steven Bruce on April 26, 1949.

GARDNER OSBORN. Address, Federal Hall Memorial Associates, Inc., Sub-Treasury Building, Wall and Nassau Streets, New York 5, N.Y.

CLEON SCOTT OSBOURN. Salesman, Connecticut General Life Insurance Company and other companies, 129 Church Street, New Haven, Conn.; residence, 450 Riverside Drive, New York 27, N.Y.

"My vocation since 1932 has been selling life insurance," Osbourn says. "My avocation has been, and still is, the winning of a just and permanent peace. It still can be done. During the war I made considerable effort towards the establishment of a world government with powers adequate for the preservation of law and order."

Osbourn was Freshman football coach and Freshman athletic director at Yale through the fall of 1931. He is a member of the Riverside Church in New York and during the period from 1945 to 1948 served as president of the men's class.

His marriage to Beth Neal, daughter of O. Warren and Nellie Hadley Neal, took place in Portland, Maine, on June 28, 1922. Their son, James Burr, who was born in New Haven on January 18, 1928, graduated from Yale with a B.A. degree in 1950 and since graduation has been on active service as an ensign in the Navy, at present being assigned to the aircraft carrier Oriskany. While in college, he was awarded his major "Y" in basketball.

LEONARD OUTHWAITE. Writer; also engaged in consulting work and research; residence, "Little Orchard," East Norwich, N.Y.

"The best news of 1951," says Outhwaite, "is that we have bought a nice old house and some acres here in Muttontown, Long Island—name, 'Little Orchard'; post office address, East Norwich. We are gradually getting settled, library installed, pictures hung, etc.

"I have not retired and still do administrative, consulting, and research work, but try to have more time for completing the many books and articles that I have developed over the years. War or no war, I still try to get in some travel, and I sail any time any one wants to fly the blue peter."

He brings us up-to-date with the following summary: "1930—published Atlantic Circle (Scribners, 1936) and began Unrolling the Map.

"1932—Undertook special report for Rockefeller Foundation; served as anthropologist to Foundation during this period—comprehensive report on primitive man in the modern world.

"1933—Unrolling the Map published [John Day-Reynal & Hitchcock; also two editions in England—1935, 1938, Denmark, Iceland, etc.]. About this time undertook for Rockefeller Foundation special studies on museum and exhibition techniques.

"1934 on—Served many museums and other institutions as consultant on management and exhibition and educational problems; made surveys for Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, the Philadelphia Academy of Sciences, the New York Zoological Society (Bronx Park), etc. Organized and directed Outhwaite Exhibits—a complete technical service for exhibitors at New York World Fair.

"1939—Went to Washington to do a special survey of the operation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs. That same year served as acting director of resettlement for the F.S.A., Department of Agriculture.

"1940 and on—Served successively on National Resources Planning Board, the War Manpower Commission, the Bureau of Budget, etc.

"During this period, with Floyd Reeves, made special nation-wide survey of rehabilitation of the physically handicapped; drafted the bill later enacted for a revision of the Federal Rehabilitation Service.

"Then served as secretary of the President's Conference on the Post-War Readjustment of Civilian and Military Personnel. This conference drafted the report which formed the basis of the President's program and was largely embodied in the so-called G.I. Bill of Rights.

"Became director of the staff of the Federal Board of Hospitalization and served in this capacity until 1945, when I resigned from government service. When our board began its operations, federal hospitals had reached an all-time high of around 600,000 hospital beds. In the first year of operation we brought about increased exchange of service between different agencies of government; reduced the number of overlapping services and the number of idle beds; by forecasting future demand, regularized construction and prevented the construction of a considerable number of wasteful or unnecessary projects. Altogether we saved the government many score of millions of dollars without curtailing just and needed services to individuals.

"I formerly took considerable pride and satisfaction in this and in the demobilization operation, but when I now view the exuberant extravagance, cynical apathy, and corruption of government I wonder why we took so much trouble.

"After some years in an industrial venture I resumed consulting work and the conduct of special inquiries and researches."

Outhwaite adds that he has had articles in Harper's and other magazines and that he has a new book in preparation for McGraw-Hill, as well as three other books in research and preparation—and that on moving to Washington in World War II he sold an extensive library in English literature, first editions, and association items and that he has improved his nautical library and his library of the literature of the sea. He belongs to the Union and Explorers clubs of New York and for a number of years served as chairman of the entertainment committee of the former and as a member of the board of governors, editor, and chairman of the entertainment committee of the latter.

He was first married on October 17, 1914, in New York City to Katharine Borden. They were divorced in 1925. On September 26, 1925, he was married in Washington to Mrs. Georgia Schofield Washburn, from whom he was subsequently divorced. His marriage to Lucille Conrad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Conrad, took place in Hollywood, Calif., on March 1, 1936. Outhwaite's daughter, Joan, who was born in New York in 1919, attended Rosemary Hall and the University of Michigan. She married Lelan F. Sillin, a graduate of the University of Michigan Law School, and has three sons. Her husband, who served with the Marines in the Western Pacific, ranking as a captain at the time of his separation from service, is a member of the law firm of Gould & Wilkie in New York. Outhwaite has two younger daughters, both of whom were born in Washington—Ann, aged eight, and Lynn, six.

CHARLES RALPH PAGTER. Address, 3647½ Eighth Avenue, Los Angeles 18, Calif.

EDWARD CHARLES PALMER. President, Terminal Grain Corporation, 614 Benson Building, Sioux City, Iowa; residence, 2902 Jackson Street, Sioux City.

For a number of years after graduation Palmer was with the Palmer Candy Company of Sioux City, but since 1935 he has been president of the Terminal Grain Corporation. He is a director of the Security National Bank of Sioux City and since 1930 has been a trustee of the William B. Palmer Estate.

In March, 1942, he joined the Naval Reserve and was assigned to the Shipping Control Office at Rio de Janeiro, with the rank of lieutenant commander. In May, 1944, he was transferred to the U.S.S. General Omar Bundy (AP 152), on which he served in the Pacific until November, 1945. He was separated from service in June, 1946, with the rank of captain, which he still holds in the Organized Reserve.

Palmer says that he is much interested in Mexico and has made frequent visits there. His marriage to Dorothy Eaton (B.A. Smith 1916), daughter of F. L. and Lillian Gale Eaton, took place on April 24, 1920, in Sioux City. Their children are: Gale, born March 1, 1921, Edward Charles, Jr., on May 15, 1923, and William E. on August 31, 1924, all in Sioux City. Gale, who attended Northwestern University and Iowa State College, is married to C. K. Williams and has three daughters and a son. The older boy has a B.A. degree from Iowa State, while William received an M.S. degree at the California Institute of Technology.

IRVING PARIS. Assistant branch manager, First Investors Corporation, 1 Park Avenue, New York 16, N.Y.; residence, 235 East 46th Street, New York 17.

All that Paris tells us is that since 1946 he has been assistant branch manager of the First Investors Corporation, whose business is connected with the sale of mutual fund shares and sponsored plans for their accumulation.

JOSEPH LAWRENCE PATTON. Address, 864 Harrison Street, Denver 6, Colo.

JACOB PODOLOFF. President and treasurer, Podoloff Insurance Agency, Inc., 20 Grove Street, New Haven, Conn.; residence, Bethmour Road, Bethany, Conn.

Podoloff has been president and treasurer of the Podoloff Insurance Agency, Inc., since 1932 and is also secretary of the Arena Company—an ice rink and convention hall, and the home of Yale hockey. "Not until one is compelled to write something about himself does he realize how small are his achievements," he says. "What did it all amount to?—the only truthful answer remains, not much, if anything. So I lay no claim to any achievements in 'business, scholarship, public service, or otherwise.' But a few mildly interesting things have happened.

"In 1932 I went broke. To be more accurate, my finances would have indicated the good old mathematical minus. Over a period of years I worked out of the hole, and for a little man it was an achievement; for the rest of the world, nothing at all.

"During the Depression some of us found our escape in different directions. Mine was music, and I joined the New Haven Symphony Orchestra, in which I was first trumpet for ten years. The remuneration was negligible (I probably lost money in being away from my business), but it was a perfect safety valve and, incidentally, is one of the few fields of endeavor where actual accomplishment was rewarded by recognition. I had to practice from one to two hours every day, in addition to rehearsing with the orchestra once a week. The result did not add up in dollars and cents, but I felt that I was amply rewarded in inner satisfaction.

"In the years 1938, 1939, and 1940 I managed and coached professional hockey in the American Hockey League, in addition to running my insurance business. This was a strange kind of activity for me. I had never engaged in organized athletics previously, although at college I fooled around in the Gymnasium, played a lot of handball and unorganized basketball, and occasionally let the boys 'pitch them in to me' on the campus when spring rolled around. Suddenly I had to 'handle' temperamental athletes and become a hockey strategist.

"I have two children. My daughter is twenty-nine, married to a dentist, Dr. Lester Sarkady, has a child, and lives in Schenectady. My son is twenty-five, was in the Navy on duty in the Pacific during the war, and now, after a sojourn in California, has finally decided to settle down and go into business with his father.

"To sum up, my accomplishments have been quite ordinary and there has been nothing really startling in my life. I have learned enough about the facts of life not to be caught in the hysteria of our times. I still believe in democracy, despite Senator McCarthy and his ilk, and I can view the passing scene with some equanimity, even in the shadow of the A-bomb. If the enjoyment of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness means anything, I have certainly had my share. I believe the main objective is the pursuit of happiness, and I have caught up with it most of the time. Others may demand more, but I am willing to settle for that."

In addition to music, Podoloff's special interests are horses and ice skating—he should certainly find it easy to indulge in the latter. Mrs. Podoloff was Esther Schwartzman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Schwartzman. They were married in 1919 in New Haven, where their daughter, Doras P., was born on February 28, 1922, and their son, David J., on August 28, 1925. The latter is a graduate of the University of Connecticut. Podoloff's grandson, Marc David Sarkady, was born on November 10, 1949.

DAVID MARQUIS POPE. Address, Lake Forest, Ill.

HAROLD ARMSTRONG PUMPELLY. Vice-president, Domestic Manganese & Development Company of Butte, Mont.; business and residence, 43 Front Street, Owego, N.Y.

Since 1927 Pumpelly has been vice-president and a director of the Domestic Manganese & Development Company, which is engaged in the reduction of manganese ore to a commercial form. During World War II he served as a major in the Civil Air Patrol, assigned to the New York Wing at Mitchel Field. He is a member of the American Legion, the Elks, and the Yale Club of New York, is a Republican in politics and an Episcopalian. Hunting and training bird dogs are special interests.

Pumpelly's marriage to Esther Shoemaker Phelps, daughter of William George and Caroline Shoemaker Phelps, took place in Binghamton, N.Y., on December 7, 1920. Their daughters, Caroline (born January 1, 1922) and Sally Armstrong (born January 26, 1924), attended Miss Porter's School in Farmington. Caroline married Clarke Cushing Fitts and has two girls and a boy. Her husband, who was a major in the Air Force during the war, served as commanding officer of the 402d Fighter Squadron, 370th Fighter Group.

NICHOLAS FRANK RAGO. Lawyer, 49 Pearl Street, Hartford, Conn.; residence, 70 Harwich Street, Hartford.

Rago writes: "As deputy attorney general of Connecticut [1939-51], I was usually assigned to represent the State's interests in matters pending before Congressional committees and boards in Washington. I intervened on behalf of the State on the applications of United Air Lines and Eastern Air Lines for certification of flights from Bradley Airport, Windsor Locks, to the West, South, and Southwest. The Civil Aeronautics Board granted both applications, to the delight of many thousands who had been denied this convenience and who immediately took advantage of this air service. In recognition of my efforts, United Air Lines presented me with a scroll, and Eastern Air Lines sent me a letter of appreciation.

"During the war years I was assigned to take charge of most of the State's contractual work with the Federal Government, particularly the leasing to the Federal Government of Bradley and Trumbull airports, owned by the State, to be used for military and naval purposes. After the war I was assigned to negotiate the return of these airports to the State, a matter which required more than four years' service and some trips to Washington and Boston.

"It was my duty to appear before Congressional committees to represent the State's interests in the Tideland Bill and two decentralization bills pending before Congress, in addition to other matters before it.

"A great deal of my time with the Attorney General's Office was spent in writing opinions requested by our various State departments, commissions, and boards, and especially by our State officers and committees of our General Assemblies. It was my duty, also, to represent the State on all bills which were before our legislative committee on claims. All my work was, of course, subject to the supervision and direction of the Attorney General. Our office had twelve assistant attorneys general, all of whom were under my supervision, together with five secretaries assigned to them. It is a matter of extreme pride to me that I held the office of deputy to the Attorney General longer than any other deputy in the United States. Because of my official position, it was my pleasure to meet personally with the attorneys general of more than forty states of our country, at the conventions held annually by the Association of Attorneys General. These personal contacts were of very great importance in the determination of our mutual problems."

Rago, who has been engaged in the private practice of law in Hartford since 1917, served as prosecuting attorney for the city from 1935 to 1937 and then as associate judge of the City Court until being appointed deputy attorney general. He was a member of the Hartford Zoning Board of Appeals from 1930 until 1935 and was chairman of the Hartford Republican Town Committee from 1945 to 1947 and of the State Veterans Bonus Appeal Board during the next four years. He is a member and former president of St. Anthony's Benefactors (an organization dedicated to helping the youth of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church in Hartford) and of the Hartford Bridge Club, was exalted ruler of the Hartford Lodge of Elks, No. 19, in 1933, and belongs to the Hartford County, Connecticut State, and American Bar associations. He is a communicant of St. Anthony's Church. Rago says that he is greatly interested in youth organizations—also that he visited the northern countries of South America in 1938 and has traveled through more than forty states during the past ten years.

On October 28, 1919, he was married in Hartford to Mary Agnes Woods, daughter of James J. and Margaret A. Woods. They have three children: Francis J., born June 21, 1921, Nicholas F., Jr., on June 14, 1922, and Peggy Marie on May 3, 1933, all in Hartford. The older boy attended Trinity, served in the Army from 1942 to 1946, being with General Patton throughout his European campaign, and was discharged as a captain. He is now employed as an investigator with the State Department of Health. In April, 1946, he married Mary DeLorenzo and has two children: Francis J. and John N. Nicholas, Jr., who attended Trinity and the Hartford School of Law of the University of Connecticut, served in the Pacific from 1942 to 1945. He is planning to resume his law studies. After graduating from Mount Saint Joseph Academy in West Hartford in 1951, Peggy planned to enter Teachers College at New Britain, Conn.

FRANK HARRISON RANDOLPH. Professor of hotel engineering, School of Hotel Administration, Cornell University; residence, 101 Oxford Place, Ithaca, N.Y.

Randolph writes: "After yielding to the urgent request of our Class Book Committee to put personal modesty aside, the principal achievement to which I might lay claim is the establishment, for college students in a business course, of the first successful teaching curriculum in the highly technical engineering field which was within their grasp and has proven to be directly applicable to practical situations which they later encountered.

"There have been opportunities for me to go into the business world and to teach elsewhere, but after a fellow has spent thirty-five years since graduation and lived in a good community for twenty-five years, he has become so firmly rooted that a change is quite unlikely. It looks as if my address will remain Ithaca, N.Y., indefinitely.

"When I came to Cornell in 1923 as the second full-time staff member in the recently established hotel course, it was up to me to organize, develop, and give the classroom and laboratory instruction in the mechanical and electrical equipment of hotels and similar installations. My first class numbered a dozen students. We started from 'scratch.' Now I lecture to a class of one hundred. The engineering instruction staff has been augmented. We give five engineering courses each term, run four laboratories (sometimes simultaneously), and are kept really busy giving the specialized instruction that is needed to over 250 students each term. The four-year course, with a normal enrollment of 380 students, includes work in accounting, food, personnel, and other subjects related to the hotel business.

"During the early part of World War II I went with Shreve, Lamb & Harmon, architects and engineers, and worked on the specification and selection of mechanical equipment for the Navy's 35,000 man training station at Sampson, N.Y. The latter part of the war found me in Atlantic City as supervisor of the entire physical plant at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, where the Army had taken over this 1200-room hotel property with its eight buildings and converted it into a busy hospital. With the war over, I returned to Cornell.

"During vacations from teaching I have served as hotel engineering consultant for many hotels, a few hospitals, and even a couple of office buildings scattered all over the country. Specific problems have involved recommendations on air conditioning, illumination, hot water supply, fuel selection, stokers, generated power, refrigeration, fire protection, acoustics, elevators, laundry and kitchen equipment. This wide diversity serves to keep things from becoming monotonous."

Randolph was promoted from assistant professor to professor at Cornell some years ago. He is licensed by the States of New York and New Jersey to practice professional engineering, is the author of various articles for engineering periodicals and the hotel press, including Power, Refrigeration Engineering, the Architectural Record, and Hotel Management, and is the co-author with Mac Collin of Notes on Hotel Planning. He belongs to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the New York State Society of Professional Engineers, and the Exchange Club, is a Presbyterian and a Republican.

On June 14, 1924, he was married at Avon-by-the-Sea, N.J., to Margaret MacCardle. They have three daughters: Elizabeth, Kathryn, and Joyce. Elizabeth, who was born in 1926 and who went to Iowa State College, married Clair Gross and has two sons and a daughter. Kathryn, born in 1929, graduated from Sargent College of Boston University in 1949 and is now at Wittenberg College in Springfield, Ohio. The youngest girl, born in 1932, is studying music at Oberlin College.

JOHN SYLVESTER REILLY. President, Diplomat Food Products, Inc., and Gordon & Dilworth, Inc., both food manufacturers, 2815 Paterson Plank Road, North Bergen, N.J.; residence, 1 Lexington Avenue, New York 10, N.Y.

In 1928 Reilly became president of Gordon & Dilworth, of which he had previously been vice-president and general manager. Since 1938 he has also been president of Diplomat Food Products, Inc.

"Any one who has been engaged in running a business knows how absorbing it is," he says. "In my own case, as president of Diplomat Food Products, Inc., operators of the first U.S. government inspected chicken canning plant in the country, and as president of Gordon & Dilworth, Inc., a company established 104 years ago and engaged in the packing of orange marmalade, mincemeat, and calf's-foot jelly—I assure you that I find plenty to do in eating, drinking, and sleeping on its problems twenty-four hours per day. What with raising seven children and running the two above companies I am kept busy—and then some."

Reilly's marriage to Estelle Mulqueen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Joseph Mulqueen, took place in New York City on June 9, 1917. Their oldest son, John Sheridan, who was born in New York, November 18, 1919, was killed in action on October 25, 1944, while serving as a captain in the 69th Infantry. He received the Silver Star posthumously for gallantry beyond the call of duty. John had attended Georgetown University and the Fordham School of Business Administration. The other children are: Joan Gilroy, born June 3, 1921, the twins, Gregory Mulqueen and Macy Ann, on November 27, 1922, Mary Agnes on October 17, 1925, Madeleine Halpin on January 22, 1927, and Myles Gilson on September 4, 1929, all in New York. Joan attended the Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart and the other three girls the Sacred Heart Convent. Joan, who married Lee H. B. Malone, a Yale graduate and now director of the Gallery of Fine Arts in Columbus, Ohio, has two sons and two daughters. Macy, whose husband is James J. Beha, a graduate of Williams College and the Harvard Law School, has a boy and a girl. Gregory served with John as a captain in the 69th Infantry, attended the Fordham School of Business Administration, and is now studying to be a Franciscan priest of the Order of Friars Minor. The youngest boy also attended Fordham and served in the 69th Infantry.

FRANCIS ELLIS RIVERS. Justice, City Court of the City of New York, 52 Chambers Street, New York 7, N.Y.; residence, 706 Riverside Drive, New York 31.

Rivers writes: "My initial year of political activity, during which everything I had touched succeeded, came to a dismal end with the closing of polls on election day in 1930. A windfall had started my political career: an experienced political leader, an 'out,' invited me in July, 1929, to contest for a seat in the Legislature as part of his strategy to oust the 'ins.' My victories followed in rapid succession: I defeated a strongly entrenched legislator in a primary contest and became Republican nominee of the 19th District for the New York State Assembly; triumphed over my Democratic opponent on election day of 1929 and became Assemblyman-elect in my first try for public office; had the good luck in my maiden effort at legislating in Albany the next spring to succeed with a measure which had stumped my predecessors in the Assembly for ten years, namely, a law to create in the Harlem area of New York a new Municipal Court district of which the boundary lines were so arranged that a majority of its fifty thousand voters were Negro citizens, an arrangement which made possible for the first time the election of a Negro as judge in the State of New York; then I followed this by triumphing over all opposition in the September primaries and became Republican nominee in the contest for one of the two judgeships on this new court in the November, 1930, elections. Although this string of victories made even my opponents concede privately my election success, the 'hatcheting' done on me by the opposition, at polling places already swamped with Democratic votes in Roosevelt's gubernatorial landslide, furnished the hairbreadth margin needed to turn this prospect of certain victory into the reality of shocking defeat: I lost the election by 700 votes out of 30,000 cast. I 'bitterly thought of the morrow' on that 1930 election night when I reflected on the stark task of trying to pick up again the thin threads of my law and politics in the depth of the Depression. I had to wait until 1943, thirteen years later, for a success which would wipe out the sting of this defeat. Running that year in an electoral area which included the entire Borough of Manhattan, I received 166,000 votes to win a victory over my Democratic opponent by 22,000, and thereby a place as justice on the City Court of the City of New York for the term of ten years.

"The thirteen-year span between this debacle and this victory was in marked contrast to the tumult of 1930 and of 1943. The first seven years, from 1931 to 1938, were a plateau, composed only of defeats which, though painful at the time, seem in retrospect simply the case of a ship reaching port by tacking against the wind. Thrice I served in Presidential campaigns as assistant director for the Republican National Committee, charged with conducting the appeals to the Negro voters; and each time, with Hoover, Landon, and Willkie, drank the dregs of defeat. During each of these years, despite stretching myself to the limit, our political organization suffered the defeat of its candidate for Assembly, as well as the defeat of numerous candidates for larger posts whose fortunes we espoused. Even the one victory which attended my efforts during this period, handling the Harlem phase of Fiorella LaGuardia's campaign for mayor in 1933, turned out to be hollow, when this unpredictable beneficiary of Republican support turned from the G.O.P. to espouse the New Deal.

"In the meantime my career as a lawyer was following the same pattern of frustration, despite my unquenchable confidence that by being faithful over few clients I would become possessed of many. Forced by a dwindling practice to give up my law office in the Woolworth Building in 1936 and move to a building in Times Square, I reached the point by late 1937 when it appeared I would have to answer the question of how does a lawyer practice when he has no practice. I was saved from having to answer this question by the second windfall of my public career: the district attorney-elect of New York County, Thomas E. Dewey, named me in December, 1937, an assistant district attorney, before I had even had a chance to start my campaign for the post. There followed an exciting five years of prosecuting homicide cases in this office and then on September 13, 1943, came the third windfall, as well as the greatest thrill, in my public career: Governor Dewey appointed me judge to fill a vacancy in the City Court of the City of New York, before it had occurred to me that I should at least 'make a try' for the post. Since the term of this appointment expired at the end of that year and thereby required fighting for the full term in the regular elections six weeks later, it was important that I receive not only the nomination of the Republican Party but also of the American Labor Party, for it was their voters who supplied my margin of victory on election day.

"Considered in the light of the cleanness and vigor of the competition and the thorough participation of the voters of all groups, this contest for one City Court judgeship was an unusual example of democracy in action. A major contribution to my success in this election, which I'll always consider the fourth windfall in my public career, was the generous help furnished voluntarily by many members of our 1915 Class, in response to the fine-spirited initiative of Tommy Tompkins.

"My present tenure as judge is to the end of 1953, and it will be extended in that year for ten more years, that is, if the Manhattan voters smile upon me once more in November, 1953."

We are pleased to note that Columbia University gave Rivers its Medal of Excellence in May, 1944, and that he received the honorary degree of LL.D. at Wilberforce University the following June and at Lincoln University a year later. He has been a director of the New York Association of the Blind since 1946 and of Freedom House since February, 1951, and is on the board of governors of Federal Hall Memorial Associates, Inc. In 1941 Rivers was in charge of the Greater New York Campaign Fund for the Uptown Area of Manhattan, and at various times he has been associated with the work of the Boy Scouts, the Salvation Army, and the New York State Citizens Counsel. Although he has no church affiliation, he attends a Baptist church at times, which was the denomination of his father, a Baptist minister. He is a member of the American and National Bar associations, the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the New York County Lawyers Association, the Harlem Lawyers Association, and the Elks.

He was first married in Patchogue, N.Y., May 27, 1918, to Lucie Ellen Miller. They were divorced in 1947. On December 20, 1947, he was married in Camden, N.J., to Alroy Spencer Long, daughter of Edward and Anne Spencer. He has no children.

JOHN DONALD ROBB. Dean, College of Fine Arts, University of New Mexico; residence, 1623 Sigma Chi Road, Albuquerque, N.Mex.

"My life seems to have been divided into two sections," Robb says. "The first portion terminated in 1941 and was devoted to a year as instructor at Yale-in-China, two years in the first World War, one year in the bond business, followed by nineteen years of law practice in New York City, first as an associate of the firm of Cravath &

Henderson and successor firms and from 1929 on with various law firms in which I was a partner. I spent one year studying law at Minnesota and two years at Harvard, but have always had to explain why I never got a law degree. I completed the three years of law work, not brilliantly but successfully, but as I transferred from Minnesota, I would have had to return to Harvard to take all of the first-year exams in order to get a degree. As I was already employed in New York and found I did not need a degree to take the bar examinations, I never found time to go back and complete my work towards my degree.

"One of the great privileges which has been accorded to me is that of studying with three very great figures in the world of music: Paul Hindemith, with whom I studied privately one summer at New Haven; Nadia Boulanger, both at Fontainebleau and New York City; and Darius Milhaud, in Paris and in Oakland, Calif. Each of these people in a different way has been an inspiration to me.

"One of the pleasantest features of my law practice was association with our classmate, Chandler Bennitt, who is now a consulting psychologist in New York and author of a number of books and articles which I should call philosophical. During this time I had a chance to become acquainted with the deep and brooding thought of Chub Bennitt, particularly in his books. I feel that one day these books, which are very tough reading and seem incomprehensible to people who do not put forth the effort, will be recognized as a great contribution to the thought of our time. During my period of association with the Cravath office, I had the privilege of knowing and working with a number of men who have since built world-wide reputations, including William O. Douglas, now a justice of the United States Supreme Court, and John J. McCloy, the High Commissioner for Germany, both wonderful fellows deserving all the success that they have had.

"During this time my very engrossing hobby was music, my particular interest being musical composition. I also played the cello, and for twelve years I met informally with friends once a week at my house to play string quartets, but the years were slipping by and I realized that somehow my greatest interest had become that of writing music. One day in 1941 I had lunch with Doug Moore, who knew of my feeling about music, and he thereupon went way out on a limb and recommended me for a position as professor of music and head of the Department of Music at the University of New Mexico. Since then I have been dividing my professional activities between administrative work as department head and dean of the College of Fine Arts [since 1946; he had been appointed acting dean in 1942] and teaching composition and a considerable number of other subjects, including harmony, conducting, history of music, opera, and folk music of the Southwest.

"My principal hobbies during the years since 1941 have been big game hunting in New Mexico and Colorado and collecting folk music. My collection includes phonograph recordings of over 800 Spanish, American, Indian, and frontier or cowboy songs, with which I have established a depository of folk music in the library of the University of New Mexico. These folk songs have given rise to a period of activity in my most important hobby, which is in fact the most engrossing interest of my life, a number of musical compositions in which I have employed a large number of folk themes. These compositions include my opera, 'Little Jo,' which was produced at the Albuquerque Little Theatre in 1950 by the Albuquerque Civic Symphony Orchestra and the Albuquerque Little Theatre jointly; a number of settings for solo and chorus of folk songs of the Spanish-speaking people of New Mexico; a piano concerto which I completed in the summer of 1950 and which was performed on February 25, 1951, by Andor Foldes, the Hungarian pianist, by whom it was commissioned, with the Albuquerque Civic Symphony Orchestra; and a ballet, 'Delgadina,' composed during the summer of 1951.

"I have traveled a good deal and made trips to Europe in 1911, 1918, 1919 (this last as a member of the armed forces in France), 1923 when I attended the Academy of International Law at the Hague, 1926-27 when I spent a year and a half abroad on law business, working on bond issues in Berlin and in Rome, 1936-37 when I took the two summers off to study composition with Nadia Boulanger at Fontainebleau, and again in 1947-48 when I had a sabbatical year from the University and Mrs. Robb and I took an apartment in Paris, where I composed my opera 'Little Jo.' With my wife and son I made one trip to Mexico, where we took a house at Taxco for a month and I found great pleasure in collecting Mexican folk tunes and doing some composing.

"Two of my children are living in Albuquerque, which is a great break for Mrs. Robb and myself. We have four grandchildren, and by the time this goes to press, we are confidently expecting that the total will have reached six. One of the great satisfactions of our life has been that all three of our children have married people of whom we thoroughly approve and our family life has been undivided and a very happy one. Both Mrs. Robb and myself, as well as the children and grandchildren, are in good health.

"All of us love the Southwest and its wonderful climate, and our life in town is varied by trips into the beautiful villages of the Spanish people and Indians looking for folk tunes. I think this is even more exciting than hunting big game, for in my opinion some of the tunes which we have collected are as beautiful as the finest Kentucky ballads and others are beautifully preserved survivals of the Spanish ballads of the sixteenth century and even earlier.

"My greatest professional satisfaction has been to see the steady growth and improvement of the College of Fine Arts at the University, which comprises the departments of Art, Drama, and Music, and to have had a part in furthering collaborative work between the three departments; also the association with a group of young composers who have been my students and are now beginning to win recognition in the world of music."

Robb gave us the following list of his published music, articles, and book reviews: "Neutrality and International Sanctions" (International Law Section of American Bar Association Journal, 1936); "Opera in the Southwest" (Music Clubs Magazine, February, 1950); "Origins of a New Mexico Folksong" (New Mexico Folklore Record, 1951); "Intolerance in the Musical World" (Southwestern Musician, March, 1951); "Meaning and the Modern Opera" (New Mexico Quarterly Review, winter, 1951-52); "The New Mexico Alabado" (New Mexico Historical Review, July, 1951); "Cradle Song" (G. Schirmer, Inc., New York, 1944); "The Wind-Swept Sea" (Paul A. Schmitt Company, Minneapolis, 1934); "Little Dove" (Broadcast Music, Inc., New York, 1946); and "Pictures of New Mexico" (Associated Music Publishers, New York, 1947). Among other compositions are: "Scenes from a New Mexico Mountain Village," for orchestra, and "Dances from Taxco," for two pianos.

In 1950 Robb received an M.A. degree at Mills College. He is a member of the National Association of Music Executives in State Universities (president, 1946), the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, and the New York Yale Club and, by heredity, is a Republican and Congregationalist. In 1941 he served as a trustee of the Village of Pelham, N.Y. The law firms with which he was associated in the period from 1930 to 1941 were Robb & Clark; Robb, Clark & Bennitt; and Robb & Teass.

Mrs. Robb was Harriet Friederike Block, daughter of Frederick Lawrence and Dina Snyder Block. They were married in Peoria, Ill., on September 26, 1921. Their older daughter, Priscilla, who was born August 6, 1922, in Minneapolis, studied at the University of New Mexico and the Juilliard School in New York, as well as privately. She has four times been a contralto soloist with the Albuquerque Civic Symphony Orchestra and for several years was an instructor at the University of Colorado. She married Sanford N. McDonnell and has a daughter, Robbin. The family lives in Olivette, Mo.

Their son, John Donald, Jr., was born January 11, 1924, in New York, and attended Yale, the University of New Mexico, and the University of Minnesota (B.S. and LL.B.). A lieutenant (j.g.) in the Navy during the war, he saw service on the destroyer U.S.S. Hobby, which had sixteen engagements with the enemy, including participation in the rescue of the carrier Franklin. He is now practicing law in Albuquerque with the firm of Rodey, Dickason, Sloan, Mims & Akin. He married Margaret Celeste Hight, of Albuquerque, and has three children: John Donald, 3d, Linda Celeste, and Ellen Bea.

The younger girl, Nancy Gay, who was born in New Rochelle, N.Y., on July 15, 1925, studied at the University of New Mexico and at Smith, where she graduated in 1946 with a B.A. degree. Her marriage to William C. Briggs, of Albuquerque, took place November 25, 1950.

WENDEL ARCHIBALD ROBERTSON. President, Robertson Sales Company, canvas fabricators, 1016 North Oklahoma Street, Oklahoma City 4, Okla.; residence, 1425 Classen Street, Oklahoma City.

Robertson has been president of the Robertson Sales Company since its organization in 1946. He is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Oklahoma City. In March, 1942, he went on active duty as a major in the Air Force. He was promoted to lieutenant colonel seven months later and to colonel in April, 1944. During the period from January, 1943, to July, 1944, he was commanding officer of the Cazes Army Air Base at Casablanca and for his services was awarded the Legion of Merit. Robertson was released to inactive duty in March, 1946.

He was married on February 2, 1922, at Fort Smith, Ark., to Dorothy Eads Read, daughter of Henry Clay and Stuart Eads Read. Their daughter, Dorothy Stuart, was born at Fort Smith on October 20, 1928, and was married there on September 1, 1949, to William Robert Pape, Jr. They have a son, William Robert, 3d, who was born June 25, 1950.

ROBERT ROY RODIE. President, North River Coal Company (wholesale anthracite distribution), 11 Thomas Street, Kingston, N.Y.; residence, 83 Albany Avenue, Kingston.

Since 1939 Rodie has been president of the North River Coal Company, of which his father was formerly president and of which he himself had previously been vice-president. At the same time he became president of the Rodie Coal Company, Inc. (wholesale bituminous distribution), and the Kingston Coal Company (retail coal and oil distribution). He is a director of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation and a member of the Episcopal Church. During the war he served on the local Ration Board.

Rodie's marriage to Barbara Hinkley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Hinkley, took place in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., on October 14, 1916. They have two children: Barbara Hinkley, born September 28, 1919, and Robert Roy, Jr., on September 22, 1922, both in Kingston. Barbara spent some time at Vassar with the Class of 1942. On December 6, 1941, she married Herbert Lloyd Shultz, Princeton '40, and has three children: Barbara Redfield, born October 27, 1942, Herbert Lloyd, Jr., on October 22, 1944, and Ann Rodie on February 20, 1951. The family lives in Kingston. Robert, Jr., who graduated from Yale in 1945, is with the McGraw-Hill Book Company. He served in the European theater during the war and was awarded the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart.

EDMUND BURRELL ROGERS. Superintendent, Yellowstone National Park, Wyo.

Rogers entered the National Park Service in February, 1929, when he was appointed superintendent of the Rocky Mountain National Park. He continued there until May, 1936, and has since been superintendent of Yellowstone. He reports that one million visitors entered the Park in 1949.

Rogers is the editor of Rocky Mountain Letters—1869, by William H. Brewster, which was published in 1930. A charter member of the Colorado Mountain Club, he served as its president in 1925 and 1927, and he belongs also to the University Club, the Cactus Club, and the Mile High Club, all of Denver, the QK Club of Bozeman, Mont., and the American Planning and Civic Association. His marriage to Sarah Elder Vaille, daughter of Howard T. and Martha Elder Vaille, took place in Longmont, Colo., on June 5, 1926. They have no children.

JOHN WILLIAM ROGERS. Address, 119 West 90th Street, New York, N.Y.

LEZLIE CURTIS ROSE. Buyer, Quality Bakers of America Cooperative, Inc., 120 West 42d Street, New York 18, N.Y.; residence, 45 Whittingham Place, West Orange, N.J.

A buyer for Quality Bakers of America Coöperative, Inc. (a coöperative of wholesale bakers—purveyors of Sunbeam bread), since April, 1928, Rose prays for the bread made during the week every Sunday at the North Orange Baptist Church. He is secretary of the board of trustees, teaches in the Sunday school, and in 1949 was president of the Men's Club. He is a member of Montclair Lodge, A.F. and A.M. (master, 1935), served as scoutmaster of Troop 5 in Upper Montclair, N.J., for twelve years before his marriage, and during the war wore the white helmet of district air raid warden—"that's how I lost my hair."

He adds, "Of course I vote Republican. Vacations are the weak spot in our armor—and keep us broke—Yellowstone (in 1936) and Florida (every third March) stand out. Scouting has returned as an avocation now that our own boy is 'Eagle bound.' "

Mrs. Rose was Etta E. Porth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Porth. They were married in Orange, September 29, 1934—"with a buyer's instinct for quality, I scoured the available supply carefully for almost twenty years until I was sure I got the best. I did." Their son, Curtis Dean, was born February 2, 1937. "In between Scout meetings and bird hikes—which latter requires that both father and son arise at 4 A.M. (Oh! Shades of Morpheus!)," Rose says, "Curt squeezes in a little time at the Roosevelt Junior High School. Bless him, he insists on adding that it is the Theodore Roosevelt Junior High School. Projecting into the future the score looks like: Theodore Roosevelt Junior High 1952, West Orange High School 1955, Yale 1959."

WILLIAM MAXWELL ROSENFELD. President judge, Bradford County (Pa.) Courts; business address, Court House, Towanda, Pa.; residence, 513 Third Street, Towanda.

Rosenfeld practiced law in Towanda for a number of years. He served as district attorney of Bradford County from 1928 to 1935 and in 1948 was elected to a ten-year term as president judge of all courts of the county—the Court of Common Pleas, Court of Oyer and Terminer, Quarter Sessions, and Orphans Court.

He is a director of the First National Bank and president of the Masonic Hall Association of Towanda and since 1932 has been treasurer of the Towanda Firemen's Relief Association. He served as county commander of civil defense during World War II and is now county coöordinator. Rosenfield was formerly president of the Men's Club of the Towanda Presbyterian Church, has been an officer in all the local Masonic organizations (he is a thirty-third degree Mason), and belongs also to the Elks and Odd Fellows. His political affiliations are Republican.

His marriage to Muriel Elizabeth Carner, daughter of Evans B. and Nellie Henry Carner, took place in Easton, Pa., on October 11, 1926. They have no children.

ALEXANDER BURGESS ROYCE. Partner, Chadbourne, Parke, Whiteside, Wolff & Brophy, lawyers, 25 Broadway, New York 4, N.Y.; residence, 330 Park Avenue, New York 22.

For the past twenty-three years Royce has been a partner in Chadbourne, Parke, Whiteside, Wolff & Brophy and predecessor firms. His practice is a general one, with emphasis on corporate and financial matters, and he is a member of the corporation law committee of the New York State Bar Association.

He has been on the boards of two investment trusts, the Adams Express Company and the American International Corporation, since 1941 and for twenty years has been a director of the General Realty & Utilities Corporation and Gimbel Brothers, Inc., and for fifteen years a director of the Patino Mines & Enterprises Consolidated. During 1941-42 he represented the U.S. Commercial Company (an R.F.C. subsidiary) in South America and London, and in 1943 he was chairman (U.S. State Department representative) of the North African Economic Board, with his headquarters in Algiers. Royce is a trustee and chairman of the executive committee of the Brooks School, North Andover, Mass. He is a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church and belongs to the Racquet and Tennis Club of New York, the Gulf Stream (Fla.) Golf Club, and the Dedham (Mass.) Country and Polo Club.

He was married in Dedham on March 12, 1921, to Barbara Burgess, daughter of John K. and Antoinette Converse Burgess. They have two children: Martha Royce Lacey, who was born on June 14, 1926, in New York City, and Robert S., born June 23, 1931, in Washington, D.C., who is currently a corporal in the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve on active duty at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

JAMES COAD RUTLEDGE. President, Rutledge Equipment Company, service station equipment suppliers, 334 Boulevard of the Allies, Pittsburgh 22, Pa.; residence, 1665 Kelton Street, Dormont, Pa.

Rutledge writes: "Since 1930 my main endeavor has been complete concentration on developing and enlarging the Rutledge Equipment Company in such a manner as to provide an independence of operation after my retirement. In this manner our customers will be fully protected, the manufacturers whom we represent will continue to be represented, and the employees and families who have been our loyal supporters will have a means of livelihood. If this dream can be fully accomplished, I hope to lie on the beach in my latter days with a certain degree of happiness and contentment."

At the present time all of Rutledge's travels and hobbies are covered by a yearly trip to Fort Lauderdale, where he is getting in practice for the post-retirement years by reclining on the beach for two months. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church and a Republican in politics—and still a bachelor.

JOSEPH ISIDORE SACHS. Member, Sachs, Sachs & Sachs, lawyers, 185 Church Street, New Haven, Conn.; residence, 295 Central Avenue, New Haven.

Sachs has been a member of the above firm since his graduation from the Yale Law School in 1917, his practice being chiefly in connection with corporation and probate law, trial work, and conveyancing. In 1950 he became treasurer of the General Industrial Bank of New Haven, of which he has been assistant secretary and director for a number of years. Sachs served as president of the New Haven Bureau of Jewish Education from 1945 to 1949 and has since been a director. He is also a director of the New Haven Jewish Community Council, a member of the board of governors of the American Association for Jewish Education, and has been a director of the Congregation B'nai Jacob in New Haven since about 1938 and president since July, 1949. He belongs to B'nai B'rith and to the New Haven County, Connecticut State, and American Bar associations.

His marriage to Julia Edythe Silverman, daughter of Isidore and Rose Silverman, took place in Bridgeport, Conn., June 14, 1925.

They have three children: Ruth Leah, born February 4, 1927, Kalman A. on May 29, 1929, and Miriam Joy on June 13, 1932. The latter is a Freshman at Smith. Ruth, who received the degree of B.A. at American International College in 1948, is the wife of Dr. Nelson Alpert, who graduated from Yale with the Class of 1945W and later took his Ph.D. in physics at Massachusetts Tech. Kalman attended the Junior College of Commerce in New Haven for a time and is now in the Class of 1952 at the University of Connecticut.

CHARLES BALDWIN SAWYER. President, Brush Laboratories Company, chairman, Brush Beryllium Company, and vice-president, Brush Development Company, 3714 Chester Avenue, Cleveland 14, Ohio; residence, 2745 Edgehill Road, Cleveland Heights 6.

Sawyer is a director of each of the companies in the Brush group listed above and also of the S. K. Wellman Company, manufacturers of bimetallic friction material made of powdered metal to be applied to automotive and airplane brakes and clutches. He gives us the following details: "The Brush Laboratories Company (engaged in research and development—electrical, chemical, and metallurgical) was founded in 1921 by Charles F. Brush, 3d, Harvard '15, and myself, fresh out of M.I.T. as a Ph.D. Charles F. Brush, 2d, was a boyhood friend and son of the inventor of the arc light, of the practical lead storage battery, and founder of the Linde Air Products Company. The younger Brush died in 1927, whereupon I became president. In 1929 my partner was followed in death by his father, of whom I had become a great admirer. The Brush Laboratories has now taken up titanium for study. Until 1946 it performed the research for the S. K. Wellman Company.

"The Brush Development Company (extraction and fabrication of the element beryllium and its compounds) was founded in 1930 by the Brush Laboratories Company as the controlling interest, and myself as vice-president, to exploit its acoustic piezoelectric developments and has been very successful.

"The Brush Beryllium Company (acoustical—microphones, phonograph pick-ups, magnetic recorders, supersonic waves in liquids) was founded in 1931 by the Brush Laboratories Company, with myself as president, to exploit its beryllium developments and has been beset by many difficulties, from which it has only partly emerged.

"The Brush Laboratories Company and the Brush Beryllium Company were both cited in 1946 by the Manhattan District of the War Department for essential work in the production of the atomic bomb, as was also your classmate. Throughout its existence the Brush Development Company has always been very active in underwater signalling and submarine detection, especially during war years, and this work continues. It is seeking commercially to produce, under the direction of your classmate, synthetic quartz crystals and, despite much publicity elsewhere, is the organization relied on by the government to free this country of the necessity for importing quartz crystals in war emergencies. Similar war activity surrounds its magnetic speech and sound recorders."

During August and September, 1945, Sawyer was overseas in connection with the work of the Technical Industrial Intelligence Committee, which submitted reports on the Axis industry of beryllium and synthetic quartz crystals. A number of articles on beryllium and Rochelle salt crystals, of which he is the author (or in a few cases, the co-author), have been reprinted. Several of these had appeared originally in Metals and Alloys and others in the Yale Scientific Magazine, Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, and the Physical Review. His thesis, Nitrogen in Steel, was copyrighted in 1923 by the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. He is a member of that organization and also of the American Physical Society, the American Chemical Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Metals, the British Institute of Metals, the Western Reserve Historical Society, the University Club, the Kirtland Country Club, and the Mentor Harbor Yacht Club. Sawyer is an Episcopalian and a Republican.

He was first married in 1921 in New Haven to Caroline Fisher, daughter of Irving and Margaret Hazard Fisher. They were divorced in 1929. His second marriage, to Katherine Beaumont Hirsh, daughter of Willard and Martha Beaumont Hirsh, took place in Cleveland, August 19, 1933. Sawyer's oldest son, Baldwin, who was born in 1922 at Narragansett Pier, R.I., graduated from Yale in 1944. He is working on his thesis for the degree of Doctor of Science at Carnegie Tech. He married Dorothy Straker in 1947 and has a daughter, Dorothy Carol, born in 1950. The other children were born in Cleveland: Margaret Hazard (Smith '47) in 1925, Samuel Prentiss on June 8, 1934, Charles Brush on January 26, 1937, and William Beaumont on November 20, 1940.

"The city is too small to hold my family in the summer, so we have a twenty-acre place on Lake Erie near the Mentor Harbor Yacht Club, this set-up providing sailing and other outdoor activities,"

Sawyer says. "The three younger boys are members of an Episcopal Church choir and attend the University School. They are all much interested in natural philosophy, from gardening and deer raising to radio and chemistry. I hope they will attend Yale University with credit."

JAMES RALPH SCOTT. Residence, Patterson, N.Y.

"I retired from practice in 1947 because of coronary thrombosis, the 'doctor's disease,'" Scott reports. "I am now living very modestly in the country. Among other mild recreations, I am a bee-keeper—two hives! This provides enough honey for a year's supply for me, with extras to give away to my friends. I am unmarried."

He was a member of the staff of St. Luke's Hospital in New York from the time of his internship there until his retirement, having an appointment as associate physician from 1930 to 1942, attending physician for the next six years, and subsequently as consulting physician. During World War II he was a lieutenant colonel in the Army, attached to Evacuation Hospital No. 2. Scott, who is a diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine, served as president of the New York Diabetes Association from 1936 to 1942 and as secretary of the New York Academy of Medicine from 1940 to 1942. He was a founder of the American Diabetes Association and is now a fellow of that organization, as well as of the American College of Physicians and the New York Academy of Medicine. His book, Diabetes, was published by Funk & Wagnalls in 1936. He belongs to the Presbyterian Church, the Hospital Graduates Club of New York, and the New York Yale Club.

ROBERT BREWSTER SEABURY. Physician and surgeon; office and residence, 58 Trumbull Street, New Haven, Conn.

Seabury, who specializes in traumatic surgery, has been practicing in New Haven since 1919. For the past thirty years he has been associated with the Department of University Health at Yale as an assisting surgeon and since 1934 has also been surgeon for the University football team. He is a member of the Graduates Club of New Haven and of St. Thomas' Protestant Episcopal Church.

His marriage to Mabel Atwater Benton, daughter of Merritt Lott and Jane Nettleton Benton, took place in New Haven on September 17, 1919. They have three daughters, all of whom were born in New Haven. The oldest girl, Jane Elizabeth, who was born on April 14, 1921, is a graduate of St. Catherine's School, Richmond, Va. She was married in 1945 to James Norman Hendel and has two sons: Robert Charles and Peter James. They live in Fairfield, Conn. The second daughter, Ann Benton, born March 16, 1923, graduated from Bradford Junior College in 1943 and completed a course at the Cambridge Hospital in 1946. Her marriage to Guy Berkley Stearns took place in 1948, and they have a daughter, Catherine Ann. Ann's husband is with the Linde Corporation and the family make their home in Indianapolis. The youngest girl, Ruth Isabel, was born on December 3, 1926, and graduated from the University of Colorado in 1950. In 1947 she married Harold S. Oakes, who is an instructor in electrical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They have a daughter, Ann Elizabeth, and are living in Boston.

RUDOLPH EUGENE SEILER. Owner, Seiler Press, Seiler Stationers, and Seiler Newspaper Advertising Service, 620 South La Brea Avenue, Los Angeles 36, Calif.; residence, 3965 South Dublin Avenue, Los Angeles 8.

Seiler continued as general manager of classified advertising for the Hearst newspapers until February, 1930. From the following October until October, 1932, he was advertising counsel for the Los Angeles Times, and from September, 1933, to May, 1942, he was advertising counsel for some fifteen newspapers, mainly in California. Seiler retired from newspaper work in May, 1942, but is still active in the printing and stationery business. He has owned the Seiler Press since August, 1942, the Seiler Stationers since November, 1948, and the Seiler Newspaper Advertising Service since October, 1930. He originated the so-called "Seiler System" of classified advertising which is in use in hundreds of newspapers through America, and also a cost accounting system for newspapers which is widely employed. He still sells to a number of newspapers his various copyrighted newspaper office forms.

"My activities today, aside from my work," he says, "are largely in connection with crippled children's work in Los Angeles, where we are doing a great deal to make the life of the crippled child happier and more normal. Several years ago the Crippled Children's Society of Los Angeles County, of which I am a trustee, built a camp in the San Bernardino mountains. It is the only mountain camp exclusively for crippled children anywhere. Last year the crippled children's committee of the Los Angeles Rotary Club, on which I have served for years and am chairman this year, induced the club to build an outdoor amphitheatre and fire ring at this camp, providing a place for staging plays, community sings, etc., out under the stars beneath the towering pines, with a huge fire in an open fireplace in the center. We dedicated this fire ring in 1951, the plans and program having been in my charge. What a thrill to see the joy and happiness of more than one hundred of those handicapped youngsters, whose lot, but for a twist of fate, might have been our own!

"I have been active in the Los Angeles Rotary Club for twenty-six years, serving on every committee and as chairman of most of them. I was once active in local Yale Club affairs, fraternal organizations, etc., but recently have withdrawn from leading rôles. I have been president of the Yale Club of Southern California and for many years was in charge of our scholarship, under which we sent many able men to Yale.

"When the Olympic Games were held in Los Angeles in 1932, I was a member of the citizens' committee and also chairman of the Rotary Club's Olympic Games committee. I had charge of a big luncheon given for the athletes and Olympic officials from all parts of the world. It was staged near the end of the fifteen days of the games. We had all the winners present, and all the international officers. It was a civic gathering that is still talked about today.

"My travels have been in all parts of the United States and in some parts of Canada, where I have viewed most of the scenic wonders. Outstanding in memory are numerous visits to Yosemite Valley. Today's modern highways have taken all the kick out of traveling these perilous mountain roads, where often, in order to pass another car, the one coming down would be forced to back up against the side of the mountain and the one going up would be barely able to squeeze by and avoid toppling into the abyss.

"Among other travels that remain in clear memory: The grandeur of Grand Cañon, with its mile-wide and mile-deep sweep of radiant colors, and the Painted Desert as seen from the rim of the Cañon and at a later time from an airplane with a torrential rain storm sweeping across its great expanse. Also, the first long flight in a two-seated airplane from Seattle above the white peaks of Mt. Ranier and Mt. Hood to Los Angeles in 1925 and a later flight in a Ford cabin plane from San Francisco to Los Angeles, boarding the plane at dusk to read the headlines that a lost plane had been found smashed in the mountains, with all eighteen passengers killed, and we would be crossing the same mountains within an hour. We ran into a solid cloud bank, hovered over Los Angeles but found the cloud bank too thick to get through, and turned back for Bakersfield in hope that the gas supply would last for the 130 miles. It just did. We made an emergency landing, with just about a gallon of gasoline left in the tank.

"Frequent trips to the Hearst Ranch at San Simeon—the enchanted Castle on the Hill—also remain in memory, with strenuous horseback rides over mountain trails on full-blooded Arabian stallions or conversations with William Randolph Hearst or his five sons, or Mrs. Hearst, or Marion Davies (the two were never there at the same time), or Arthur Brisbane, Colonel Frank Knox (later Secretary of the Navy), Lord and Lady Mountbatten, and many other personalities of national or world eminence.

"Recreations: golf until lately; contract bridge; dancing; fishing; work. Once did deep-sea fishing and also trout fishing in the High Sierras, but now confine it to fishing from a boat with an outboard motor at an accessible lake.

"Hobbies: woodworking—sawing, hammering, and pulling nails. Complete electrical and hand woodworking equipment in my garage. Building something all the time.

"Collections: an antique automobile, a 1928 7-passenger Lincoln. Still drive it, too, on occasion and leave the new automobiles in the garage."

In answer to our questions as to his writings and speeches Seiler lists: History of William Randolph Hearst, His Family and His Newspapers, published by Los Angeles Examiner in 1919 and the first such history receiving the personal O.K. of William Randolph Hearst; Sales Manual for Hearst newspapers, published by Los Angeles Examiner, 1919-23; "How to Make Classified Ads Pay" (Los Angeles Examiner, 1923); "I am Type" (Seiler Press, 1948). "I have been the principal speaker before some three hundred Rotary clubs in various parts of America and the speaker at real estate and advertising conventions, newspaper conventions, Kiwanis, Lions, Optimists, and other service clubs, and before church, civic, and business groups. Among speeches printed are: 'Some Lessons from Nature'; 'What are You Doing Here?'; 'Qualities that Make for Success'; 'Washington, Lincoln, and Douglas'; 'Getting in a Rut'; etc. etc."

Seiler has been active in the work of the local Community Chest for many years. He was a member of the First Congregational Church of Los Angeles from 1934 to 1948, president of the Cathedral Choir (whose name he originated) in 1938, and the originator and presiding officer of the Sunday Morning Breakfast Club. Since March, 1948, he has been a member of the Wilshire Presbyterian Church and belongs to the Mariner's Club, "The Princeton." He was formerly a member of the Oratorio Society of Los Angeles and the Smallman A Cappella Choir. From 1935 to 1938 he was manager of the three-day Bach Festival. He belongs to the Masonic order and the Elks. He is a Republican—"strong anti-New Deal and anti-Socialism, anti-Communism, anti-Totalitarianism of any kind, whether it be the Truman-Acheson kind or the Stalin-Hitler-Mussolini kind"; was on the Taft-for-President Committee, 1942, and MacArthur-for-President Committee, 1946.

Seiler was first married September 6, 1915, to Maysie Van Dyke; they were divorced in 1930. On June 15, 1939, he married Mary Jane Doherty, daughter of Walter Harry and Ida Violet Kellner Doherty. His oldest son, Rudolph Eugene, Jr., the 1915 Class Boy, who was born June 25, 1916, in New Haven, graduated from the Fairfax High School in Los Angeles and from Los Angeles Junior College in 1937 and has since been a police reporter on the Los Angeles Times, except for the period of his war service. (He was a Pfc. in the Military Police Unit in charge of information and education at Fort Ord for a year beginning in March, 1945.) Rudolph, Jr., is a deacon of the Westwood Hills Christian Church. He was married September 29, 1939, to Esther White and has two sons: James Howard, born June 17, 1942, and Gregory Eugene on July 8, 1948. Seiler's second son, Howard Van Dyke, was born September 25, 1919, and died October 28, 1928. The youngest, Jack Bertschy, born March 31, 1922, graduated in 1940 from the University High School, where he played on the football team. He subsequently spent a year at the University of California at Los Angeles, where he was on the Freshman football team, and later attended the University of California at Berkeley, receiving his B.A. degree in 1945. He was in the Marines during the war, but was mustered out for high blood pressure. He is now West Coast representative for Lampel Fashions. His marriage to Joyce Benjamin took place on August 3, 1951.

LOUIS LEONARD SHAPIRO. Residence, 9-09 157th Street, Whitestone, N.Y.

Shapiro, who has been retired since 1944, says: "My activities have been limited and curtailed during the past decade owing to a recurrence of a physical disability incurred in my post-war (World War

I) services in the Balkans and Russia. I spent most of last year (1950) in hospitals, but at present am in a somewhat better physical condition. I utilize my time in reading all books pertaining to world events of the period from 1920 to the present and in preparing seasonal, religious, and patriotic displays for the show windows of the local public library. I have built many miniature scenes for exhibits and for distribution."

Prior to his retirement Shapiro had been connected with the Sonotone Company of Jamaica, N.Y., as manager and with the Acoustical Laboratories, also in Jamaica, as director. He has been active in the service and welfare work of the American Red Cross, the American Legion, and the American Relief Administration Association. He was given the American Legion Founders Medal for having been a member of the original caucus in Paris (March, 1919), and his history of the American Legion Post received the national award in 1949. Shapiro belongs to the Military Order of American Legion Founders, the Association of U.S. Military Surgeons, the Acoustical Society of America, and the Masonic order.

He was first married in Dijon on July 28, 1920, to Germain Pelletier. They were divorced in 1927. On January 9, 1932, he was married in Greenwich, Conn., to Hildure Schorling Sterne, daughter of the late Edward and Hannah Schorling. His daughter, Muriel Betsy, who was born in Dijon on January 2, 1923, was educated in schools in France. She graduated with a B.S. degree in bacteriology from the University of Dijon in 1943, and during the war served as a lieutenant in the U.S. Army in the European zone, also with the American Red Cross in France and Germany. On October 7, 1949, she married Major R. L. Young, U.S.A., at Sonthufen, Germany, and is now with the American Red Cross at the Army Hospital at Fort Hood, Texas.

JAMES HARVEY SHARP. Financial vice-president, Merck & Company, Inc., manufacturing chemists, Lincoln Avenue, Rahway, N.J.; residence, Millstone Road, Wilton, Conn.

Sharp continued as vice-president of the Grace National Bank of New York until May, 1951, when he became financial vice-president of Merck & Company, Inc. He is still a director of the Grace National Bank and in January, 1952, was elected to the board of directors of Merck & Company, Ltd. He has also been president and a director of Merck (North America), Inc., since September, 1951, and is, in addition, a director of Atlas Steels, Ltd., and the Rome Cable Corporation. He belongs to the Anglers, Metropolitan, and Recess clubs.

Sharp's marriage to Heather G. Tree, of London, took place in New York City on November 23, 1923. Their daughter, Heather Mary, who was born on September 4, 1926, graduated from the Sacred Heart Convent at Noroton, Conn., and subsequently studied at Radcliffe, the University of Geneva, the University of Rome, and the Georgetown University Graduate School.

WILLIAM MARTINDALE SHEDDEN. Chief surgeon, Veterans Administration Hospital, Lake City, Fla.; residence, 820 DeSoto Drive, Lake City.

Shedden continued to practice surgery in Boston until the war. He was on active duty as a commander in the Medical Corps, U.S.N.R., from 1942 through 1945 and still holds a commission in the Inactive Reserve. He was stationed at the Chelsea Naval Hospital at first and was then assigned to the cruiser Vincennes, his subsequent assignments being at Parris Island, Panama, and Honduras.

Since January, 1946, he has been chief surgeon at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Lake City. He became a diplomate of the American Board of Surgery some years ago, is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, and a member of the Rotary Club and of the Roman Catholic Church. Shedden is the author or co-author of some twenty-four articles which have been published in medical journals, including the Journal of Urology; the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal; the American Journal of Roentgenology; the American Review of Tuberculosis; Surgery, Gynecology, and Obstetrics; the New England Journal of Medicine; the American Journal of Cancer; the American Journal of Surgery; and Surgical Clinics of North America.

On August 24, 1918, he was married in West Newton, Mass., to Ruth Hartwell Blodgett. They have had five children, all of whom were born in Brookline, Mass.: Richard in 1921, Robert in 1923, Ann in 1925, William in 1927, and John E. B. in 1929.

Shedden gives the following information about them: "My oldest boy, Dick, was a B-29 pilot, with twenty-nine missions over Japan from the base at Tinian, and is now a pilot for Eastern Airlines (7,000 hours to date) out of New Orleans. He has one daughter. My next, Bob, was a fighter pilot off jeep carriers and from Guadalcanal. On one occasion he flew inside the rim of Fujiyama to bomb a Jap radar station. He is now a personnel manager for Southern Bell—at present at West Palm Beach. He has one daughter.

"My next, Ann, was Phi Beta Kappa at Vassar and, despite that fact, is married and has one daughter. (Why do they each have to have one daughter?) My next, Bill, is at the University of Florida. He was with the Marines, but did not go overseas. Johnny, age 7, was drowned while fishing by himself off the little wharf at Wianno, Cape Cod, in 1936—even at that age a wonderful personality."

FREDERICK BARREDA SHERMAN. Partner, Leppo, Dorking & Sherman, investment counsel, 315 Montgomery Street, San Francisco 4, Calif.; residence, 166 Elinor Avenue, Mill Valley, Calif.

Sherman continued as sales promotion manager of E. H. Rollins & Sons' San Francisco office through 1931. He was a salesman with Eyre, Palmer & Company the following year and then became a partner in Eyre, Sherman & Company, with which he was associated until forming his present connection in January, 1936.

"Possibly because of advancing years, possibly because of the effort involved in trying always to peer into the future (as is required of an investment counselor)," he says, "I do not seem at the end of the day or during the week-end to have sufficient energy left to engage in any hobby worth recording. I read and think and talk a lot about international relations in general and American foreign policy in particular, but my reading on the subject is not as deep or as extensive as I would like and I cannot do anything about what I think except to write to Congressmen or to newspaper editors. My outbursts do not seem as yet to have affected the Flow of History. I was a director of the San Francisco Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies and am now a director of the Northern California regional branch of the American Association for the United Nations.

"I suppose my prime interest is my home and family, but there's nothing unusual about that—or is there?

"I served for a number of years as one of the original trustees of the Thacher School after its founder and owner, Mr. Sherman Day Thacher, '88, transferred it to a non-profit corporation.

"Of course, I have since graduation been a member of the Yale Alumni Association of Northern California and have served as director, vice-president, and chairman of the scholarship committee, whose activity was revived by our classmate and my close friend, the late Blair Shuman. It is now doing splendid work and is instrumental in sending many fine northern California high school boys to Yale.

"I have done no travel worth recording since I went East and returned via Canada in 1931."

During the war Sherman was a district air raid warden in Mill Valley. A Republican in politics, he served on the Willkie Volunteers Committee in Marin County and San Francisco in 1940. He has been secretary and a member of the house and admissions committees of the University Club of San Francisco and belongs also to the Commonwealth Club.

His marriage to Cornelia Emerson Ripley, daughter of Thomas Emerson Ripley, Yale '88, and Charlotte Clement Ripley, took place in Paris on April 9, 1923. Mrs. Sherman is a cousin of John Clement, '15, and the sister of Clements Ripley, '16. Their older daughter, Charlotte M., who was born August 16, 1924, received a B.A. degree at Scripps College in 1946. She was married on July 6 of that year to Roane Thorpe Sias, of Mill Valley, and has three children: Cornelia Ripley, born November 30, 1947, Spencer Roane on March 11, 1950, and Benjamin Dean on June 8, 1951. The family lives in Tacoma. Frederick Barreda Sherman, Jr., born February 28, 1927, was in the Army during 1946-47. He graduated from the College of Marin in Kentfield, Calif., in 1950 and is now with Macy's in San Francisco. The younger girl, Sally Mauran, was born October 14, 1929. She graduated from Scripps in 1950 and during the past year has been studying at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts in London.

RAYMOND GREGORY SHIRK. Account executive, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane, brokers, 9 First National Tower Building, Akron 8, Ohio; residence, 67 Putnam Road, Akron 3.

Shirk continued with Otis & Company until 1931 and during the next ten years was associated with E. A. Pierce & Company. Since 1941 he has been an account executive with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane.

His marriage to Eleanor Seiberling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Seiberling, took place in Akron on October 21, 1922. Their older son, Francis G., who was born on January 31, 1924, graduated from the University School in 1942 and from Yale in 1949. He served in the Air Force from 1943 to 1946 and again during 1950-51. The younger boy, James L., was born on June 23, 1931. He attended The Hotchkiss School from 1946 to 1948 and Avon Old Farms for the next two years and is now a member of the Kenyon College Class of 1954.

CLARENCE BERNARD SHONINGER. Special United States representative, Pedro Olarte e Hijos (export-import) of Medellin, Colombia; business and residence address, 1 Dale Lane, Hicksville, N.Y.

Shoninger, who has had the above connection for some time, says that he makes combination business and pleasure trips every now and then to Medellin. During the period from 1942 to 1944 he was in the Air Force as a captain and major, assigned to the 8th Bomber Command, the 92d Heavy Bombardment Group, and the Combat Crew Replacement Center, all in England, his service being as intelligence officer, G2, A2, S2, and historical officer.

Shoninger has written a number of magazine articles on aeronautical and financial subjects. He is a member of that notable organization, the Anciente and Secrete Order of Quiet Birdmen.

His marriage to Ruth Abigail Dorne, daughter of Walter Scott and Abigail McCormick Dorne, took place in New York City in December, 1919. Their daughter, Ruth Dolores, who was born on October 28, 1920, was educated in private schools and at St. Anastasia Academy. In May, 1940, she married Francisco José Olarte; they are living in Medellin with their four children.

CORNELIUS HITE SKINKER, JR. Address, 7126 Pershing Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

SAMUEL SKOLNICK. Partner, Skolnick & Skolnick, lawyers, 202 Tompkins Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y.; residence, 184 Vernon Avenue, Brooklyn.

Skolnick says: "I have been engaged in the general practice of law since the commencement of my practice in 1928 as a partner in Skolnick & Skolnick. I was active in the Fusion Movement prior to and during the first term of the late Mayor LaGuardia's administration from 1933 to about 1938—particularly as chairman of the Speakers' Bureau for Kings County. In this capacity I arranged educational talks which were delivered by various heads of New York City government departments to various civic, social, and political groups in New York City. The purpose of these talks was to educate the New York City citizenry in the workings of their city government and to develop a keener sense of responsibility as citizens. With a change in conditions, I discontinued my activities with the Fusion Movement.

"At different times during the period from 1933 through 1945 I was a member of the executive committee of the American Jewish Congress for Kings County, an organization whose chief function, among others, was to combat racial and religious intolerance, and also served as president of a local social and charitable organization known as the Michalishker Benevolent Association continuously from 1938 to 1951. The United Jewish Appeal and the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York are other charitable organizations I was active in. In the latter I served as vice-chairman for local campaigns for several years."

Skolnick has also been connected with the Order of Free Sons of Israel since 1920, and he belongs to the New York County Lawyers Association and the Brooklyn Bar Association. His marriage to Anna Selikowitz, daughter of Max and Fanny Selikowitz, took place in Brooklyn on January 31, 1932. Their son, Mordecai Leon, who was born on June 10, 1936, and who is at present a student at the Midwood High School in Brooklyn, has, he says, been showing considerable talent in scientific work, as well as a keen interest in the field of law, and that the chances are that he will specialize in one or the other of these fields.

EDWIN LYON SLOCUM. Salesman (New Jersey territory), Francis I. duPont & Company (investments), 1 Wall Street, New York, N.Y.; residence, 15 St. Luke's Place, Montclair, N.J.

Slocum, who was with Hemphill, Noyes & Company at the time our last Class record was published, was connected with Tucker, Anthony & Company from 1934 to 1948 and has since been with Francis I. duPont & Company as a salesman in the New Jersey territory. He describes himself as an inactive Presbyterian and, as to travels and other things, says: "Europe—France, Spain, three months, 1926; Europe—Italy, France, Riviera, August, 1937; gardening—second class; finishing old furniture; tennis with Dr. Sam Mills as a partner."

Slocum's marriage to Marion Curtiss, daughter of William C. and Belle Curtiss, took place on September 17, 1938. He has a son, John Curtiss, born October 2, 1939, and a stepdaughter, Marion C. Stanton, born January 13, 1933, both in Montclair.

AUSTIN CHICHESTER SMITH. General superintendent and assistant vice-president, Carnation Company (evaporated milk, other dairy items, and cereal products), 5045 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles 36, Calif.; residence, 4121 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles 5.

Smith, who became general superintendent of the Carnation Company in 1930 and assistant vice-president twelve years later, writes as follows: "I resided from 1923 to 1949 in the Wisconsin lake country at Oconomowoc, where the Carnation Company maintained its general office until 1948. In that year the Wisconsin headquarters, together with Carnation division offices in New York, Seattle, and Los Angeles, were consolidated in the newly-erected world headquarters office building on Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles. I sold my Wisconsin home and moved to southern California in the spring of 1949.

"My position with Carnation has for many years been that of managing the U.S. and Canada production of evaporated milk and the manufacture of all cans used in packing that product. This business is conducted in one hundred plants located in twenty-six states and in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec. My duties require a great deal of travel, mostly by air, which has made it possible to keep in personal touch with many members of our Class between reunion gatherings in New Haven.

"I have found special interest in developing an executive trainee program, with candidates recruited each year from graduating classes of universities and colleges throughout the country. The need of this and other personnel improvement in our company was increasingly important from the time in 1937 when Carnation plants first found themselves faced with the demands of organized labor unions. During those early years of our union acquaintance I handled the labor negotiations and laid the foundation for our present highly important personnel activities."

While living in Wisconsin, Smith was active in youth service work and for fifteen years served as a director of the Waukesha County Y.M.C.A. He was president of the Oconomowoc Rotary Club in 1948 and still belongs to the Oconomowoc Country Club and the Milwaukee University Club. He plays tennis and golf and, we are glad to note, has managed to do a bit of non-business traveling—a vacation trip in 1949 with his daughter to England, Scotland, and France. Smith is a Congregationalist.

He was married February 19, 1921, in Chehalis, Wash., to Anna Louise Urquhart, daughter of William Muir and Anna Manning Urquhart. Their daughter, Elizabeth Manning, who was born February 20, 1922, in Evanston, Ill., graduated from Farmington in 1941, from Carleton College with a B.A. degree in 1945, and from the School of Occupational Therapy at Columbia as a registered therapist in 1947. She has practiced occupational therapy at Newington, Conn., and Los Angeles. Their son, Austin Chichester, Jr., born April 25, 1926, in Oconomowoc, graduated from Andover in 1944, received a B.A. degree at Yale in 1949, and is now a member of the Class of 1952 at the Yale Law School. He served in the Army from 1945 to 1947. He ranked as a corporal (T/5) and was with the Information and Education Division with the European Army of Occupation. Smith's father, Clarence Austin Smith, Yale '82, now ninety years old, is residing in Seattle, the oldest living Yale graduate in the Pacific Northwest. For fifty years he has been editor of Northwest Medicine.

EDWARD FAIRCHILD SMITH. Agricultural specialist and director, Peoples Trust Company, St. Albans, Vt.; residence, R.F.D. 1, St. Albans.

"The pot must stop boiling before the stew can be eaten," says Smith. "My pot has cooled so that I now enjoy my meal in pleasure and at leisure. I am rustivating and enjoying it. My ambition is that any or all members of Yale '15 who are so inclined will come in their good time to rusticate with me, be it for a day or a year."

From the above we gather that Smith's position as agricultural specialist (since October, 1947) with the Peoples Trust Company doesn't keep him quite as busy as when he was president of the bank prior to joining the armed forces in 1942. While on active duty as a lieutenant colonel in Military Intelligence from 1942 to 1946, he traveled to North Africa, the Middle East, India, Great Britain, and the Continent. "Traveling done," he remarks with emphasis, adding, "Bought a 300-acre farm in Highgate, Vt., where I now live. This comprises my recreations, hobbies, collections, and special interests."

Smith still has a commission in the Inactive Reserve. He was appointed to the Vermont Development Commission in April, 1951, is a Republican and a Congregationalist, and belongs to the New York Yale Club.

His marriage to Eleanor Reynolds Rice, daughter of George Howard Rice, Yale '93, and Agnes Reynolds Rice, took place on September 7, 1927. Their son, William Graham, who was born on March 1, 1929, is a student at the University of Vermont.

EVERETT SMITH. Fiscal agent, Federal Home Loan Banks, 31 Nassau Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 130 Round Hill Road, Scarsdale, N.Y.

Smith continued with the Discount Corporation of New York (as assistant treasurer) until February, 1937, when he became fiscal agent for the Federal Home Loan Banks. Since the inception of the retirement fund of the Federal Home Loan Bank System in 1943 he has been its treasurer and administrative officer. He gives additional details of his interesting work: "In my capacity as fiscal agent for the eleven district Federal Home Loan Banks, I have marketed over three billion dollars of consolidated notes of the Federal Home Loan Banks. These notes are offered through a group of more than five hundred dealers and dealer banks in all parts of the country, which in turn sell them to institutional, corporate, and individual investors. The sales of these securities have enabled the Banks to make loans to their approximately four thousand member savings and loan associations, savings banks, and insurance companies for the purpose of financing homes and meeting withdrawal of savings. The Banks are wholly owned by their member institutions, although supervised by a congressionally created board in Washington. It is probably the nation's outstanding example of coöperation between government and private industry through the medium of a governmentally created but privately owned banking system. I also have the absorbing job of running a retirement fund with about a hundred and fifty separate employer members and sixteen hundred employee members. A fiscal agent's job—there is only one other comparable in the whole country—is an interesting but arduous one."

During the war Smith was a local aircraft spotter on the midnight-to-dawn shift. He is serving on the board of managers and the finance committee of the American Bible Society, is a member of the Hitchcock Memorial Church (Presbyterian) in Scarsdale, and belongs to the New York Yale Club.

His marriage to Lillian Ansley, daughter of John Cromwell and Nellie Robbe Ansley, took place June 26, 1917, in Penn Yan, N.Y. Their daughter, Jean, who was born August 7, 1919, in New York, attended Connecticut College for Women and the Katharine Gibbs School. She did Red Cross work in England during the war and in 1946 was married on an English air base to C. H. Hesse, of New Orleans; they have two daughters.

Their son, Everett, Jr., born February 22, 1922, in New York, graduated from Yale in 1943. He was awarded his "Y" as a member of the swimming team. A Naval aviator in the war, he was cadet commander while at the Chapel Hill Ground School, was commissioned an ensign at Pensacola, and later promoted to lieutenant (j.g.). His chief assignment was flying Naval air transports from Seattle to Alaska and the Aleutians. For the past three and a half years he has been in the secretary's department of the Standard Oil Company (N.J.), his work being in connection with stockholder relations. He married Murial A. Putnam, of Greenwich, Conn., and has a son and daughter.

RADFORD STURTEVANT SMITH. Merchandise manager, Sears, Roebuck & Company, 172 Fairfield Avenue, Bridgeport 1, Conn.; residence, 134 Blakeman Place, Stratford, Conn.

At the time the Quindecennial Record was published, Smith was vice-president and assistant treasurer of the Radford B. Smith Company of Bridgeport. From 1929 to 1931 he was assistant credit manager of the Howland Dry Goods Company of Bridgeport and during the next eight years was connected with the J. J. Newberry Company, a five and ten cent store chain, as manager of stores in Gloucester, Mass., and Hackettstown, N.J. Since 1940 he has been back in Bridgeport as merchandise manager of Sears, Roebuck. During World War II he was a member of the Connecticut Defense Council and also served as an observer for the Stratford aircraft warning service. He attends the Stratford Congregational Church and for recreation turns to sailing, golf, and bowling.

On November 6, 1917, Smith was married in Stratford to Myra Atwood Curtis, daughter of Frank L. and Emma Atwood Curtis. Their daughter, Sally Jane, who was born on July 18, 1924, was married on October 22, 1945, to Robert F. Brannigan and has two children: Patricia Sharon, born August 5, 1947, and James Rider on August 4, 1949.

TRUMAN SMITH. Colonel, U.S.A., retired; residence, Greenfield Hill, Fairfield, Conn.

Smith, who retired from the Army in 1946, writes: "I served as a military adviser on the National Defense Committee (Eberstadt Committee) of the Hoover Commission in 1946 and 1947. At the present time I am military aide to the Governor of Connecticut. I translated, edited, and wrote the preface of the war historical work, Invasion, 1944: Rommel and the Normandy Campaign, by Lieutenant General Hans Speidel, who in 1944 was Field Marshal Rommel's chief of staff and who in 1951 is the chief military negotiator for Germany in the matter of Germany's participation in the rearmament and defense of Europe."

In January, 1949, Smith was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal. He establishes his political position with emphasis: "Republican—Republican—Republican."

His marriage to Katharine Alling Hollister, daughter of George Trowbridge and Rosemary James Hollister, took place in Greenport, N.Y., on July 14, 1917. Their daughter, Katharine Truman, who was born in New York City on May 15, 1924, married William B. Coley, 2d, son of Bradley L. Coley, '15. She graduated from Smith in 1942.

DENNIS EUGENE SOSNOWSKI. Address, 826 Miners Bank Building, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

EDWARD JAMES STACKPOLE. President and treasurer, Telegraph Press, Telegraph Building, Harrisburg, Pa.; residence, Green Meadows, R.D., Dauphin, Pa.

Since 1936 Stackpole has been president, treasurer, and a director of the Telegraph Press, of which he had previously been vice-president and treasurer. He is also president and a director of the Stackpole Company, book publishers, Radio Station WHP (an affiliate of CBS), and the Military Service Publishing Company (military texts and training books), secretary-treasurer and a director of American Aviation Publications of Washington, D.C., and a director of the Harrisburg Trust Company, the Harrisburg Hotel Company, and the Penn-Harris Hotel Company. In addition, he is president of the board of trustees of the Pennsylvania School for Children of Veterans and a member of the board of managers of the Harrisburg Hospital and of the board of directors of the State Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Masonic order and of the Market Square Presbyterian Church in Harrisburg.

Stackpole served during World War II as a brigadier general in the Army and was awarded the Legion of Merit. During 1946-47 he reorganized the Pennsylvania National Guard and commanded the 28th Division, with the rank of major general. He retired in July, 1947.

In spite of all the above, he says, "No claims! In retrospect, I am reminded of the epitaph on the tombstone of the nice old maiden lady who did her best: 'Here lies the body of Hephsebiah Jones—no runs, no hits, no errors!'"

Stackpole was married August 17, 1917, in Harrisburg to Frances Bailey, daughter of Charles L. Bailey, Jr., Yale '86, and Mary Seiler Bailey. Her death occurred in November, 1948. Their daughter, Mary Frances, who was born January 28, 1925, was married in September, 1943, to Meade D. Detweiler, 3d, Yale '43, and has a four-year-old son, Meade David, 4th.

HAROLD CRAWFORD STEARNS. Executive editor, Stackpole Company, book publishers, Telegraph Building, Harrisburg, Pa.; residence, 3107 North Front Street, Harrisburg.

Since November, 1950, Stearns has been executive editor of the Stackpole Company, one of the companies of which Ed Stackpole is president. He was head of the English Department at the Hackley School in Tarrytown, N.Y., from 1941 to 1943, an English master at The Hill School during the next three years, and from 1946 to 1950 was a member of the English and History departments at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

His marriage to Esther Hildur Nelson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nelson, of North East, Pa., took place in Erie, Pa., on November 16, 1932. They have no children.

LOUIS CHARLES STEIN. Physician, 520 Beacon Street, Boston 15, Mass.; residence, 70 Glen Avenue, Newton Center 59, Mass.

Stein continues in the practice of medicine in Boston. He mentions that he visited England in 1931 and 1932 and in 1936 went to Cuba, Jamaica, Panama, and Costa Rica.

His marriage to Doris Ermyn Eveleigh, daughter of Edmund William and Ethlind Constance May Eveleigh, took place in Cambridge, Mass., on November 22, 1922. They have two children: Diana Eveleigh, born August 24, 1926, in Watertown, Mass., and Edmund William Eveleigh on February 12, 1930, in Newton. Diana attended Wheaton College from 1945 to 1947 and received a B.S. degree in journalism at Boston University in 1949. Since then she has been a secretary with the publishing house of Little, Brown & Company. Edmund, who received his preparatory education at Exeter, graduated from Yale with a B.A. degree in 1951 and then entered the Harvard Business School.

CHARLES FREDERICK MERTENS STEINWAY. Residence, 20 Glen Road, Mountain Lakes, N.J.

Steinway writes: "On July 1, 1950, I retired from Steinway & Sons, where I had been employed since April, 1919. I had been corporation secretary for seventeen years. If it is of any interest, Henry Englehard Steinway, the founder of the firm of Steinway & Sons, piano makers, was my great-grandfather, and my father, Charles H. Steinway, was president of that corporation for over forty years. As for me, 'I ain't done nothing' and have had a very enjoyable and happy life doing it.

"I have been in Europe some fourteen times, spending most of my stay there in England, Germany, and Switzerland. Tennis was my sport, and I have a collection of thirty-odd tennis cups as reminders of my more active days. Have collected postage stamps and old coins at various times. My present hobbies are gardening and photography."

Steinway was formerly a member of the Lotos Club and the New York Athletic Club. He was married on June 29, 1912, in Leominster, Mass., to Florence Evelyn Garland, daughter of Samuel and Hannah C. Garland. They have two children: Charles Garland, born on April 7, 1914, and Doretta Leigh on September 15, 1926, both in New York. Steinway gives the following information about them: "Charles attended the Morristown Boys School, Swarthmore College, and the New York University Business School and is employed in the wholesale department of Steinway & Sons. In June, 1947, he married Sarah Elizabeth Shields, daughter of my oldest friend, Dr. Nelson T. Shields, Jr., Yale '15 S. They live in Bronxville, N.Y., and have two daughters: Julia Elizabeth, born in February, 1949, and Sandra Leigh, born May 15, 1951. My son served five years in the Army in World War II and was discharged as a captain in Counter Intelligence. He was wounded in action and received the Purple Heart. He is a member of Squadron A, New York City.

"My daughter married David G. Blattner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David G. Blattner, of Mountain Lakes, on September 15, 1951. Her husband was graduated in 1944 from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and served as a first lieutenant with the Army Engineers in the war. They live in Wilton, Conn. He is a field representative of the Caterpillar Tractor Company. My daughter attended the Kent Place School in Summit, N.J., and the Horace Mann School for Girls in New York."

RICHARD DILL STEVENSON. Address, 601 Prospect Avenue, Lake Bluff, Ill.

GEORGE STEWART. Engaged in liaison work for the U.S. Army and U.S. Air Force with the British Forces; residence, "Sky-Field," Dublin, N.H.

The following is Stewart's autobiography, although written in the third person: After a year and a half in the Army, in which he enlisted as a private on graduation from the Yale Law School in April, 1917, he was mustered out as a battalion commander. He returned to Yale, gave up the law, took a Ph.D., winning the John Addison Porter Prize on his thesis, and entered the Church. During graduate study at Yale he was head of Dwight Hall.

He served from 1921 until 1928 as associate pastor at the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City, then until 1944 was pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Stamford, Conn. In Stamford he was active in social work, serving as president of the Family Welfare Society and the Family and Children's Center, and organized and became president of the Stamford Housing Authority. In 1944 he was chairman of the State Emergency Housing Commission. During World War II he was a member of the original committee of the National Research Council to compile the medical history of the war and was active in numerous organizations for foreign relief.

From 1940 until 1951 he made eight world tours with British Forces, interpreting the United States and current affairs to all ranks. These journeys carried him throughout Europe, Asia, Africa, and Australasia. During the war alone he was in thirty-seven different countries. Due to a number of close scrapes, he was awarded several foreign decorations, including the Legion of Honor and the Médaille Militaire of France, the Golden Cross of Merit with Crossed Swords, and Officer of the Order of Polonia Restituta of Poland, Grand Officer of the Order of the Crown of Italy, and the Italian Military Cross. He already had the Order of St. George, the Order of St. Vladimir of Imperial Russia, etc., etc.

At present he lives on his farm, "Sky-Field," at Dublin, N.H., and has made a number of year tours in Europe, Asia, and Africa at the invitation of the British War Office, the Air Ministry, and the Admiralty and has served from time to time in the Directorate of Intelligence of the U.S.A.F., in which he is a lieutenant colonel.

During the last thirty years he has written some twenty books on historical and religious themes, the most important of which probably are Reluctant Soil, a novel, The White Armies of Russia, and a book on the Colonial history of Connecticut. The latter two are considered authorities on their subjects. He has received a number of honorary degrees—from Yale [D.D. 1939], Paris [D.Theol. 1924], and Linfield [Litt.D. 1928]. He belongs to a number of clubs, including the Century of New York, the Cosmos of Washington, and the Dublin Lake Club.

His marriage to Sarah Malcolm Klebs, daughter of Dr. A. C. Klebs and Margaret Forbes Klebs, took place in New Bedford, Mass., on May 20, 1925. Their oldest daughter, Mary, who was born in 1926, graduated from Bryn Mawr in 1946. The others are: Anne, born in 1927, Jane in 1928, and Sally in 1932.

FREDERICK BURNHAM STIMSON. Residence, Wynnewood, Pa.

For a number of years Stimson has devoted a great deal of time to church affairs. He served as a vestryman of All Saints' Church, Wynnewood, from 1933 to 1946 and from 1933 to 1945 was on the board of directors of the Episcopal Academy. During the period from 1938 to 1945 he was associated with the Department of Religious Education of the Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania, and since 1940 he has been lay canon of the Cathedral Church of Christ in that diocese. He became a licensed lay reader some time ago and from 1948 to 1950 had charge of Trinity Mission at Gulph Mills, Pa. He belongs to the Rittenhouse Club of Philadelphia and to the Mount Desert Yacht Club, of which he was vice-commodore during 1947-48 and commodore, 1948-51.

Stimson's marriage to Amelia Willets Eadie, daughter of James Suydam and Margaret Anne Wright Eadie, took place in Flushing, N.Y., on November 16, 1915. Their son, Frederick Burnham, Jr., who was born on August 24, 1917, in Flushing, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania with a B.A. degree in 1941. He was on the Junior Varsity crew in 1939 and on the University crew in his Senior year. During the war he commanded LCIL 663 in the Pacific area and made several landings, including Morotai, Leyte, and others in the Philippines. He is now a customers' broker with Penington, Colket & Company of New York City. He was married on May 17, 1947, to Allyne Gade Branch, and has two sons: Frederick Burnham, 3d, born on April 3, 1948, and David Gade on May 5, 1950.

ALAN TAYLOR STREET. Associate professor of mathematics, Roosevelt College, Chicago 5, Ill.; residence, 1413 Chicago Avenue, Evanston, Ill.

From 1926 to 1945 Street was on the faculty of the Harris Schools in Chicago, serving as senior master, head of the Mathematics Department, and also as athletic director. Since then he has been associate professor of mathematics at Roosevelt College. During the period from 1940 to 1941 he was connected with the Training Regiment of the Institute of Military Studies at the University of Chicago, serving as company commander for two years and then as commanding officer. He took his M.A. degree at Northwestern University in 1945. Street is a member of the Mathematical Association of America, the Men's Mathematics Club of Chicago, Pi Mu Epsilon, and the University Club of Evanston. During the summer he has traveled extensively—in the Midwest, northern Michigan, southern Canada, California, and New England.

On March 26, 1923, Street married Madeleine Blakey, of Charlottesville, Va.; they were divorced in 1928. His marriage to Margaret A. Macpherson, daughter of C. D. and Margaret A. Macpherson, took place in Evanston on June 14, 1930. Street's daughter, Jane Peter, who was born in Charlottesville on September 22, 1925, received a B.A. degree at the Women's College of North Carolina in 1947 and an M.A. in education at the University of Iowa two years later.

THOMAS JOSEPH SULLIVAN. Surgeon; office and residence, 495 Orange Street, New Haven, Conn.

Sullivan, who graduated from the Yale Medical School in 1917, has been engaged in the general practice of surgery in New Haven since 1920. He is a surgeon on the staff of the Hospital of St. Raphael and is a member of the American Medical Association and the International College of Surgeons and also of the Pine Orchard Club and the Racebrook Country Club. His travels, he says, have been confined to the United States and Bermuda. Golf is the only other recreation he mentions. He is a Republican and a Roman Catholic.

Sullivan's marriage to Catharine A. Lockwood, daughter of William and Delia Lane Lockwood, took place on October 10, 1936. Their son, Thomas J., Jr., who was born on August 22, 1937, is in the Class of 1955 at The Taft School.

THEODORE PHILIP SWIFT. Vice-president, Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company, 231 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.; residence, 1650 North Green Bay Road, Lake Forest, Ill.

Swift writes: "In looking over our Class history for the years to 1930, I note that there is only one change I would have to make, and that is that I am no longer prohibition enforcement officer of Lake Forest. Repeal changed all that, as now every one in that wicked town drinks as much as they want and occasionally too much, and now, when they take their tubs, they are filled with water rather than gin.

"For the last twenty years I have had the same job, the same wife, the same children, and have lived in the same house. Also I have been leaving Lake Forest every morning on the same train, coming to the same place of business, doing the same kind of work, and going home on the same train each night. I haven't changed much, although I have slowed down a bit. My principal interest has been in the maturing of my family, consisting of two sons, who are now married and have children, one living in Chicago and the other in Uruguay, and one daughter, who recently married a nice young man from Liechtenstein, but who is living in this country. Oh, yes, I have two grandchildren, and when I see you I will tell you how wonderful they are. This won't take over a couple of hours.

"I was never one to do much traveling, taking an occasional trip to New Haven and to a Wisconsin cabin during the summer. However, I am afraid all this is to be changed, as my wife, who is a bit of a gadabout, is working on me to take her to Uruguay this fall to visit our son, and then, after returning and being ready to settle down, she will want me to take her to Europe to visit our son-in-law's family.

"My outside interests continue to be golf and doing some civic work. I see some of our classmates who live here, and a lot of two of them, June Dick and Far Winston, whose lives have been about as uneventful as mine, as they have the same families they had twenty years ago, the same jobs, and continue going to work on the eight o'clock train and returning on the 5:10."

There appears to be one other change—until 1930 Swift was with the Illinois Merchants Trust Company and has since been vice-president of the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company. He is a director of Swift & Company.

Mrs. Swift was Elizabeth Hoyt. They were married in Winnetka, Ill., on August 17, 1917, and the children are: Edward F., 3d, Yale '45, who was born November 21, 1923; Phelps H., Yale '50, born April 4, 1926; and Elizabeth A., born February 16, 1928, all in Chicago.

WALKER ELY SWIFT. Physician, 200 Main Street, Sarasota, Fla.; residence, Route 4, Siesta Key, Sarasota.

"My specialty as a doctor is orthopedic surgery," Swift says. "I am on the staff of the Sarasota Municipal Hospital. From 1930 to 1949 I lived in New York and worked as an orthopedic surgeon, succeeding in having a satisfactory practice. I was on the staff of the New York Orthopedic Hospital until 1940, at which time I resigned from that institution when there was a change of management, so to speak. Then I was fortunate in being able to join the staff of the Lenox Hill Hospital in New York, where I worked with a most congenial group of men until the end of 1949.

"At that time I was taken sick with a coronary thrombosis and spent the next year on the inactive list getting over that trouble, and succeeded. Helen and I spent six months of 1950 in Sarasota, and while there my doctor persuaded me that there was no sense in returning to the hurly-burly life in New York City with my trouble. We agreed and decided that if I could get a license to practice in Florida, we would leave New York and settle in Sarasota. Getting a license here is quite a performance and involves taking two sets of examinations. The first one is in basic sciences, which it would be easier to pass just after medical school, and the second one covers all the fields of medical practice. I managed to pass these, and this is my real achievement. So I was granted a Florida license to practice medicine and we moved permanently to Sarasota in October, 1950. I opened my office here and have been gradually building up a practice all over again. In time I think I can succeed here. It is certainly a very different kind of place to work in than New York, but we have made some very good friends and the way of life in Sarasota is relaxed and comfortable, although surely no less expensive than living in the North. There are practically no stairs to go up, one does not have to wear heavy clothes, and the climate is fine. Sarasota is on the West coast of Florida, known mostly because the Ringling Brothers Circus lives here, and it seems to be the next boom town of Florida, as more and more people are moving here. Perhaps some day it will be as crowded as New York and that will be bad, but until then we like it and can recommend it to all and any who want a nice vacation in the sunshine."

Swift was first married on July 15, 1920, in Cornwall, N.Y., to Dorothea V. A. Abbott. Mrs. Swift, who was the daughter of Lawrence F. and Winifred Buck Abbott, died in December, 1939. On August 25, 1945, Swift was married in New York City to Helen A. Gately, daughter of James R. and Bertha Anderson Gately. He has three children: Abbott Montague, born October 21, 1921, Elisabeth Valentine on June 17, 1923, and Lucy Houghton on August 23, 1926, all in New York. Abbott went to the Putney School, Exeter, and Yale College. He graduated in 1944 and then took his Ph.D. degree in chemistry. Married in June, 1940, to Katherine Pettit, he has three daughters. Abbott, who was an instructor, with the rank of first lieutenant, in the Air Force during World War II, is now living in Noroton, Conn., and working with the American Cyanamide Company at its research plant in Stamford, Conn. Elisabeth attended the Brearley and Putney schools and Radcliffe College. She joined the O.S.S. in Washington during the war; she still lives there and works with the C.I.A. After graduating from the Brearley School, the younger girl attended Black Mountain College and then took two years of pre-medical courses at Barnard College. She is now a third-year student at the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia.

BERTRAND LEROY TAYLOR. Address, 50 Lefferts Avenue, New York 25, N.Y.

SHIPLEY THOMAS. Manager, Philadelphia office, Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., engineers, 1518 Walnut Street, Philadelphia 2, Pa.; residence, "Holmehill," Roseland, N.J.

Thomas writes: "In World War I, I was a lieutenant and captain in the 26th Infantry, 1st Division, participated in every engagement in which that division took part, and then wrote the History of the A.E.F. In 1919 I was graduated with honors from the Army Intelligence School at Langres, France, and in 1922, upon the creation of the Military Intelligence Corps as a part of the O.R.C., I was commissioned major and transferred to M.I., U.S.A.R. In 1938 I was promoted to lieutenant colonel.

"In the spring of 1940 the A.C. of S., G-2, of the War Department, noting the lack of any such book, asked me to write a handbook for front-line intelligence officers. This I did, entitled S-2 in Action. Ed

Stackpole published it, and very shortly over 10,000 copies were sold. As a result, I was put in charge of the Army Intelligence School, where in three years I trained 20,000 Intelligence personnel. These not only included the specialists in interrogation, aerial photo interpretation, counter-intelligence, foreign liaison, order of battle, captured documents, etc., but also scouting and patrolling, the Military Intelligence units of many divisions, and the Marine Intelligence personnel.

"Between wars, I am manager of the Philadelphia office and Washington representative of the engineering firm of Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc."

Thomas was called to active duty in the office of the A.C. of S., G-2, of the War Department in February, 1942, the following June being appointed director of training of the Military Intelligence Training Center at Camp Ritchie upon its activation. He was promoted to colonel in September, 1942, and in June, 1943, graduated from the Command and General Staff College. In December, 1945, he reverted to an inactive status. Thomas was awarded the Silver Star with an oak leaf cluster, the Legion of Merit, the Purple Heart, and the French Fourragère of the Croix de Guerre.

Before taking his present position with Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc., in January, 1931, he had been connected with the Benedict Stone Corporation. He is a member of the Roseland Planning Board and since 1927 has been rector's warden of the Church of the Transfiguration (the "Little Church Around the Corner") in New York City. He belongs to the University, Yale, and Church clubs of New York, the Racquet and Yale clubs of Philadelphia, the American Legion, and the Loyal Legion and is a Republican in politics.

On February 14, 1920, he was married in New York to Taliaferro Ford, daughter of Frank Richards and Sunshine H. Ford. They have no children.

NORMAN FRANKLIN THOMPSON. Assistant treasurer, R. A. McWhirr Company (department store), 165 South Main Street, Fall River, Mass.; residence, 30 Willow Street, Fall River.

Thompson, who became connected with the R. A. McWhirr Company upon graduating from Yale, was made assistant treasurer of the company some time ago. His marriage to Olive Gertrude Leach, daughter of Joseph and Meribah Leach, took place in Fall River on April 20, 1927. They have two sons: Norman Franklin, Jr., who was born on May 15, 1928, and David B. on March 20, 1930. Both boys served in the Coast Guard during the war. Norman, Jr., attended Andover and Yale and David, Tabor Academy, the University of Massachusetts, and Rhode Island State College.

RICHARD MORGAN THOMPSON. Superintendent, R. A. McWhirr Company (department store), 165 South Main Street, Fall River, Mass.; residence, 300 Woodlawn Street, Fall River.

Thompson, who has been superintendent of the R. A. McWhirr Company since August, 1926, is chairman of the executive committee of the Massachusetts State Council of Retail Merchants, of which he was formerly president. He is a director of the Fall River Chamber of Commerce, the local chapter of the Red Cross and the Y.M.C.A., a trustee of the Home for the Aged, and a member of the Fall River Sinking Fund Committee. He belongs to the Union Methodist Church, the Rotary Club, and the Historical Society, gardens for a hobby, and plays volley ball for exercise.

Thompson was married in Boston on April 24, 1917, to Ruth Elizabeth Niles, daughter of Dr. Edward S. Niles and Elizabeth Wright Niles. Their daughter, Elizabeth Sabrina, was born in New Haven, February 9, 1919. She attended Connecticut College for Women and a few years after her graduation married Arthur Douglas Dodge, Yale '42, who is with the Veeder-Root Company in Hartford. The two boys, Richard Morgan, Jr. (born in Whitneyville, Conn., April 28, 1921), and Edward N. (born in Fall River, January 28, 1927), prepared for college at Andover and graduated from the Yale Engineering School in 1943 and 1949, respectively. Richard was a lieutenant in the Navy during the war, serving as a radar officer on a destroyer escort, and is now assistant to the plant engineer of the Apponaug (R.I.) Finishing Company. Edward, at present a private in the Engineer Corps, stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va., has been a research and development engineer with Firestone Industrial Products and Development in Fall River.

WALTER ROOSEVELT THOMPSON. Engaged in handling private investments, 122 East 42d Street, New York 17, N.Y.; residence, Blendon Hall, Hadlyme, Conn.

When Thompson sent in his report last May, he said, "Am just about to leave for Portugal and Spain. Have traveled extensively in Europe, South America, Central America, and Mexico. My chief recreation has been yachting and I have, for a number of years, collected ship models." He was formerly part owner of the Dauntless Shipyard at Essex, Conn., which has since been sold, and at the present time is a director of the American Sumatra Tobacco Company.

Thompson is a member of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York City, where he was married on May 2, 1933, to Adèle Sarpy Kelley.

JAMES GUYON TIMOLAT, JR. Secretary, Oakland Chemical Company, manufacturers of drugs and chemicals, 59 Fourth Avenue, New York 3, N.Y.; residence, 38 East 37th Street, New York.

Timolat, who has been connected with the above company since shortly after graduation and its secretary for years, says briefly, "Nothing special to report. Have just kept busy. Unmarried."

BOYLSTON ADAMS TOMPKINS. Senior vice-president, Bankers Trust Company, 16 Wall Street, New York, N.Y.; residence, 770 Park Avenue, New York.

Tompkins, who has been with the Bankers Trust since 1917, has been a director of the company since November, 1925, and senior vice-president since December, 1949. His other business connections make an imposing list—chairman of the board of the U.S. Leather Company and of the American Superpower Corporation; a director of Babcock & Wilcox, the Coronet Phosphate Company, the Detroit Edison Company, the Flintkote Company, the General American Investors Company, the International Paper Company, the National Aviation Corporation, the Otis Elevator Company, and the United Cigar-Whelan Stores Corporation; and a trustee of the Bowery Savings Bank. He is vice-president of the Children's Village of Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., and a director of the Henry Street Settlement in New York. Tompkins belongs to the Yale, Links, Creek, and Rolling Rock clubs.

On May 26, 1917, he was married at Quissett, Mass., to Eleanore Louise Marshall, daughter of James Gifford and Louise Marshall. They have a son, Boylston A. Tompkins, Jr., born January 20, 1919, and three daughters: Eleanore Louise Preston, born May 3, 1921, Joan Daphne Wheeler on April 11, 1925, and Judith Lee Tompkins on April 30, 1934, all in New York.

NORMAN EDWARD TOOHEY. Partner and manager, Monro, Inc. (wines and spirits), 17 East 57th Street, New York 22, N.Y.; residence, 15 Park Avenue, New York 16.

Toohey, who was assistant superintendent of Abraham & Straus in Brooklyn at the time our last Class record was published, has been a partner in Monro, Inc., and also manager of the concern, since 1933. His marriage to Phyllis Muriel Reynolds, daughter of Phillip and Elizabeth Barret Reynolds, took place in New York City in September, 1930. They have no children.

GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN. Consultant, Economic Coöperation Administration, 33 Pine Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 4000 Cathedral Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C.

"It has always interested me to work with the people of other countries and to observe how they think and act," Train says. "This has meant a considerable amount of travel during the last twenty years—most of it by air during the years since the war. It strikes me that while the body is quickly transported overseas, the mind still lags far behind and adjusts slowly, if at all. I can't see that the speed of modern travel has done anything to diminish international prejudice and suspicion. Yet I have never been able to see that foreigners are fundamentally different from ourselves. But when they act differently, there are usually good reasons to be found in their history, education, social structure, climate, and geography. Once these are understood, we can see that we should probably have acted as they did in the same circumstances. When there is a common denominator—say a game of golf or tennis—one sees that human nature has no connection with nationality. Good and bad sportsmanship are universal. In doing business with people of many nationalities, in operating abroad with a local staff, I am convinced that fair dealing and honesty are likewise universal, just as are trickery and dishonesty. No nation that I know possesses a monopoly of the virtues or the vices.

"My only 'achievement'—if it be one—is that, having been continuously engaged in international trade and finance for more than thirty years (counting out time for two wars), I have been doing the things I like to do best."

From 1925 through 1933 Train was with the National City Company in New York, specializing in Latin American finance, and during the next eight years was manager of the foreign department of another investment banking firm, George, Forgan & Company. In 1941 he went on active duty as a major, with an assignment to the War Department General Staff at the New York office of the Military Intelligence Division. He served in the Office of Production Management in Washington from October, 1941, to February, 1942, and the following May was assigned to the General Purchasing Agent's Office, Services of Supply, in London. He landed in Arzew, North Africa, on November 8, 1942, as civilian labor director of the U.S. Center Task Force and in January was promoted to lieutenant colonel. From May to September, 1943, he was general purchasing agent of the Mediterranean Base Section at Oran and was then transferred to the G-3 section of the Allied Force Headquarters in Algiers. Train, who was mentioned in British dispatches, returned to the United States in August, 1944, and received his discharge from service that October.

He was an executive with the Atlas Corporation (investments) in New York the following year and then became associated with the Cerro de Pasco Corporation (mining), for which he served as manager in Lima, Peru, until 1948. He then returned to the Atlas Corporation as senior executive, but gave this up at the end of 1949 to become chief of the E.C.A. Special Mission to Portugal, with the personal rank of Minister. He remained there until the spring of 1951 and since then has been consultant to the office of the E.C.A. administrator in New York.

Train belongs to the Yale and Bond clubs of New York. On February 6, 1922, he was married in New York to Gertrude Allan Miller, daughter of Cyrus C. and Emma Allan Miller. Her death occurred on March 23, 1949. His second marriage, to Lenore Sandblom de Rochefort, daughter of the late Dr. John Sandblom, of Stockholm, and Ellen Chinlund Sandblom, took place on May 11, 1951. He has two daughters: Susan Frances, born November 2, 1927, and Rosemary on October 26, 1933, both in New York. Susan, who graduated from the Bishop Strachan School in Toronto in 1945, became connected with Vogue Magazine in 1949 and is now assigned to their Paris bureau. The younger girl graduated from the Spence School in New York last June and planned to enter Radcliffe in September.

*GEORGE SCHIEFFELIN TREVOR.

This biography, based on Trevor's reply to our questionnaire, was written before his death on November 17, 1951.

'I've surely had fun in life, even though wealth eluded me,' Trevor wrote. "After thirty years as a newspaper sports writer I can look back on more than my share of exciting episodes. With the New York Sun I earned the biggest salary ever paid to a non-syndicated sports writer. The collapse of the Sun was a hard blow for all of us. High blood pressure—I should have drunk less milk and more whiskey the doctors now say—has caused my retirement at fifty-eight years, but I still work on magazine stories. Well, I have four kids and seven grandchildren to keep me amused.

“Best sports story I ever wrote was ‘Yale’s Ill-fated Argosy’—describing the 1929 Eli debacle at Athens, Ga. This story appeared in the Sun and was reprinted by Grantland Rice in his Anthology of Sports.

“Back in 1924 the University of Notre Dame cited me for ‘Excellence in the use of English on the sports page.’ This tickled Billy Phelps!

“In 1922 I stood in the Yale Club lobby looking at a Brooklyn Eagle want ad. A friend saw me and said, ‘Do you know what a stymie is? If you do, you can get that job.’ Well, I knew what a stymie was in golf—so I became golf writer on the Eagle and that’s how it all started!

“Football has been my favorite sport to write about. I covered every Yale-Harvard game for a metropolitan newspaper from 1922 to 1950. I do considerable public speaking on sports topics.

“Big thrill was seeing my son, George, Jr., win the mile race for Woodberry Forest School against Episcopal High School in that Virginia classic.

“In 1932 Yale football captain, Bob Lassiter, says he grew homesick at Yale in his Sophomore season and decided to go home. At the railroad station in New Haven, Lassiter read my New York Sun story about him called ‘The Carolina Catamount.’ Lassiter says this article caused him to change his mind and return to the Old Campus. If so, the Yale A.A. should award me a major ‘Y’ for helping win the 1931 Harvard game!

“I worked hard to bring Herman Hickman to Yale as football coach—just as I campaigned to get Earl Blaik to New Haven in 1929—when ‘Red’ was virtually unknown. What a difference that would have made!”

Trevor, who was known as the “Ivy League Historian,” coined the phrase, “Mister Inside and Mister Outside,” to describe Blanchard and Davis of the Army team. He wrote a number of pamphlets on football, and among the magazines to which he contributed articles are Colliers, Liberty, Red Book, Golf Illustrated, Outlook, American Magazine, and the Saturday Evening Post (in the latter: “Everybody There Saw Kelley,” “The Heffelfinger Story,” and “Lefty James of Cornell”).

In addition to the Yale Club, Trevor belonged to the Westchester Country Club, and he was a member of St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Port Chester. He was first married June 26, 1915, in New York to Alice Haven. His second marriage, to Elsie Dorntee, took place in Greenwich, Conn., March 27, 1925. His children are: Haven Trevor Waters, born July 16, 1916; Nancy Trevor Waters, born February 28, 1919; George S. Trevor, Jr., born January 1, 1926; and Louis Henry Trevor, born September 4, 1929. Haven, who graduated from Yale in 1940, won his major "Y" in squash and played on the J.V. football team. He was a captain in the Air Force during the war, serving both as a pilot and in intelligence work, and now works for the Schieffelin Drug Company. He is married and the father of four children. Nancy attended Smith and the University of North Carolina and served with the WACS in New Guinea; she is married and has one child. George, who was track captain while at the Woodberry Forest School, graduated from Colgate in 1949. He served as quartermaster on the U.S.S. Chicago in the war and is at present on the Courier-Times in Roxboro, N.C. He is married and has two children. Louis also prepared for college at the Woodberry Forest School and later attended the University of Virginia. He worked for The Texas Company in Louisiana until he enlisted in the U.S. Air Force last year.

BERNARD ELROY TRIPP. With Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company (soaps and perfumes), 1 Newark Avenue, Jersey City, N.J.; residence, 77 Woodward Avenue, Rutherford, N.J.

Tripp has been connected with Colgate-Palmolive-Peet since July, 1917. He is a member of the Masonic order.

His marriage to Dorothy A. Newick, daughter of Samuel J. and Margaret Newick, took place in Rutherford on June 20, 1917. Their son, Bernard E., Jr., who was born on January 28, 1919, received the degree of B.S. in industrial engineering at Lehigh in 1940. He is married and has two children. Their daughter, Margaret Jean Tripp Hoslet, was born June 29, 1926, and graduated from New Jersey College for Women in 1948 with the degree of B.S. in physical education. She has one child.

MELVILLE DOUGLAS TRUESDALE. Residence, Stanwich Road, Greenwich, Conn.

Truesdale writes: "From the previous report until 1933 I was vice-president of the Dryer Company, then president. I retired from active work with this company early in 1933 and was then with the Central Hanover Bank as assistant vice-president until I resigned on account of my health. I later again became more active in the Industrial Dryer Corporation, but since January, 1950, have been very limited because of my health and have spent the winters in Bermuda and the summers in Maine. Hard life?"

In September, 1941, Truesdale was commissioned as a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve and until June, 1942, was attached to the Office of the Inspector of Naval Matériel. He then became a member of the preparatory staff class at the Naval War College at Newport, R.I. He was subsequently ordered to the staff of the Commander of the South Pacific, his final assignment there being that of personnel officer, both COMSOPC and COMSERO-SOPAC. He returned to the States in February, 1943, reporting to the Naval Receiving Barracks at Lido Beach, N.Y., as personnel officer. He later became executive officer there, was promoted to commander in August, 1945, and was discharged to inactive duty the following month. He retired from the Reserve in May, 1947. "No medals, no commendations, no nutt'in," he says. "Nice just being a somewhat depleted civilian."

Truesdale's marriage to Alice Bulkley Moss took place in New York City on May 17, 1917. They have two children: Alice, born on February 3, 1920, and William H., 2d, on July 25, 1922. Alice, whose marriage to Robert S. Mueller, Jr., of Baltimore, Md., took place in September, 1943, has three children. William, 2d, Yale '45W, enlisted in the Navy in 1943. After service in the Pacific, he went to Officer Candidate School in the spring of 1944, was commissioned as an ensign in the Reserve, and subsequently saw duty in Japan on the U.S.S. Turner.

RAY T. TUCKER. Address, 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

ARTHUR FARWELL TUTTLE. Senior master, Millbrook School, Millbrook, N.Y.

"Millbrook School has been my occupation since 1931," Tuttle writes. "It started then with one small brick building and some farm buildings and nineteen boys. It has grown to 110 boys, its intended limit; dormitories, school building, dining hall, chapel, athletic fields, and all features of a modern school have grown with the enrollment. It is a beautiful countryside around us and a lovely campus to be adjacent to.

"It has been a wonderful experience to have been a part of this growth, and the life is a very satisfying one. It is very engrossing and very confining during the school year, and I find that now the vacations come just in time. When I can snatch a day, I usually go to New Haven to see my mother, who is living there, and often my brother's family. The thought of retirement is quite nebulous.

"I was one of those who looked forward to graduation from college, partly with the thought that I would never dig out an assignment for a class again. Twenty years of teaching belie the words of that kind classmate who said, 'Why should you look forward to no more assignments, you never did them anyway.'

"I regret that the confining life tucked away in the country keeps me from getting about and seeing more of my old friends."

Tuttle is serving on the chapel committee at the school, and in 1941 he was chairman of the Secondary Education Board Mathematics Examination Committee. He was an air spotter during the war and taught mathematics to officer candidates. He served as vice-president of the Millbrook Golf and Tennis Club from 1937 to 1941 and belongs also to the Minks Meadows Golf Club at Martha's Vineyard and the New York Yale Club.

As to other interests, he says, "Finalist, National Western Racquets Tournament, 1930; played in fathers' and sons' national tennis matches at Longwood three years, veterans doubles with G. P. Crandall one year. Rode horseback constantly, hunted some, 1930-39. Men's doubles in tennis and considerable golf comprise athletic interests now. Unbearable if I break 80 now. Have collected chess sets, several good ones. Recreational travel to pleasant Southern spots when possible in the spring vacations and summers with family at West Chop, Martha's Vineyard, where we have a cottage on the shore."

Tuttle was first married August 18, 1917, in Winnetka, Ill., to Margaret Stockbridge Houghteling, daughter of James Lawrence and Lucretia Peabody Houghteling. Her death occurred in 1942. On June 14, 1944, he was married in Millbrook to Margaret Louise Wheaton, daughter of Isaac Smith and Helen Louise Fairchild Wheaton. He has four children: Marcia, born in Chicago in 1920, Arthur F., Jr., in Evanston, Ill., in 1922, Lawrence Emerson in Evanston in 1925, and Felicity Fairchild in Sharon, Conn., on June 22, 1950. Marcia graduated from Vassar in 1941 and was enrolled in the City Planning Department at Yale the following year. In 1942 she married Dr. Harvey C. Knowles, Jr. (later a captain in the Medical Corps in Africa and Italy). They are living in Cincinnati with their two children: Margaret Houghteling and Harvey C., 3d. Arthur, who prepared for college at the Brooks School, graduated from Yale with the Class of 1945 and from the Yale Divinity School in 1950 and is now chaplain at Williston Academy. He served with General Patton's Army in France and after the war was with the Yale Placement Bureau and also assistant to Sid Lovett, the University chaplain. His marriage to Martitia Lane, of Deland, Fla., took place in December, 1948, and they have two children: Fanny Farwell and Arthur Farwell, 3d. Lawrence has been teaching at Avon Old Farms. He prepared for college at the Brooks School and graduated from Yale as a member of the Class of 1948. He had two years in the Navy during the war and was recalled for service in June, 1951. In June, 1949, he married Elizabeth Davis, of Woodstock, Conn., and has a daughter, Elizabeth Dorrance. Felicity is the only brunette in the family—"When she graduates from college, I could be having my Fifty-fifth Reunion!" says Tuttle.

FRANK WRIGHT TUTTLE. Address, 26 East 92d Street, New York 28, N.Y.

DANIEL GRIMES VAUGHAN. Authorization officer, Veterans Administration, 20 Washington Place, Newark 2, N.J.; residence, White Deer Plaza, Lake Mohawk, Sparta, N.J.

Vaughan had his own law office in New York until 1929 and during the next four years was an attorney with the New York Title & Mortgage Company. From April, 1933, to December, 1942, he was engaged in the general practice of law as a partner in the firm of Lee & Vaughan and then became production assistant at the Picatinny Arsenal, where he remained until October, 1945. Since then he has been with the Veterans Administration in Newark, where, since June, 1947, he has been authorization officer.

During the war Vaughan was a member of the local civil defense organization, his work including airplane spotting. He is a member of the Sparta Township Civic Association, the Sparta Police Reserve, the American Legion, the National Federation of Federal Employees, and the Church of Our Lady of the Lake at Lake Mohawk.

He was married on April 28, 1926, in Richmond Hill, N.Y., to Frances M. O'Connor, daughter of Timothy and Catherine O'Connor. They have no children.

EDWARD ADOLPH VOSSELER. Partner, Vosseler & Donnelly, lawyers, 57 William Street, New York 5, N.Y.; residence, 76 Remsen Street, Brooklyn 2, N.Y.

Vosseler, who has been engaged in the practice of law in New York since 1919, has been in partnership with Art Donnelly in the firm of Vosseler & Donnelly since October, 1940. He specializes in the law of decedents' estates and in real estate law and is the author of The Law of Wills and the editor of Cases of the Law of Wills and of Cases on the Law of Executors and Administrators. He has been professor of law at the Brooklyn Law School since 1930, served as law assistant to the surrogate of Kings County from 1930 to 1940, and since December, 1942, has been associated with the Dime Savings Bank of Williamsburgh in Brooklyn as counsel and trustee.

For the past seven years Vosseler has served on the committee on character and fitness of the Second and Tenth Judicial districts of New York, and he is vice-chairman of the Brooklyn Anti-Discrimination League, a trustee of the Brooklyn Public Library, a member of the board of managers of the Eastern District Y.M.C.A. in Brooklyn, and a member of the Brooklyn Protestant Council. He belongs to the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer and to the American Legion, serving as commander of the Department of New York in 1940. Vosseler was married some time ago to Helen McLees. They have no children.

JOSEPH WALKER. Partner, Bleakley, Platt, Gilchrist & Walker, lawyers, 120 Broadway, New York, N.Y.; residence, Byram Lake Road, Mt. Kisco, N.Y.

The firm of Bleakley, Platt, Gilchrist & Walker, in which Walker has been a partner since January, 1930, was formerly known as Taylor, Platt & Walker. He specializes in estates and railroad law and since January, 1923, has been New York local attorney for The Pennsylvania Railroad. He is a limited partner in the New York brokerage firm of Joseph Walker & Son, since 1930 has been a director of Tamblyn & Brown, a money raising concern, and is on the board of the Sheltering Arms Children's Service in New York. Walker received a medal for giving over a thousand hours of service as a civilian air raid warning officer in New York during the war. He is a member of the Bar Association of the City of New York, the County Lawyers Association, the New York State Bar Association, the American Bar Association, the Yale Club of New York, the Down Town Association, and the Wings Club.

He was first married on February 17, 1917, in Haverford, Pa., to Eleanor deGraff Cuyler, daughter of Thomas DeWitt and Frances Lewis Cuyler. They were divorced in March, 1937. On April 23 of that year Walker's second marriage, to Sue Wise, daughter of Homer C. and Annette Steuart Wise, took place in New York. He has six children: Eleanor Cuyler, born on December 6, 1917, Joseph, Jr., on September 18, 1920, Peter Cuyler on May 11, 1925, Julia Robbins on September 13, 1938, and the twins, Anthony Elmendorf and Steven Steuart, on February 11, 1940. His older daughter served as a first lieutenant in the WACS during the war. She was married in June, 1947, in New York to Peter Seyffert, and has two children: Peter and Helena. Joseph, Jr., Yale '42, served in the Pacific as a lieutenant commander in the Navy, and Peter, who received a B.A. degree at Yale with the Class of 1945W and an M.A. in 1948, was a Pfc. in the 89th Infantry Division with service in the European area.

MALCOLM LEE WALLACE. Secretary, R. Wallace & Sons Manufacturing Company (silverware), Wallingford, Conn.; residence, 443 North Main Street, Wallingford.

Wallace, who has been associated with the R. Wallace & Sons Manufacturing Company since graduation, has been a director of the concern since 1921 and secretary since 1939. He is also secretary and a director of R. Wallace & Sons of Canada, Ltd. From 1945 to 1947 he was a trustee of the First Congregational Church in Wallingford, and he belongs to the Graduates Club of New Haven.

On June 12, 1924, Wallace was married in Brooklyn, N.Y., to Hazel Troensegaard, daughter of William and Elizabeth Keeley Troensegaard. They have two children: Anne Elizabeth, born September 29, 1927, and Malcolm Lee, Jr., on September 26, 1929, both in New Haven. Anne graduated from the Day School in New Haven in 1945, received a B.A. degree at Smith in 1949, and was married that June in Wallingford to John Breckinridge Dayton (B.A. Amherst 1948). She and her husband are teaching at the Tuxedo Park School in Tuxedo Park, N.Y. Lee graduated in 1947 from Choate and four years later from Yale, where he was a member of Timothy Dwight College.

ELTON SCOVILL WAYLAND. Chairman of the board, Blake & Johnson Company, manufacturers, Waterville, Waterbury, Conn.; residence, 163 Woodlawn Terrace, Waterbury.

From Wayland: "Looking back over old diaries, I find that in 1930 I was very much occupied with the management of the Waterbury mills of the American Brass Company and doing a great deal of traveling in the interests of the sales department. In April of that year my wife took three children and Ship Thomas' wife to France for the summer, and the husbands joined up for a tour of Germany in August. The new Fairfield State Hospital took up much of my free time, getting it built and started up, and in that work I was associated with E. G. Buckland and Charles Morris, both well-known sons of Eli in New Haven. As president of the Waterbury Hospital, I had plenty of local headaches.

"Life went on in this pattern for the next ten years and then the preparations for war brought about more responsibility with my company and a change-over from civic interests to committee work in Washington and travel all over the country. I did not choose to go back into the service with my former rank or anything like it. Hence no citations or decorations. After peace returned I found myself shifting over from manufacturing and hospital work to banking and education, hence my interest in St. Margaret's School and the Library. As vice-president of the Waterbury Savings Bank and board chairman of the Blake & Johnson Company (a family manufacturing concern), I am fully occupied, make a fair living, and outside of home am my own boss. Of course, the job of Class secretary and treasurer is my major interest. I should add one fact obvious to all except me—my marriage to Helen Provost Clarkson, who has stuck by me so far, has been my greatest refining influence and post-graduate schooling in all departments of life."

Wayland adds a bit about his travels and special interests—"Did some cruising on the schooner Galatea, built for us in 1926, which was lost in the 1938 hurricane, also on the Alcestis along the New England coast and Sound. Since my resignation from the American Brass Company I have spent three to four months each spring on the family estate in Bermuda, developing a citrus orchard and improving property in other respects, and about two months in foreign travel each year. Other interests are collecting and building ship models, collecting early American bottles and flasks, colonial furniture, etc."

Wayland, who retired from the American Brass Company in January, 1950, was vice-president in charge of the Waterbury branch from 1930 to 1933, vice-president of the sales department from 1933 to 1947, and subsequently vice-president in charge of sales. His work in Washington for the duration of the war was as a member of the Naval Industrial Association, the Beryllium Allocation Board, and the Pipe and Tubing (Copper) Committee.

Wayland has been chairman of the board of Blake & Johnson since January, 1948. Among other current connections are the following: director, the Torrington National Bank, Landers, Frary & Clark, the Homer D. Bronson Company, the Waterbury Buckle Company, and the Eastern Malleable Iron Company; director and member of the executive and trust committees of the Colonial Trust Company; first vice-president of the Waterbury Savings Bank; trustee (since 1928) and treasurer (since 1948), St. Margaret's School for Girls; president, board of agents, Bronson Public Library, since 1938. Wayland was a member of the Fairfield State Hospital Commission, 1926-48; director, member of executive committee, and then president, Waterbury Hospital, 1921-50; director, Visiting Nurse Association, from 1929 until its merger with the Community Chest, of which he was then a director until 1948. He has been a vestryman of St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church since 1934, junior warden from 1948 to January, 1951, and senior warden since then. He belongs to the Union, University, Yacht, Yale, and India House clubs of New York, the Waterbury City and Country clubs, the Graduates Club of New Haven, and the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club.

Mrs. Wayland is the daughter of Ashton Crosby and Ida Evelyn Provost Clarkson; they were married in New York on November 10, 1917. The children are: Lucy Elton, born May 21, 1919, Eleanor Clarkson on November 21, 1922, John Elton on October 26, 1926, and Alice Provost on November 13, 1933. Lucy, who attended Vassar for three years after graduating from the Ethel Walker School, was married September 8, 1939, to Ridgway Macy Hall. Her husband enlisted in the Naval Reserve with the rank of pay clerk in December, 1943, and served until April, 1946, in Washington, Norfolk, Va., and Newport, R. I. They have three children: Ridgway, Jr., born September 10, 1941, Elton Wayland on January 27, 1944, and Eleanor Thomson on February 17, 1948. Eleanor Wayland, whose marriage to Woodward Thomson took place on October 23, 1943, has two sons: Schuyler Wayland, born September 10, 1947, and Peter Woodward on January 11, 1950. She is a graduate of Rosemary Hall and spent two years at Bennington. John was married October 29, 1949, to Carrol Duryee. Following his graduation from the Brooks School in 1944, he joined the V-12 Unit at Yale. He was transferred to Baldwin Wallace College in November, 1944, and the following March to Northwestern, where he graduated with the rank of ensign and the degree of B.S. in June, 1946; he had no active service afloat. He returned to Yale after his discharge and in February, 1948, graduated with a B.A. degree. Alice graduated from the Ethel Walker School in June, 1951, and entered Smith in the fall.

HOBART STOWE WEAVER. Associate counsel, Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, 300 Broadway, Newark, N.J.; residence, 214 Irving Avenue, South Orange, N.J.

Weaver writes: "During the Thirties the work I was doing for the Association of Life Insurance Presidents (now the Life Insurance Association), New York City, necessitated considerable traveling—confined, however, to this country. In 1935 I was invited to become associate counsel of an old established life insurance company and accepted. Since then I have settled down to the law work for this insurance company, particularly in reference to the procurement and administration of its investments."

At the time our last Class record was published, Weaver had only recently given up the practice of law to become assistant secretary of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. He became attorney for the organization in 1930 and continued in that connection until going with Mutual Benefit. He has been a member of the Association of Life Insurance Counsel for some time and mentioned that a speech that he made before the group was published and circulated to that membership. He belongs also to the New York County Lawyers Association and the American Bar Association, is a regular attendant of the Christian Science Church, and has participated in the "usual activity as a citizen in the community for the Community Chest, the American Red Cross, and the like."

He was married in New York City on November 4, 1925, to Florence Estelle Jackson. They have no children.

GEORGE WEISSMAN. Address, 32 Reedsdale Street, Allston, Mass.

AUGUSTUS B. WELLER. President, Meadow Brook National Bank, 15 Merrick Avenue, Merrick, N.Y.; residence, 190 North Hewlett Avenue, Merrick.

Weller, who was a partner in the Interstate Consulting Company, a New York brokerage firm, at the time our Quindecennial Record was published, became president of the Motologue Corporation (manufacturing and distributing advertising displays) in 1930, continuing in that connection until the business was liquidated in 1934. Since July of that year he has been president of the Meadow Brook National Bank, and he has been president and a director of the Meroke Holding Company, Inc. (real estate), since February, 1946, and is also a director of the John J. Dixon Company, Inc., builders.

He writes: "Having spent some twelve years in the bond business and approximately four years in the advertising business, I knew nothing whatever about the operations of a commercial bank when I was asked to be president in 1934. I was quite available as I had sold my advertising display business and had a bit of an income. Our small community bank at that time had approximately $800,000 in deposits and a capital deficit in excess of $100,000. When I accepted the invitation, I had in mind the traditional impression of the bank president who is really a sort of honorary factotum. But when I got into my 'overalls,' I found that I had taken on a real responsibility and a terrific headache. I had to start by getting the old directors out and some new directors in and from there on try to develop the deposits and public relations of the institution. During the past three years we have taken over the banks in two neighboring towns, and today we have total assets of $43,000,000 and a capital position of $2,600,000. I have found that a number of experienced bankers had been approached prior to myself—but they knew too much about banking to be even slightly interested. The old adage about 'Fools rush in, etc.,' was borne out in my case, but perhaps the folly has paid off because I had no inhibitions."

From December, 1941, to March, 1946, Weller served as Nassau County rationing administrator and in 1944 was given the Nassau County Distinguished Service Award for his work in that capacity. During the war period he was also treasurer of the Merrick Civil Defense Council (1942-46) and chairman of the advisory committee on finance of the Nassau County chapter of the American Red Cross (1943-46). He has been active in the National Brotherhood Movement, holding office as treasurer of the county committee in 1945 and as chairman the following year, and he was chairman of the Merrick Boy Scout Committee from 1936 to 1941, president of the Merrick Board of Education from 1930 to 1933, chairman of the Nassau County Clearing House Association during 1949-50, and has been a director of the Long Island Association, Inc., since 1943. A member of the Community Presbyterian Church, Weller acted as treasurer of its building committee from 1930 to 1932. He was elected a trustee of Hofstra College in 1941, has been vice-chairman of the board since 1943 and chairman of the finance committee since 1945. He belongs to the Hempstead Country Club, the Sunrise Yacht Club, the Merrick Square Club, Crystal Wave Lodge, No. 638 (Masons), the Aurora Grata Consistory (thirty-second degree), the Kismet Temple (Shrine), and the Freeport Elks.

On September 23, 1916, Weller was married in Brooklyn, N.Y., to Lilyan Lenore Collins, daughter of Daniel J. and Lenore Collins. Their daughter, Emily Jane, who was born May 20, 1919, in Brooklyn, died on January 18, 1920. Their son, Don Gardiner, born February 5, 1924, in New York City, graduated from the Mepham High School in 1941 and from the Peddie School the following year. He served in the Navy during the war, graduated from Hofstra College with a B.A. degree in 1949, and is now employed as public relations officer of the Meadow Brook National Bank. Don, who was married on December 21, 1946, has two children: Emily Jane, born January 18, 1949, and Frank Augustus on June 9, 1951.

RICHARD ELISHA WHEELER. Chairman of the board, Sealol Corporation, manufacturers of mechanical rotary seals, 45 Willard Avenue, Providence, R.I.; residence, 102 Williams Street, Providence.

Wheeler writes: "From 1923 to 1940 I was a partner in the Providence investment firm of MacColl, Fraser & Wheeler, of which I was a founder in 1923. In 1940 I founded what is now called Sealol Corporation and was president and treasurer of that company from 1940 to 1951, when I was made chairman of the board and treasurer. I am a member of the Providence Chamber of Commerce, N.A.M. and its research committee since 1950, and the Newcomen Society of North America.

"I have done nothing but work since 1930 and had a heart attack in 1945, which halted all tennis, golf, and much fishing, especially salt-water fishing for bluefish and striped bass of any size. Recently had trouble with my inner ear which affects balance. It is improving, but slowly."

Back in 1931 Wheeler was head of the industrial division of the Community Chest drive. He is a member of Grace Church and of the Agawam Hunt (on board of governors and chairman of the tennis committee), the Hope Club, and the New Haven Lawn Club.

On October 20, 1923, he was married in Providence to Wilhelmina Crapo West, daughter of Thomas Henry and Wilhelmina Cristy West. They have three children: Wilhelmina Crapo, born August 3, 1924, Ann West on February 26, 1928, and Elizabeth on May 15, 1930, all of whom attended Miss Porter's School in Farmington. Wilhelmina is doing government work in Washington. Ann graduated from Vassar in 1949, and the youngest girl is a Senior at Smith. She spent most of her Junior year in Paris with the Smith College group, specializing in music.

ATHA THOMAS WHITAKER. Estate analyst and insurance salesman, Connecticut General Life Insurance Company, 1000 Lincoln Liberty Building, Philadelphia 7, Pa.; residence, Blue Bell, Pa.

"In February I will have completed twenty-nine years of active service as a representative of the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company," Whitaker says. "Through estate analysis and planning and the sale of life insurance, I have helped men create, conserve, and pass their estate to their families, so far as humanly possible, with a minimum shrinkage and a maximum return, thus enabling their children to become better citizens and they themselves to reach retirement with security and self-respect. This is my contribution to a better America.

"My chief hobby since 1931 has been the breeding, showing, and field training of English springer and cocker spaniels. I have been a licensed judge for springers and cockers since 1933—judged English springers at Westminster and Madison Square Garden, 1941, was field trial judge for the English Springer Spaniel Club of Canada in 1951, and have been president of the Valley Forge Field Trial Association since 1936. I contributed an article on the English springer spaniel to Popular Dogs and one on spaniel field trials to Dog World."

From December, 1941, to October, 1944, Whitaker was an aerial observer with the air raid warning service, and from May, 1942, to August, 1945, he was an inspector for Dogs for Defense for the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps.

His marriage to Adèle Barger Gibbons, daughter of Thomas J. and Adèle Hirst Barger, took place in Ardmore, Pa., on June 23, 1923. "I have no children of my own," he says, "but two stepdaughters, Adèle Clara Gibbons (born June 28, 1905) and Frances Ludlow Gibbons (born September 27, 1906). Both married in 1930. Adèle married William R. Dohan, University of Pennsylvania about 1923. Adèle died a year later, but left a fine boy, William L. Dohan, now in his second year at Temple. Frances married F. Ridgway Lineaweaver, Yale '27. They have spent their lives in the Foreign Service. He is now consul in charge at Recife, Brazil. They have two children, Adèle B.—now Mrs. Kurt Lehnert, of Buffalo—and F. Ridgway Lineaweaver, Jr., who is set for Yale in a few years."

VALLEAU WILKIE. Headmaster, Morristown School, Whippany Road, Morristown, N.J.

"There's nothing very exciting to report," says Wilkie. "I have been headmaster of a college preparatory school since June, 1942—a job which has kept me busy enough to keep out of trouble. Currently raising funds to rebuild a gymnasium burned by some local pyromaniacs who thought it would make a good bonfire. It did, with unpleasant results for the school and its headmaster. Hope to get back to a reunion some day, in spite of the fact that they always come at the most difficult time of the year for me."

Wilkie was assistant headmaster of the Lance School, Summit, N.J., from 1930 to 1939 and had a similar position at the Carteret School in West Orange, N.J. for the next three years, then becoming headmaster of the Morristown School. He served as president of the Headmasters' Association of North Jersey during 1950-51, and he belongs also to the Headmasters' Association of Philadelphia, Calvary Episcopal Church of Summit, the Canoe Brook Country Club, and the Lake Sunapee Yacht Club, of which he was a director from 1935 to 1950.

On August 25, 1917, he was married in Harrison, N.Y., to Amelia Willets Parry, daughter of Joseph Saunders and Sarah Willets Parry. They have had three children: Amelia Parry, who was born December 27, 1919; Sally, who died in infancy; and Valleau, Jr., born on July 3, 1923. The children were all born in Summit. Amelia graduated from the Kent Place School and in 1945 from the Columbia School of Nursing. Her marriage to John H. Burke, Jr., took place on June 15, 1946, and they have a daughter, Sally Wilkie, born April 9, 1947.

They live in Middletown, Conn., where her husband is Freshman coach at Wesleyan University. Valleau, Jr., who graduated from the Salisbury School in 1941 and from Yale in 1948, is now teaching history at Andover. A lieutenant in the Air Force, he was pilot of a B-17 and was shot down over Germany and taken a prisoner of war. His marriage to Marjorie Hankin, of Summit, took place on February 23, 1946. They have two children: Janice Parry, born November 20, 1947, and Robert Valleau on March 31, 1949.

HENRY CAMPBELL WILKINSON. Director, Bermuda Public Health Service; residence, Hamilton, Bermuda.

Wilkinson, who has been director of the Public Health Service in Bermuda since 1927, says, "There is little that is anecdotal in a health department. There are many interesting and useful things, but they usually move slowly with arguments, committees, and parliaments. An island does not change these things for the less. In fact, those who deal with many small places recognize the attribute of 'island consciousness.' This island has, however, had excellent luck, and its general health now reflects it. Its vital statistics are good. The health department has merely tried to give a little sense of direction to the arguments and the effort, observing the while the principle of Galen, 'first to do no harm.'

"I made a short excursion to Russia in 1932. Had a pleasant and interesting meeting with the Sydney Webbs on the way back to London on a small Russian ship. And there was time for conversation, for the diesel engines stopped off Kronstadt. Since Lenin had translated three of the Webbs' books, the Webbs felt that they were 'sacrosanct in Russia.' Few have felt that way before or since, and the Webbs themselves, like others, did not escape some abdominal warnings that things were not entirely right in Russia. It is a hard place. Have also made three excursions in the charming Scandinavian countries."

Wilkinson has been a trustee of the King Edward VII Memorial Hospital since 1928 and of the Bermuda Historical Monuments Trust since 1937. He has served on the local committee of the Bermuda Biological Station for Research since 1935 and is a director of the Bermuda Electric Light Company, the Bank of Bermuda, and the Bermuda Press.

Obviously he has devoted a lot of time to research on the history of the island, for he is the author of The Adventurers of Bermuda—a History to 1684, and Bermuda in the Old Empire, 1684-1784, both published by the Oxford University Press, the first in 1933 and the second in 1951. He has also written a few magazine articles, mostly historical. Wilkinson is still unmarried.

FREDERICK FOSTER WILLIAMS. Residence, Godfrey Road, R.D. 2, Westport, Conn.

Williams' report is very brief. He says merely: "Gave up architecture for landscape painting, sketching, and traveling. Now retired to the country, busy on place—on the way to becoming a fair recluse." And it follows quite naturally that he is still a bachelor.

ROY FOSTER WILLIAMS. Executive vice-president, Associated Industries of Massachusetts, 2206 John Hancock Building, Boston 16, Mass.; residence, Apartment 1123-A, 100 Memorial Drive, Boston.

The following came from Williams: "As a biographical résumé of my business career, I would like to submit the introduction afforded me at Governor Dummer Academy, July 13, 1951, at the time the Newcomen Society of England honored me as historian for Massachusetts Industry. I can quote this with a minimum of blushing, as it represents the words of Mr. Paul F. Clark, president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company." Mr. Clark's introduction follows:

"A century ago, Boston was regarded as the Athens of America, the Hub of the Universe. The capital city, and surrounding towns in the Commonwealth, were active and prosperous; Massachusetts stood first in Commerce as in Culture. With the years, however, other States challenged its leadership, and Massachusetts more or less lost its position of dominance.

"Within recent times, the swing has been in the other direction. Thanks to such men as our own Roy F. Williams, Massachusetts is regaining its place in the sun, its rightful position in the forefront of Commerce and Industry.

"As you all know, Mr. Williams is executive vice-president of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, an organization whose 2,000 members represent 95 per cent of the industrial payroll of the Commonwealth. As an ardent and forceful promoter and defender of Massachusetts industries, he keeps in close touch with Congressional and Legislative measures vitally affecting our labor and management. Moreover, because at the present he is in daily contact with the defense materials production program, he is certain to be a decisive factor in securing needed war contracts for this area and thus in insuring their jobs for Massachusetts workers. As editor-in-chief of the monthly publication, Industry, Mr. Williams is instrumental in publicizing the achievements of Bay State industries in many fields of endeavor. Besides being concerned with the progress of Massachusetts industry, our speaker has a present interest in good government, as shown by his membership on the government spending committee of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"Mr. Williams served his country in two World Wars: as a naval officer in the first World War, and in seven different posts in the second World War, ranging from civilian aide to Rear Admiral C. H. Woodward, U.S.N., on industrial incentive work, to civilian chairman for Naval Officer Procurement in the 1st Naval District.

"He has been honored by two of our allies: Belgium and France. In 1919 he served as naval attaché to their Majesties, King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians, on their tour of the United States of America. In recognition of this service, King Albert personally decorated him as an Officer of the Order of the Crown. Mr. Williams also wears the red ribbon of the French Legion of Honor.

"He is a director of the Sanborn Company and of the Warren Brothers Company, both of Cambridge, and a director of the Union Freight Railroad Company of the New Haven Railroad. Our guest of honor serves as a director of the Massachusetts Safety Council, Inc.; as vice-chairman of the individual gifts committee for the Northeastern University Library Fund; and as treasurer of the New England committee in the Newcomen Society of England.

"To sum it up, few men are as well suited to be a spokesman for Massachusetts! For that reason, I am sure we all shall enjoy as well as profit greatly from hearing Roy Foster Williams discuss: 'Seven Romances of Bay State Industry.' "

Williams, who has been associated with the Associated Industries of Massachusetts since August, 1935, was general manager of the organization for a time before becoming executive vice-president. Prior to 1930 he had been treasurer of the Ames Shovel & Tool Company, and he was subsequently assistant to the president of the Warren Brothers Roads Company, road builders for the Cuban Highway and Boulder Dam. In addition to the activities mentioned above, he has been chairman of the Community Fund and chairman of the Council of the Old South Church. He belongs to the Algonquin Club and the Commercial and Bankers Club of Boston and the New York Yale Club.

As to his travels, he comments: "A big order—in Navy career and the American Embassy in Paris, traveled throughout Europe, Russia, and the British Isles. In 1950 I conducted a tour of seventy Massachusetts industrialists to France, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, and the English Midlands, and in January-February-March, 1952, I am taking a group of ninety-one manufacturers to industrial centers of Rio, Santos, São Paulo, Montevideo, Buenos Aires, and Lima.

"Recreations-hobbies-special interests: retaining my amateur rating among the world's bachelors! But I'm a bachelor father — with two protégé graduates of Yale—Frank A. Gates, Mercersburg '26, Yale '30, captain of the Yale boxing team, 1927-29, and three-year champion boxer, and John M. McGauley, Andover '29, Yale '33, captain of the Yale wrestling team."

RICHARD HOOKER WILMER. Member, Wilmer & Brown, lawyers, Transportation Building, Washington 6, D.C.; residence, 2600 31st Street, N.W., Washington 8.

Wilmer writes: "I was the Washington member of the law firm of Cravath, deGersdorff, Swaine & Wood (now Cravath, Swaine & Moore) of New York City from 1929 until 1942, when I resigned to enter the Army. Upon my release from active service I organized the firm of Wilmer & Brown in Washington.

"I entered the Army in December, 1942, as a lieutenant colonel, C.A.C., and was promoted to colonel in May, 1944. I left active service in December, 1945, and now hold a Reserve commission as colonel. During the war I went through two Anti-aircraft Schools (Fort Eustis, Va., and Camp Davis, N.C.) for officers and took command of a battalion in training at Camp Stewart, Ga. From there I was ordered in May, 1943, to the Military Government School, Charlottesville, Va., where I completed part of the course before flying to North Africa. From North Africa, where I was assigned to the Allied Control Commission (Italy), I went first to Sicily and later to the mainland of Italy. In that commission I served successively as chief counsel, deputy director of the legal subcommission, and finally as legal adviser to that commission, as well as director of the legal subcommission.

"It would take a book to describe fully the activities in the legal field of the first effort in history of the military government of a large nation. There were few guiding principles for this experiment. In November, 1944, I was ordered to the Civil Affairs Division of the General Staff in Washington to become the War Department's working member on the State-War-Navy Committee and, as chief planner for Europe, participated in formulation of policies for the occupation of Germany and Austria. For work in Italy, I received the Legion of Merit and for work in Washington, an oak leaf cluster. For my participation in the re-establishment of the administration of law in Italy, I received from that country the decoration of Commander in the Order of Sts. Mauritius and Lazarus.

"While in the United States, I lectured on military government courts at Civil Affairs Training Schools at Yale, Harvard, Michigan, Chicago, and Northwestern and prepared a manual on military government courts. After leaving active service, I was one of the founders of the Military Government Association and was elected president in 1949. Also I was instrumental in having established military government units in the Army. I became commanding officer of the 300th Military Government Group, the first of these units activated. I resigned as commanding officer in 1949 and am now in the Inactive Reserve.

"My travels (outside of Army) on pleasure and business have taken me to many places in South America, Europe, and the U.S. My main hobby is the planting of trees and flowers, particularly at my place in Virginia."

Wilmer's practice is a general one, including departmental law. He has been a member of the board of the Visiting Nurse Society for more than twenty years and is also a member of the board and of the incorporators of the Episcopal Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital and counselor of the Washington Home for Incurables. In 1946 he served as chairman of the American Red Cross campaign for the metropolitan area of Washington and prior to entering service was vice-president of the Washington Community Chest. He is a member of the Chapter of the Washington Cathedral, has been a vestryman of the Church of the Epiphany for more than twenty years and junior warden for three. Wilmer is president of the Society of the Cincinnati in the State of New Jersey and a member of the District of Columbia and New York bars, the American and District of Columbia Bar associations, the Bar Association of the City of New York, the Barristers, Lawyers, Metropolitan, and Chevy Chase clubs of Washington, and the New York Yale Club.

On June 2, 1917, he was married in Atlanta to Margaret Van Dyke Grant, daughter of John W. and Annie Inman Grant. Their older son, Richard Hooker, Jr., who was born April 13, 1918, graduated from Yale in 1939 and from the General Theological Seminary in 1942. After service as a chaplain (junior grade lieutenant) in the Navy, he spent two years at Oxford, where he received the degree of Phil.D., and is now chaplain at the University of the South. Married in June, 1942, to Elisabeth Farnum Green, he has five children: Richard H., 4th, Margaret Van Dyke, Stephen Elliot, Natalie Wheeler, and Rebecca Giraud. The younger boy, John Grant, born September 20, 1920, received a B.A. degree at Yale in 1942 and an M.D. at Johns Hopkins in 1945. He served as a captain in the Army Medical Corps for two years and is now practicing medicine in Atlanta (specializing in heart disease) and lecturing at Emory Institute and various hospitals. His wife's maiden name was Mary Charles Fitzpatrick.

MORRIS KARL WILSON. Address, Wilson Brothers, Merchandise Mart, Chicago 54, Ill.

CHARLES DEERE WIMAN. President, Deere & Company, manufacturers of farm implements and tractors, 1325 Third Avenue, Moline, Ill.; residence, 817 Eleventh Avenue, Moline.

In October, 1928, Wiman was elected the fourth president of Deere & Company, which was founded in 1837 by his great-grandfather, John Deere. He had gone with the company upon graduating from Yale, became superintendent not long after his return from service in World War I, was later appointed general manager of the Union Malleable Iron Works in East Moline, and in 1924 was elected vice-president of Deere & Company, in charge of factory operations. In June, 1942, he resigned as president of the company to join the staff of General Levin H. Campbell, Chief of Ordnance, with the rank of colonel. At the request of the War Production Board, Wiman was placed on an inactive status by the Army in January, 1944, in order to become director of the Farm Machinery and Equipment Division of W.P.B. He served in that capacity until July, 1944, when he asked to be relieved of his duties in order to regain his health after a severe attack of pneumonia. In December, 1945, he was awarded the Legion of Merit.

Upon his return to Deere & Company the following November, he was again elected president. Wiman has for many years been active in various organizations related to agriculture and agricultural equipment and in 1932 and 1933 served as president of the Farm Equipment Institute. He is a director of the Moline National Bank, the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Company of Chicago, the Protection Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad. He has homes in Chicago and Santa Barbara, as well as in Moline. He is a Republican, an Episcopalian, and a thirty-second degree Mason. His clubs are the Chicago, Saddle and Cycle, and Racquet of Chicago and the Yale Club of New York.

In April, 1920, Wiman was married in Huntsville, Ala., to Pattie Harris Southall. Their older daughter, Mary Jane Deere, who married William M. Brinton, has two children: William Wiman and Patricia Delia. The younger girl, Patricia Deere, is now Mrs. William A. Hewitt.

FARWELL WINSTON. Partner, Shearson, Hammill & Company, stock brokers, 208 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill.; residence, Lake Forest, Ill.

On January 1, 1931, Winston became a partner in the stock brokerage firm of Shearson, Hammill & Company, with which he had become connected two years previously.

His marriage to Lucia Cary Wood took place in Kansas City, Mo., on August 16, 1917. They have three daughters: Anne, who was born June 28, 1918, in Los Angeles, Beverly on July 2, 1923, in Evanston, Ill., and Lucia on September 19, 1925, also in Evanston.

HENRY JAMES WISER. President, Aluminum Insulation, Ltd. (reflective radiant insulation), 1137 Lawrence Avenue, West, Toronto, Ontario, Canada; residence, 25 Coulson Avenue, Toronto.

At the time our Quindecennial Record was published, Wiser was president of International Fibre Board, Ltd., at Gatineau, Quebec. He became president of Aluminum Insulation, Ltd., of Toronto some time ago. During World War II he served as director of aircraft production for the Canadian Government.

Wiser was married on February 15, 1919, in New Haven to Dorothy Sargent, daughter of George Lewis and Elizabeth Forbes Sargent. They have three children: James Sargent, born October 6, 1921, Thomas Huntington on January 4, 1923, and Dorothy Joan on May 8, 1924, all in Ogdensburg, N.Y. The older boy prepared for college at The Hill School and Thomas at Taft. They were both in the Yale Class of 1945, but left in Sophomore year, James to join the Royal Canadian Air Force and Thomas the Royal Canadian Artillery. James, who is with the Stanley Steel Company and living in Fairfield, Conn., married Norma Harvey in 1944 and has two children: Penelope, born in 1946, and Stephen Forbes in 1947. Thomas is with Aluminum Insulation, Ltd., in Toronto. He was married in 1950 to Elaine McEachern. Dorothy, who attended the Thomas School in Connecticut, lives in Montreal. She was married some time ago to Douglas L. MacDougall and has three children.

HENRY STAUNTON WOODMAN. Business and advertising manager, Baby Care Manual and Your New Baby, published by Parents Institute, Inc., 52 Vanderbilt Avenue, New York, N.Y.; residence, 143 Sunset Avenue, Ridgewood, N.J.; mailing address, Box 371, Yale Club, 50 Vanderbilt Avenue, New York.

"There is not much to say about myself," Woodman wrote under date of November 19, 1951. "I've been married for thirty-three years and have three daughters and an adopted daughter, Jane Grimison (at the age of sixteen, now twenty-one), graduating from Furman University, Greenville, S.C., in June. We have been busy raising and educating our girls and contributing to the home life of Rye, N.Y., and Ridgewood, N.J. I have 'fussed' a bit with arranging music for male voices, singing in the University Glee Club of New York for thirty years. The most successful was an arrangement of the mixed voice madrigal from Gilbert and Sullivan's 'Mikado' which was sung at our spring concert in the Waldorf in New York in 1946. Also, I have written several songs—words and music—which have never been published and never will be. The most successful was captioned, 'I'll Send My Sons to Vassar,' with a sub-title, 'Contented but not Satisfied.' This was written the year our third baby was born, who was supposed to be a son but followed the feminine pattern. What with three daughters and one adopted, it has added significance. Vive les femmes!!!

"Business!! Well, ten years with Parents and love it!

"My hobby is printing, and I have a power press in my home. Also, I have studied the science of piano and organ tuning. For the last four years I have done a lot of research of the Woodman family in New England, especially the Woodman arms. My ancestor, Edward Woodman (Newbury, Mass., 1635), and Tony Morse's ancestor, Anthony Morse, of Newbury, were two of the ninety-two original grantees of land there, having lots next to each other."

The magazines of which Woodman is business and advertising manager are two wholly owned subsidiary publications of Parents Institute, Inc., whose principal publication is Parents Magazine. Woodman has for some time been organist and choir director of Grace Episcopal Church in Union City, N.J. During 1945-46 he served as secretary to the Associates of the University Glee Club of New York.

His marriage to Cecil Pond Cornwall took place in Rye on November 29, 1919. She is the daughter of George and Elizabeth Miles Pond Cornwall. Their oldest daughter, Cecil Pond, who was born on August 12, 1921, graduated from Elmira College in 1943 and was married on August 12, 1946, to William Ives Thompson. They are living in Canton, Ohio. Her husband, who is divisional sales manager of Diebold & Company, is the son of Elmer Ives Thompson, Cornell '10, who was Walter Camp's selection for All-American guard in 1907, 1908, and 1909. The second daughter, Ruth Staunton (born August 21, 1923), received a B.A. degree at Furman University in 1944 and an M.A. in music at Teachers College, Columbia, in 1945. For five years she has been assistant professor in the Music Department at Meredith College, Raleigh, N.C. The youngest girl, Ann Cornwall, was born September 4, 1930. She is majoring in chemistry at Elmira College, where she is in the Senior Class, and hopes to go into cancer research.

ALFRED CARTER YOUNG. First vice-president, Cooke Trust Company, Ltd., Box 2041, Honolulu 5, Hawaii; residence, 4811 Aukai Street, Honolulu 15.

Young writes: "I resigned my position as vice-president and a director of Fred Waterhouse, Ltd., rubber factors, of Singapore, Straits Settlements, in June 1931. In May, 1932, I joined the Cooke Trust Company, Ltd., serving as trust officer, secretary, and vice-president successively until my present appointment."

Young, who became first vice-president of his company in 1941 and a director in 1947, is a director of the Bishop National Bank of Hawaii and the Honolulu Rapid Transit Company, Ltd. He belongs to the Oahu Country Club and the Outrigger Canoe Club.

His marriage to Corinne Difani, daughter of Andrew and Alice Robinson Difani, took place in Riverside, Calif., on February 17, 1925. Their daughter, Carolyn Anne, who was born in Singapore on January 27, 1928, is now married to Howard Rollins Coerver. She graduated from Stanford University with a B.A. degree in 1950.

IN MEMORIAM

CARROLL BOOTH ALKER	August 1, 1946
JOHN ALBAN ALLEN	October 2, 1924
MARK BAILEY	January 11, 1947
PAUL JACOB BANKER	August 24, 1938
EDWARD LAMBERT BARBOUR	July 4, 1940
JOHN WITBECK BARRELL	July 1, 1916
JOHN EVERTS BATES	September 22, 1948
HOWARD ELWOOD BEEDY	September 3, 1937
PAUL CHALFANT BERGEN	March 9, 1951
OTIS TREAT BRADLEY	November 22, 1950
HARVEY HUNTINGTON BROWN, JR.	August 11, 1950
JOHN CROSBY BROWN	July 26, 1950
ROBERT HOMER BROWN	September 25, 1943
*EBENEZER BULL	May 10, 1918
ROBERT MORGAN BURROWES	February 14, 1928
JOHN LORD BUTLER	October 18, 1951
JOHN JOSEPH CAMERON	March 18, 1951
LYON CARTER	September 20, 1950
RANDOLPH ELSWORTH CHANDLER	February 5, 1942
*WILLIAM HOPKINS CHANDLER	October 6, 1918
EDWARD WIGHT CLARKE	November 19, 1946
WILLIAM COAST CONKLING	July 5, 1937
SIDNEY ALBERT COOK	February 4, 1944
KIRKE WILLIAMS CUSHING	May 24, 1919
CLIFFORD FERRINS DOWKONTT	July 13, 1948
EDWARD ANDREW DOYLE	January 13, 1942
JOHN FAIRFIELD DRYDEN	March 17, 1947
CLARENCE MEREDITH ELLIS	November 30, 1948
*JAMES SEFEREN ENNIS, JR.	May 2, 1918
RICHARD FORREST EVANS	August 8, 1931
*GEORGE WASHINGTON EWING, JR.	October 27, 1918
LOUIS BERTRAND FITZGERALD	November 19, 1911
WILLIAM ELLIOTT FRANCE	November 26, 1912
*ROBERT HOWARD GAMBLE	September 12, 1918
JOHN RICHMOND GIBB	June 19, 1944
RAYMOND MAYNE GIFFORD	March 4, 1921
RAYMOND NEWTON GILMAN	August 15, 1947

*Died in World War I.

JOHN WALLACE HALLOWELL, JR.	May 20, 1925
CHARLES ABBOTT HARRISON	July 11, 1939
WALTER ELLSWORTH HESS	July 18, 1932
VINCENT PRICE HOLLINGWORTH	March 3, 1931
BENJAMIN BERKLEY HOTCHKISS	November 24, 1941
* WILLIAM HUNTTING JESSUP	October 5, 1918
* HENRY BLAIR KEEP	October 5, 1918
NORMAN JOSEPH KILBOURNE	January 17, 1938
WALTER HENRY KINNEAR	March 5, 1947
RALPH KIRLIN	July 16, 1934
LAURANCE LEE	October 22, 1942
JOHN LEDYARD LINCOLN, JR.	October 15, 1912
FRANK JOSEPH LOFTUS	September 23, 1947
HAMPTON LYNCH	January 28, 1941
OLIVER MCKEE, JR.	June 2, 1948
JOHN TAYLOR JOHNSTON MALI	November 14, 1950
HERBERT MAYER	January 25, 1944
FREDERICK WILLER MEYER	December 19, 1943
LOUIS SHELTON MIDDLEBROOK	March 10, 1927
STEWART EDWARD MORRIS	June 10, 1947
* JAMES ALEXANDER MOSELEY	July 28, 1918
* ALEXIS PAINTER NASON	October 1, 1918
JOHN JOSEPH O'CONNELL	December 2, 1934
JOHN CARLISLE PEET	December 22, 1950
HENRY BLACK RIGBY	October 21, 1943
 CARROLL GOWEN RIGGS	December 18, 1942
EDWARD PIERCE ROGERS	December 22, 1914
HORACE SUMNER SCARRITT	May 16, 1949
GEORGE HENRY SCHOELLKOPF	April 3, 1915
JOHN GRANVILLE SCOUTON, JR.	February 24, 1927
FREDERIC BURR SHEPARD	December 5, 1946
BLAIR STERRETT SHUMAN	January 1, 1935
WILLIAM FORBES SIMPSON	March 11, 1934
ABIEL LEONARD SMITH, JR.	June 30, 1928
CHARLES CLOYES SMITH	February 11, 1948
WILFORD LAWSON SPENCER	December 11, 1949
CLYDE MCCLELLAN STAUFFER	November 14, 1942
* JOSEPH FREDERICK STILLMAN, JR.	February 23, 1918

*Died in World War I.

**Died in World War II.

GEORGE CLARKE SWAN	April 14, 1926
CLARK OLDS TAYNTOR	March 23, 1941
ALBERT SLOCOMB TERRY	December 25, 1945
WILLIAM THAW, 2D	April 22, 1934
GEORGE SCHIEFFELIN TREVOR	November 17, 1951
JOSEPH FRANK TROUNSTINE	November 19, 1947
LOUIS SIMON TUCK	February 24, 1940
JOSEPH ALBERT VACHON	April 21, 1949
HARRY VOLLMER	August 27, 1937
WILLIAM WARD WASSON	January 15, 1948
HARDY STONE WATERS	September 20, 1941
CLYDE HOWARD WATKINS	June 10, 1941
LOUIS STIX WEISS	November 13, 1950
JAMES WOODHOUSE WHEELER	March 16, 1939
WILBUR ST. CLAIR WHITE	March 10, 1919
BENJAMIN DAY WINNER	March 1, 1928
*HENRY GILBERT WOODRUFF, JR.	August 10, 1918
THEODORE WOODBURY YORK	October 29, 1912
LEONARD STORY ZARTMAN	September 10, 1942

*Died in World War I.

